Patricia Downing Elected S.S. Board Of Realtors President

Patricia Downing of Baintree was recently elected president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, Inc., at its annual meeting held at the Holiday Inn in Dedham.

Downing, principal in the firm Century-21 Downing Associates in Baintree, has been active in her local board since 1982, serving this year as first vice president and chairman of the Multiple Listing Service. She has also served as chairman of the Equal Opportunity Committee.

In addition, Downing has served on the Board Orientation, Budget and Finance, Programs and Professional Standards Committees. In 1988, she was selected Quincy and South Shore Board's Realtor of the Year by her peers.

Other officers elected for 1990 are:

Phyllis Rudnick of Quincy, first vice president; Diane J. Campbell of Weymouth, second vice president; and Daniel A. Lauria of Baintree, secretary/treasurer.

Serving on the Board of Directors for the coming year will be Roy F. Cheverie, H. Richard Coughlin, Stephen M. Downing, Marilyn Hanabury, Jane McGinnis, James Stamos, Betsy Trethewey, John Tronca, David M. Walsh and Lorraine Troup Walsh.

With more than 550 members, Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors serves Baintree, Quincy, Weymouth and Hull. It is affiliated with the Massachusetts and National Association of Realtors.

Stable Mortgage Rates Spur Existing-Home Sales

Stable mortgage interest rates spurred September sales of previously-owned homes to the highest level so far this year, as buyers continued to take advantage of favorable financing, according to the National Association of Realtors.

The association recorded a seasonally adjusted annual sales rate* of 3.63 million existing single-family homes last month, rising 4.3 percent above the August rate of 3.48 million units.

September's resale rate, the highest since the December 1988 rate of 3.92 million units, reflects a large volume of sales to rate-conscious buyers, noted NAR President Ira Gribin.

"Many people who were forced to put off trading up or entering the market earlier this year are making their move now," Gribin said. "With mortgage rates lower during the second half of the year than the first, the market is reaching a broader income range of buyers."

According to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp., the national average commitment rate for 30-year, conventional fixed-rate mortgages was 10.16 percent at the end of September; six months ago, the same rate was 11.19 percent.

The national median price for existing single-family homes in September was $93,400 down $1,400 from the previous month, but up $.5 percent from September 1988. Half the homes sold for more than the median, half for less.

The median price drop reflects a greater number of purchases in the moderate price range. A price drop from August to September is typical reflecting a market shift from larger families with school-age children to smaller households and childless couples who don't plan buying decisions around the school year, said NAR's Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo.

In September, there were 2.25 million existing single-family homes available for sale, representing a 7.4 month supply at the September resale rate. In August, an inventory of 2.33 million units was recorded, an 8.0-month supply at the August resale rate.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

"The annual rate for a particular month represents what the total number of actual sales for a year would be if the relative resale pace for that month were maintained for 12 consecutive months."

Seasonally adjusted annual rates are used in reporting monthly data to factor out seasonal variations in resale activity. For example, home sales volume normally is higher in the summer and relatively light in the winter months, primarily because of differences in the weather.

Although median price declines from August to September were recorded in all four regions, each region posted a median price increase from September 1988.

Regionally, the West led the nation in month-to-month resale pace increases. There, the resale pace of 620,000 units rose 12.7 percent from August. The median existing-home price in the West was $144,300 in September, $3,200 below the August median price, but 12.5 percent higher than in September 1988.

Activity in the West, dominated by heavy sales on California's coast, rebounded in September, following a slowdown during the previous two months, Tuccillo noted.

Steady sales were posted in the South and Midwest, the two regions with some of the lowest home prices. In the South, the pace of existing-home sales was 1.40 million units last month, rising 3.7 percent from August. The median price there was $84,200, dropping $1,900 from August, but rising 3.4 percent from one year earlier.

In the Midwest, the resale rate was 990,000 units, 1.0 percent above the August rate. The September median home price in the Midwest, $71,800, slipped $100 from August but rose 6.4 percent from September 1988.

In the Northeast, sales seem to be stabilizing at a level above a low point reached nearly in the summer, Tuccillo said. In that region, the existing-home sales pace of 590,000 units for September was unchanged from August. The median price was $144,800, $4,200 below the August median price, but 2.3 percent above the September 1988 price.

"Housing markets appear to be firming up across the board. We expect that the lower mortgage rates this fall will keep boosting sales in the moderate-price range," Tuccillo said. "However, a lot of first-time buyers, particularly in high-cost areas, continue to be priced out."

Tuccillo predicted that overall, lower mortgage rates likely will keep existing-home sales steady through the end of the year. However, a shrinking stock of affordable housing likely will keep sales, particularly in expensive areas, below those for 1988, he said.

The national resale rate for September was 0.5 percent below that of one year ago. The Northeast's resale pace for September was 9.2 percent below that for September 1988; and the West's resale pace was 11.4 percent lower. In comparison, the Midwest's resale pace rose 8.8 percent from a year ago; the South's pace rose 0.7 percent.

N.E. Homes Average 127 Days On Market

The average number of days a home stays on the market depends on many variables—but none seem to have a greater effect than a home's location.

The Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service 1989 Housing Cost Survey found the national average "days on the market" for a single-family home in a desirable neighborhood with 2,000 square feet and three bedrooms is 97 days—an increase of two days over last year's national average. The survey also indicated that it's not only a home's local market location, but its state and regional location that determine the length of its stay on market.

"Our national survey found that homes in Palo Alto and Redwood Shores, California—both suburbs of the very active San Francisco market—tend to be sold in one day," said Saul B. Cohen of Hunneman & Company Realtors/Better Homes and Gardens. "In the resort market of Vail, Colorado, homes stay on the market an average of 259 days, while a home in Scottsbluff, Nebraska, stays on the market 286 days," Cohen added.

Homes in the Western region (Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Nevada, New Mexico and Utah)—aided by the California markets where homes averaged only 44 days on the market—sold most quickly, averaging 71 days. "Homes in the Midwest (Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota and Wisconsin) sold in an average of 93 days followed by homes in the Eastern region (Delaware, Maryland,

New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania), which averaged 95 days on the market. In the Northwestern region (Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington and Wyoming) the same home averaged 99 days," Cohen added.

Homes in the New England region (Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont)—where home prices have fallen almost 13 percent since last year—averaged 127 days as did homes in the South Central region (Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas), both longest in the nation. Homes in the Southeastern region (Alabama, Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia) averaged 105 days on market.

Crown Colony Medical Center Now Open

Crown Colony Medical Center, a new multi-specialty medical building located at 500 Congress St., Quincy, recently held its grand opening.

Mayor Francis McCauley was the keynote speaker. The ceremony featured a plaque dedication from the Center's practitioners to the South Shore community.

Representatives from the South Shore medical and business communities attended the event.

Crown Colony Medical Center houses more than 30 physicians and healthcare professionals representing primary care, specialty and sub-specialty medicine. Among the physicians are internists, cardiologists, pulmonologists, rheumatologists, gastroenterologists with sub-specializations and practices devoted to cosmetic surgery, pediatrics, ophthalmology, dermatology, neurology, orthopedics and dentistry. In addition, the complex offers patients related services such as x-rays and lab testing.

Crown Colony Medical Center is located in the Crown Colony Office Park which will employ more than 10,000 people. It will potentially, serve a base of 644,800 South Shore residents.

According to Dr. Peter Friedensohn, a representative of the Crown Colony Medical Center, "During the Center's inaugural year we will focus on preventative medicine and will encourage the community through educational programs, health fairs and special projects with area hospitals, to maintain good health through prevention."

Braintree Man Approved For Lodging House Operation

The License Board Tuesday gave the go-ahead for Daniel R. Dowling of Braintree to take over operation of a nine room lodging house at 25 Shaw St.

Dowling acquired the house auction in a foreclosure hearing because the former owner, Robert McManus owed the City back taxes on the property.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro told the Board that he is "pleased" at the prospect of a new owner for the house. He said that the neighbors are also happy with the new owner and have no complaints. Dowling operates other lodging houses in the city.

Dowling told the Board that he has had nine unregistered vehicles removed from the property and that he also removed three 30-foot dumpsters of trash from the house.

He has renovated the property and installed smoke detectors and sprinklers in accordance with City fire codes.

Although Dowling has paid the back taxes on the property, the board noted that McManus also owed the Fire Department the sum of $198 in fines from March of 1988.

Dowling told the board that he is willing to pay the $198 to the Fire Department.

Frederick Smith Appointed To Building Code Of Appeals

Atty. Frederick D. Smith, Jr., of 68 Ocean St., Quincy, has been appointed to the Building Code of Appeals for the City of Quincy by Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

Smith replaces Atty.

Robert P. Dolbec Jr. who has resigned from the board. His appointment is effective immediately and expires the first Monday in February, 1992.

A lifelong Quincy resident,

Smith is a junior partner in the general practice law office of Thomas N. Byrnes Jr. He is a graduate of Boston College and Western New England College School of Law.

Veterans Outreach Program

Quincy Veterans Council Commander Henry P. Bradley and Boston Veterans Center Readjustment Counselling Specialist Andre Bourque, M. Ed. announce the opening of a veterans outreach program in Quincy.

Starting Friday, Nov. 3, at the Fore River Clubhouse at 16 Nevada Rd., Bourque will be available each Friday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The purpose of the center is to assist all veterans with any problems they may have, especially family abuse, shelter, substance abuse and post-traumatic stress disorder.

All meetings and sessions are informal and confidential.

Bourque served in Vietnam with the Fourth Infantry Division, Third Brigade, U.S. Army. He has been with the Veterans Administration since 1977 and has extensive background in substance abuse.

He is currently working at the Boston Veterans Center at 665 Beacon St., Boston.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It is easy sometimes to lose perspective on the world around us as we pursue our day-to-day activities. There's a tendency to simply take in stride the events at home and in foreign lands.

Here in the United States we enjoy certain rights which people abroad can't experience for one reason or another. In many nations governments don't hold elections. And in others they are held only when the leadership wants to conduct them.

In America the right to vote is absolute. But even with this inherent right there is responsibility. Too often Americans do not exercise this right and, therefore, don't meet their responsibility.

Failure to participate in the election is failure to appreciate the importance of this opportunity. We strongly urge all voters to participate in the November elections. In doing so we will be meeting our responsibilities as citizens ...

Kenneth E. Yoerger, 80 Former Harbormaster

A funeral service for Kenneth E. "Buck" Yoerger, 80, a retired master electrician and former Quincy harbormaster, was conducted Tuesday at the Quincy United Methodist Church, Wollaston.

Mr. Yoerger died Oct. 27 at University Hospital in Boston after struggling for some months with a heart condition.

Appointed harbormaster by former Mayor Amelio A. Della Chiesa, he served in that capacity from 1950 to 1965.

Patrolling Quincy's coastline was a regular part of his routine and cruising the local waters to protect participants in the Quincy Bay Race Week was another.

He also lobbied to get dredging work done. A master electrician, he worked for a time at the Fore River shipyard and then 20 years with Norfolk Electric Co. in Boston.

Besides maritime recreation, Mr. Yoerger enjoyed hunting. He made several hunting trips to Wyoming and Nova Scotia.

He was a member of the National Rifle Association and a past president of the Braintree Rifle and Pistol Club.

When he retired from Norfolk Electric in 1972, he and his wife, Irene (Newburg), lived on their boat in Falmouth from May through November for 15 years. They spent the winter at their home in Safety Harbor, Fla.

They celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1984. Mrs. Yoerger survives her husband.

In his younger days, Mr. Yoerger played semi-professional football with the Quincy Trojans and did some amateur boxing.

He was a life member of the Town River Yacht Club and served three times as commodore. He was past president of the Quincy Bay Race Week Association and past president of the Massachusetts Bay Yacht Club Association.

He was a member of Rural Masonic Lodge in Quincy and Local 103 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in Boston.

He is also survived by a son, Kenneth E. Yoerger Jr. of Quincy; two daughters, Elizabeth A. Buccella and Ellen L. Yoerger, both of Quincy; a brother, Roy E. Yoerger of North Severn, Md.; three sisters, Marion Melville and Norma Genier, both of Quincy, and Doris Adams of Sandwich; five grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. He was the brother of the late William Yoerger, Allen Yoerger and Beatrice Yoerger.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 333 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Heart Association, 1105 W. Chestnut St., Brockton, MA 02401.

Anna M. Jay, 70

A funeral Mass for Anna M. (Curren) Jay, 70, of Quincy, was celebrated Oct. 27 at St. Ann's Church.

Mrs. Jay died Oct. 24 at Quincy Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Boston, she lived in South Boston before moving to Quincy several years ago.

She is survived by her husband, John F. Jay; three sons, Kevin Jay, John Jay and Richard Jay, all of Quincy; four daughters, Marie Moran, Pauline Ivas, Joanne Jay and Carol Jay; two sisters, Helen Rolland and Georgina Curren; and eight grandchildren.

Burial was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

Funeral arrangements were by the Hamel, Wickens & Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St., Quincy.

Rosamond C. Lynch, 58 Quincy Public Health Nurse

A funeral Mass for Rosamond C. (Splaine) Lynch, 58, of Braintree, a public health nurse in Quincy for 12 years, was celebrated Monday in Christ Episcopal church, Quincy.

Mrs. Lynch died Oct. 26 at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston, after a long bout with cancer.

She retired in June because of her illness.

As a public health nurse, she was on call for schools without staff nurses, conducted inspections of health centers, administered shots at public clinics and investigated contagious diseases to curtail their spread.

A 1953 graduate of Quincy City Hospital School of Nursing, she received her bachelor's degree in nursing in 1980 from Emmanuel College.

She had worked at Quincy Hospital after graduation and at the South Shore Clinic in Norwell. She worked part time for the city of Quincy until she took the Civil Service exam for the public health nurse job. She enjoyed dancing, cooking, gardening and reading.

Mrs. Lynch also liked traveling with her husband, Edward F. Lynch. They visited such places as Canada, Bermuda, Florida, Las Vegas and St. Martin.

Born in Weymouth, she attended Weymouth schools and had fond memories of growing up with her cousin, actor Hal Holbrook.

She lived in Quincy before moving to Braintree 24 years ago.

She was the sister of the late George Regan and Frances Dacy.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Boston.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

Church News

'Working With God' Wollaston Congregational Topic

This Sunday's 10 a.m. service at Wollaston Congregational Church, Winthrop and Lincoln Aves., will be "Working With God."

Mary Gifford will be the reader. Jason Towle and Steven Stentford Jr. will welcome the worshippers.

Knowles.

The service group of the church will sponsor a rummage sale Saturday at the church from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Youth Fellowship has planned several events for November, including sweatshirt decorating, a game night a roller skating party and a trip to the Bisutek Steak House.

A Youth Fellowship dance will be held Friday, Nov. 10 at the church. Anyone from grade 6 to 12 is welcome to attend.

'Religion And Ecology' Sermon Topic At United First Parish

"A New Covenant for a Small Planet" is the title of the sermon that Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver during the 10:30 a.m. service this Sunday at United First parish Church Unitarian, in Quincy Center.

Dr. Bennett will consider how religious belief contributed to the present ecological crisis and how religious belief also offers the possibility between human society and nature.

The Church Choir, under the direction of Norman Corey, music director, will sing anthems by Mozart and Handel. Mr. Corey will also play organ works by Bach and Dupre. Stephanie Post and Richard Post will serve as ushers. Molly Bennett will be the greeter. Visitors are welcome and are invited to the Social Hour following services. Church School and child care are provided. The Level II Class (1st-3rd grade) will be discussing the church's traditions, celebrations, and rituals, trying to discover some of the things that make people feel worshipful. After examining the elements in an adult service, they will plan their own worship service.

Historic First Parish, which is celebrating its 350 anniversary this fall, is located in Quincy Sq. opposite City Hall and the MBTA station. For further information, call 773-1290.

2 Worship Services At Bethany Congregational

There will be two worship services in Bethany Congregational Church, Codding and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, this Sunday, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at both hours.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, and Rev. Elizabeth Upton, associate minister, will conduct the worship and serve as liturgist. The Rev. Dr. Richard T. Schellhase from the San Francisco Bay area will preach the sermon "Charged With Caring."

Rev. Schellhase served as a chaplain in the U.S. Navy, as pastor of a parish in Pennsylvania, and the organizing minister of a new congregation in Bowie, Maryland. He also taught religion at Ursinus College in suburban Philadelphia and headed the college's alumni office. For 16 years, Rev. Schellhase has held various administrative posts with theological schools of the United Church of Christ, including vice-president of the Lancaster Theological Seminary, Lancaster, PA and the Pacific School of Religion in Berkeley, California.

At the sanctuary service the Chancel Choir, will be directed by organist Charles J. Blue.

The service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over station WJDA, 1300kc.

Sunday school will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m.

with classes for pre-school through 9th grade. Child care is also provided for babies and toddlers.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor with light refreshments. Individuals and families from the area are most welcome to attend worship, share in the fellowship, and to enroll children in Sunday school.

The Bible study course on "The Letter of James" taught by Pastor Arnold, will be held Tuesday, Nov. 7, 7:30 to 9:00 p.m. at the church and is open to the public.

For additional information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

'In Midst Of Violence' Squantum First Church Topic

It may have been Reformation Sunday at the First Church of Squantum but the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, did not speak about the theological struggles of the century.

Instead, he addressed the far more pressing issue of "Living in the Midst of Violence." Dr. Langevin said that his sermon was a reaction to the recent shootings in Boston.

The morning had begun with a Reformation Sunday breakfast served in Fellowship Hall by teenagers from "The Way Up."

Cynthia Stanton and Craig Zaehring were the greeters, Harry Holmes and Tore Wallin were the ushers, and Joan Hansen and Kathy Sullivan-Moran hosted the Fellowship Hour after the service.

Immediately after the service, there was a brief church meeting at which the members of the Nominating Committee were elected. They include Patti Hurd, Mary Ruth Scott, Tom Williamson, Drusilla Warnes and Kathy Sullivan-Moran.

Saturday, Nov. 4, the church will sponsor "A Sea-side Fair" from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. This is the annual church fair to which the public is invited.

The service Nov. 5 will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Expressions Of Faith Through Music At St. Chrysostom's

St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church, 1 Linden St., Wollaston, will offer a special series called "Expressions Of Faith Through Music" beginning in November.

The following live music from various musical expressions will be featured: Black Gospel, Nov. 9; Country Gospel, Nov. 16; Contemporary Christian Music, Nov. 30; and Traditional Christmas Carol Sing on Dec. 7. All performances will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. followed by a pot luck dessert.

The public is invited. The series is sponsored free of charge by St. Chrysostom's Christian Education Commission.

SSAC Benefit Yard Sale

The South Shore Association for Retarded Citizens will hold a benefit yard sale on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the United Church of Christ, 460 Main St. in Norwell.

Articles for sale will include furniture, small appliances, children's clothing and toys.

All proceeds will benefit recreation programs for ARC.

'The Way Up' Turkey Dinner Sunday

Teen-aged girls and boys from "The Way Up" will serve a turkey dinner Sunday night at 5:30 p.m. at the First Church of Squantum.

The fundraiser, which has been called the "First Annual Youth Chaplaincy Dinner" will be held in other churches on the South shore in future years.

Proceeds from the dinner will help to support the chaplaincy services that "The Way Up" provides to teenagers referred by the Quincy Juvenile Court, to their friends and parents in the community, and to young people detained by various juvenile courts in two shelter care units in Brockton.

After the meal, the founder and director of The Way Up, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, will speak briefly about the chaplaincy.

The public, and particularly members of local churches, are invited to attend to support this Christian ministry to kids in trouble. Reservations can be made by calling Hazel Mayne at 328-4367.

Raiders Eye 5th Straight At Waltham

By TOM SULLIVAN
The North Quincy football team has been sending its fans home happy but as nervous wrecks the past few weeks.

Last Friday night Ken McPhee's Raiders scored on the last play of the game to defeat Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 31-28, at Veterans Memorial Stadium for their fourth straight win and improving to 5-2.

In its previous game North had held on for a 27-26 victory over Revere.

Saturday the Raiders will go for number five in a row when they play at Waltham at 2 p.m.

Waltham is also 5-2 and upset Brookline last week. It has also defeated Quincy, Medford, Everett and Arlington while losing to Leominster and Cambridge. Last year North Quincy won, 16-6.

"We were very lucky to win this one," said McPhee following the Cambridge thriller. "Actually, we shouldn't have gotten the ball back and had a final chance for the winning score. However, the kids took advantage and we'll take the win."

"I was very disappointed with our tackling in this game and we will have to improve a lot in this department if we hope to beat a strong Waltham team. In the Revere game, despite the fact they scored 26 points, I thought the defense played well. But the defense just didn't do the job against Cambridge."

Danny Gilmartin had his best game as he scored two touchdowns for the third straight game and rushed for 183 yards.

North, still hounded by penalties (70 yards), rushed for 258 yards and gained 308 yards overall. The Raiders had 13 first downs to eight for Cambridge, which rushed for 141 yards.

North Quincy Scoring

	TD	PAT	FG	Pts
Gilmartin	8	6	0	54
MacDougall	3	2	0	20
Deshler	0	7	4	19
D. Kiley	2	0	0	12
Brooks	1	0	0	6
Earley	1	0	0	6
Gott	1	0	0	6
Iacobacci	1	0	0	6
Bellot	0	4	0	4

"Our offensive line was superb," said McPhee, who praised Matt Swierk, Mike Iacobacci, Scott Kemp, Adam Strout, Alex Malasi, Scott Leonard, Evan Kiley, Angelo Kyranis, Jim Rayne, Bill Earley, Kevin MacDougall, who was injured but may be back Saturday; Chris Deshler, Desmond Bellot, Keith Gott and Dave Kiley. Despite the poor defensive play, Kemp, MacDougall, Gott, Iacobacci, who returned a pass interception for a touchdown, and Mike Oliva, who had a key fumble recovery, played well on defense.

Jerome Furtado scored all four Cambridge touchdowns and it was poor North Quincy kickoffs which gave Cambridge good field position for each of its touchdowns drives.

The scoring started early as Gilmartin scored his two touchdowns in the opening quarter and Cambridge scored once. North had 141 total yards in the quarter while Cambridge had 116.

Gilmartin opened the scoring with a nine-yard run and Deshler kicked the extra point.

Furtado scored his first TD on a 14-yard run but the conversion try failed.

Gilmartin went over from the one and Deshler again kicked the extra point for a 14-6 North lead at the end of the quarter.

In the second quarter Iacobacci intercepted a pass and returned it 25 yards for a touchdown to increase North's lead and Bellot rushed for the two-point conversion.

Furtado cut the gap with his second touchdown on a 19-yard run and Rob Mickle passed to Frank Marcado for the two-point conversion to cut North's lead to 22-14.

MacDougall returned the kickoff 70 yards to set up Deshler's fourth field goal of the season, a 37-yarder. Furtado then returned the kickoff 85 yards for his third score and at the half North led, 25-20.

After a scoreless third quarter, Furtado raced 54 yards following a fumble recovery and also rushed for the two-point conversion to give Cambridge a 28-25 lead with 5:47 left in the game.

With time running out, North drove to the Cambridge one-yard line but was set back by a holding penalty. Instead of going for a game-tying field goal, North gambled on fourth down but was held.

"We had no intention of going for a tie," said McPhee. "After all, we aren't going to the Super Bowl so what good is a tie? We were going for a win all the way."

North got a big break when Cambridge, hoping to run out the clock, fell on the ball four times. However, North had time for two plays.

A pass was incomplete but on the final play of the game Jim Bryan found Evan Kiley all alone and hit him for a 10-yard game winner as the crowd went wild.

Apaches, Elks Put Together Offense, Defense

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The North Quincy Apaches and the West Quincy Elks were winners this week in Quincy Youth Football League action at Veterans Memorial Stadium Sunday.

The Apaches stopped the Squantum Sailors, 22-0, and the Elks blanked the Quincy Point Panthers, 12-0.

The Apaches go head-to-head with the Houghs Neck Manets Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in a game which could decide first place. The Panthers and Sailors meet at 1 p.m. in a game which will likely decide fourth place. The Elks have a bye.

The Sailors showed great improvement but were unable to overcome a strong Apache club. North Quincy's Tony Licciardi broke outside and ran 85 yards up the sideline to give the Apaches a 6-0 lead in the first quarter.

The Apaches added two points on a nicely executed pass play from Dan Duncan to Justin Ackerman. NQ led 8-0 at halftime.

yard run to cap a long Apache drive. The key play of the drive was Nee's 36-yard run. Licciardi rushed for the conversion and a 16-0 lead.

Duncan and Ackerman hooked up again on an 11-yard TD pass to provide the final 22-0 margin. Chris Chagaris intercepted a pass to ice for NQ.

The Apaches were sparked by the play of Steve Rayne. Sean Halpin, Dave Carney, Stephen Tangney, Brendon Anderson, Brian Franklin, Mike Kates, Mike Kowlick, George Wirtz, Terrance Manning and Peter Yeomans.

The Elks made an early lead stand up as they kept their slim playoff hopes alive. The West Quincy defense stopped the Panthers deep in Elk territory at the start of the game and Mike Elder took it the other way for an 87-yard touchdown run. The Panthers stopped the conversion attempt.

A short time later the Elks capped another drive when Jason Sovo took a pitch and scored from seven yards out. Again the Panthers stopped the two-point try.

The Panthers had some good scoring chances but were unable to capitalize as the Elk defense stiffened each time.

Quincy Point's Keith Martinson nearly scored on the last play of the second half when he intercepted a pass inside his own 10-yard line and raced up the sideline. Martinson was caught from behind by the speedy Sovo however at the Elk 38.

The Elks got solid efforts from Rich Gorman, Tom Malvesti (pass interception), Kevin Carey, Dave D'Olympio, Brendan Brack and Bill Morrissey.

After suffering one of its worst defeats in some time, the Quincy football team will try and regroup as it hosts Malden Saturday at 2 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Last Friday night the Presidents were walloped by a superior Weymouth North team, 48-6, at Weymouth, dropping them to 2-5 on the season.

Malden which, like Quincy, is due to explode, is only 1-6 with a win over Somerville and losses to Melrose, Revere, Brookline, Arlington, Newton North and Peabody. Last year Quincy won, 18-6.

"We have had to play the iron with several key players missing," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "In our last two games against Brookline and Weymouth North, we were playing two of our strongest opponents with several players sidelined. You can't play a powerful team like Weymouth with players like Tom Morrell and Lou Pagnani, two two-way starters, out. Morrell is our key man and we sorely missed him."

"We just have to put this game behind us and plan for our last three games. I expect to be back at full strength against Malden and we just have to settle down and try for a 500 season. We are still making too many mistakes. We are fumbling the ball away too much and at Weymouth we were killed by long passes.

"Mike Flavin did a good job at quarterback and several perfect passes were dropped. In the last quarter I put sophomore Pat Gallagher in and he did well and threw a touchdown pass for our only score."

"We just couldn't stop them and they scored nearly every time they had the ball, but Joe Baker and Jim Munroe did a job on defense."

Offensively, the Presidents couldn't move the ball and only once before their late touchdown did they move as far as the Weymouth 35.

"I honestly think Weymouth (6-1) should be the top-ranked in Division 2," Raymer said. "They are strong in every department and we just didn't have a chance against them."

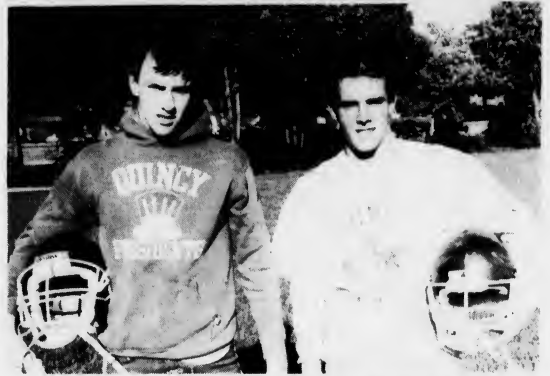

Quincy was stopped cold after receiving the opening kickoff and punted. Three plays later Tim Stevenson passed to Chuck Montorio for seven yards and a score. It was the first of Stevenson's three TD passes.

On the first play from scrimmage Quincy fumbled the ball away and Stevenson hit Rich Mroz for a 41-yard touchdown pass.

The real back-breaker came soon after when Weymouth had fourth down and 30 yards to go. On an option pass, Mroz hit Dan Lindblom for 35 yards and a score and it was all down hill for Quincy after that as Weymouth led, 27-0, at the half and 48-0 after three quarters.

Gallagher passed to Chris Fay to cap a 60-yard drive and give the Presidents their lone score late in the game.

It's North Jayvees 28-0

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 28-0, Monday to improve its record to 4-2-1.

Chris Murray rushed for 104 yards, scored a touchdown and a two-point conversion. Mark Cocuzzo had two touchdowns and added a two-point conversion.

A fumble recovery by Mark Kelliher on the Cambridge 32 set up a North score with Kelliher taking a five-yard pass from Sergi Belcastro. North had a 20-0 lead at the half.

Cambridge played its best offensively late in the second quarter as two passes for 27 and 38 yards put the ball on the Raiders' two. Here the determined North defensive unit dug in and stopped the threat.

Two successive quarterback sacks set Cambridge back to its 26. Jason April intercepted a pass on the Cambridge 46, setting the stage for the final North score.

Cocuzzo went around right end for 24 yards, John D'Angelo added four and Cocuzzo went the remaining 20 yards behind superb blocking. He also added the two-point conversion.

Coaches Tom Carter and Peter Chrisom substituted freely in the fourth quarter. They were pleased with the performances of Murray, Cocuzzo, Belcastro and D'Angelo on offense as well as Kelleher, Mike Picariello and Chris Melchior.

They hailed the defensive play of Mark Sych, Adam Somerville, Dave Shutul, Chril McCallum, Mike Oliva, Brendon O'Connell, Adam Stroug, April and Pat Faherty.

Mike Travers Wins Sun Football Contest

Mike Travers of Captain's Walk, Germantown, was the winner in the weekly Quincy Sun Football Contest.

He earned the win by selecting 10 of 11 games correctly missing just the Denver versus Philadelphia game. Travers wins $25.

Koch Club Basketball Begins Tonight

The Koch Club Youth Basketball program will begin its 41st season Thursday, Nov. 2 at 6:30 p.m. at the Atlantic Middle School gym. Boys and girls ages seven to nine will play from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and children ages 10 to 12 will play from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Registration is $3 per child. There is also a weekly fee of $1 per child to cover the cost of the gym rental.

The Koch Club emphasizes enjoyment of the game rather than the competition. Everyone who signs up plays, regardless of ability.

The season will end with an awards night March 1.

Anyone wishing to coach should come to the gym Nov. 2 or call Simone Leary at 479-3670 or Bob Woods at 770-1231.

The North Quincy freshman football team defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 26-0, last week, improving its record to 4-1-1.

The return of quarterback Liam Higgins sparked Kevin Kelly's North team. He put the young Raiders on the board early when he threw a strike to Pat Shea for a 35-yard scoring play.

In the second quarter Mark St. Claire scored on an 18-yard run to make it 12-0.

North stopped Cambridge cold in the third quarter and the Raiders pulled a double reverse which foiled Cambridge as Shea went 25 yards for a score. Higgins passed to Tom Robinson for the two-point conversion.

Josh O'Donnell ran 43 yards for the final score of the day.

Cambridge fumbled the ball away four times with Josh Gott, O'Donnell, Higgins and Peter Liardi recovering for North.

Shea and O'Donnell were also strong on defense as each intercepted a pass.

Coaches Kelly and Dean Zoia praised the defensive efforts of Jamie O'Connell, Ken Duddy, Mike Linnane and Jeff Pillard, who also blocked well. Erik Delorey and Eric Kane were hailed for their running.

Others who stood out were Vill Skutul, Jason Getz, Keith Lentini and Nick Mastrogiacomo.

YMCA Strypers In Two First Place Wins

The South Shore YMCA Strypers swim team competed in the fifth annual mile swim relay races last week at Dedham High School. Each team had six swimmers covering 25 yards at a time for a total of 300 yards per swimmer.

South Shore captured two first places. In the 12 years and under coed team won with a time of 17:59.38. Swimmers were Paul and Tom Zukauskas, Erin Murphy, James Morelli, Meridith Curley and Courtney Ryan.

In the all-male division David Cangiano, Rich Griffin, Mike Martorano, Mike Ploof and Brian Kowalski won in 14:40.66.

Flukes On All-Conference Team

North Quincy's Nancy Flukes, a sophomore at Stonehill College, has been named to the Northeast-10

Basketball Conference all-conference academic team.

Flukes, who holds all the North Quincy girls' basketball records, is a communications major at Stonehill and is the daughter of Fred and Maryann Flukes.

Quincy Girls Complete 18-0 Undefeated Season

The Quincy girls' volleyball team completed an undefeated season (18-0) last week with a 2-0 victory over Brockton and now awaits the state tournament.

The First Ladies, who have won or shared the Suburban League crown for six of the last seven years, will be seeking their fourth state championship in eight years.

The North Quincy girls, who have also qualified for the state tournament for the third time, finished at 13-5 last week with a 2-0 win over Weymouth South.

Quincy defeated Brockton, 15-2, 15-4, in its finale led by aggressive net play by Chris Barrett and Melanie Sullivan, who accounted for 11 kills. Lori Novak contributed some strong setting for the First Ladies.

In North Quincy's 15-5, 15-4 win over Weymouth South, the Raiderettes were sparked by strong net play from Tristin Mastrogiacomo and steady setting from Brenda Hayduk.

Earlier in the week Quincy easily defeated Newton South, 2-0 (15-1, 15-12), led by eight kills from Jennifer Richmond and Carmin Wergin and nine service aces from Capt. Randy Gaura.

North Quincy defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 2-1. After losing the first game, the Raiderettes came back to win the next two, 15-7, 15-7.

Gina Golden played strong defense, Kara Sullivan played good offense and Hayduk did some strong setting.

Bregoli, Jago Leave Big Shoes To Fill

North Quincy High has two big pairs of coaching shoes to fill this winter with the retirements of Paul Bregoli, girls' basketball coach for the past nine years, and Kevin Jago, hockey coach for the past seven years.

Bregoli, who also formerly coached soccer, had a 112-78 record in nine years as girls' basketball coach, taking the Raiderettes to the Eastern Mass. Tournament five times. His teams won three Quincy/Weymouth Christmas Tournaments and two straight North-South Invitational Tournaments.

He began coaching girls' basketball in the 1980-81 season. His first victory was over Weymouth North in overtime and his last win was over Indian Hills, N.J., in the North/South Tournament.

Among his most memorable games were early successes against Brockton, the first state tournament game against Newton North, the eventual state champion; the first tournament win over Attleboro before a packed house at North Quincy; avenging an earlier tourney loss to Needham by beating them by 20 points; his 100th win against Waltham and two disappointing losses to Dennis-Yarmouth in the tournament.

"It was awfully hard to step down after nine most enjoyable years, but the decision was about two years coming," Bregoli said. "Because of an illness in the family, I had to cut back on practice time and have all late practices. My last two teams were very supportive of me and my family. If I was late, the captains and assistants would lead them into their practice."

"I felt all my teams were a part of my family and I treated them that way. Despite becoming upset with them at times, I can honestly say there is not one girl I didn't like as a person. I'm also proud of the fact that every senior girl who finished the season with me went on to some type of higher education."

"It's been a wonderful nine years and I wish it could have gone on forever. But, at the time, this is not possible but, if things change, who knows, I may want to get back into coaching."

Bregoli was an all-scholastic in soccer at North Quincy High and was the sixth man on Bob Nolan's first North basketball team which was the top-ranked team in New England in 1966.

Quincy athletic coordinator Marty Finnegan, Recreation Director Barry Welch and Boston College High basketball coach Brian Buckley all had words of praise for Bregoli, citing his great dedication to his teams.

Jago, in his seven years as North's hockey coach, took the Raiders into the state tournament four times.

He is also stepping down as physical education director at several parochial schools. He may have stayed on as North's coach if he could have had a full-time position in the school system.

QHS Hockey Hall Of Fame Planned

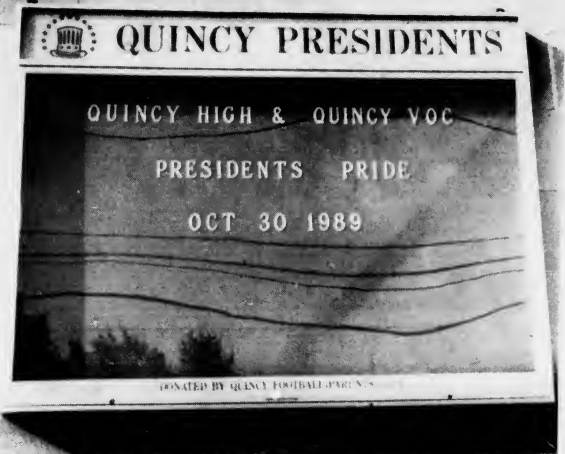

Plans are under way to establish a Quincy High hockey Hall-of-Fame and the next meeting of the committee will be held next Monday, Nov. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena.

"I recently met with Quincy coach Bob Sylvia and three former Quincy players to form a committee to establish the Hall-of-Fame," said Kevin Lewis. "It is the purpose of the committee to establish guidelines for election to the Hall. It is a difficult task and we are looking for additional support from other former players and individuals associated with Quincy hockey since its inception. We are looking for additional members of the committee to help us make the Hall a reality."

THE QUINCY FOOTBALL Parents Club recently donated this marquee to Quincy High School which will be used to advertise school events. The marquee was fastened to the front of Quincy High School earlier this week.

Seamans To Take Part In Fund Run For Homeless

The third annual "WEEI 590 Fund Run for the Homeless" will be held Veterans' Day, Saturday, Nov. 11 at the Boston Public Garden.

Starting at 7 a.m., ultra marathoner Bob Seamons of Quincy will once again run 59 non-stop miles around the Public Garden. He completed the 59 mile run for the WEEI 590 fund in 1987 and 1988.

Joining Seamons in the run for a few miles will be Mayor

Raymond L. Flynn and Boston Police Commissioner Francis "Mickey" Roache. Also participating will be the Boston Police Runners Club, Boston Police Athletic League Team, veterans representing "homeless veterans" volunteer runners for the WEEI listening audience and running teams from Boston area schools.

Seamons and Jim Pansullo of Quincy, WEEI's fund director, invites everyone to walk or run a mile or two and have money pledged to the WEEI 590 fund, Box 500, Boston, MA 02199.

Last year, the fund raised $550,000 to benefit the homeless.

"I encourage all Quincy residents who can jog, walk or run to join in for a few miles. It's a great cause," Seamons said.

Among thw local shelters which benefit from the fund are Father Bill's Place and the Quincy Crisis Center.

Lombardi's Takes Top Spot In Olindy's League

Lombardi's Auto Cleaning has taken over first place in Olindy's Junior All-Star Bowling League with a 16-8 record.

The rest of the standings: Goodhue's, 15-9; Fore River Motors and Marchionne Insurance, 14-10; Patriot Glass and Tony's, 12-12; Mike's Auto Body, 11-13;

Fore River Motors was the team of the week, rolling a league high single of 382.

Brian Robinson had 121, Jay McDonough 84, John Green 101 and Chris Hall 72.

Liberty St. Auto Body had the league high three of 1086 with Michael Kenney rolling 305, Greg Campbell 225, Joe Carr 280 and Walter Jara 249.

Brian Noonan leads the boys with a 97 average, followed by Brian Robinson, 96; Michael Kenney, 94; Joe Infrerra, 93; Jim Russo, 92 and Tim Johnson 92.

Susan Sweeney paced the girls at 85 and Karen Mezzetti has an 82 average.

Sun Rises Over Johnson, 3-2

Johnson Motor Parts holds a one-point lead in the Squirt House League despite losing to the Quincy Sun, 3-2.

Brad Macauley, Brian Gates and Davie Rowell scored for the Sun, with Rowell's goal winning the game with just one second left in the game. Chris DiMattia had an assist. Tim Zaniboni and Danny Stone scored for Johnson with assists for Mike Gallagher, Matt Langille and Billy Barron.

Doran & Horrigan edged Burgin Platner, 4-2, as Mike Ryan scored twice and Owen Nestor and John Masone once each. Bruce Stenberg, John Ryan and Dennis Allen had assists. Rob Winter and Mike Balducci scored for Burgin with assists for Joe Bracken, Matt Radzevich, Danny Stock and Tim Sheehan.

The standings: Johnson, 2-1-0; Quincy Sun, 1-1-1; Doran & Horrigan, 1-1-1; Burgin Platner, 1-2-0.

Football Hall Of Fame Establishes Roll Of Honor

The Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame committee has voted to establish a roll of honor in order to recognize the merits of players who either predate the program or who have passed away prior to their potential for induction. Their names will be placed on a special honor roll commemorating their contributions to the traditions of Quincy-North Quincy football.

Living members who have been contacted and invited to participate in the ceremony at the Hall of Fame dinner Nov. 21 at Morrisette's Legion Post include Ed Leone, former city engineer; Frank Rougie of Weymouth; and Tom Masilison, a former Grossman official.

The committee was unable to locate Horris Call, a former coach at South Junior High, and Nate Nichols, who in 1925 kicked a field goal to defeat Brockton. Anyone with information on Call or Nichols is asked to notify any member of the committee.

Deceased members who will be honored are Paul Larkin, William Jennings, George Fostello, William Hanson, Percy Jenkins, William Manning, Larry Leavitt, James LeCairn, Steve Freely, Ray Pecco, Fred DiSantis, George Comi, Paul Wolf, George Cole, Joe Alfano, Don Lundin, Jack Granville, Bob McDermott, Dr. Richard Maloney, Craig Capacciolo and Dom Delforno of Quincy High.

North Girls Swim To Best Season Ever

The North Quincy girls' swim team finished its best season ever last week with a 105-66 win over Quincy.

The Raiderettes, who have never lost to Quincy, finished at 11-2.

The teams will compete in the Suburban League diving championships today (Thursday) at Newton North and the league swimming championships Friday at Bentley College.

Liz Gormley qualified for the South Sectionals with her 154.1 points in diving and Debbie Ramos, who broke records all season long, set a school record in the 400 freestyle.

North's winners were Ramos, 100 freestyle (55.6); Claire McCarthy, 500 freestyle (6:06.6); Carol Blaikie, 200 individual medley (2:44.9); Joanna Dyer, 100 backstroke (1:14.4); Julie Ramos, 100 breaststroke (1:18); Heather Stec, 100 butterfly (1:20.8); Gormley, diving; the 200 medley relay team of Dyer, J. Ramos,

Quincy's only winners were Amy Galman in the 500 freestyle (28.2) and Cindy Galman in the 200 freestyle (2:19.9).

Taking seconds for North were Walker, 50 freestyle; Sherrin Quintiliani, 100 freestyle; Bumpus, 200 freestyle; Jean Chenette, 100 backstroke; and Dawson, diving.

Placing second for Quincy were Cindy Galman, 500 freestyle; Melissa Costa, 200 individual medley; Amy Galman, 100 breaststroke; and Eileen Joyce, 100 butterfly.

Placing third for North were Karen Grafton, 200 freestyle; Eileen Barbuto, 500 freestyle; Leslie Mahoney, 100 breaststroke; and Kerry Fitzgerald, diving.

Taking thirds for Quincy were Sarah Nelson, 50 freestyle; Adrianna Bagu, 100 freestyle; Kelly Ross, 200 individual medley; Chris Ross, 100 backstroke, and Eileen Joyce, 100 butterfly.

Last year had been North's best ever and not many expected the Raiderettes to improve on it this year. However, Coach Bill Walker has had a special blend of freshmen and seniors to produce its 11-2 record.

Walker singled out his tri-captains, Quintiliani, Stec and Dawson. "It's very rewarding to have these three as leaders," he said. "They are not necessarily the best swimmers, but they work hard and they lead the team through example."

North started out with a 7-0 record and knocked off Brockton for only the second time in 15 years, before losing two in a row.

The Raiderettes have won mainly by coming back in the second half of the meets. "We've pulled away from the other teams after the diving," Walker said. "We fall behind early but make up the difference in the freestyle events."

Russian All-Star Games At Youth Arena

The Greater Boston Junior Bruins and South Shore Selects will play two Russian Pee Wee All-Star hockey games tonight (Thursday) at 6:40 and 7:50 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Quincy boys on the teams are Eric Zimmerman, Andrew Vermette, Doug Nolan and David Pacino.

The other players are from Pembroke, Parkway, Somerville, Wellesley, Medfield, Needham, Triboro, Brookline, Canton and Belmont.

Coaches are Rich Wright, Bob McWaters, Joe Goulart and Will Mahoney.

Harold, Balducci Win

The Paul Harold Club defeated Lydon Russell, 6-4, in the Mite House League.

Nick Pizziferni had a hat trick and Spide Bertucci, Matt Gibbons and Brian Ehrlich a goal each. Matt O'Connell and Derek McTomney had assists. Mike Welch had two goals and Mike Fitzpatrick and Matt Hill one each for Lydon and Hill had an assist.

Balducci's walloped Team #5, 7-1, as Kevin Cellucci had two goals and Matt Kane, Joe Watson, Shane Kabilian, Paul Flynn and Chad Fitzpatrick one each. Joshua Silverman, Cellucci and Mike Powers had assists. Chris Cullen scored the goal for Team #5.

Rogan Hennessy and Team #4 tied, 4-4. Paul Flynn had two goals and Bob Harvey and Chris Haidt one each for Rogan and Harvey had an assist. Jim Sullivan and Jacob Fleming had two goals each for Team 4 and Sullivan had an assist.

Pee Wee As Win

The Quincy Pee Wee A hockey team opened its season with a 5-3 Greater Boston League victory over Pembroke.

Eric Zimmerman had two goals and two assists, Scott McPherson two goals and Lee Hughes one. Billy Coughlin had two assists and Joe McPhee and David Pacino one each.

Goalie Mike Manganaro had a fine game and Pacino, Dennis Pateras, Andrew Vermette, Jay Evans and Dan Donahue played strong defense.

Pianist Featured At United First Parish Classical Concert

Pianist Tatyana Dudochkin will be the first artist featured at United First Parish Church's Sunday afternoon classical concert series which begins Nov. 5 at 3 p.m.

The historic church in Quincy Center is the burial place of John Adams and John Quincy Adams and their wives. Call 773-1290 for information.

Dudochkin graduated from the Kiev and Leningrad Conservatories with honors and joined the piano faculty of Kiev Conservatory in 1970. She concertized extensively in the U.S.S.R. and performed regularly on Soviet radio and television. She won the Diploma at the National Competition of Musicians in Alma-Ata, U.S.S.R. in 1984 as well as numerous other awards. Dudochkin came to Boston in 1986 and teaches here privately.

The Nov. 5th program is composed of all Russian music and includes works by Tchaikovsky, Glazunov, Scriabin, Rachmaninoff, Prokofiev, Shostakovich and Khachaturian.

United First Parish Church is located in Quincy Center near the Quincy Center MBTA station. Donation is $5, $4 for seniors and students.

TATYANA DUDOCHKIN

A reception will follow the program

Other concerts scheduled are Karen Sauer, soprano, March 4; and Peter Hadcock, Boston Symphony Orchestra clarinetist, April 22.

QSO Opens 36th Season With Fall Concert Nov. 17

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will present the first concert of its 36th season Friday, Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. in the North Quincy High School auditorium, under the direction of Francisco Noya, music director and conductor.

Elisabeth Remy of Brewster will be the harp soloist.

The program will include Mendelssohn's overture, "The Hebrides," Handel's "Concerto for Harp and Orchestra" and Tchaikovsky's "Symphony No. 1."

Noya was born in Venezuela. Now a resident of Boston, he recently earned his Master's degree in Conducting at Boston University. During the summer of 1988, he conducted the Pro Arte Chamber Orchestra of Vienna, where he studied with Julius Kalmár. From 1986 to 1989 Noya was Assistant Conductor of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra.

In 1987 he was appointed to lead the Southeastern Massachusetts Youth Orchestra. Asked to conduct the Brockton Symphony Orchestra for the 1989-1990 season, Noya also continues as music director and conductor of the Quincy Symphony for his second season.

Remy lives in Brewster, and is a high honors student at Nauset Regional High School. She began her study of the harp at the age of six, and is now a pupil of Ann Hobson Pilot, principal harpist of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. Remy has been a participant for the past six years at the Salzedo Harp School in Camden, Maine, under the tutelage of Alice Chalifoux. A member of the Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra and the New England Conservatory Youth Philharmonic Orchestra, Elisabeth has won concerto competitions in Boston.

In addition to performing with several local chorales and orchestras, she has also made national television appearances as a member of an ensemble accompanying Miss Chalifoux when she was interviewed on the Johnny Carson Tonight Show and The Evening News with Tom Brokaw.

Tickets, available at the door, are $6 for adults, and $5 for senior citizens and students. Season tickets, good for three concerts, will also be available for $15 and $12. For more information call 479-2408.

Ceramics Classes To Start Nov. 11

WEEK OF: November 2, 1989

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Secretive, passionate about the causes in which you believe, and contemporary in your thinking. More flexibility can help you achieve the advances that you deserve. Offbeat travel is featured on and off in the coming months. The year 1990 is favorable for making amends and making commitments.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19
Confidence soars thanks largely to recent community-related accomplishment. Be sure to give credit wherever it is due.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20
Improving your professional skills is a commendable task at this time. Interfering relative may bring you into an unavoidable confrontation. Financial news-brightener may arrive Monday-Wednesday.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20
Be extra considerate in acknowledging the contributions of participants to community projects, job-related tasks, and so forth. Make an added effort to bring cheer to an ailing loved one.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22
Family dispute should be nipped in the bud, not blown out of proportion. A friend confides in you; your empathy is more important than you realize. A shopping excursion can lead to a quick discovery.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21
Opportunity opens up for healing old wounds; it's important for you to take the initiative. Competitive streak surfaces—it has a positive effect on your work.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22
Good week to review your credits and debts and then begin collecting outstanding debts and returning overdue books. It may be difficult to budget your time, but it's best to be conservative in your estimates.

LEO - July 23 - August 22
Household chores may be more time-consuming than expected, but it is important to avoid taking shortcuts in this area. Career-wise, an organizational plan can help you reach your target ahead of schedule.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22
The intervention of a friend can help you sort out a family dilemma to everyone's satisfaction. A job-related complication may prove a blessing in disguise. Visual sense is unusually sharp.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22
Be wary of making recommendations without preliminary research. Research in fact is the week's byword, especially as it relates to your profession. Unexpected travel may be a current highlight.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21
Personality conflict may be unavoidable; the key is to maintain a proper perspective and be willing to make an effort at compromising. Educational interests are positively spotlighted and blend with friendship.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22
Good week for making plans related to late 1989, early 1990. Finance-related skills are sharper, and you have a better understanding of money management. Announcement of a celebration arrives at this time.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20
As the year draws to a close, several key projects wrap up as well. It's important to make medium- and long-term plans related to your professional as well as your social life.

BORN THIS WEEK
November 2nd, actor Burt Lancaster; 3rd, singer Dale Scott; 4th, actress Andrea McArdle; 5th, actress Tatum O'Neal; 6th, director Mike Nichols; 7th, singer Joni Mitchell; 8th, actress Katharine Hepburn.

The Architect Engineer firm to whom the contract may be awarded will be required to appear at this office with the surety offered by him and execute the contract within 10 days from the date of the mailing of the notice from the Commissioner to the bidder according to the address given by him that the contract is ready for signature and in case of his failure or neglect to comply, the Commissioner may, at his option, determine that the bidder has abandoned the contract and thereupon the certified check or bid bond shall become the property of the City of Quincy.

The Architect Engineer will be required to provide both a performance bond and a payment/tax and materials bond, each for the full contract price. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 5% of the base bid shall accompany each bid.

Specifications may be obtained at the Department of Public Works upon deposit of $25.00 for each set which will be refunded provided they are returned, in good condition, within 10 working days of the bid opening. Bidders requesting specifications mailed to them shall add a separate check for ten dollars ($10.00) payable to the City of Quincy.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or to accept the bid deemed best for the City.

South Shore Hockey Results

Roman Gardens Restaurant and Gulph Construction tied, 2-2, in South Shore Hockey Association action at the Quincy Youth arena.

John Rielly and Jack McCarthy scored for Roman Gardens with assists for Doug Hoff, Dick Ethier and Mike Delaney. Rolie Lacey and Ted Malley scored for Gulph with an assist for Jim Clarke.

Bare Cove blanked the Varmints, 6-0, with the Varmints having to call up five players from their farm team due to illnesses. Capt. Glenn Peterson had two goals and an assist and Kevin Corrigan, Gene Anderson, Bob Nithler and Ray Laplante had a goal each. Goalie Mark Selbst recorded his second shutout.

Roman Gardens Pub tied

Sullivan Tire, 3-3, with Walter Giovacco scoring all the Sullivan goals. Bob Mullen, Bob Broderick and John Kearney scored for the Pub. Marty Tolson had two assists for the pub and Kearney had one. Sullivan's put on the pressure in the last four minutes but Pub goalie Marc Nantel came up with some spectacular saves.

PREPAYING A FUNERAL PRESERVES YOUR ASSETS

The law permits a certain amount of money from your estate to be set aside for funeral expense should illness deplete your assets. We can help you place such funds in an irrevocable trust that will guard against inflation. Participation in THE NEW ENGLAND FUNERAL TRUST assures that your wishes will be known.

Please write or call for a free brochure that explains the details of funeral preplanning.

While Jim Sheets oversaw Quincy Hospital's budget, it went $4 million in the red.

Now he wants to oversee Quincy's budget.

With Quincy facing a $10 million-plus deficit and more local aid cuts on Beacon Hill, we need a Mayor who can balance a budget.

Jim Sheets says he's the one.

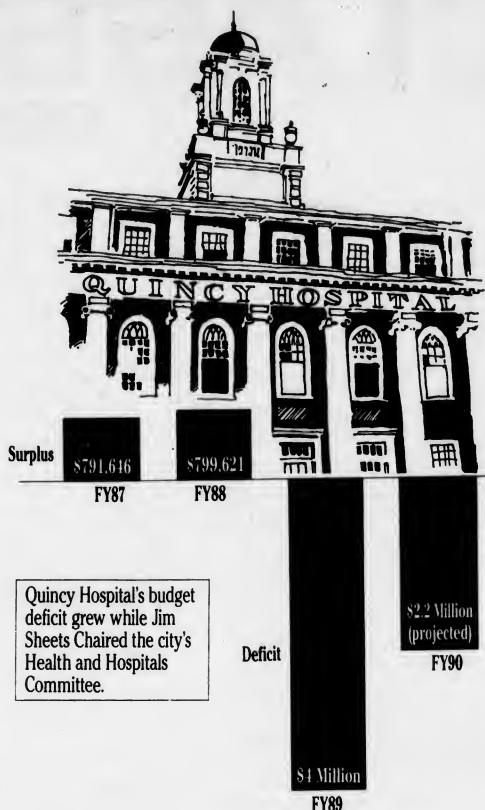

But while he was Chairman of the City Council's Health and Hospitals Committee, Quincy Hospital ran up a budget deficit of $4 million . . . and laid off 200 employees.

And despite receiving monthly budget reports, Councilor Sheets said he was "shocked" when the layoffs came!

Now he wants to be Mayor.

But if Jim Sheets couldn't see the hospital's fiscal problems coming, how will he handle Quincy's $118 million budget?

Peter O'Connell has successfully managed multi-million dollar operations before. He knows how to tackle a financial crisis at the hospital, or City Hall, before it gets out of hand.

So when you think about voting for Mayor, think about Quincy Hospital. And think about who you trust to manage your money.

That's Peter O'Connell.

The 54-year old Ward 4 city councillor piled up a 60 to 39 per cent margin over Peter F. O'Connell, 46, Quincy businessman who was making his first bid for public office.

Sheets will become Quincy's 31st mayor in January, succeeding incumbent Francis McCauley who decided to step down after serving four terms.

Sheets rolled up 17,553 votes to O'Connell's 11,454 for a victory margin of 6,099.

Voter turnout was 60.6 per cent. City Clerk John Gillis had forecast 50 to 55 per cent. The city has 49,000 registered voters.

In other election highlights:

- A possible recount looms in Ward 4 where Thomas A. Fabrizio edged Joseph P. Shea by 124 votes—2,326 to 2,202 or 51 to 48 per cent. The council seat was vacated by Sheets, who held it for 16 years to run for mayor.

- Peter Kolson won the Ward 1 City Council seat easily defeating Marcia Olinto by 1,687 votes. Kolson had 3,184 (68 per cent) to Olinto's 1,497 or 31 per cent.

- Michael T. Cheney took the open City Council-at-large seat, finishing third behind incumbents Timothy P. Cahill and Patricia M. Toland.

Cahill, the top vote getter on the entire ballot, polled 17,825 votes. Toland was second with 17,242.

Cheney received 13,993. Behind him were Susan Gallagher with 9,055; and Denis F. Tardo, 6,079.

- Ronald Mariano, making his first run for office, topped the four-year term School Committee field with an impressive 14,189 votes to win the seat vacated by Peggy Nigro who decided not to seek re-election.

JAMES A. SHEETS
Mayor-Elect

Incumbents Mary P. Collins and Frank C. Santoro were re-elected in second and third position. Collins polled 14,055 votes and Santoro 12,921.

Behind them were Richard A. Crespi, 8,584; Gary D. Fine, 8,356 and Judith F. Brams, 6,828.

- Mary J. Powers won the two-year term on the School Committee, defeating former School Committee member Charles T. Sweeney 13,688 to 9,876. Powers will fill the unexpired term of the late Christopher Kennedy.

- Voters opposed the construction of a hazardous waste incinerator in the city or in abutting towns by a mile wide margin of 21,603 to 2,936 on the lone referendum question on the ballot.

Sheets in his acceptance speech told a cheering room full of supporters at the Bryan VFW Post:

"We did it against all odds. And we did it together. We did it as a family and we did it as a group who believe in the City of Quincy and who believe in the City of Quincy in the years ahead."

Restaurant, Cottage Ave., concerning an overfilled dumpster, were resolved at Tuesday's meeting of the License Board.

Owner Peter Kelly delivered to the board the requested copies of his trash removal and grease rendering contracts on Monday of this week, one day before the Tuesday deadline.

The board was satisfied with the trash pick-up schedule of once per week and sometimes twice per week.

On Friday the board held a special "show-cause" meeting during which Kelly had the opportunity to discuss why his facility should not be closed down.

During that meeting it was disclosed that the dumpster conditions were a result of Kelly not paying the trash removal company for services.

Kelly told the board that the matter had been resolved.

"This is a very simple problem," City Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallhue said. "There should be a (trash) pick-up at least once a week and they won't pick up if they're not paid."

Health Inspector Anne Marie John, present at the meeting, told the board that she had viewed the dumpster at the restaurant on Tuesday morning and said that it "looked good."

Board Chairman John Gillis commended Inspector John for her efforts in the matter.

Houghs Neck Council Honors 7 At Dinner

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Close to 200 residents and relatives were at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall Saturday for the annual dinner of the Houghs Neck Community Council to honor seven Award recipients.

Citations were presented by Mayor Francis McCauley for Senator Paul Harold, who had to leave early; by Michael T. Cheney for the Quincy City Council; and will be delivered by Joann Bythrow, chairman for the Houghs Neck Community Council.

Bernard McCourt was honored as 1989 "Good Neighbor"; Ruth and Robert Gordon, for civic contributions; John Clancy, as "Distinguished Senior Citizen"; and Eddie Engren, George Doyle and Joe Marsden, "Houghs Neck Heroes," for their rescue of seven residents from drowning.

For the first time, the catered dinner was a community effort by leaders and members of the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire, and Pilgrim Fellowship of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Cooks included Robert Trubiano, Michael Preble, Paul Schofield and Martin Gordon.

Devotions were led by the Rev. Denis O'Driscoll of Most Blessed Sacrament Church and the Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Daniel Bythrow, master of ceremonies introduced School Committee member Margaret Nigro, and candidates for Ward 1 Councillor, Peter Kolson and Marcia Olinto.

Model Car Racing Center Proposed In Downtown

The License Board Tuesday held an informational hearing concerning a proposal by Robert Blaschke to open R. B. Hobby and Racing Center at 1631 Hancock St.

The proposal is for a combination retail store to sell model cars, trains and airplanes, and a sophisticated slot-track racing track where customers could rent equipment to race model cars.

Blaschke told the board customers could rent both the equipment and the track for $1.50 for 15 minutes. The cost would be slightly less for customers who used their own cars.

Blaschke, a model car racing enthusiast who has entered national championships, said that the customers would range in age from 7 years old to 75 years old. He also said that up to eight people would be able to use the track at one time.

Building Commissioner

Matthias Mulvey questioned whether some age limit could be placed on the track rental, noting that young children may not have that kind of money to spend.

Blaschke noted that anyone wishing to become involved with the hobby of model car racing should start at a young age.

Blaschke also compared the cost of track rental to that of playing video games, although he noted that model car racing is more of a "sport" than video games.

In answer to Mulvey's suggestion of allowing for free use of the track as a "calling card" for the retail end of the business, Blaschke said that he could not afford to do that because the track is estimated to cost $10,000.

The board advised that Blaschke present his proposal to the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and to city councillors.

No Quincy Sun Sweepstakes

A young man posing as a Quincy Sun reporter tricked a South Shore YMCA employee into thinking he had won a so-called "Quincy Sun Sweepstakes" Tuesday.

The Sun was notified of the hoax by YMCA Associate Executive Director Natalie Norton who witnessed the event.

The incident has been reported to the Quincy Police Department.

According to Norton, a white male about six feet, two inches tall dressed in a blue sweater, gray tweed jacket and dark pants entered the YMCA on Coddingdon St., Quincy, on Tuesday about 9 a.m. and asked for an employee at the front desk.

When the employee appeared, the man informed him that he had won three prizes in "The Quincy Sun Sweepstakes": a trip, a VCR and television.

Norton said the imposter, who she described as a big man being between 28 and 30 years old with light colored hair, light colored eyes and large hands, emphatically told the employee that he should be at the Sun office at 10 a.m.

"The imposter told him emphatically four times — don't forget to be at the Quincy Sun at 10 a.m.," Norton said.

As instructed, the employee went to The Quincy Sun at 10 a.m. When he entered the office, he told an office receptionist about the sweepstakes and the prizes he had won.

However, the YMCA employee was told The Sun was not conducting any sweepstakes. The only contest The Sun is presently running is its weekly football contest. The newspaper has never conducted any sweepstakes and has no plans to.

The employee then returned to the YMCA and told Norton what had happened. She in turn called the newspaper.

"There doesn't seem to be any motive, only to place a cruel joke," Norton said.

The employee was first informed on the sweepstakes by a woman who called him at the YMCA Monday evening, Norton said. She said the imposter did not take any money and nothing was exchanged between him and the employee.

The Army newspaper "Stars and Stripes" was first published in 1918.

LET A PROFESSIONAL HELP YOU CHOOSE THE AUTO INSURANCE YOU NEED

Most auto insurance policies are like income tax forms — difficult for many of us to understand. That's where your professional auto insurance agent steps in. He or she can advise you as to the precise coverage you need depending upon the way you drive, how your automobile is used, the model car you drive, and the legal requirements to be met. Obtaining the policy which best fits your circumstance will make owning and driving a car the pleasurable experience it is meant to be.

A trained insurance expert will explain liability coverage, uninsured motorist coverage, no-fault protection, collision and comprehensive coverage and medical payments coverage. He or she can also show you how to save money with deductibles that make sense.

Don't purchase an auto insurance policy as you would a supermarket item. Sit down with an agent, go over all aspects of your situation, and receive professional advice from a specialist who can translate all the data you provide into a package that offers you maximum protection and savings.

If you are considering protection get in touch with the insurance professionals at Riley & Rielly Insurance Agency, Inc. Please visit our office at 1050 Hancock Street in Quincy or give us a call at 471-6200.

Would O'Connell Do It Again?

Would Peter O'Connell do it again?

He isn't planning on another run for mayor. But he's not slamming the door on the possibility.

"I don't know if I would run again," he says. "You don't run just for the sake of running."

"You have to have a compelling reason. I had a compelling reason this year. I thought I could help the city. And I would only do it again if I thought the city had problems I could help with."

"We worked hard this year. It's been a good campaign. As for the future, I would have to wait and see."

One thing he doesn't plan to do is to stand on the sidelines and take pot shots at Jim Sheets the next two years. Or sing that old political tune, "I would have done that differently."

O'Connell says he wouldn't run against Sheets in the future.

"I will support Jim and help him if I can during his administration. I don't intend to spend the next two years criticizing him and making plans to run against him."

For a political newcomer, making his first venture into Quincy's political ring, he did pretty well. He topped two veteran political figures — Councillor Steve McGrath and former mayor Joseph LaRaia in the preliminary election finishing second behind a popular James Sheets who has been on the political scene 16 years.

Whether O'Connell decides to try it again remains to be seen. Right now maybe he doesn't know for sure whether he will or not.

O'Connell has history in his favor if he should run again. Several of Quincy's biggest political names met defeat their first time running for mayor only later to come back and win that office.

And there were others who first ran for other offices and lost but also came back to become mayor or go on to other high office.

Like for example:

In 1920 Gustave Bates and David McIntosh finished third and fourth in a four-man race behind winner William Bradford and John Smith. (This was before preliminary elections were instituted in 1926).

Two years later, Bates bounced back to oust Bradford. And McIntosh went on to become mayor under Plan E in the 1950's.

In 1926 and again in 1928, Charles Ross lost to Thomas McGrath but came back to knock over McGrath in 1932 and in 1934. Totally, Ross served nine years as mayor, the longest of any mayor under Plan A.

DELLA CHIESA
In 1940 a newcomer by the name of Amelia Della Chiesa finished fifth in a six-man field for city councillor at-large. The winners were Neil McDonald, Joseph Kendrick and Laurence Curtin.

Seventeen years later in 1957, Della Chiesa defeated Curtin for mayor as Quincy returned to Plan A after souring on the Plan E (city manager) form of government. Della Chiesa served 12 years as mayor — eight under Plan A and four under Plan E. Under the latter form, the mayor was a city councillor elected by his council colleagues to serve as a ceremonial mayor and to preside over city council meetings.

In 1959 Della Chiesa defeated a young James McIntyre in one of Quincy's biggest mayoral battles. McIntyre succeeded Della Chiesa when the latter retired, crushing a young Joseph LaRaia in 1965 to win the open office.

MCINTYRE

LaRaia came back in 1975 to wrest the mayor's office away from Walter Hannon by 483 votes in a controversial recount.

Among those who lost first-time bids and went on to other high office were:

Myron Lane was defeated in the 1942 mayor's race by Ross but later became Norfolk County district attorney.

In 1945, Charles Hedges finished last in a three-man preliminary mayoral race behind winner Ross and Joseph Kendrick but later became a state senator and Norfolk County sheriff.

McCAULEY

In 1959 Francis McCauley lost a city council at-large bid, finishing fifth in a six-man field behind David McIntosh, Carl Anderson and John Quinn, the winners, and Joseph Brett.

McCauley came back to win four terms as mayor starting in 1981. Not a candidate for re-election this year, he will turn the reins over to this year's winner in January.

In 1973, Paul Harold lost a bid to Leo Kelly for the Ward 1 City Council seat. Two years later, Harold won a council at-large seat and then was elected state senator, a post he still holds today.

So, one defeat doesn't necessarily end a political career. In a number of cases it actually started political careers.

This year, Quincy voters picked Sheets, a familiar political figure as their new mayor. His administration, based on his style as Ward 4 councillor for 16 years, will be one of consensus with considerable community input on important matters, observers believe.

Many would like to have seen what O'Connell as a successful businessman could have done as mayor. His approach to problems, solutions and new ideas.

Maybe someday he might run again and win.

Ironically, some observers believe he may yet turn out to be the real winner this year.

Sheets will be going into office at one of the toughest times with the state in a financial mess, with federal funds rapidly shrinking and with prospects of many new problems sprouting the next two years.

Everyone — including O'Connell — wishes him well.

'Never Be Afraid To Call On Us,' Finn Tells Asians

By JANE ARENA

There is an old Chinese saying that warns you should never go into a police station while you're alive and you should never go into Hell when you die because those are two places you'll never come out of.

Quincy Police officials are determined that the city's 10,000 Asian immigrants will abandon those long-standing beliefs carried over from their homelands. The Police Department wants to show the Asian community that the police are here to help and not to harm.

"You wouldn't believe some of the horror stories," says Sgt. Thomas Casey, Quincy Police Civil Rights and Human Services Officer. "Where a lot of these people come from, the police station is not the place to go. You go in and you never come out. We want the Asian people to know it's not like that here... hopefully we can develop a bond of trust between the Asian community and the police station."

To that end Asian community leaders were invited last week to tour the recently completed Police station and to meet with Police Chief Francis Finn in an informal, but informative atmosphere. Among about 30 attending the open house were Asian representatives from the clergy, the English as a Second Language (ESL) Program at Quincy schools, and from various city departments including the office of the District Attorney.

Interpreter Hi Thai was there to translate the remarks of Sgt. Casey and Chief Finn for a few present who did not speak English.

Casey said he was impressed with the larger-than-expected turnout, and he knew most in attendance by their first names.

Casey, who was recently awarded the 1989 Mandy Cohen Citizen of the Year Award from the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights, has been working with Quincy's Asian community for over a year.

With the help of Hi Thai, Casey has held weekly office hours at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center so that Asians could drop by to discuss any concerns they might have. Casey has also spent considerable time working with Asians in their own neighborhoods, helping with everything from civil rights violations to explaining the difference between 'inbound' and 'outbound' on

In addition, he has also worked closely with Wollaston Lutheran Church pastor Adolph Wismar who organizes several programs in the church including the English as a Second Language programs and other assistance for the Asian community. Rev. Wismar was present at the police station open house, along with Rev. Richard M.C. Law of Hong Kong. Rev. Law, who has been in the country for a mere two months and speaks English, is working at the Wollaston Lutheran Church.

Casey said last week that more Asians are using the services of the police department than were a year ago, but not to a great enough extent. He and many others feel that fear is the greatest inhibitor to the Asian community.

Pointing to a sign in the back of a conference room which spelled out "Welcome" in four Asian languages, Casey said simply, and matter-of-factly, "You are welcome here."

"The problem," he added, "is that many Asians feel that contact with the police is not a good thing. In this community, that is not so... our goal is to be there to help you."

Chief Finn then spoke to the group for about 20 minutes, explaining in more detail, the services the Quincy Police Department can provide.

"The only 24-hour a day service agency in most communities in the United States is the police station," Finn said, explaining that a phone call to police in an emergency will also be a link to fire and ambulance service.

Finn said that police response time in Quincy is under three and a half minutes in an emergency. He also noted that all 202 Quincy police officers are trained in basic first aid and can administer CPR in an emergency. Many officers,

Couple Fight Eviction For Parking Lot

The eviction of Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Ludwig from their home at 28 Cottage St., Quincy Center, to make way for the John Hancock Parking Lot was delayed three days when the Ludwigs refused to leave.

Members of the last remaining family living on Cottage St., locked themselves in their home and read Bible verses from the windows while two deputy sheriffs and a moving van waited outside.

The city took the Ludwigs' property last spring and Public Works Commissioner Charles R. Herbert said eviction notices had been sent at two-month intervals since April but the Ludwigs ignored them.

BURKE TO SUE

Thomas H. Burke, Quincy Democrat, threatened to take the matter to court after the Board of Voter Registration turned down his request for a recount of the State Rep vote in the First District.

Actually, the Board approved Burke's request for another count of the ballots in Ward 3 but refused to allow it in Ward 4, 5 and 6 because the petitions were not properly sworn in.

Burke, who lost to Republican Carter Lee by a margin of 220 votes, conferred with Joseph F.X. Doherty, chairman of the Democratic City Committee and Boston Atty. Charles McGuire about court action.

Oil Painting Demonstration At Quincy Art Assn. Nov. 14

Thomas Dunlay, nationally renowned Boston artist, will demonstrate his oil painting techniques at the Quincy Art Association, 25 High School Ave., Quincy, Tuesday, Nov. 14 at 7:30 p.m.

Dunlay, who maintains his studio in the Fenway, has received national recognition for his impressionistic interpretations of well-known Boston landmarks such as the Boston Common, Public Gardens and the Esplanade.

Among his most notable works is "Winter Snowfall." Depicting the Boston Public Gardens at dusk, the painting was purchased by communication mogul David Mugar for $100,000.

Most recently, Dunlay has been commissioned by federal officials to Washington, D.C., where he will apply his artistic talent to painting his own interpretation of the White House Rose Garden.

The public is welcome to attend his demonstration.

Christmas Poster Contest Entries Due Thursday

Entries into the annual Christmas Elementary Poster Contest featuring $225 in savings bonds are due today (Thursday).

This year's parade and poster theme is "A Storybook Christmas."

The maximum poster size is 22 by 28 inches. Any poster larger than that will be disqualified.

The student's name, telephone number, grade, teacher's name and school must be on the back of the poster.

Students in grades one through six in all public, parochial and private schools in Quincy are eligible.

Two sets of winners will be chosen, one from grades one through three and the second from grades four through six.

First prize is $100 in U.S. savings bonds with second prize a $75 bond and third prize a $50 bond.

Teachers and or students in the participating classrooms should choose the most outstanding poster as the contest entry from that class. The poster nominated from each classroom will be submitted for final judging by a special committee.

Contest winners will be announced at the Christmas Lighting Ceremony Friday evening, Nov. 24 in Quincy Center. The six winning posters will be displayed in the windows of South Shore Bank, Quincy Center, during festival days. Honorable mention posters will be displayed in the Cummings store windows on Hancock St. after Santa has taken his seat there.

Grants Received For Cultural Programs In 13 Quincy Schools

Elementary and middle schools in Quincy will be visited by artists skilled in the demonstration of Chinese culture.

The Chinese Culture Institute has been awarded a grant from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities and another grant from the Quincy Arts Lottery Council to support their efforts to bring cultural programs to 13 schools in Quincy.

Students and staff will participate in programs about Chinese art, music, dance, clothing, sports and cultural exhibits. The Quincy public schools was chosen because of its commitment to developing a multicultural curriculum.

This is the first time that the institute will be working with several schools in one district. Principals will work with Cindy Young, outreach coordinator and Quincy resident, to select the workshops which will best meet the needs of their individual schools.

Alicia Coletti, equal opportunity coordinator, commented: "We are specially pleased to be working with the Chinese Culture Institute to present programs about Chinese culture to our students. This grant will enable all our students to recognize and appreciate the cultural background of a large number of our public school students and should engender increased cultural understanding within the schools."

City Awarded $17,978 In Bid-Rigging Settlement Case

The City of Quincy has been awarded $17,978 from the state in connection with a settlement of a bid-rigging case brought seven years ago by the Attorney General's Antitrust Division against 11 highway paving companies.

In all, checks totaling nearly $1.1 million were mailed recently to 155 cities and towns across the state.

The distribution of checks represents the culmination of litigation brought and settled by former Attorney General Francis X. Bellotti. The case, Commonwealth versus Ashland-Warren et. al., was filed in 1982 on behalf of both the commonwealth and cities and towns that purchased bituminous concrete from the defendant companies from 1976-1980. It grew out of a computerized highway construction bid monitoring project that Massachusetts and several other states established during the early 1980s to detect unlawful bidding practices and overcharges in the highway paving industry.

To file the lawsuit and arrive at a proper settlement amount, the Antitrust Division analyzed thousands of pages of bidding data and associated documents supplied by more than 200 cities and towns, the Metropolitan District Commission, the state Department of Public Works and the state Turnpike Authority.

Eventually, the data, including information about the miles of roads paved with bituminous concrete in each jurisdiction, served as the basis for allocation of the checks.

Defendants include Ashland-Warren, Inc., Tilcon-Warren, Inc., ERG Investments, Inc., George Brox, Inc., Essex Bituminous Corp., P.J. Keating Co., Jowalco, Inc., James Walsh Sons, Inc., Old Colony Crushed Stone & Construction Co., Inc., Simeone Corp. and Trimount Bituminous Products Co.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Let us on Veteran's Day take time to pause and reflect and pray. Pause to thank those millions of men and women, dead and alive, who performed the highest obligation of their citizenship ... active service in the defense of their country in time of war. Let us pray for those who have shed so many tears for those who gave so freely of their lives so that we might be a free nation, a nation of choices.

Let us on Veteran's Day, as Americans, stand up and be counted ... Let us stand and honor this nation and what it stands for ... Let us be thankful of all the privileges and advantages we enjoy ... Let us count our blessings.

ABOVE ALL, let us on this day reaffirm our dedication to the cause of peace with honor throughout the world ...

Dr. Walter Wrigley, 75

Four Of His Students Walked On Moon

A memorial service for Walter Wrigley, Ph.D., 75, of Quincy, will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. in United First Parish Church, by the Rev. Sheldon Bennett, Minister.

A private burial service for Dr. Wrigley, who died Nov. 5, will be held in Mount Wollaston Cemetery. There are no visiting hours.

A retired professor emeritus of instrumentation and astronautics at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, he retired in 1975 after being associated with MIT for most of his life. For 29 years, he was educational director of the Charles Stark Draper Laboratory, formerly a part of MIT. Four of the graduate students he taught walked on the moon.

He received a bachelor's degree from MIT in 1934 and a doctorate of science degree in 1941. He also earned a varsity letter in track during his sophomore year.

For nine years he was on the Scientific Advisory Board of the Chief of Staff, U.S. Air Force, and from 1966 to 1973, he was chairman of the curriculum committee of the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

During the 1960s, he was chairman of the AGARD Guidance and Control Panel of NATO.

Dr. Wrigley was an active member of United First Parish Church, where he was clerk of the board and past chairman of the board of governors. He was also a volunteer guide for 15 years.

He was a judge for the North Quincy High School Science Fair from 1961 through 1989, missing only two years, making him the only judge to serve at the first and most recent fairs.

Dr. Wrigley was past

master of the Richard C. MacLauren Masonic Lodge at MIT, past District Deputy Grand Master, Cambridge 2nd Masonic district, and an active member of the educational committee of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts.

Born in Brockton, he grew up in Haverhill and was a graduate of Haverhill High School, where he was Massachusetts representative to the Second Thomas A. Edison Scholarship Contest and the highest ranking high school graduate in the state.

He moved to Quincy in 1946.

He is survived by his wife of 48 years, Dorothy (Brown) Wrigley; a son, Wallace W. Wrigley of Bakersfield, Calif.; a daughter, Lois W. Graham of Columbia, Mo.; a brother, Dwight A. Wrigley of Sandwich; a sister, Isabel Purdie of Horseheads, N.Y.; four grandchildren, Douglas L. Graham and Lisa W. Graham, both of Columbia; and Christi Wrigley and Kate Wrigley, both of Bakersfield.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Hamel, Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home.

Donations may be made to the Memorial Fund, United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy, 02169.

Fred S. Stevenson, 84

A&P Supervisor

A funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston, for Fred S. Stevenson, 84, of Quincy, who died Nov. 3 at Quincy Hospital after a long illness. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Mr. Stevenson worked for A&P for 40 years before retiring in 1969 and was a supervisor for A&P food stores in Boston.

He was born in Eastport, Maine, and lived in Dorchester before moving to Quincy 50 years ago.

Husband of the late Mary G. (Sheridan) Stevenson, he is survived by three sons, Ted Stevenson of Quincy and Donald E. Stevenson and Robert L. Stevenson, both of Weymouth; five daughters, Martha Brown and Pearl Azar, both of Dorchester, Mary F. Landry of Norwell, Diane M. Moore of Pembroke and Judith A. French of Quincy; a sister, Stella Stevenson of Dorchester, 39 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 333 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Donations may be made to the Massachusetts Hospital School, 3 Randolph St., Canton 02021.

Agnes P. Flynn, 66

A funeral Mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. today (Thursday) at Most Blessed Sacrament Church for Agnes P. (Looney) Flynn, 66, who died Nov. 5 at Milton Hospital after a long illness. Burial will be in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Mrs. Flynn, a former legal secretary for Granfield and Kelley Law Associates in Boston, lived in Quincy 31 years. She was born in Medford.

Mrs. Flynn is survived by her husband, Francis J.

Flynn; two daughters, Theresa Saccone of Pembroke and Kathleen M. Flynn of Quincy; a brother, William Looney of Rockland; a sister, Mary Hunt of Medford; and a grandchild, Patrick Saccone of Pembroke. She was the sister of the late Paul Looney, James Looney, Joseph Looney, Warren Looney and Helen Smithers.

Visiting hours at the Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., were scheduled for Wednesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

300 Attend Realtors Conference, Trade Fair

Approximately 300 Realtor members attended the Quincy & South Shore Board of Realtors' first Business Education Conference and Trade Fair, held recently at Lombardo's in Randolph.

The fair was the culmination of several months of planning by the Board's Education Committee, chaired by Betsy Trethewey.

The day kicked off with a ribbon cutting ceremony led by President Roy Cheverie and Chairman Trethewey.

Over 30 exhibitors participated in the fair. They were visited throughout the day-long program by those in attendance who were also offered over 12 business and educational sessions to choose from, a luncheon and the opportunity for social networking at the end of the day. All of this was topped off by the awarding of some great prizes by the exhibitors.

Realtors from the Boston, Brockton, and Plymouth Boards were also in attendance.

Cheverie said, "Exhibitors and members have been responding to the fair in such a positive way that the board has been encouraged to make this an annual event."

Plans are already underway for next year's program.

Walter White Accepted Into BAGB

Walter White, a Milton resident and owner of Quincy-based White Construction, has been accepted for membership in the Builders Association of Greater Boston (BAGB).

By joining BAGB, White also becomes a member of the Home Builders Association of Massachusetts (HBAM) and the National Association of Home Builders (NAHB).

White, a graduate of Northeastern University, is a residential builder. He is joining the more than 1,000 builder and associate (those who service and supply builders) members of BAGB, a non-profit trade association serving 120 cities and towns in Eastern Massachusetts.

BAGB is headquartered in Quincy.

1200 And 1100 Crown Colony Drive 'Introduced' At Reception

Members of the real estate community got their first close look at 1200 Crown Colony Drive and 1100 Crown Colony Drive, two recently completed office buildings, within Crown Colony Office Park in Quincy, at a recent breakfast reception.

Approximately 90 guests attended the reception in the lobby of 1200 Crown Colony Drive, hosted by the Park's joint venture development team of Vazza Associates and Edward A. Fish Associates, Inc.

A computerized golf driving contest was staged as part of the event, on the landscaped lawn in front of 1200 Crown Colony Drive's entrance pavilion. Fallon Hines & O'Connor's Bob Delaney won a complete set of Ping irons, and Peter Richardson of Spaulding & Slye won golf accessories.

"This was a perfect day to showcase Crown Colony to the brokerage community," said James L. Elcock, vice president of Meredith & Grew, Incorporated. "Changes in the Park over the past 12 months have been extensive. Crown Colony is Greater Boston's most complete business environment." Meredith & Grew is the exclusive leasing for the Park.

1200 Crown Colony Drive, a recently completed seven-story 235,000-square-foot office building, is 62 per cent leased. Aetna Life Insurance and Clean Harbors, Inc. occupy 95,000 square feet and 55,000 square feet respectively. 1100 Crown Colony Drive, a 132,000-square-foot building situated next to 1200 Crown Colony, was delivered earlier this month.

Designed by Jung Brannen Associates, Inc., 1200 Crown Colony Drive is built with a glass and architectural precast stone exterior. The interior features a spectacular landscaped atrium with a blend of polished granite and cherry woods, a full-service cafeteria, and a sundry shop. The typical floor size is 30,000 square feet, with an under floor duct system throughout the building.

Crown Colony is a 175-acre master planned office park located seven miles south of Boston at the intersection of Route 93 (the Southeast Expressway), Route 128 and Route 3. Companies or firms that already committed to occupy space in the Park include: Bright Horizons

No Bond Cap Available For Summit View Project

The Commissioners of the Quincy Housing Authority have been informed by the Massachusetts Executive Offices of Communities and Development (EOCD) that there is no bond cap available to the Summit View project planned for Quarry Street for 1989 under the Teller Program.

The program is designed to encourage construction of affordable rental housing financed by the sale of tax-exempt bonds authorized by EOCD and issued through the local housing authorities.

After careful consideration and an advertised public hearing by the Quincy Housing Authority, the Authority approved the project and authorized the sale of the bonds which were to finance the project. Twenty-five percent of the units were earmarked for affordable rental housing.

However, the approval by the Authority was subject to the Teller statutory requirements and specific conditions set down by the Authority.

According to QHA Director John "Jake" Comer, the developer failed to timely meet certain of those conditions and, due to the pressure of the many projects aggressively competing for the bond cap, EOCD decided the portion of those funds allocated to the project could no longer be used.

Comer stressed that the QHA is continuing to actively explore opportunities for funding within its powers and purposes, to increase the affordable housing stock in Quincy.

$3.5 Million In Construction

The Quincy Building Department issued 135 permits totaling $3,596,753 in October, the department reports.

Last October, the department issued 148 permits for $2,444,954.

The breakdown for last month is:

- One permit for a two-family dwelling, $110,000.

• One permit for a four-family dwelling, $160,000.

• One permit for a 15-unit condominium, $864,000.

In all, 21 new dwelling units were added through new construction and one dwelling unit was added through alteration.

In addition, there were 102 residential alterations for $591,857 and 10 other alterations for $1,806,686.

There were two removals for $3,850, nine signs for $29,025 and nine miscellaneous permits for $31,200.

Receipts last month totaled $74,049 while public safety inspection fees equaled $1,217.

Community Support Adult Services Relocates To Quincy

The Community Support Services (Adult outpatient Programs), located at the Hollis School in Braintree, has relocated to 460 Quincy Ave., Quincy; announces

Harry Shulman, president and CEO of the South Shore Mental Health Center.

The relocation comes as a result of the elimination of rental support by the recent budget cuts made by the Department of Mental Health.

location. The telephone number in Quincy is (617) 770-4000.

Child and adolescent services will continue at the Hollis School.

South Shore Mental Health Center, Inc., is one of the oldest and largest community mental health centers in the United States with a long tradition of commitment to community based services.

Renters, Condo Owners Need Protection, Too

Burglars steal items worth more than $3 billion a year in the U.S. according to FBI statistics. In fact, every ten seconds, another home is robbed. If you're a renter or condominium owner hit by a burglary, you may not realize until it's too late that replacing your personal possessions can really add up.

One way to minimize your loss not only from theft but also from fire, personal liability losses and the like is to have enough insurance. The experts at Allstate Insurance say that many renters and condo owners don't realize they can get insurance specifically tailored to their needs.

As a renter or condo owner, you can buy protection that guards against more than theft or fire. You can also be insured against credit card loss, medical bills of a guest injured in your home, and water damage from ruptured pipes. You can also be insured for the full replacement cost of covered losses with no deduction for depreciation.

Allstate recommends that renters and condo owners make a record of all their possessions including clothing, jewelry, furniture, televisions, VCRs and personal computers. When you sit down to add up the dollar value of everything you own, you may be surprised at the total amount.

To help you survey your home and record your personal possessions, see an Allstate agent for free copies of "A Condominium Owner's Inventory Record" or "A Renter's Inventory Record," along with "Insurance Facts for People Who Rent."

Preparing Your Home For A Quick Sale

Surprising to many homeowners hoping for a quick sale is how often quick and simple improvements can enhance that home's value.

ration.

- You may not need to repaint the interior walls, but a little liquid cleaner can work wonders on dry and scratched woodwork.

• The kitchen and bath are the rooms that tradially sell houses. Repair those leaky faucets and remove stains from the kitchen counter and sink. To make your kitchen seem roomier, remove most items from the counters and pack away extra items in your kitchen cabinets.

Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service At Bethel Church Nov. 19

The 14th annual Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service by churches of the peninsula district will be held Sunday, Nov. 19, at 7 p.m. at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene.

Taking part will be the Rev. Gary Jones and Mary Paul of the host church; Rev. Harry Soper, Jr., of Quincy Community United Methodist Church; Rev. Leonard McGrath and Sister Regina Harrington of Our Lady of Good Counsel Church; Rev.

Denis O'Driscoll of Most Blessed Sacrament Church; Rev. Francis Kelley and Sister Vincentine of St. Boniface Church.

Senator Paul Harold will read the Governor's Proclamation for Thanksgiving Day, as he has for the past 14 years.

Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church will be the speaker for the service.

Rev. M. Alicia Corea of the Houghs Neck Church and Rev. Richard DeVere of St.

Boniface Church are on the planning committee.

Esther Starkey will be organist and David Goldbraith, director of music, both from the Bethel Church of the Nazarene.

The offering will go to The Group Home. There will be a Fellowship Hour following the service.

The annual event was begun 14 years ago by the Rev. Daniel Allen, pastor of the Adams Shore Community Church, now retired.

Psalm 98 Sermon Topic At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, will preach. The sermon will be on Psalm 98.

The choir will be directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music.

A nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Sarah Nelson. Immediately following the worship service coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs.

Anna and Bob Day are responsible for preparation for the month of November.

Events this week include the Election Day bake sale held Tuesday by the Naomi Society, the Senior Adult Luncheon and program Thursday at 11:45 a.m. (soup and sandwiches for a $1 donation), a Diaconate meeting on Friday at 1:30 p.m. and a Trustee Board meeting on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Future activities are: Naomi Society meeting on Monday, Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. and an all church Thanksgiving Dinner on Sunday, Nov. 19 at 5 p.m. Turkey will be provided by the church and families are asked to bring trimmings and a pie. After dinner there will be a special Thanksgiving worship, then pie and coffee will be served.

Members are reminded of two special offerings to be received in November: Covenant World Relief offering for the needy of the world, and the Thanksgiving offering for the church to help defray some recent expenditures.

For more information about any of the church activities, please call the church office at 479-5728.

Veterans For Peace President At United Parish Church

This Sunday Col. John F. Barr USMC(Ret.) will deliver an address "Abolish War" as guest speaker during the 10:30 a.m. service at United First Parish Church Unitarian in Quincy Center.

Col. Barr currently serves as National President of Veterans for Peace. He is a veteran of three wars and a combat veteran of wars in Korea and Vietnam. He had duties as an artillery and nuclear weapons officer. Since retirement, Col. Barr has dedicated his life to seeking alternatives to war.

This special Veteran's Day Sunday Service has been planned by Marion Cramer, Dede Doherty and Brenda Powers and the Social Concerns Committee of the Church. Members of the congregation and Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, Minister, will also participate.

Norman Corey, Music Director, will play organ works by Brahms, Reger, Mendelssohn and Rheinberger.

James Pickel and Richard Post will serve as ushers and Helen Knight will be greeter. Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the social hour following the service. Louise Hall and Kay Johnson will be hostesses.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," which is celebrating 350 years this fall, is located at 1306 Hancock Street, opposite City Hall and the Quincy Center MBTA station.

Church School and child care are provided. Call 773-1290 for information.

Federal Prison Chaplain To Preach At Bethany

This Sunday, the Rev. Dr. James E. Forsythe will preach at both the 9 a.m. chapel and 10 a.m. sanctuary services in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

The subject of Rev. Forsythe's sermon is "In Everything Give Thanks." The worship and liturgy will be conducted by the senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, and the associate minister, Rev. Elizabeth M. Upton, at both services.

Rev. Forsythe is a native of Quincy and a "son" of Bethany, having grown up in the Church School, being active in the youth and basketball programs. He is a graduate of Eastern Nazarene College and of the Andover Newton Theological School. He has a Masters of Theology from Princeton Theological Seminary, and a Doctor of Ministry also from Andover Newton. This is the 20th anniversary of his ordination which was solemnized in the sanctuary of Bethany Church.

For the past 17 years, Rev. Forsythe has served as a chaplain in the Federal Prison System, at Danbury, Conn.; Terre Haute, Ind.; and since 1982 as the senior chaplain at Ray Brook facility near Lake Placid, N.Y.

The vocalist, Paul David Johnson is also an "adopted son" of the congregation, presently residing in Upper Jay, N.Y., near Lake Placid. He is a 1986 graduate of Eastern Nazarene College and has studied voice in Boston and New York City. He was baritone soloist in the Bethany Chancel Choir from 1985 to 1988. He will sing two selections.

At the 10 o'clock service, the Chancel Choir will be accompanied by John Watt, organist, of Cambridge, and a native of England.

George Nicholson, chairman of the finance committee, will also present comments on stewardship.

The 10 o'clock worship service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pre-school through 9th grade. Child care is also provided for babies and toddlers.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families are most welcome to attend worship and share in the fellowship and enroll children in the Sunday School.

The Bible study course on "The Letter of James" led by Pastor Arnold will continue on Tuesday evening, 7:30 to 9:00 in room 3 of the parish house, and is open to the public.

For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office, 479-7300.

'Faith Works' Topic At Wollaston Congregational

"Faith Works" will be the subject of Rev. Elden Zuern's sermon on Sunday, Nov. 12 at the 10 a.m. worship at Wollaston Congregational Church, Lincoln and Winthrop Aves. Marion Channon will be reader. Ushers will be Gilda and Adam Knowles. David Mauriello will be Acolyte; greeters, Mr. and Mrs. Steven Stentiford.

Stewardship Sunday will be observed. Parishioners are being asked to bring their pledge cards and canned or packaged foods for the Protestant Social Service Bureau that both may be dedicated.

There will be a Youth Fellowship dance on Friday, Nov. 10, from 7:30 to 10:45 p.m. All sixth graders through 12th graders are welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Oster have been awarded a plaque honoring them for their dedicated work with the Youth Fellowship.

Presidents Face Tough Task At Revere

By TOM SULLIVAN

It didn't come easy, but just when it looked as though penalties would cost it the game, the Quincy football team battled from behind to defeat Malden, 27-14, last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium, ending a four-game losing streak and improving its record to 3-5.

Jack Raymer's Presidents, now hoping for a .500 season, face a tough task Friday night when they play at Revere at 7 o'clock in the final game before Thanksgiving.

Revere, which ended a 22-game losing streak when it upset Wakefield this year, is 4-4, with other wins over Malden, Somerville and Peabody and losses to Arlington, Medford, Everett and Waltham. Quincy won easily, 37-0, a year ago.

"Nothing comes easy for us," said Raymer. "We were at full strength for the first time in several games and the return of Tom Morrell and Lou Pagnani helped us a lot, as both played strong two-way games. Penalties hurt us considerably and we can't afford as many in our last two games with Revere and North Quincy."

"The defense played tough and this was a big win. The kids have been really playing hard but have made too many mistakes and a lot of breaks went against them."

Mark Bogan, who had been playing hurt as were several other starters, had his best game, rushing for 165 yards, scoring two touchdowns, adding a two-point conversion and kicking an extra point. He also continued to play well on defense.

Pagnani also ran well, scoring twice. He rushed for 40 yards and had a fine 20-yard run nullified by a penalty.

Junior quarterback Mike Flavin had his best game, completing eight of 16 passes for 149 yards. Bogan, on an option pass, completed one for 18 yards.

Chris Fay had a fine day receiving, having five receptions on excellent catches.

"We have been dropping those passes in the past but were catching them today," said Raymer.

Raymer had good words for Rich Lallis, Mike Tempesta, Pat Neil, Steve McGinnis, Morrell, Joe Baker and Jim Munroe for their work on offense and for Graham Chevereie, Dave Johnston, Tony Madden, Steve O'Donoghue, Bill Reardon, Fay, Bogan and Pagnani for their efforts on defense.

Quincy took the opening kickoff and Flavin hit Fay for 21 yards and Chris Walker for 15 as the Presidents drove to Malden's 17. But the Golden Tornado held and took over on their 22.

Early in the second quarter Malden kicked to the Quincy 40. Pagnani's 20-yard run was voided by a penalty but Quincy drove to its first score as Flavin hit Bogan for 32 yards and Fay for 22. With a first down on the four, Bogan went to the one and Pagnani scored. Bogan kicked the extra point.

Just before the half Flavin passed to Walker to the Malden 10-yard line but another penalty nullified the gain and the half ended with the Presidents leading, 7-0.

Malden took the second half kickoff and drove to its first score with DeTernance Guyton going 22 yards for the touchdown. The try for the two-point conversion failed.

Late in the third quarter Malden drove from its 28 to take the lead. The Tornado clicked off three first downs and Guyton scored his second TD from the one. A pass to Keith Tallent added the two-point conversion and Malden led, 14-7.

Bogan ran the ensuing kickoff all the way back from his 25 to Malden's 42, setting the stage for Quincy's second touchdown. A 25-yard pass from Flavin to Fay put the ball on Malden's 17. Bogan went for seven, then four and finally the last six yards for the touchdown. His kick for the extra point was blocked and Malden held onto a 14-13 lead early in the fourth quarter.

Malden was held and kicked to the Presidents' 29. Flavin hit Bogan for eight yards and Fay for 23 and Pagnani capped the drive by scoring from the 10. Flavin passed to Bogan for the two-point conversion.

Malden's Kevin Geraghty completed a pass but it was fumbled and Fay recovered on Quincy's 45, setting up the Presidents' insurance touchdown.

Sticking to the ground, Bogan sparked the drive as he carried six times and, seemingly trapped, broke from the pack and raced 24 yards for his second score. His

Quincy Girls Set Sights On 4th State Title

The Quincy girls' volleyball team will open defense of its state championship and seek its fourth state crown in eight years tonight (Thursday) at 7 o'clock when it hosts either North Quincy or Boston English at the Vo-Tech gym.

North Quincy (14-5), which won the state title two years ago and tied Quincy for the Suburban League crown last year, met Boston English (10-2) Tuesday night.

Quincy (18-0) is the top-seeded team in the Div. 1 East/Central Sectionals.

If the top-seeded teams move into the final round, Quincy could defend against another defending state champion.

Quincy won the Div. 1 title last year and Case or Swansea (20-0) won the Div. 2 crown and moved up to Div. 1 this year. It is the top-seeded team in the South Sectionals.

In the other East/Central quarterfinals Tuesday East Boston played Boston Tech and Cambridge Rindge and Latin met Brookline. The East/Central championship game will be played at Waltham High Saturday night at 7.

Tom Henderson's Quincy team is led by defensive specialist Randi Gaura, a four-year starter. Jennifer Richmond and Gaura are the First Ladies' outside hitters, Chris Barrett and Melanie Sullivan are the middle blockers, Lori Novak is the setter and Liz Vo is the team's utility player.

North Quincy coach Jim

Rendle has only one senior, tri-captain Gina Golden.

Sophomore Brenda Hayduk and junior middle hitter Tristen Mastrogiacono have been outstanding all season and tri-captain Kara Sullivan and freshman starter Heather Rendle have also played well.

Rounding out the Raiderettes' squad are Cheryl Kelly, Tara Guarnieri, Meridith Rossi and Kim Trout.

"Although we lost twice to Quincy, we played them tough and showed we can play with anyone," Rendle said. "Quincy has an outstanding team and I can't see anyone stopping them. I am hoping we can defeat Boston English and get another crack at them."

Hoadley Volleyball All-Star

The Norfolk Agricultural School girls' volleyball team finished with an 18-1 record and was crowned co-champion of the Mayflower League.

It was the team's best record in school history.

Senior Katherine Hoadley of Quincy, the team hitter and four year veteran, was named to the league all-star team.

Raiders Seek 6th Win Against Medford

The North Quincy football team's hopes for a fifth straight victory were dashed last Saturday when the special teams let the Raiders down as they squandered a 14-3 lead and bowed at Waltham, 30-20, dropping their record to 5-3.

Ken McPhee's North team will try and rebound Saturday when it hosts Medford in a 1:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Medford is only 6-1, defeating Revere and losing to Woburn, Brookline, Everett, Somerville, Peabody and Arlington and tying one. Last year North won, 35-20.

"They killed us with big plays and our special teams didn't do well," McPhee said. "While they made the big plays, we didn't. Right after we scored our second touchdown, they ran the kickoff back to our two and scored. They returned an intercepted pass for a score and twice on fourth down, one with five yards to go and the other with nine yards to go, they threw touch down passes."

Danny Gilmartin had another good day, rushing for 80 yards and a touch down, while Jim Bryan was 14 for 28 for 191 yards and two touchdowns but he had four passes intercepted.

McPhee had good words for the offensive line and he hailed the performance of Ryan Kiley, Angelo Kyranis, Alex Malasi, Scott Kemp, Matt Swierk, Mike Iacobacci and Scott Leonard. Keith Gott was outstanding on defense.

North drove 95 yards for its last touchdown and Bryan completed eight passes on the drive.

North took the opening kickoff and drove to a touchdown with Gilmartin scoring from the four. Chris Deshler kicked the extra point.

Waltham came back and Ryan kicked a 22 yard field goal.

North Quincy scored early in the second quarter and Bryan threw a 47-yard scoring pass to Deshler, who again kicked the extra point.

Waltham ran the ensuing kickoff all the way back to the North two-yard line and Jeff Fuller scored.

Late in the half on fourth down Jeff Ryan hit Fuller for 16 yards and a score and Kevin Ryan kicked the extra point.

In the third quarter, again on fourth down, Ryan hit Mike Brifti with a 31-yard touchdown pass and Kevin Ryan again kicked the point.

Waltham clinched the win late in the quarter when Jose Frenna intercepted a pass and returned it 35 yards for a touchdown. Kevin Ryan again kicked the extra point.

Starting on their own five, the Raiders drove all the way for their final score with Bryan completing eight passes. He hit Kevin MacDougall with a 22-yarder for the score. The try for the two point conversion failed.

North had 115 yards rushing and Waltham 114. Bryan was 14 for 28 and 191 yards and two touchdowns with four interceptions. Waltham was eight for 18 for 99 yards and two scores. North had 17 first downs to 10 for Waltham.

North Frosh Roll By Waltham, 14-6

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy freshman football team defeated Waltham, 14-6, to improve to 5-1-1.

The only score of the first quarter came on a brilliant 46-yard run along the left sideline by Mark Sinclair. He was hit three times and still kept his balance shaking off tacklers.

The 6-0 score remained until the closing minutes of the half. Set back by a five-yard penalty, the young Raiders went to the air on their 28 and the pass was overthrown and intercepted by a Waltham back, who sped 60 yards to tie the score.

With North back on its own nine-yard line, Liam Higgins faded back into the end zone and connected with Pat Shea for a 91-yard pass-run scoring play. Shea outran two Waltham defenders and scored standing up. Sinclair added the two-point conversion.

Erik Kane intercepted a Waltham pass at the 50 and, with Keith Lentini and Sinclair carrying, North reached the Waltham 15 but was held.

It appeared that North would score again when Shea intercepted and returned to the Waltham five but again Waltham's defense stiffened and North was held when the quarterback was sacked.

Coaches Kevin Kelly and Dean Zoia were pleased with the performances of Sinclair, Shea, Kane, Peter Licciardi, Lentini, Higgins, Joseph Gott and Reinhard.

North Girls Defeat Quincy In Good Season Windup

The North Quincy girls' cross country team finished its best season in several years with a 5-1 record (second in the Suburban League) when it defeated Quincy (0-6) for the 14th time in 16 years, 16-44.

Capt. Janet Corrigan of North was the winner, followed closely by Ilana Cobban, Suzanne Lewis and Danielle Lewis. Quincy's Sarah Edwards was fifth, North's Joanne Moriarty sixth, Jennifer Vericeco of Quincy seventh, Mary Tafalla of North eighth, Kim Chiu of North ninth and Amanda Young of North 10th.

The North Quincy boys blanked Quincy, 15-45, to finish at 2-4, its best record in some time with the biggest squad ever.

Jason Buckley of North was the winner for his fourth league win, followed by Andy Wohlrab, Chris Bellum, Peter Wildes and John Heany.

At the state coaches meet last week Buckley took 14th place in the strong junior-senior division and freshman Suzanne Lewis placed 12th in the freshman-sophomore division. Both received medals.

Saturday the two North teams will run in the state class championship meet at Franklin Park.

Quincy Community TV Covers Election Live

Using all its equipment resources and several dozen staff and volunteers, Quincy Community Television, Channel 3, covered the city election Tuesday live from four locations around the city.

In the QCTV studio, outgoing Mayor Francis X. McCauley provided precinct by precinct political analysis while hosts John King and Paula Golden coordinated updates and interviews from City Hall and the mayoral candidates' headquarters.

Although Quincy Community Television staff and volunteers are always working to provide Quincy residents with an average of 20 hours of local programming a week, ambitious productions of this magnitude take extra resources and efforts of not only the staff but the many community volunteers who make programs like this possible.

The live production used all equipment resources available at Quincy Community Television. In addition, approximately 20 community people volunteered their time to work on the production.

Trained in workshops provided by QCTV, these people from high school age to senior citizens ran cameras and audio boards, interviewed candidates and constituted candidates and constituents, and prepared computer graphics displaying the election results almost immediately after they were gathered at City Hall.

In June, Public Affairs Producer Marie Diaz began producing a series a political forums and debates covering every political contested race in Quincy. She also produced September's preliminary election and Tuesday's final election.

The Quincy Community Television staff thanked the community volunteers who worked very hard to make the production a success.

WEEK OF: November 9

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're a quick thinker, and independent spirit, and a thorough worker. Often your ideas are ahead of their time. Your powers of persuasion are strong and, professionally, can be used to your advantage over the next six months. Romance-related uncertainties clear up early in 1990.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19

Organized Aquarius has some spare time; consider using it to catch up on reading or some other relaxing activity. Holiday plans are being finalized more quickly than you first realized.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20

Platonic relationship is highlighted, as you and friend help each other think more positively. Inventive spirit is strong, especially through the weekend. A modest but pleasant financial surprise may arrive.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20

New opportunity opens up for supplementing income; investigate it thoroughly before making any commitment. Sports events are favored for participants and spectators. Mental challenges are spotlighted as well.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22

Combination of individuals from various places and representing diverse interests makes for a lively and educational week. Long overdue communication arrives on or after the weekend. Social life is livelier.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

Good week for preparing a plan for a major task, for organizing a trip, and for arranging social events. Curiously, your organizational skills at work may be a bit rusty; make an effort to get them up to scratch.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22

Your input is meaningful, but be sure you receive the credit that you richly deserve. Cultural activities blend well with work or travel. Weekend offers an opportunity for reconciliations.

LEO — July 23 - August 22

Recent investments of time pay off as you earn recognition for your efforts. You're just as involved in projects through this week, but make plans for escape in the very near future.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

Good week to enter into discussions regarding legal or property matters. Homefront features some merry mayhem, especially around the weekend. Friend's attitude improves, thanks to your optimism.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22

Combination of individuals with those of a friend or relative brings extraordinary results. Good-news bulletins arrive in pairs this week. Watch tendency to be unrealistically extravagant over the weekend.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21

If planning any kind of travel, ensure that arrangements are in perfect order. You don't want to leave anything to chance at this time. A reserved friend is refreshingly outspoken.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22

Spent the early time of the period planning a detailed schedule—then be grateful if you can tend to half the items. This is a socially eventful period, as well as one that is favorable for career.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20

Comments you make in jest may be taken seriously by a sensitive friend; exercise special caution in this area. As the year draws to a close, make certain that your financial house is in good order.

BORN THIS WEEK

November 9th, singer Mary Travers; 10th, actor Roy Scheider; 11th, actor Jonathan Winters; 12th, actress Stefanie Powers; 13th, actor Charles Bronson; 14th, actor Brian Keith; 15th, singer Petula Clark.

Police Building Communications With Asian Community

Finn noted, have even delivered babies.

In addition to describing for the Asian leaders the many emergency services in the City, Finn also spoke about other city services including the Quincy Recreational Department for youth and the DOVE Program which offers assistance to battered women.

"The DOVE Program is the finest in Massachusetts to protect women from battery," Finn said, "and the program is a model for others in the state."

Finn told the group that the Quincy Police Station receives an average of 80,000 calls a year.

"And most of them," he added, "do not involve a crime...we do a lot more than enforce laws and investigate crimes...you have tremendous services in Quincy. Think of them for your children and think of them for yourselves."

In closing, Finn told the group that it is up to the community to call the police for help.

"You have to come to us," he said, "we don't involve ourselves in your personal lives. It's up to you to come to us, and you should never be afraid to call on us."

Finn reminded the group that the city has on hand pamphlets concerning civil rights which are printed in five Asian dialects. Asian translations of emergency telephone numbers are also available from Sergeant Casey, he noted.

For those Asians who do not speak English, Finn said, the police department has access to an 800 number which will connect the caller and the police officer with an interpreter in a three-way conversation.

But, Finn reminded, in an emergency, citizens who do not speak English may also dial 911 and simply leave the telephone off the hook so that police can trace the call and send help.

Casey asked the Asian leaders to communicate Chief Finn's messages to the Asian community at large. Communication is the key, he stressed.

The group then had the opportunity to tour the newly completed police facility from top to bottom, with an explanation of how each department works and of the services they provide for the community.

Betty Yau of the District Attorney's Office said that the tour and open house were appreciated and will help in communicating an important message to the Asian community.

"This tour encourages the trust, rapport and the usage of the police station," she said, "and we appreciate all the work the Quincy police have done. But (the Asian community) is not just a police matter...we have to work out in our communities what the barriers are (between Asians and whites) and how to overcome them."

Also attending the event were Cindy Young of the Department of Employment Training, Chik Ching Law, a Bi-lingual Counsellor for the Quincy Public School Department, Raymond Young, pastor of the Chinese Baptist Church of Quincy, Karen Lam, Secretary for the City Planning Department, and Amy Tam, a clerk in the City Tax Collector's Office.

'Treasure' Sermon Topic At First Squantum Church

"What Treasure Are You Storing Up?" was the subject of the sermon preached Sunday by the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, Pastor, at the First Church of Squantum.

The topic was chosen to help the congregation prepare for Stewardship Sunday in two weeks, when each member will return his or her pledge sheet for the coming year.

Eva Martin and May Lewis were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and Ruth Swenson and Helen Miller hosted the Fellowship Hour afterwards.

In the evening, the first annual Youth Chaplaincy Dinner was held at the church by "The Way Up", a special youth ministry led by Dr. Langevin. Teen-aged girls and boys from the program served the dinner to help raise money to support the activities of "The Way Up", particularly those involving teen-agers referred by the juvenile court or held in nearby juvenile shelters. After the dinner, Dr. Langevin showed slides of a trip to Maine made by young people in The Way Up and their leaders.

This Sunday the worship service, Sunday School and nursery of the church will be held at 10:30 a.m. Visitors are invited.

dealing with the issues.

"This was one of the best campaigns in the history of the city of Quincy," Sheets said. "We started with four very strong candidates and I am going to draw on their experience and knowledge and turn to them on numerous occasions to help me lead."

He was referring in addition to O'Connell, Councillor Steve McGrath and former Mayor Joseph LaRia, the other unsuccessful mayoral contenders.

"It has been my privilege to have as my opponent Peter O'Connell, who has been my friend for many years and will continue to be my friend in the years ahead."

headquarters at the Bryan VFW Post to congratulate him.

O'Connell offered Sheets his help during the next two years and Sheets warmly accepted it. The pair shook hands.

Sheets praised O'Connell for "an outstanding campaign" and said: "I look forward to working with you in the future."

Earlier in his concession speech at the Neighborhood Club, O'Connell told his disappointed supporters:

"We have to support Mayor Sheets and all of us have to work very hard to make sure that Quincy is the city we want it to be. The next few years will be difficult and there is a lot we have to do."

Re-elected unopposed were four ward councillors: Ted DeCristofaro (Ward 2), Lawrence Chretien (Ward 3), Charles Phelan (Ward 5) and Thomas Nutley (Ward 6).

O'Connell who conceded at 10 p.m. trailing Sheets by approximately 2,000 votes went to Sheets' victory

Restaurant Planned At Former Gas Station

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday continued for one week a hearing on a request from Atty. John Vlaskakis on behalf of Nick's Lunch, 57 Granite St., for a common victualer license for 65 Granite St.

Vlaskakis told the board that plans involve renovating the former gas station building at 65 Granite St. for a new location of Nick's Lunch, which is currently at 57 Granite.

Action on the hearing was continued in accordance with an agreement with Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien to give him time to send a mailing to neighbors and abutters concerning the proposal.

Vlaskakis, along with architect Richard Salvaggi, showed plans to the board outlining the proposal for the 35-seat restaurant.

"First and foremost," Vlaskakis said, "the existing gas storage tanks would be removed and any clean-up of the soil would be done." Vlaskakis said that the area had been tested for contamination and had been found to be "fairly clean, all things considered."

He said the plans had been given by the City Health Department and had received approval.

Salvaggi told the board that exterior and interior alterations have been planned for the building, including the installation of a sprinkler system and handicap accessible restrooms.

Vlaskakis said that he and Salvaggi have also met with the City Traffic Engineer to discuss parking and entrance and egress.

The board noted that the parking situation at the current location of Nick's Lunch is undesirable and that the move would provide a better parking situation.

The restaurant is required to have at least nine spaces at the new location, Vlaskakis noted, and there will be excess parking available.

Although Chretien has not yet spoken to neighbors concerning the proposal, Vlaskakis told the board the immediate abutters to the property, Robert and Suzanne Dixon of 122 Dixwell Ave., had been notified and were present at the meeting.

Robert Dixon said his main concern was a buffer between his property and the restaurant to shield noise and sight.

Building Commissioner Mathias Mulvey suggested evergreen trees, which would provide a year-round buffer. Vlaskakis and Salvaggi agreed.

Dixon also noted that the previous owner of the gas station had been a "good neighbor."

The board will take the matter up again when Chretien has contacted neighbors about the issue. The board noted that the current license would be turned in if and when the new license is granted.

Quincy Name Added To National Vietnam Memorial

The name of David J. Pugliesi of Quincy, a Vietnam veteran who died in August, 1987, will be dedicated at the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C., during a ceremony on Veterans' Day, Saturday, Nov. 11.

Pugliesi's name is one of 19 that will be dedicated at the memorial Veterans' Day.

The ceremony will be preceded Thursday by a press conference with the families and the Vietnam Memorial Committee, followed by a benefit concert to raise funds for the memorial.

On Friday, there will be a reception at the Capitol for all the families.

The final program for the dedication has not been set. President George Bush has been invited and may attend.

Pugliesi was wounded in 1969 and died of those wounds in August, 1987. He was a paraplegic from the war, and came to live at home with his parents. He also spent time in various Veterans Administration hospitals and lived on his own in an apartment, his sister, Barbara LeClair, said.

Last year on Memorial Day, Pugliesi's name was added to the Vietnam Memorial Clock Tower at Marina Bay.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from Baron's Cafe Inc., doing business as Mr. Kelly's, 62 Summer St., for a change of manager from Alfred A.

Pasquale to Rosemary Pasquale Hitchcock.

- Granted a request from Robert Purpura of the Old Colony Chapter Order of the Demolay for a permit to sell hot chocolate, coffee and tonic at the 1989 Quincy Christmas Parade. The drinks will be sold in front of the Masonic Temple.

- Accepted a request to withdraw without prejudice a request from David Michael Venezia for a Motor II license for 150 Hancock St. They will take the matter up again when Venezia finds another location more suitable to the use.

- Postponed until Nov. 14 a hearing on the request of George Tsoukalis for a common victualer license for the New England Deli, 1437 Hancock St.

Chief O'Connell Keynote Speaker

Veterans Day Parade, Ceremonies Saturday

Quincy Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, a decorated Vietnam veteran and a member of the Morrisette Legion Post, will be the keynote speaker at Quincy's Veterans Day ceremonies Saturday.

O'Connell, who served as a squad leader with Mike Company, Third Battalion, Fifth Marines, First Marine Division during the Vietnam War, was selected as this year's speaker in observance of the 71st anniversary of the end of World War I.

O'Connell will speak at the Doughboy Statue outside the Quincy Historical Society's Adams Academy headquarters at Adams and Hancock Sts. following the parade.

In case of inclement weather, the exercises will be held in the Quincy Vocational Technical School gym. Official instruction will be broadcast by radio station

PAUL O'CONNELL

WJDA, 1300 am, if weather conditions are unfavorable.

Assembly time is 9:30 a.m. and the parade will step off at 10:30 a.m. from the Ross Parking area. It will proceed down School St. to Hancock St. to the Adams Academy.

The parade and ceremonies are sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Day Council.

Joseph Sullivan, Veterans Council chaplain and a member of the VFW 613, will deliver the invocation.

Bob Manning, past commander of the Veterans Council, will introduce the invited guests. Remarks will be also given by Commander Henry Bradley and Mayor Francis McCaulley.

Following O'Connell's address, Edwin Boland, chaplain of American Legion Post 294 will offer a prayer.

After the National Anthem, the Rev. J. William Arnold, chaplain of American Legion Post 295, will give the benediction.

In observance of the 71st anniversary of end of World War I, the Quincy Veterans Council invited O'Connell to deliver the keynote address.

The son of Cornelius Edward O'Connell and Shirley Goodwin O'Connell, he was born June 18, 1950 in Quincy. Educated in the Quincy public school system, O'Connell graduated from Massachusetts College with a degree in fire science.

During his Marine service in Vietnam, he participated in six major combat operations including Operations Taylor Common, Pipestone Canyon and Durham Peak. He was wounded in action March 3, 1969.

O'Connell was awarded the "Navy Achievement Medal" for his leadership displayed June 7, 1969 when his unit's defensive position came under attack during a propelled grenade attack from a North Vietnamese Army Force.

Ignoring the hostile rounds impacting near him, Corp. O'Connell fearlessly maneuvered from one defensive position to another distributing ammunition and rendering first aid to the wounded Marines.

In December, 1970, he was honorably discharged.

Two and half years later, he O'Connell, joined the Quincy Fire Department. After several promotions, he was appointed chief this past March.

O'Connell is married to Judith Vencusk, formerly of Canton. They have two children, Jennifer Anne, 17, and Brian Edward, 14.

The parade chief marshal is Quincy Veterans Council Commander Henry Bradley. Robert LaFleur, senior vice commander of the council, is aide to the commander.

The parade roster also includes: Leo Reardon, Jr. vice commander; Joseph Zona, past commander; Alice Scribner, past commander; Irving Isaacson, past commander; Adjutant Mary Timcoe, past commander; Officer of the Day, Paul O'Neil, past commander, all from the Quincy Veterans Council; Assistant Officer of the Day, Gordon Bergstrom, past commander of the Jewish War Veterans Post; and Aides to Invited Guests Bryant Carter, past commander of American Legion Post 295 and Joseph Callahan, past commander of Quincy Veterans Council.

Aides de Camp for the parade include Edwin J. Boland, assistant finance officer, Quincy Veterans Council; Joseph Sullivan, chaplain, George F. Bryan Post; Joseph Walsh, public relations officer, Quincy Veterans Council; and Robert LaFleur, graves registration officer, Quincy Veterans Council.

Who Will It Be?

Nominations Open

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Nominations are now open for The Quincy Sun's fifth annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

The award was established in 1985 to recognize an individual for outstanding community service. Sun Publisher Henry Brewster emphasizes this is not a popularity contest. A person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal opportunity to being named the laureate.

The first winner was Tony Stigliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense and auxiliary police chief. He was selected from 31 nominees.

The second recipient was Ruth Wainwright of Hough Neck, a long-time community volunteer. She was chosen from 43 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard

J. Koch who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades. Mr. Koch, who died in August, 1987, was selected from 35 nominees. Mrs. Simone Koch received the award for her late husband. Last year, Martin C. Finnegan, athletic director for Quincy Public Schools, received the award for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and community adults to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems. He was chosen from 33 nominees.

Finnegan was nominated by Janet S. Powell, a teacher at Broad Meadows Middle School and a member of one of the help teams created by Project Impact.

The winner is honored at a reception hosted by The Quincy Sun at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

Those nominated the past four years are eligible to be nominated again this year.

Deadline for nomination is Saturday, Dec. 30.

Nominations are now being accepted. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate the person they feel is the most deserving.

After nominations close Dec. 30, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process is on Page 5 of this week's issue of the Sun.

If you know someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

Those submitted nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely of his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 30. The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Shea To File For Recount

Joseph Shea, who lost the Ward 4 council race to Thomas Fabrizio by 122 votes, said Tuesday he will definitely file for a recount this week.

Shea took recount papers out Monday. He has until this Friday at 5 p.m. to file them, City Clerk John Gillis said. Ten valid signatures from Quincy registered voters are required for a recount.

On Tuesday, Shea said he will file for the recount either Thursday or Friday because the election was so close.

"I'd like to see a complete recount. To be that close, we'd just like to be sure. I've had a number of friends who have urged me to go for it," Shea said.

Shea also said he is looking into reports of improper voter registration in the West Quincy area.

The recount, which will be done by hand, will cost the city about $1,000, Gillis said. If Shea files this week, Gillis said a recount will probably be conducted the last week of November or the first week of December.

The race to succeed James Sheets as Ward 4 Councillor lived up to its billing as the city's closest election last Tuesday. After the first and final Ward 4 precinct was reported, the final figure had Fabrizio with 2,326 votes to Shea's 2,204.

In particular, Shea said he is interested in the totals for Precincts 2 and 3 in Ward 4. On Election night, the Ward 4 Precinct 2 totals had to be counted a few times because it was fed an improper set-up card. Some 1,364 votes were cast in Ward 4 Precinct 3, more than any other precinct.

Overall, 4,799 votes were cast of which 269 were blanks. The totals by precinct in Ward 4 are:

- Precinct 1: Fabrizio 490; Shea, 473 and 57 blanks.
- Precinct 2: Fabrizio, 490; Shea 485; 48 blanks.
- Precinct 3: Fabrizio, 629; Shea 673; 62 blanks.
- Precinct 4: Fabrizio 270; Shea 272; 46 blanks.
- Precinct 5: Fabrizio, 434; Shea, 301; 56 blanks.

The last recount in Quincy was two years ago when councillor-at-large candidate Ronald Iacobucci did not win a seat. His recount bid failed.

Also, in the 1987 preliminary election, there was a recount between John Keenan and Kevin Burke in the Ward 5 councillor race. Keenan ended up edging Burke by one vote but was defeated by Charles Phelan in the final election.

2 Other Appointments

Sheets Names Koch Top Aide

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor-Elect James Sheets announces one key appointment to his administration and two appointments to his inaugural committee.

Thomas Koch of North Quincy, who served as Sheets' campaign manager, will be executive secretary. Koch will head up the transition team the next six to seven weeks and become the new executive secretary after Sheets is sworn in as the city's 31st mayor Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Long active in community affairs, Koch was appointed director of the Quincy Council on Aging in February, 1988. He is leaving that $26,000 annual post for executive secretary, a $39,000 a year position.

Commenting on his salary increase, Koch said, "I'm sure Jim will have me work for it."

In addition, Rhonda Merrill and Jackie Quirk will lead the inaugural committee.

Sheets said other appointments, including his choice for city solicitor, will be made in the next few weeks. In all, Sheets will appoint about 15 department heads to his administration.

Merrill, a long-time friend of Sheets who she first met as a work-study student at Quincy Junior College in 1973, is an administrative assistant to a food service company in Quincy. Sheets said she will not be taking a job within the administration since she prefers to stay in the private sector.

Quirk, who served as Sheets' administrative aide as councillor of Ward 4 since 1981, has worked on many issues in that area.

The swearing-in ceremony will be held Jan. 2 at 10 a.m. at the Quincy Vocational-Technical High gymnasium. Sheets said a reception place has not yet been determined.

THOMAS KOCH

Sheets spoke highly of all three appointees.

"Tom Koch comes from a family that has a long, life-time history of service and commitment to the City of Quincy. A family that's been a hardworking family, a dedicated family and an innovative and creative family."

"Tom Koch, like his brothers and sisters, his mother (Mrs. Simone Koch) and his dad (the late Richard J. Koch), has been working very hard many years for the City of Quincy," Sheets said.

About 40 years ago, the Koch family established the Koch Club. For more than four decades, the Koch Club has assisted needy citizens and youngsters in many charitable endeavors.

"I think Tom Koch is an excellent choice. He is energetic. He is creative. He can work with people. I think it's important for the executive secretary who is going to be dealing with the day to day issues to be someone who has experience dealing with people in the City of Quincy and who cares and who is sensitive as he approaches problems."

"I feel very fortunate to be able to have Tommy as my administrative secretary. I'm sure he'll do very well as my representative on the City Council."

"He has a good relationship with city councillors now and I'm sure that relationship will improve in the future."

Early News Deadline For Next Week's Sun

Because of Thanksgiving Day next week's issue of The Quincy Sun will be published one day earlier.

This will necessitate an early deadline for news, social, church and sports releases and advertising. News, social, church and sports releases should be in the Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq., by tomorrow (Friday) to assure publication in the Wednesday, Nov. 22 issue of The Sun.

Advertising deadline is noon, Monday, Nov. 20. Thank you for your cooperation.

Golden Receives First Founders Award From Save The Harbor Group

Senator William B. Golden (D-Weymouth) was recently presented the first Founders Award from Save the Harbor/Save the Bay during an organizational meeting held at the New England Aquarium.

The organization plans on making the award an annual presentation.

Golden was one of the founders of Save the Harbor/Save the Bay along with Judge Paul Garrity and Ian Menzies. The award recognizes Golden's long-standing commitment to a clean harbor and to clean water.

Golden, as city solicitor for Quincy, filed the original lawsuit to clean up Boston Harbor. This past year he was the chief Senate sponsor of the Massachusetts Clean Water Bill which authorized $1.4 billion in bonds to help communities pay for construction or upgrading of wastewater treatment plants.

In receiving the award, Golden called for new budget controls on the MWRA, the state created authority coordinating and carrying out the cleanup project.

He outlined legislation he filed this year which would give the MWRA's citizen advisory board control over the agency's budget. The advisory board, comprised of representatives of each town services by the MWRA, would have the power to veto part or all of the budget.

"Those that are paying for the harbor cleanup must have control over the purse strings. The citizens of Massachusetts deserve both clean water and cost efficient and effective government," Golden said.

Ken Coleman Quincy Christmas Parade Grand Marshal

This year's event, the 38th edition, will be held Sunday, Nov. 26 beginning at 12:30 p.m. This year's theme is "A Storybook Christmas."

Coleman, who was educated in Quincy schools and graduated from North Quincy High School, was unanimously chosen by the Festival Committee for his dedication and success in providing family sporting entertainment for millions of people spanning many decades.

"The Christmas Festival Committee" is extremely pleased that Mr. Coleman will participate as this year's Parade Grand Marshal. We look forward to honoring him," White said.

Coleman began his illustrious career while broadcasting high school football games on WJDA about 40 years ago. In 1950, he got his big broadcasting broke while doing the Weymouth-Brockton game at Weymouth's Legion Field.

He was "discovered" by Bill Cunningham, a columnist and sportswriter for The Boston Herald. On that fateful Saturday, Cunningham passed up the local college games to cover the Weymouth-Brockton contest.

Not only was it one of the best schoolboy games ever played (Weymouth won) but it also helped launch

Coleman's career.

For that game, Cunningham joined Coleman by doing some color work for Coleman's play-by-play. Once the game ended, Coleman's talent quickly spread with the help of Cunningham.

After the Weymouth-Brockton game, Coleman was offered a position at WNEB in Worcester. Two years later in 1952, he began broadcasting Cleveland Browns' football games and then Cleveland Indians' baseball games in 1954.

Coleman stayed in Cleveland until 1966 when he came to Boston. He broadcasted Red Sox games from 1966 to 1975. In 1978, he returned to the Fenway booth where he continued to be "The Voice of the Red Sox" until his retirement at the end of this past season.

Incidentally, last year's grand marshal was current Red Sox Manager Joe Morgan. Other past grand marshals include Gov. Michael Dukakis and his wife, Kitty; Bobby Orr, K.C. Jones, Luis Tiant and John "Jake" Comer.

Budget Woes Force MDC To Close 3 Reservations Here

Because of the state's budget crisis, the Metropolitan District Commission has been forced to close all its reservations and cancel all free programs at its reservations, parks and playgrounds.

The closings and cancellations, part of a $2.9 million reduction in the MDC's operation and maintenance budget, are effective now and will remain until further notice, MDC Public Information Officer Leanne Del Vecchio said Monday.

Originally, the MDC was planning to eliminate all free programs and close six parks. However, after further budget review, the agency decided it must close all 15 of its reservations.

Quincy reservations and programs affected are: Blue Hills Reservation, Wollaston Beach Reservation and the Quincy Quarries Historic Site.

Other reservations closing include: Beaver Brook in Belmont and Waltham, Belle Isle Marsh in East Boston, Castle Island in South Boston, Elm Bank in Dover, Georges Island in Boston Harbor and Lynn/Nahant Beach Reservations.

Del Vecchio said the reservations will still be accessible to the public. However, there will be no onsite management staff and limited park maintenance work.

"Since it's physically impossible to close the parks, people will be still able to use them but at their own risks," Del Vecchio said, adding, "people can expect the reservations not to look as good as they have."

Any gate parking lot to the reservations will now be rangers played host to more than 56,000 participants in public programs and led more than 12,000 school children through on-site educational activities. The agency's "Playgrounds in Motion" program served some 4,000 children.

As for the MDC's skating rinks, DelVecchio said all but two rinks are open. The rinks presently closed are in

Protest Rally Sunday At Shea Skating Rink

To protest the skating rink cuts, neighbors and local residents in Quincy will hold a rally Sunday at 1 p.m. outside Shea Rink on Willard St.

At least 30 people are expected to participate.

According to a spokesperson for the group, children and parents will rally because they are upset the rink is not open for public skating. The spokesperson said several parents have called the MDC and offered to volunteer as skate guards. The agency replied that they would consider the offer and get back to them, the spokesperson said.

However, the open rinks, including Shea Rink in West Quincy, can only be used when rented out. Although there is no public skating at the open rinks, DelVecchio said the MDC is trying to work out a plan to open them publicly on a regional basis.

"We simply don't have enough staff to have public skating at this time," she said.

DelVecchio noted the cuts are in place for the current fiscal year. If the budget situation improves, she said it is possible that some programs could be reinstated.

"If things improve, we can probably reopen some reservations but we have no idea of knowing that right now."

Parking Meters Proposed For Chestnut St.

The Quincy Traffic Commission was scheduled to meet Wednesday, Nov. 15 at 10 a.m. in the planning department conference room, City Hall annex, 1305 Hancock St. Quincy.

Items of the agenda were:

- Install parking meters on one side of Chestnut St. from Foster St. to Maple St. and remove no parking—two zone signs.

- Install four-way stop signs at the following intersections: Sunnyside and Wallace Rd., Stedman St. and Sunnyside Rd. and Ellis St. and Stedman St.

- Install stop signs facing east and west at the intersection of Verchild and Plymouth Sts. in the interest of public safety. Presently, signs are facing north and south.

- Remove the no parking—two zone signs near 200 Presidents Ln. and replace with signs indicating resident parking only.

- Install two-hour parking on Highland Ave. from Beale St. to Brook St.

- Resubmitted—install no parking anytime signs for 100 feet from the corner of Nichols St. and Dale Ave. on

- the westerly side of Dale Ave.
- Resubmitted—install either three-way stop sign at Wilston Ave. and Safford St. or four-way stop sign at Wilston Ave. and Highland Ave.

- Install no parking zone on Stevens St. running in a southerly direction from the intersection of Stevens St. and Pleasant St. for approximately 100 feet.

- Request from Captain Murphy, Quincy Police Department, night patrol, regarding no parking—handicapped at 30 Sullivan Rd.

Traffic Signals At Busy Wollaston Intersection Modified

Traffic signals at Hancock St. Elm Ave., and Wollaston Ave. have been modified to operate in a "stop and go" manner, rather than flashing signals, the city's department of Traffic and Parking announces.

The improvement is expected to make it easier and safer for residents of the side streets to enter Hancock St. and to reduce the number of accidents at the intersection.

Under the new operation, a green signal is displayed to Hancock St. traffic while Elm Ave. and Wollaston Ave. traffic have steady red signals.

The Hancock St. green phase is then followed by the pedestrian phase (when activated) and then green phases for Elm Ave. and Wollaston Ave. The control equipment will provide green phases for Elm Ave. and Wollaston Ave. only when activated by traffic on those streets.

The new control equipment was installed by City Traffic Signal Maintainers Herbert Driscoll and Robert DeCristofaro.

Additional improvements are planned for this intersection next spring, including additional signals and larger pedestrian signal heads for improved visibility.

For additional information, contact City Traffic Engineer David Kinnecome at 479-1212 ext. 347.

License Board Briefs

The Quincy License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a request from St. Ann's Marianns, Saint Ann's Parish, 585 Hancock St., for a one-day liquor license for Sunday, Dec. 31 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

- Continued for two weeks a request from Kin Ping Lee of Panda Garden Restaurant, for a common victualer license for 210 Washington St. The board continued the request to allow the Police Department to run a police check according to regular procedure.

- Placed on file a request from Blue Hills Towing Co., Inc. for a license to operate from 253 Centre St. Building Commissioner Mathias Mulvey, after an inspection of the building at the site, said the issue must be taken up with the Zoning Board of Appeals for a change of variance.

Golden Receives First Founders Award From Save The Harbor Group

Senator William B. Golden (D-Weymouth) was recently presented the first Founders Award from Save the Harbor/Save the Bay during an organizational meeting held at the New England Aquarium.

The organization plans on making the award an annual presentation.

Golden was one of the founders of Save the Harbor/Save the Bay along with Judge Paul Garrity and Ian Menzies. The award recognizes Golden's long-standing commitment to a clean harbor and to clean water.

Golden, as city solicitor for Quincy, filed the original lawsuit to clean up Boston Harbor. This past year he was the chief Senate sponsor of the Massachusetts Clean Water Bill which authorized $1.4 billion in bonds to help communities pay for construction or upgrading of wastewater treatment plants.

In receiving the award, Golden called for new budget controls on the MWRA, the state created authority coordinating and carrying out the cleanup project.

He outlined legislation he filed this year which would give the MWRA's citizen advisory board control over the agency's budget. The advisory board, comprised of representatives of each town services by the MWRA, would have the power to veto part or all of the budget.

"Those that are paying for the harbor cleanup must have control over the purse strings. The citizens of Massachusetts deserve both clean water and cost efficient and effective government," Golden said.

Ken Coleman Quincy Christmas Parade Grand Marshal

This year's event, the 38th edition, will be held Sunday, Nov. 26 beginning at 12:30 p.m. This year's theme is "A Storybook Christmas."

Coleman, who was educated in Quincy schools and graduated from North Quincy High School, was unanimously chosen by the Festival Committee for his dedication and success in providing family sporting entertainment for millions of people spanning many decades.

"The Christmas Festival Committee" is extremely pleased that Mr. Coleman will participate as this year's Parade Grand Marshal. We look forward to honoring him," White said.

Coleman began his illustrious career while broadcasting high school football games on WJDA about 40 years ago. In 1950, he got his big broadcasting break while doing the Weymouth-Brockton game at Weymouth's Legion Field.

He was "discovered" by Bill Cunningham, a columnist and sportswriter for The Boston Herald. On that fateful Saturday, Cunningham passed up the local college games to cover the Weymouth-Brockton contest.

Not only was it one of the best schoolboy games ever played (Weymouth won) but it also helped launch

Coleman's career.

For that game, Cunningham joined Coleman by doing some color work for Coleman's play-by-play. Once the game ended, Coleman's talent quickly spread with the help of Cunningham.

Program To Fight Gender Bias In Courts Formed

The Bar Association of Norfolk County, 15 Cottage Ave., Quincy, announces the first in the state program to fight gender bias in the Massachusetts court system.

In response to a Supreme Judicial Court Report on Gender Bias which found strong evidence of people being treated differently and unequally because of gender, a new committee of the bar association has been established.

The committee is being chaired by Attys. Loretta O'Brien and Norman Silk.

The Committee on Bias will initially seek to mediate private resolutions to perceptions of any kind of bias. The association will serve as a conduit of information to enable the state judicial administrative leadership to be informed of any egregiously offensive conduct.

The association, on behalf of its members, may also initiate official disciplinary action on significant allegations of repeated biased conduct by any judges, judicial personnel or members of the bar.

"Massachusetts has the nation's best lawyers and judges with a great court support staff. We will attack bias of any kind anywhere in our judicial system because it's an affront to our state principals, unprofessional and just despicable," said
Terry Flukes, president of the Bar Association of Norfolk County.

"The Bar Association of Norfolk County condemns all disparate treatment as indefensible and unacceptable and we will do whatever is required to totally eradicate it," Flukes added.

The bar association invites referrals to their offices at 15
Cottage St., Suite 206, Quincy, MA. 02169, to address bias initially through private dialogue and where appropriate to refer misconduct to the established disciplinary authorities.

you're ready to enjoy the "good life" - a giant step up from renting. But is your investment protected? Are you covered in the event of fire, theft, vandalism, lightning, or water damage? Are you protected against bodily injury, lawsuits, medical payments to guests, or damage to property of others? ... A Co-op Owners' Policy will provide all this protection and more.

It's important when shopping for such policy that other factors be taken into account, too. You need to feel confident that the insurance company you choose responds to problems with prompt service, fast attention to claims and an expertise which comes from experience in the co-op policy field. You should also choose an agent who is constantly alert to new methods of bettering the insurance protection offered. Such an agent is sensitive to both your changing needs and the changing times in which we live.

Who Will Be The 32nd?

In politics, today really isn't today. It's already tomorrow, next year or even later.

For example, James Sheets will become Quincy's 31st mayor when he raises his right hand and takes the oath of office from City Clerk John Gillis.

That will happen on Tuesday, Jan.

But on that day there will be some looking on and wondering who will be the mayor to come after him.

And the someone might be right there looking on, too. Or, taking an oath.

Observers are looking at last week's election results to see if they can spot a budding future mayoral candidate or mayor.

SHEETS

CAHILL

Tim Cahill would definitely have to be given consideration. Running for his second term, Cahill not only topped the city councillor at-large field, but was the top vote getter on the ballot.

He polled 17,825 votes. Veteran
Patricia Toland was second with 17,242 followed by third place winner, Michael Cheney with 13,825.

Cheney was making his first run at-large after serving as Ward 1 councillor.

Cahill in his short time at City Hall has emerged as a gutsy city councillor who is not afraid to speak out on issues and vote against a proposal even though it might cost him some votes.

Toland has said she is not interested in becoming Quincy's first woman mayor.

Cheney, however, is believed to have a long range interest in a mayoral bid somewhere down the road. His decision to vacate the Ward 1 seat and run for councillor at-large is seen as an indication that he is looking to the future along that line.

Steve McGrath, however, went the same route as Cahill and Cheney and couldn't make it to the mayor's office.

He gave up his Ward 5 seat to run at-large as Cheney did his Ward 1 seat this year. And he topped the at-large field two years ago as Cahill did this year. It looked like the opportune time this year for him to run for mayor when incumbent Francis McCauley decided not to seek re-election.

In fact, McGrath was considered by many as the front-runner but the picture changed quickly when businessman Peter O'Connell decided to enter the mayor's race. He took votes and siphoned off vital potential campaign funds from McGrath.

McGrath threw his support to Sheets after O'Connell won the second nomination.

Unfortunately for McGrath what looked like the ideal time for him to run for mayor, turned out not to be.

Looking ahead to future mayoral candidates and mayors, you might keep another name in mind: Ronald Mariano.

He burst like a new political star on Quincy's political scene last week topping the six candidate field for three four-year terms on the School Committee. Mariano, making his first run for office, polled an impressive 14,189 votes besting perennial first place finisher Mary Collins by 134 votes and incumbent Frank Santory who was third, by 1,268 votes.

MARIANO

MAYOR-ELECT James Sheets' announcement he was naming Tom Koch his executive secretary, shouldn't have surprised anyone. Koch, as campaign manager, played a key role in Sheets' victory helping to orchestrate the momentum for both the preliminary and final elections. Koch's father, the late Richard Koch, Sr. who was a political power in the city, must be smiling down from up there.

KOCH

YOU MAY BE seeing more of Susan Gallagher on the political scene in the future.

Making her first run, she did pretty well, polling 9,055 votes in the City Council at-large race.

The feeling is that she will be back.

GALLAGHER

FROM A FINANCIAL and campaigning standpoint, running for office unopposed isn't too hard to take. But it has its drawbacks, too. Like: blanks--the invisible opponent.

Unopposed candidates just seem to attract blanks.
Four ward councillors who were re-elected with opposition won their share of blanks to go along with victory.

Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien had 3,637 votes and picked up 1,641 blanks.

Ward 6's Tom Nutley had 3,080 votes and 1,555 blanks. Ward 2's Ted DeCristofaro got 3,181 votes against 1,553 blanks. And Ward 5's Charles Phelan had 3,549 votes to 1,362 blanks.

YOU'D HAVE to say that Denis Tardo, who finished fifth in the five-candidate field for City Council at-large took the results and his finish in stride.

"If this was golf," he mused after the votes were tabulated, "I would have won."

Readers Forum Disappointed In Election

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Well, the voters are in and the candidate I wanted to win didn't.

As a newcomer to Quincy I really shouldn't be surprised, but I am. I would have picked Quincy as a city that was pro-union. I stand corrected and disappointed. I believe that if the people of Quincy were really for the working people that they would have chosen the man endorsed by all the unions.

What I see is the election of a Reaganesque character-a "B" academic. I think Quincy is a city with a lot of potential.

It is going to take a toughness and a greater awareness of Massachusetts as a whole which O'Connell has, to keep

Quincy from going the way of the North Shore. I think the residents have made a grave mistake, and none that is divisive to the working people of Massachusetts.

Sheets Names Koch His Executive Secretary

Sheets, who noted Merrill directed some 2,000 people in his campaign as personnel director, said she "has a feel for people and for the kinds of decisions that have to be made as you prepare for such a thing as an inaugural."

As for Quirk, the mayor-elect said, "She has an innovative mind" which has helped her deal with issues and people in Ward 4 since 1981.

"She's very caring, very understanding" and "has a very keen understanding of organization and responsibility."

Sheets and McCauley were scheduled to meet Wednesday morning in the Mayor's Office to discuss the transition. In particular, they were to review and discuss items such as Quincy Hospital, the MWRA and the West Quincy landfill.

McCauley also informed Sheets about the two boards the new mayor is required to serve: the MBTA and Norfolk County advisory boards.

"We're going to try to update him as best we can. These are some of the things we'll be talking about," McCauley said, adding the city's budget will be discussed within a week.

"The overriding problem is finances and it's not like we're the only municipality with this problem. We'll be getting an update on the balance of fiscal year 1990 thus far soon and look ahead to 1991," McCauley said.

The city faces a projected deficit of $10 million next year. Commenting on the exact shortfall number, McCauley said, "These numbers keep going up and down. We're in the vicinity of ($10 million)."

As for assisting the transition between the two administrations, McCauley said, "We stand ready to help him any way we can. Hopefully, this material will be helpful to formulating some standards in his administration."

Big Toot At Victory Plant

The biggest whistle in any shipyard in the world, five feet tall and weighing 200 pounds, was installed in the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s new Victory Plant in Squantum.

The whistle, which took 125 pounds of steam to blow at full force, was to act as a fire signal for the "Victory Village Fire Department" of 40 men under chief Michael J. Nolan.

"At present," said a Victory Plant spokesman, "the whistle is being fed a diet of 80 pounds of steam in order to avoid rattling the tea cups from the pantry shelves in Quincy, Neponset and Dorchester."

WEBSTER SCHOOL DEDICATED

City Councillor Thomas Griffin presided at dedication ceremonies for the Daniel Webster School, under the auspices of the Washington-Daniel Webster PTA.

Mayor Joseph L. Whiton explained that the abnormally large $60,000 rise in the school budget was due primarily to the $140,000 cost of building the school and the $25,000 a year it would take to run it.

Thomas B. Pollard, principal of the school, told those attending the ceremonies that the new building would accommodate 600 pupils in 15 of its 16 rooms.

Donnelly Bill Giving Posthumous Citizenship To Non-U.S. Vets Advances

With support promised by the Bush Administration, a bill introduced by U.S. Rep. Brian Donnelly (D-Mass) which grants posthumous citizenship to non-U.S. citizens who served in the armed services and were killed in the line of duty has passed the Immigration Subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

"This is straightforward legislation," Donnelly told members of the subcommittee during a hearing on the legislation. "As a policy, Congress should say that any individual that gave their life in defense of this nation died as an American citizen."

In 1984, Donnelly authored a private relief bill for an individual from Brockton, MA, in his Congressional district, who was killed in the Vietnam War. Marine Corps Corporal Wladyslaw Stanislawski, a resident alien from Great Britain, was killed July 7, 1967 while serving on active duty.

When President Reagan signed the bill on October 15, 1984, he said that he supported a generic rule in U.S. immigration laws which would apply to all non-citizen nationals who died as a result of serving in the armed forces.

Donnelly's bill follows the Reagan proposal which provides that any non-citizen he said that he supported a generic rule in U.S. immigration laws which would apply to all non-citizen nationals who died as a result of serving in the armed forces.

Donnelly's bill follows the Reagan proposal which provides that any non-citizen national of the U.S. who served honorably as a member of the armed forces during World War I or II, the Korean War, or the Vietnam War, and died as a result of that service, is deemed to be a U.S. citizen at the time of their death.

The request for such a declaration would be made by the deceased family or an authorized representative, Donnelly said. "This bill is a simple statement of policy that these brave individuals were, in every sense of the word, American citizens," Donnelly said.

Currently, a bipartisan group of 49 House members have co-sponsored the Donnelly proposal which is now before the full House Judiciary Committee for consideration. It is expected to be reported by the full House in December.

A spokesman from the Immigration and Naturalization Service, testifying at the subcommittee hearing, said the Bush Administration supports enactment of the legislation.

Nov. 27 Deadline For Two Teacher Awards

A seven-member selection panel representing teachers, administrators, parents, and students will select two Christa McAuliffe Fellows and the 1990-91 Massachusetts Teacher of the Year.

The application process for both programs has been merged because both require applicants to have similar qualifications and skills. Nov. 27 at 5 p.m. is the deadline to submit applications.

For more information, write Bureau of Curriculum, Instruction and Technologies, 1385 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169, or phone 770-7610.

The federally funded Christa McAuliffe Fellowship Program helps teachers continue their education or develop educational programs. Fellowships of approximately $15,000 each will be awarded to two Massachusetts teachers.

The Teacher of the Year program honors a teacher who exemplifies fine teaching in Massachusetts. Sponsors are the Massachusetts Department of Education, Council of Chief State School Officers, Encyclopedia Britannica and Good Housekeeping magazine.

Thanksgiving Services At Houghs Neck Congregational

Thanksgiving worship services will be held Sunday, Nov. 19, at 9 and 10:30 a.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Children from the Church School dressed as Pilgrims will sing "Their Song of Praise" as the Introit, while the Early Childhood Department will sing, "You're

A Great Big God." The sermon will be by the Rev. M. Alicia Corea, while Peter Johnston will be organist at the 9 a.m. worship. A coffee hour will follow.

"Alleluia" will be sung by the Intermediate and Middle High students at the 10:30 a.m. worship, and the choir will sing Thanksgiving anthems directed by Arden Schofield, organist and choir director. The Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea will speak.

Canned food for the Protestant Social Service Bureau may be placed in baskets at the church entrance.

Both services are to be videotaped.

Vo-Tech Classroom Open To Public For Luncheons

The restaurant at Quincy Vocational Technical School, a classroom for students majoring in the food industry, has a new decor and is open to the public for luncheons Tuesday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

A gourmet menu offers a wide assortment of hot and cold food including low calorie meals. Prices are moderate, and Salvatore Serrecchia, the Culinary Chef says the support of the public is very necessary to the teaching environment.

"This restaurant is actually a classroom where we teach all four grades at the secondary level how to interface with patrons, how to take orders and serve food," he explained.

One section of the dining room has been converted to a small bakery which features fresh bread, danish, cakes and fancy pastry. All products are made by students and all are on sale during the hours the restaurant is operating.

While reservations are suggested, they are not necessary. The school is located on Woodward Ave., Quincy Center.

Red Cross Nurse Assistant Course

The American Red Cross south area, 15 Front St., Weymouth, will offer a nurse assistant course Nov. 27 through Dec. 14 for a total of 85 hours. The course will prepare successful graduates to work in long-term care facilities. It meets federal and state guidelines.

Cost is $290.

Quincy Company Receives Honorable Mention In Smoke-Free Society Campaign

Thomson & Thomson, a trademark research company in Quincy, was given an honorable mention in the Smoke-Free Society campaign sponsored by the Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital.

Codman & Shurtleff, Inc. a surgical products subsidiary of the Johnson and Johnson Company based in Randolph, received the second annual Overhold Award for a Smoke-Free Society.

The award was presented to representatives from each company at a "Kids Against Smoking" campaign event hosted and sponsored by MRH.

Each year the award is given by the hospital to the business or organization that has made an outstanding contribution toward the goal of a smoke-free society of helping its employees or customers become better informed about the dangers of smoking.

The award is in honor of Dr. Richard H. Overholt, 87, who has been a non-smoking advocate since the 1930s when he first recognized the link between smoking and lung disease while performing chest surgery on patients at MRH. He has also been a long standing member of the hospital's Board of Trustees.

WREATH AT DEDICATION OF George W. Morton Square is placed by Commander Raymond LaRue of Houghs Neck Legion Post who "adopted" the traffic island. Watching is 12-year-old James Barnhill, son of deceased Navy veteran James Barnhill, Sr., who assisted LaRue.

George Morton Sq. Dedicated In Houghs Neck

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

The George W. Morton Square, a traffic island at Sea and Bird Sts., "adopted" by Houghs Neck Legion Post was dedicated Saturday, Veterans Day.

Commander Raymond LaRue placed a wreath at the site. He was assisted by 12 year old James Barnhill, son of the late James Barnhill, Sr., a veteran who died this year, and who, like Morton, was a U.S. Navy veteran.

A summary of Morton's six years in the Navy during the Civil War was read by Richard Wainwright, and a booklet on his life was presented to the Post.

A color guard accompanying the delegation of some 25 members and friends included past commander John Christensen, Dan Shields, Al Lamonica and Bob Dolan with Robert Miller as sergeant-at-arms. Past Commanders Carl Barnhill and William Morrill also took part.

The George W. Morton traffic island, opposite the Post

Home at 1116 Sea St., was "adopted" June 1, and its upkeep is provided by Legion members.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer

Bad News And Good News

The Bad News

- About 40 million crimes are committed each year.
- Most crimes are property crimes - burglary, purse snatching, pocket picking and other thefts.
- In more than one-third of household breaks, the burglar entered without force - usually through an unlocked door, or by using a key.
- Violent crimes - rape, robbery, assault and murder - make up 15% of the total crime picture.
- An estimated one million children are reported abused or neglected each year and between 2,000 and 5,000 of them die.

The good news ...

- Citizens watching out for crime and reporting it to law enforcement have really made inroads against burglary in many communities. Waynesboro, Virginia logged a 44% decrease. Neighborhood Watch households in Seattle, Washington reported a 24% decline. And Jackson Mississippi Neighborhood Watch groups helped bring residential burglaries down a whopping 66%.
- Fort Polk Louisiana went all out for Crime Prevention on their base, and that helped cut violent crimes by more than one-third and property crimes by 42% in a two year period.
- The Edgewater Community in Chicago was the most arson-prone district in the city. Until they organized to fight arson, that is. Since their program got underway their neighborhood hasn't experienced a major fire or any further loss of life.
- Reporting crime right away really helps police find the crooks. Take assault - police were able to make arrests in nearly 60% of all reported cases in 1982.

Don't be a statistic:

If you have been following the "Hot Spots" column you have seen that there are between 10 and 12 house breaks each week in Quincy. If you join Neighborhood Watch you will learn how to prevent becoming the next victim of a house break. Some of the subjects covered in Neighborhood Watch are ...

- How to work with your police department.
- How to best secure your home.
- How to protect your valuables.
- Self protection.
- Any specific neighborhood concerns.

Don't wait, fill out the coupon below and mail it today.

QHS-Vo Tech Prepare For Evaluation

Quincy High and Quincy Vocational-Technical Schools are continuing self-study work in preparation for a March, 1990 visitation by representatives of the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

At that time the schools will be evaluated, and will be candidates for continued accreditation.

A Steering Committee of faculty and administrators has been overseeing the effort since the spring of 1988. Last year, learning areas were self-evaluated. This year all working areas of the school, including staff, students, offices and facilities, are being analyzed. Work is accomplished on release days set aside by the School Committee, and on special days named especially for this purpose.

This self-evaluation is leading Quincy High School and Quincy Voc-Tech School to become more aware of its strengths and where where improvement is needed.

High School Students Cooking, Serving Dinner At Father Bill's Place

Students from the three Quincy High Schools are volunteering to cook and serve a dinner for the homeless at Father Bill's Place every Friday evening.

William Billikas, a culinary instructor at Quincy Vocational Technical School, said the involvement is a continuation of what occurred last year, when his students prepared food at the school and brought it to the shelter.

The participation of students in the Jefferson Forum a non-profit youth volunteer organization, has promoted community involvement, says Billikas. He and Martha Turner, one of the forum coordinators in Quincy Schools, will attend a conference in mid-November at the Kennedy Library and will discuss with other coordinators and students the progress and pitfalls of volunteer programs.

Both educators report that students in Quincy are eager to give their time, energy and expertise.

"We have enormous untapped resources here, and we need to find ways of utilizing it," said Billikas.

Compact Disc Can Store Information

The compact disc usually thought of as a source of high quality music, can also be used to store information. When used with a computer it becomes a powerful research tool. One disk can easily store a thirty volume set of encyclopedias.

William Piche, Head Media Specialist at Quincy High School and Quincy

Technical School, and Arthur C. Gillis, Director of Library, Media & Computer Services for the Quincy Public Schools, investigated the potential uses of the disks and were impressed.

The William A. Bradford Library, which serves Quincy High and Quincy Vocational Technical School, has the new technology.

Piche says the library subscribes to "Magazine Article Summaries" which is produced by the EBSCO Company. Using a single disk a student or teacher can search all issues of over two hundred magazine titles, going back five years, in minutes. Each month an updated disk is issued.

The search procedure is simple: a patron types in a topic or keyword(s) and the computer reports the number of articles available. The computer then lists all of the articles and bibliographic information.

If a particular article seems useful a summary of it can be called to the screen and then printed.

Piche and Gillis say the advantages are faster, more thorough research, and students learn to use the technology of the future.

Thomas Leonard Recognized For Academic Achievement

Thomas E. Leonard, 55 Feno St., Wollaston, was recognized recently at Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston for academic achievement during the past year.

Siciliano Coordinating Letter Volunteer Protection Campaign

Civil Defense Deputy Director Tony Siciliano is coordinating a local letter writing campaign to promote support of the Volunteer Protection Act.

Letters can be addressed to either President George Bush, 1600 Pennsylvania Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C., 20500 or Senator Edward "Ted" Kennedy, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20510.

The Bush administration is currently evaluating the volunteer liability issue and is expected to produce a policy position later this fall. Siciliano said letters to President Bush in support of the legislation are urgently needed.

The Senate is expected to consider the National and Community Service Act of 1989 later this fall. It is possible that the issue of volunteer liability standards will be raised during debate on this measure.

On Monday, Siciliano wrote to President Bush and sent him a videotape of the state's relief effort for the victims of Hurricane Hugo. A few weeks ago, some 40 tons of supplies were palletized and shipped to residents of Puerto Rico.

Siciliano helped coordinate shipment of the supplies. He also spearheaded the Quincy relief effort for hurricane victims in Charleston, South Carolina. More than three tons of non-perishable food, several chain saws and a check for $1,000 were sent to victims in that devastated area.

In his letter to the president, Siciliano said the state's relief effort represents what volunteerism is all about: "State and local government, working along with private industry and citizen volunteers for the good of humanity."

He also wrote, "The volunteers across America are pleading with you to support HR 911 and 2520 and hope that you will find it in your heart to approve passage to protect the volunteers who give of themselves with no questions asked. The issue of volunteer liability must be addressed if your 'thousand points of light,' vision is to become reality.

"Despite widespread national support and over 200 House co-sponsors, this legislation has been held up in Congress. Your support for the legislation will help prompt Congress to act on this issue," Siciliano said.

The Volunteer Protection Act would encourage states to pass balanced, consistent and comprehensive laws on volunteer liability standards.

Referring to the state's relief program, Siciliano said the volunteers "were the people who palletized the supplies for Puerto Rico for hours on end, no questions asked, no monetary reimbursement."

"Their one objective, to help their fellow man; their resource,dedication."

"We service what we sell"

John J. Tropea, 69

Retired Postal Clerk

A funeral Mass for John J. "Tubby" Tropea, 69, of Quincy, a retired postal clerk and Navy veteran of World War II, was held Nov. 10 at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point. Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Tropea, who died Nov. 7, was returning home from Quincy Hospital where he had undergone treatment for a longtime leg problem when he had suffered a heart attack and a stroke.

He worked at the South Boston Postal Annex for 30 years before retiring in 1984. For many years he worked the third shift at the post office and then went on duty for the first shift at the Fore River shipyard, where he worked as an electrician for Bethlehem Steel Co. and General Dynamics for a total of 26 years.

Mr. Tropea managed a Quincy Point tavern for some years in his younger days.

He served aboard the U.S.S. Charles J. Kimmel in the Pacific during World War

II. He had attended a Navy Training program in Purdue University in Indiana and while there coached a basketball team made up of his fellow sailors.

Mr. Tropea was a member of the Disabled American Veterans in Boston.

He is survived by his wife, Kathryn E. (Loberg) Tropea; two sons, Michael A. Tropea and John S. Tropea, both of Quincy, a stepson, William Stevenson of Indiana; a stepdaughter, Kathleen Colburn of Whitman; a brother, Francis Tropea of South Weymouth; three sisters, Marion Marani, Louise Tropea and Elaine McGlauffin, all of South Weymouth; five grandchildren and many nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Donations may be made to St. Josephs Building Fund, 550 Washington St., Quincy, 02169.

Alba Iacovelli

Retired Waitress

A funeral Mass will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at St. John's Church for Alba (Volpe) Iacovelli, of Quincy, who died Nov. 13 at Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a brief illness. Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Iacovelli, a retired waitress at Dunkin Donuts on Southern Artery, was a waitress also at the former Frank's Deli and the executive dining room of South Shore National Bank, both in Quincy Sq.

She was a member of St. John's Senior Citizens.

Mrs. Iacovelli was born in Plymouth and lived in Quincy most of her life.

Wife of the late John Iacovelli, she is survived by a son, S. John Iacovelli of Quincy; three daughters,

Esther Haley

Retired Secretary

A private funeral service was held Tuesday for Esther M. Haley, 87, of Quincy, who died Nov. 11 at the Elihu White Nursing Home in Braintree after a long illness. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Miss Haley was born in Newton and lived most of her life in Quincy. She was a retired secretary for Bethlehem Steel.

Daughter of the late David A. and Mary J. (MacDonick) Haley, she is survived by a sister, Alice G. Haley of Quincy; a niece and nephew, Philip W. Haley and Natalie H. McDonald, both of Quincy; and nine grand nephews and grand nieces, Brad Haley of Cincinnati, David Haley of Orlando, Fla., James Haley of Wareham, Joy Mulcahy, Adrienne Mulcahy and Katherine Mulcahy, all of South Weymouth, Elaine McDonald of New York City and Margaret DeOrio of Peabody; and many great-grandnephews and great-grandnieces.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Herbert W. Johnston, 76

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

A Moving Experience

If yours is the one out of five American households expected to move this year, there's something you ought to know, say the experts at the American Movers Conference, the industry's trade association. Spring and summer are the busiest time of year for moving companies and those who wish to move then may find making arrangements in advance is a way to avoid finding space scarce in moving vans.

According to Charles C. Irons, president of the Conference, there were times in 1988 some companies had to turn away business because they ran out of vans.

"An additional problem that could affect consumers this year may be moving vans idled by a worsening driver shortage," Irons adds. "This condition is becoming noticeable as a result of fewer young men going

$38 Million In 8.45% Mortgages Available To Qualified Residents

The Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency, in cooperation with the Executive Office of Communities and Development, is making available approximately $38 million in 8.45 percent mortgages to help qualified Baystate residents buy or rehabilitate their first homes.

The announcement was made by Rep. Michael Morrissey (D-Quincy), chairman of the Public Safety Committee.

The low rate is fixed for 30 years. The money is expected to benefit more than 400 households. Of the funds, about 28 million is reserved for MHFA's general lending program.

Morrissey notes that for the first 90 days of the program, 50 percent of the funds will be set aside for "priority borrowers" who are Vietnam era veterans, low-income, minority or physically disabled people.

The balance of the general lending funds is available on a first-come, first-served basis to borrowers who meet the agency's general eligibility guidelines including income, credit and home acquisition cost requirements.

Another $6 million is reserved for the Neighborhood Rehabilitation program while $4 million is reserved for the New Construction program.

"Since 1979, through the use of this federal program, MHFA has funded mortgages for more than 20,000 low and moderate-income households across the state," Morrissey said. "I encourage all qualified first-time homebuyers to take advantage of this important resource."

To apply for any of the mortgage funds, borrowers must have an executed purchase and sales agreement or an accepted offer to purchase agreement on an eligible property.

Additional mortgage funds are available for qualified borrowers looking to purchase a unit through the state's Homeownership Opportunity Program which is jointly administered with EOC and the state housing partnership.

HOP provides low-interest mortgages (as low as five and one-half percent for the initial years of the mortgage) and homes priced well below market rates.

Targeted to lower-income buyers, HOP has been successful in reaching families with an average income of $27,000. This compares with the $33,000 income of homebuyers benefitting from MHFA's other home mortgage programs.

These averages present a striking contrast to the $74,000 income needed to support a median priced home in the Boston metropolitan area today.

For brochures about the agency's various programs consumers should call MHFA's office of Single Family Programs at (617) 541-2766.

Also available to the public is an 8.45 percent mortgage booklet which lists certifying agencies and builders participating in the Neighborhood Rehabilitation and New Construction programs along with a list of participating lenders.

In addition, upon request, consumers will receive a "How To Buy a Home Guide" describing the homebuying process.

MAYOR FRANCIS MCCAULEY welcomes guests to the City of Quincy's Veterans' Day ceremonies held Saturday at the Doughboy Statue in front of the Quincy Historical Society. McCauley will be leaving office in January.

QUINCY FIRE CHIEF Paul O'Connell, a decorated Vietnam veteran was the keynote speaker at the city's Veterans' Day ceremonies Saturday. In his inspiring speech, O'Connell said veterans are the backbone of our society.

O'Connell Keynote Speaker

'Veterans Are The Backbone Of Society'

Veterans are the backbone of our society and they should always be supported. Fire Chief Paul O'Connell told observers at the city's Veterans' Day ceremonies Saturday outside the Adams Academy.

Speaking before approximately 200 veterans, city officials and other citizens, O'Connell, a decorated Vietnam veteran, said, "If this nation ever has to go to war again and whether it's right or wrong, support the veteran, support the warrior."

O'Connell, who served as a squad leader with Mike Company, Third Battalion, Fifth Marines, First Marine Division during the Vietnam War, was the keynote speaker in observance of the 71st anniversary of the end of World War I.

His address was the highlight of Quincy's Veterans' Day exercises which included a parade through Quincy Center. The parade and ceremony were sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Day Council.

In particular, O'Connell said society should support Vietnam veterans because like other veterans, they were simply following orders.

"I think it's harder to stop and pause to remember if one is not a veteran. To think about what a veteran is and I know today what a veteran is," O'Connell said, pointing to the World War I Doughboy Statue on the lawn of the Adams Academy.

"I know that's a World War I statue but that statue could be for any veteran, regardless of what the outcome of that war was."

O'Connell explained that during the Vietnam War era, "We were mad about the war and we got mad at the warrior and he wasn't to blame. He did what he was told."

"That statue represents that to me. That that veteran there did what he was told, whether it was right or wrong, whatever the outcome."

Twenty years later, O'Connell said efforts waged by Vietnam veterans are finally being realized. He noted the recent opening of the Berlin Wall by East Germany as an example of democratic reform in what once was a strict communist culture.

O'Connell, who enlisted as a Marine when he was 17, said Vietnam gave him an education.

"I learned that I wanted to be home. I found combat very hard. It was not what Life Magazine had made it look like before I went into service," he said.

During his two years of service, O'Connell participated in six major combat operations. Wounded in action in March, 1969, he received the Navy Achievement Medal for leadership displayed when his unit's defensive position came under attack during a propelled grenade attack from a North Vietnamese Army Force.

Ignoring the hostile rounds impacting near him, Corp. O'Connell fearlessly maneuvered from one defensive position to another distributing ammunition and rendering first aid to the wounded Marines.

In December, 1970, at the age of 19, he was honorably discharged. Arriving back to Quincy, he was confused.

"When I came home, people were driving around with their headlights on calling for a moratorium (on the war). It was very confusing to me. Yet, I wanted the war to end just like everybody else and I thought, the war could end just like that, come home and it was over."

"And I wanted to blend in so badly with kids my age and I found myself driving around the city of Quincy with my headlights on."

O'Connell also remembered the men he knew who were killed in action.

"I think about moments of silence and I know that this holiday has to do with a moment of silence." He then listed the hometowns of his fallen comrades, adding he hoped there were solemn moments for them at those locales.

"I know that in 1969, (the towns) welcomed home, sadly, caskets (with) bodies of Marines that I served with. And I do know and I do have the faith and trust that across this great nation right now there's a ceremony going on just like this and somewhere else in this nation there is a ceremony going on and somebody is thinking about somebody they served with from Quincy, Mass."

O'Connell also said his Vietnam experience gives him a different perspective of the world around him.

"Vietnam kind of puts life into a different perspective than what somebody else may see. I have concerns sometimes that those who fought for peace may not be able to participate in it because they're haunted by the past, the devastation of war."

"I'm thrilled to be able to say 20 years later I'm alive and back in Quincy. It's a good feeling to feel that maybe I did fight for something and those who have died in combat their lives were not needlessly lost."

"Veterans today, I think, are the backbone of this country still. I know that within my own job with the Fire Department there are many veterans and they are the backbone of the department and public service."

"They know what it is to have continued dedication. They know where they fit. They've been left a chain of command. They are able to follow that order. They are able to muster courage," he said.

O'Connell, who said he was honored to be the keynote speaker, ended his speech with this thought:

"Remember that inside every veteran really is a Veterans' Day every day and that there are many moments of silence and to help him during these long, drawn out moments."

Thanksgiving Celebration Sunday At Bethany Church

The Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, will gather for a Thanksgiving Celebration Sunday, Nov. 19 at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

Individuals and families in the community are welcome to come and share in this worship service. The usual early Chapel service will not be held.

The altar and chancel will be decorated with fruits and vegetables, flowers, corn stalks and pumpkins, arranged by Lisa and John Andre, and Sylvia and Bruce Byorkman.

Those attending the worship service are requested to bring along a food offering. Canned goods, dried and packaged items, in family and smaller sizes, would be most useful. All the food will go to the Protestant Social Service Bureau's "Pantry Shelf" to be distributed to families and individuals in need.

The children of the Church

School will attend the first portion of the service bringing their food gifts to the altar during the worship. Later, the children will go to their class rooms for half hour classes. Child care is also provided for babies and toddlers.

The Children's Choir, under the direction of Marsha Archer, will sing the traditional English song, "All Things Bright and Beautiful."

The Chancel Choir, under the direction of organist, Charles J. Blue, Sr., will sing Felix Mendelssohn's cantata "Hear My Prayer," part one, as the offertory, and part two as the anthem. Soprano Brenda Bonoli, will be guest soloist for the cantata selections.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon "Thank God For God." Lay scripture reader will be Richard E. Briggs.

An excerpt from Gov. William Bradford's journal entitled "Thanksgiving 1623" will be read by Harry F. Massey, Jr., moderator of the congregation. The associate minister, Rev. Elizabeth M. Upton, will serve as the liturgist and lead the responsive Thanksgiving litany.

Members and friends will bring their 1990 Pledge Cards of support for Bethany Church to the worship service, during which they will be gathered, laid on the altar, and dedicated as a "Thank Offering."

The Thanksgiving Celebration will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 o'clock over South Shore radio, WJDA, 1300 kc.

A fellowship time with light refreshments will take place in the Allen Parlor immediately following the worship.

For additional information concerning Bethany's programs and ministries, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

26 Nationalities Expected At Wollaston Lutheran Supper

Twenty-six different nationalities are expected at a supper for students of English language classes and their families at Wollaston Lutheran Church on Monday, Nov. 20, at 6:30 p.m.

Invited guests will be Mayor Francis McCauley, Mayor-elect James Sheets, Dist. Atty. William Delahunt and others particularly interested in the language classes for adults conducted by the Urbanistics Human Services Foundation.

The students' families will provide food for the meal.

There will be a presentation ceremony at 7 p.m.

More information is available from Stanley Nichol, Urbanistics Director.

Thanksgiving Sunday At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., both co-pastors, Rev. Kathleen Graves and Rev. Kirk Johnson will speak.

It will be a family service with a childrens sermon.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin as usual at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, a nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Peggy Wynne.

The choir will be directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, and will sing Psalm 81, which was sung by the Pilgrims and brought over on the Mayflower, "Now Thank We All Our God" by Bach and "Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem" by Maunder.

Immediately following the service, coffee will be served by Anna and Bob Day in the fellowship hall downstairs.

That evening, at 5 p.m., everyone in the church will gather to celebrate Thanksgiving with a turkey dinner. Turkey will be provided by the church, prepared by Pastor Kirk, and each family is asked to bring some of the trimmings and a pie.

Following dinner, everyone will meet upstairs in the sanctuary for a special Thanksgiving worship service.

The special Thanksgiving offering, as requested by the Trustee Board in a letter of appeal, will be received at this service. After the service, pie and coffee will be served.

Activities for the week: Thursday, 7 p.m. the Trustees will meet at the church and Saturday 8 a.m. there will be the monthly Mens Prayer Breakfast.

Coming events include the weekly Bible study on Tuesdays at 7:30 at the Day's, weekly prayer meetings at the church at 6:30 p.m., choir rehearsals Wednesdays at 7 p.m. and a Pastoral Relations Committee meeting at 8:15 p.m. on Wednesday Nov. 29 at the parsonage.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

'Day Of The Lord' Wollaston Congregational Topic

"The Day of the Lord" will be the sermon by the Rev. Elden Zuern Sunday, at 10 a.m., at Wollaston Congregational Church.

Bible readings will be by Erik Olson. Mr. and Mrs.

Charles Todd will be greeters, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pinel will usher, and Jason Tower will be acolyte.

A coffee hour follows the worship service. All are welcome.

Four members of the church were elected Deacons Emeritus. They are Donald Dixon, Rudi and Jessie Lofgren and Marjorie Murch.

Prayer Service At St. Joseph's Nov. 20

The Spiritual Development Committee of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, will hold their second monthly prayer service Monday, Nov. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the church. This month's speaker is Deacon John Mannion. He was ordained in 1986 and is presently stationed at MCI-Cedar Junction.

The theme of his talk is "Making Christian Choices." Anyone needing transportation to church may call the rectory and arrangements will be made. Refreshments will be served immediately following the service.

All are welcome. The committee is preparing for its Church Wide Mission which will be held in March, 1990.

This Sunday will be Thanksgiving Sunday at United First Parish Church, Quincy Center.

Children will enter the church in procession at the beginning of the 10:30 a.m. service bringing fresh vegetables to the communion table, as the congregation sings "Come, Ye Thankful People." The vegetables will be given to DOVE, the Quincy home for battered women.

The children and youth will bake loaves of homemade bread, downstairs in the kitchen during the service, which they will give to the adults at the close of the service. Adults will also be bringing non-perishable foods for the Protestant Social Service Bureau.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Let Us Sing of Harvest-Home."

The Church Choir, under the direction of Norman Corey, will sing anthems by Willan and Butler, and Corey will play organ works by Bach, Peeters, and Buxtehude.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to attend the social hour in the Parish Hall following worship. Julie Dzengeleski and Dede Doherty will host the social hour. Cynthia Kyler will be greeter.

On Saturday, Nov. 18, the church will hold its annual Christmas in November Fair, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. There will be collectibles, crafts, baked goods, decorations, gifts, a raffle and luncheon.

This year is the 350th anniversary of historic First Parish Church. Founded in 1639 and Unitarian since 1750, the First Parish continues today as a leader in liberal religion.

There is a church school for children and youth, and child care is provided.

The church is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Call 773-1290 for information.

Thanksgiving Service At Christian Science Church

A Thanksgiving Service for the community will be held at First Church of Christ, Scientist at 20 Greenleaf St. on Thursday, Nov. 23, at 10:30 a.m. Nursery care for children too young to attend will be available.

Family as an important part of one's life will be emphasized as friends and neighbors give special gratitude not only for their own loved ones but for the family of mankind.

Bible readings for this year's Thanksgiving service will include a passage from Isaiah: "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you."

Slow Start But Raiders Roll By Medford

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team survived a nightmarish first half, regrouped and came back to defeat Medford, 21-0, last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Raiders are 6-3, the same as last year at this time and will go into the Thanksgiving game with five wins in six games.

Medford, with only one victory, dominated the first half as it rushed for 175 yards on a series of sweeps by Ed Carnes and Scott Tropeano and held North Quincy to 58 yards.

However, the Mustangs fumbled the ball away five times, twice in North territory in the first half.

Things changed in the second half as North held Medford to 32 yards rushing and sophomore Desmond Bellot proved the sparkplug as the Raiders rushed for 127 yards.

Bellot, an exciting young player who is improving every week, gave North what it needed as he ran the second half kickoff all the way from his own 20 to Medford's 25. North scored on the second play and later Bellot caught two touchdown passes to ice the win.

"We just couldn't stop their sweeps in the first half," said coach Ken McPhee. "The kids were trying to improvise and it wasn't working. We were fortunate to get out of the half with a scoreless tie, but we forced those fumbles with some hard hitting."

"We made some adjustments at the half and Bellot proved to be the spark for us. He is an exciting kid and is going to be a great one. He pulled us through today and had an outstanding game both on offense and defense."

"Dan Gilmartin had another fine game (24 carries for 128 yards) and Dave Kiley also ran well (42 yards including a 24-yard touchdown run). And Jimmy Bryan played another excellent game at quarterback. Chris Deshler did some fine punting."

McPhee lauded Evan Kiley, who played an outstanding game although playing hurt, and Keith Gott, who was superb defensively, forcing three fumbles and having numerous tackles.

North rushed for 182 yards and Medford 202, 175 of them in the first half. Bryan was four for 12 for 58 yards and two touchdowns and Medford's Dave Dussault was four for 11, also for 58 yards. North had 18 first downs to 14 for Medford.

Medford received to open the game but on the third play fumbled and North's Alex Malasi recovered on the Raider 40.

North couldn't move and Medford, on its nitchouts and end sweeps, held the ball for most of the half.

The Mustangs drove to North's 20 but fumbled on the second play of the second quarter and Gott recovered on the Raider 16.

There was no scoring in the half but Medford continued to control the ball until the intermission.

Bellot got North started in the second half with his long kickoff return and on the second play Dave Kiley went up the middle for 24 yards and the touchdown. Chris Deshler kicked the extra point.

The third Medford fumble was recovered by North's Mike Doherty on the Raider 36 from where North marched to its second touchdown.

The Raiders picked up four first downs and Bryan found Bellot all alone in the endzone and hit him with a 21-yard scoring pass. Deshler again kicked the extra point.

Early in the fourth quarter North lost the ball on a fumble but Medford immediately fumbled back and Mike Iacobacci recovered on Medford's 15-yard line.

It took only one play as Bryan passed to Bellot in the flat and he went the 15 yards for the score. Deshler kicked his third extra point. "Bellot called that play himself," McPhee said.

Medford fumbled once more and Doherty recovered for the second time on Medford's 44.

Manets, Apaches In Title Showdown Sunday

It's the Houghs Neck Manets versus the North Quincy Apaches Sunday at 1 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium for all the marbles.

The unbeaten and unscored upon Manets will defend their title against regular season runner-up North Quincy.

The Apaches tuned up by downing the Quincy Point Panthers, 26-8, in the regular season finale for both clubs. The Manets closed out their second straight undefeated campaign with a 22-0 win over the third place West Quincy Elks.

The Apaches took an early 6-0 lead when Sean Nee scored on a nine-yard run. Nee's TD was set up by a blocked punt.

Tony Licciardi extended the NQ lead with a 46-yard romp. QB Mike Santoro tossed the two-point conversion pass to Jeremy Gott to make it 14-0.

A fumble recovery deep in Panther territory set up Licciardi's next score, a three-yard run to make it 20-0.

The Panthers finally got untracked offensively late in the second quarter. Quarterback Jeff Russell scored on a 1-yard roll out capping a long scoring drive. Runningback Jonathan Gangi rushed for the two-point conversion cutting the lead 20-8.

The Apaches put it out of reach in the third quarter when Nee broke free for a 49-yard TD run to make it, 26-8.

The Apaches received solid efforts from Nate Scott, Santoro, Ken Lippins, Corey Chaggarism, Dave Carney, Sean Halpin, Bil Crosby, Justin Ackerman and Martin Shields.

The Elks found themselves down two touchdowns before they even touched the ball. The Manets scored on the first play from scrimmage on an 86-yard TD scamper by Sean Herron. The Manets recovered the ensuing kickoff which was short and took a strange bounce.

Herron added his second TD a few plays later on a 23-yard run. Following QB Brain McPartlin's run for the two point conversion the Manets led 14-0.

Running back Mike Kane scored from three yards out in the second quarter as the Manets upped the lead to 20-0.

The second half was scoreless with the exception of a safety which occurred when Kane tackled the Elks's Jason Sova in the endzone to make it 22-0.

The Elks finished the season with a 3-4 record good for third place. West Quincy got strong efforts from Nick Gray, Tom Malvesti, Brendan Brack, Sova, Kevin Carey, Mike Elder, Rich Gorman and Jason Klemp.

Bogan Leads Presidents Over Revere, 28-15

The Quincy football team has struggled this year, but the Presidents will go into the Thanksgiving Classic with two wins in a row, thanks to junior Mark Bogan.

Bogan had his second outstanding game in a row last Friday night at Revere as he led Quincy to a 28-15 victory, improving its record to 4-5, the same record as it took into the North Quincy game a year ago.

Bogan, who rushed for 165 yards and scored 15 points the week previous in a win over Malden, had an even more fantastic night at Revere as he scored 22 of the 28 points, returned the opening kickoff of the game back 80 yards for a score, carried 20 times for 113 yards, scored on a 28-yard pass and an eight-yard run, caught a pass for a two-point conversion and rushed for another, had six tackles and four assists, forced a fumble on Quincy's one-yard line, a turning point in the game, and had two pass interceptions. He also had a long pass reception nullified by a penalty.

"Mark was just outstanding, he did everything," said coach Jack Raymer. "However, we should have scored a few more touchdowns, as we stalled inside their 10-yard line three times.

"Mike Flavin had another good night. He was six for 13 for 95 yards, but had 66 yards in passes called back and three other perfect passes were dropped."

He also praised Tony Madden, Dave Johnston, Graham Chevy, who had his best game at defensive end; Baker, Morrell, Munroe, who had a pass interception; Bill Reardon, Steve O'Donoghue, Bogan, Pagnani and Flavin for their work on defense.

"This was a good one to win and it gives us some momentum going into the North Quincy game," said Raymer. "We have played excellent all-around ball in our last two games since getting back to full strength and we will be ready for North."

Bogan got the Presidents off to a great start with his 80-yard kickoff return to open the game. "We have been on the other end of these plays several times in the past and it was good to be on the right end this time," Raymer said.

Bogan's 27-yard interception return set up the second touchdown early in the second quarter. On fourth down Flavin hit Bogan, who outran the defense for a 26-yard touchdown.

Munroe's interception set up the next score. Flavin passed to him for four yards and a 20-0 lead. Flavin passed to Bogan for the two-point conversion.

Revere roared back and scored near the end of the first half when Jo Jo Giordano, who rushed for 157 yards, scored from the two and he also rushed for the two-point conversion.

Revere cut the gap to 20-15 in the third quarter when Giordano, who scored all the team's points, scored from the four and he kicked the point.

Early in the last quarter the Patriots were driving toward the go-ahead score when Bogan jarred the ball loose from Giordano and Reardon fell on the ball on the five.

Bogan finished off the scoring when he went over from the eight with 30 seconds left in the game and also rushed for the final two points.

Quincy Frosh On Win Streak

The Quincy freshman football team won its last three games to improve its record to 5-0-1.

In their latest game, the young Presidents defeated Charlestown, 18-6, as quarterback Rob Kane rushed for 98 yards and scored all three touchdowns.

Defensively, Mike Kavanaugh, Sean McArdle and Mike Gardner stopped Charlestown's running game and Duane Holmes and Chris Iorio provided a strong pass rush.

In its previous game Quincy topped Brookline, 20-0, with Kane's 95-yard touchdown run off a broken play setting the tone for the game. He connected on a 20-yard touchdown pass to Mike Dern and Dave Bogan closed the scoring with a nine-yard run.

Earlier the young Presidents had defeated Weymouth

North, 20-0.

An 18-yard touchdown run by Bogan opened the scoring and a Noel Dibona seven-yard run put Quincy up, 12-0, at the half.

In the second half Quincy drove to the one-yard line highlighted by Gardner's 14-yard reception. From there Bogan ran behind Holmes and Eric McFarlane for both the final touchdown and the two-point conversion.

North JVs Defeat Waltham, Medford

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team improved to 7-2 with wins over Waltham, 18-14, and Medford, 12-6.

Neither game was decided until the last period and it was the arm of Rich Brooks that brought the Raiders the two wins.

Against Waltham Brooks passed to Chris Melchin for seven yards and the first North score after a 55-yard run by Chris Murray.

Brooks passed to Mike Herman for 15 yards and the second touchdown but Waltham held on to a 14-12 lead.

Brooks again found Herman for the winning nine-yard touchdown pass.

Defensively Mike Oliva was the standout with 15 tackles. Jason April had two interceptions and 10 tackles. Willie O'Donnell had an interception and Brendon O'Connell made two game-saving tackles.

Murray carried 14 times for 135 yards, Mark Cocuzzo had nine carries for 72 yards and Mark Kelleher had two pass receptions and did some fine blocking.

Medford proved a formidable opponent and scored first in the second quarter, driving 70 yards for the touchdown.

Brooks put on another passing exhibition. First he hit Kelleher for 25 yards then connected with Herman for 11 and again to Herman for a 25-yard touchdown.

The last quarter was played mostly between the 30-yard lines until a North punt was fumbled and recovered by the Raiders' Mark Zych on Medford's 31. Brooks immediately threw a picture play pass to Kelleher for the winning touchdown.

Coaches Tom Carter and Peter Chrisom had praise for Brooks, Kelleher, Chris McCallum, Dave Thompson, Herman and Cocuzzo.

The North Quincy and Quincy jayvees will meet Saturday at 11 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The freshman teams will clash at 9 o'clock.

Salters Shines At Lake Forest

Craig Salters of 26 Mullin Ave., West Quincy, sophomore center, had a good season for the Lake Forest College football team, which ended its season with a 3-6 record.

The team lost its final game to Beloit and a factor in the loss was the absence of Salters, who missed the game because of a family emergency.

The Quincy-North Quincy

Football Hall Of Fame Exhibit In Sun Window

Football Hall of Fame committee has put a display in the window of the Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St. Quincy Sq, that is attracting a good deal of attention.

The display includes the plaques to be awarded this year's inductees, the honor roll honoring deceased former players, pictures of past Quincy and North teams, trophies and stories on past Quincy-North Quincy games.

Also displayed are the names of the Hall of Fame officers, president Lionel "Shine" Buckley, vice president Tom Kiley and treasurer Nick Malvesti and the names of the three men who began the Hall of Fame six years ago, John "Butch" Mahoney, Quincy coach Jack Raymer and North coach Ken McPhce.

North Ends Season With 3-1 Win Over Quincy

The North Quincy boys' soccer team ended the season in fine style recently when it came from behind to top Quincy, 3-1, before more than 300 at Kincaide Park.

Quincy, which played some fine soccer this year despite a winless season under first year coach Jed Phelan, took a 1-0 lead midway through the first half. In the second half Jim McGuire's North team dominated and scored three goals, two by Derek Mooter and one by Chris Halloran. Tom Johnson, Halloran and Mooter had assists. The game MVP went to Matt Giese, who played the game of his career. Pat O'Donoghue and Dave Cawthorne also played well for the Raiders.

Last week the Raiders went to Silver Lake to meet the Lakers, 10th ranked in the state and, after giving the hosts a good battle in the first half, trailing, 2-0, couldn't handle the more experienced Lakers, who scored six goals in the second half.

Johnson, O'Donoghue, Mooter, Halloran and Mike Giese played well for North.

North lost to Brookline, 2-0, failing to capitalize on several good scoring chances. Johnson, Cawthorne and Halloran all played well.

The Raiders were edged by Waltham, 2-1, with Halloran scoring the goal and Giese having the assist.

North also lost a tough decision to Brockton. Johnson and Mooter scored goals and Matt Giese had an assist. O'Donoghue and Jon Rork had good games.

The North junior varsity saved its best for last and dropped a 1-0 decision to Brockton, one of the Suburban League's best. Goalie Mike O'Brien had the best game of his career and was named game MVP.

The jayvees also lost, 1-0, to Brookline with Aidan O'Donoghue having a fine game and being named MVP.

The junior varsity tied Waltham, 2-2, with Paul Kearns and Mike Ly scoring unassisted goals. Chris Olsen was game MVP and Chris Hill and Mike Walsh played well.

The North freshmen lost to a strong B.C. High team with Mark Cahill setting up Mike MacDougall for North's only goal. Adam Calvert and MacDougall were the MVPs and Bo Smith and Cahill played well.

McGuire paid tribute to his seniors, Cawthorne, Halloran, Mike Tufts, Aiman Janinen, Rork, Matt Giese, Eric Schwenenman, Matt Price, Mark Nitschke, Jason Rowland and Joe Fasano.

"I want to thank the cheerleaders, especially Kerry DesRoche and Kim Sheehan, and all the fans who supported us this year," said McGuire.

THE QUINCY ROTARY team won the 1989 Quincy Little League championship with a record of 20-6. The players were honored at a banquet at which time they received jackets donated by the Quincy Rotary Club. Guest speaker was Morrisette Legion coach Dave Perdios. Front, left to right, Chris Erler, Eric Goodrich, J.J. Farrell, David Gunther and John Richards. Second row, Steve MacDougall, Matt Beston, Shawn Hoy, Brendan Ridge, Mike Santoro and Malachi Higgins. In back are coaches Paul Beston, and Frank Santoro. Missing from photo are Brad Gray, Jason Downey and Mike Adams.

Steven Wynands Wins Sun Football Contest

For the second week in a row there is a two-time winner in the Quincy Sun Football Contest.

Steven Wynands of Roselin

Avenue Quincy, chose 10 of 11 games correctly missing only the Phoenix-Dallas game. Last week Bob Thomas turned the trick.

Wynands, a security worker for O'Connell Management Co., nosed out Paul Gill of Young Street who picked nine games correctly.

• Squirt House Sun Edges Burgin, Takes Top Spot

The Quincy Sun moved into first place in the Squirt House League with a 7-6 victory over Burgin Platner, while Johnson Motor Parts was upset by Doran & Horrigan, 4-3.

John Manning had two goals for the Sun and Mark Glynn, Tim Wood, Steven Kiley, Brad Macauley and Chris DiMattia one each.

Dave Rowell had three assists and Macauley and Mark DiBiasi one each. Matt Radzevich had a hat trick for Burgin and Joe Bracken, Justin Doty and Danny Stucka a goal each. Jon Haddad had an assist.

Mike Ryan had two goals for Doran and Justin Doty and Dennis Allen one each.

A.J. Quinn and Ryan had assists. Tim Zaniboni had two goals and Mike Gallagher one for Johnson and Patrick Coughlin and Zaniboni had assists.

The standings: Quincy Sun, 3-1-1; Johnson Motor, 3-2-0; Doran & Horrigan, 2-2-1; Burgin Platner, 1-4-0.

• Pee Wee House 3-Way Tie For First Place

Keohane's, UCT and Bersani Brothers are all tied for first place in the Pee Wee House League. Keohane's edged Bersani, 4-3, as Scott MacPherson scored twice and Eric Oliva and Danny Donahue once each. Brendan O'Brien had two assists and Donahue one. Greg Donegan, Jason Healy and Patrick Tevenan scored for Bersani and Ken Burke had an assist.

UCT defeated Colonial Federal, 3-1, as Sean MacDonald scored two goals and Jason Fennelly one. Tim Sugrue had two assists and Jamie Murphy one. Joe McPhee scored for Colonial Federal with an assist for Ron McGann.

The standings: Keohane's, 3-2-0; UCT, 2-1-2; Bersani, 2-1-2; Colonial Federal, 1-4-0.

members Janice Kelly, Steve McCole, Chris Rogers, Jen Berger, Kristine McLaughlin, Joe Cunio, Kristin Loughlin, Kelly Canniff in the dancing chorus and Paula Maloney in the singing chorus.

Friends Of Library Book Sale Saturday

The Friends of the Library book sale will be held Saturday, Nov. 18 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Wollaston branch of the Thomas Crane Public Library, 41 Beale St., Quincy.

There will be bargains galore for buyers of both adult and children's books. In addition to many fine hardcover titles for sale there are paperbacks, magazines and other miscellaneous items.

Shoppers are urged to bring small boxes or sturdy bags for their purchases.

The sale is one of the ways the Thomas Crane Public Library celebrates "Children's Book Week." Another event was held last Tuesday when West of the Moon told classic childhood tales to a family audience.

The Library Book Nook, a weekly program on Quincy community television, featured children's librarians reviewing their favorite books from childhood.

Storybook dolls and stuffed animals will be on display at the Quincy Square Library all this month.

BAH! HUMBUG! Michael Weingart of Quincy plays Ebenezer Scrooge in the Company Theatre's production of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" at the South Weymouth Junior High School. Starring as Tiny Tim is S. Eldridge of Hingham.

Michael Weingart In Role Of Scrooge

Michael Weingart of Quincy will play the role of Ebenezer Scrooge in the Company Theatre's adaptation of the Dickens' classic, "A Christmas Carol," at the South Weymouth Junior High School, 280 Pleasant St., Weymouth.

Performances will be held at 8 p.m. Nov. 24 and 25, and Dec. 1, 2, 8 and 9.

This new adaptation is written by Company Theatre co-founders and directors, Zoe Bradford and Jordie Saucerman. The production features original music composed by Musical Director Michael Joseph. Joseph also adapted traditional carols for the sixty member chorus.

Choreography is under the direction of Sally Ashton Forrest.

Tickets are available locally at Harts Jewelers in Quincy for $8 or by calling 337-1423 or 843-3919. Tickets may also be purchased at the door the night of the performance for $9.

Cerebral Palsy Christmas Party Dec. 3

WEEK OF: November 16.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

While Scorpios born this week are the silent type and Sagittarians are social butterflies, both can make significant career strides over the next six to eight months; the key is to see the point of view of both superiors and subordinates. Romancewise, 1990 should be an overall upbeat year.

AQUARIUS - January 21 - February 19

Good week to start holiday preparations, especially if travel arrangements are involved. You may be campaigning, either for a pet cause or a special individual, sometime after the weekend.

PISCES - February 20 - March 20

Some recent work setbacks reversed and you now advance at a steady clip. Your attention to detail catches the eye of a higherup. Your idealism makes you feel very good indeed.

ARIES - March 21 - April 20

Casual friendship may deepen as you find areas of common interest. Children appear more mature, thanks largely to your example. Creativity is stronger than it's been all year.

TAURUS - April 21 - May 22

Stubborn friend is surprisingly cooperative; use this rare situation to full advantage. You have a knack now for recognizing the special qualities of others. Your own rare qualities are recognized too.

GEMINI - May 23 - June 21

Humor is a current strong point; put it to use in writing assignments or when dealing with stubborn coworkers. A genuine but promising invitation may be arriving after the weekend.

CANCER - June 22 - July 22

Friendships deepen as the days shorten. You find a forum for displaying your latent talents. Invitations arrive before the weekend and reconciliations are spotlighted after Sunday.

LEO - July 23 - August 22

You take an individual and possibly unpopular approach to an ongoing challenge; the results pay off, but perseverance is critical. Enjoy escapist activities on the weekend. Monday may be financially favorable.

VIRGO - August 23 - September 22

Philosophical study is spotlighted at this time, a period in which you learn much about yourself and those closest to you. Entrepreneurial spirit soars after the weekend, but don't throw caution to the wind.

LIBRA - September 23 - October 22

It is important this week to double-check all work and to check out all workmanship. Influential individual is backing you in a novel way. Personal relationships are on a smoother course.

SCORPIO - October 23 - November 21

A rocky relationship is stabilizing thanks to your own hard work. Good week for shopping for antique items. Schedules are frequently rearranged after the weekend. Children are responsive to your suggestions.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22 - December 22

Rumors circulate speedily but rely on hard facts before making commitments or passing any kind of judgement. Lighthearted approach to a dilemma is worth trying. Home surroundings are calm.

CAPRICORN - December 23 - January 20

Home life is buzzing, with the arrival of guests, both expected and unexpected. Information that arrives now is more reliable than of late. Week sees you making a renewed commitment to a cause you believe in.

BORN THIS WEEK

November 16th, actor Burgess Meredith; 17th, singer Larry Underhill; 18th, actress Brenda Vaccaro; 19th, host Dick Cavett; 20th, actress Phyllis Thaxter; 21st, actress Goldie Hawn; 22nd, actor Robert Vaughn.

Restaurant License Granted At Former Service Station

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday granted with stipulations a request from Nick's Lunch, 57 Granite St., for a common victualer license for 65 Granite St., the site of the former Hospital Hill Service station.

The board had continued the hearing last week to give Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien time to notify abutters and area residents of the proposal. Chretien told the board that he had distributed some 75 flyers explaining the proposal, instructing neighbors to call the license board or attend the Tuesday hearing. The board received no phone calls. A handful of residents were present at the hearing.

During last week's meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dixon of 122 Dixwell St. were before the board to state their concerns about buffers between the restaurant and their property.

Architect Richard Salvaggi told the board that he had met with the Dixons to explain landscaping and the addition of evergreen trees as buffers.

He said a five or six foot concrete retaining wall and the trees will serve as both a sight and sound barrier between the restaurant and the Dixon property.

Salvaggi told the board he had also met with City Traffic Engineer David Kincom to discuss the required curb cuts and traffic concerns in the area.

Residents of the area and Rev. Kirk Johnson from the nearby Covenant Congregational Church on Whitwell St. expressed concern over the possibility of the restaurant requesting a liquor license at some time in the future.

Police Chief Francis Finn assured the residents that any liquor license would be strictly a beer and wine license and would not likely cause major problems.

Chairman John Gillis said that the board would not grant a liquor license unless the church was satisfied first.

Rev. Johnson said that he and the trustees of the church had no concerns other than that, and that he was not in opposition to the license.

Salvaggi explained to residents that exterior renovations planned for the building include a combination brick and stucco facade with an awning. "This is a definite upscale development for the corner," he said.

Chairman John Gillis said that an all-brick exterior would be preferable. Salvaggi said he would comply with the request, although it will cost more.

Interior plans have been reviewed and accepted by the City Health Department.

Chretien said he had no opposition to the proposal provided that abutters' concerns were satisfied and that Traffic Engineer David Kincom's concerns were satisfied.

Chretien requested that the board stipulate that no building permit be issued until Kincom's report was reviewed and approved. The license also stipulates that the Fire Department be present when the existing gas storage tanks are removed from the property and that all landscaping be done according to the most recent plans.

Point Restaurant License Transfer

The License Board granted a request from Elizabeth A. Taylor, owner of the Point Pub, 536 Washington St., for a common victualer license as held by the adjacent Sunrise Grille, 532 Washington St.

Taylor told the board she plans to take over the restaurant and will continue to operate it as it has been run. She said she has no plans for structural renovations at this time.

Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro was present at the hearing and told the board he has no objections to the proposal.

"The establishment is always immaculate," he said, "just keep it the same way."

The board agreed that the establishment has always been well run.

Sunday At 12:30 P.M.

300,000 Expected At Christmas Parade

A longstanding holiday tradition in Quincy and on the South Shore will be renewed Sunday, Nov. 26 when the 38th annual Christmas Festival Parade steps off at 12:30 p.m. in Quincy Center.

Approximately 300,000 people are expected to line the 2.8 mile parade route and experience the sights and sounds of this year's theme, "A Storybook Christmas."

About 70 units, including 19 colorful floats, 20 musical marching bands, 16 specialty units and 10 color guards will be featured.

This year's parade will have a special local flavor as North Quincy native Ken Coleman, "The Voice of the Boston Red Sox," will be honored as the grand marshal. Coleman, who now lives in Scituate, began his broadcasting career while covering high school football games on WJDA.

His career spanned more than 40 years, broadcasting Cleveland Brown, Cleveland Indian and of course Red Sox games for more than 20 years. He retired at the end of the season.

Coleman will be recognized for his dedication and success in providing family sporting entertainment for millions of people spanning many decades.

"The Christmas Festival Committee is extremely pleased that Mr. Coleman will participate as this year's grand marshal. We look forward to honoring him," Festivals General Chairman George White said.

The parade, billed as the largest Christmas parade on the East Coast, is the highlight of a series of holiday events to be held this weekend in Quincy.

The Turning on the Christmas Lights will get things rolling Friday, Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall Plaza. Among those making an appearance will be local dignitaries, Disney and other costume characters, Rick Tobban "The One-Man Band" and of course, Santa Claus who will hand out candy canes to children after the lights are illuminated.

Santa will officially arrive from the North Pole to Quincy by parachute Saturday, Nov. 25 at 12:30 p.m. He and several of his elves will land at Faxon Field behind the Quincy Vocational Technical School.

Candy canes will be distributed to children witnessing the event by Santa and his elves. Mr. Claus will then be transported by fire truck to the Cummings Store in Quincy Center where he will reside until Christmas Day.

The parade on Sunday will begin at Elm and School Sts. and proceed north on Hancock St. for almost three miles to East and West Squantum Sts. at North Quincy High School.

The parade which attracts thousands of people from all over the region and beyond every year, is expected to last two hours.

Returning favorites include the newly crowned Quincy High School and North Quincy High School beauty queens, miniature horses standing 32-inches high in Christmas attire and Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, White noted.

Also on hand for encore performances will be the Klassy Clowns, MBTA Motorcycle Drill Team and eight Hallamore Clydesdales. "They please the crowd year after year," White said.

New parade participants include McDonald's "Mc-Tonight," and various floats and bands.

As in year's past, there will be floats sponsored by Carney Hospital, Quincy Bay Race Week, Germantown Yacht Club, St. John's CYO, Quincy Junior College, Woodward School, Quincy Hospital and the Santa Claus float with Mr. Christmas himself.

Among the new floats are entries by the North Quincy Human Relations Committee, Bernie's Modern Formal, Continental Cablesystems and Friends of Quincy Square.

Other float entries are Sen. Paul Harold, Colonial Federal Savings, Fris Parish Unitarian Church, South Shore Bank, Jack Conway and Company, Quincy High School and the Christmas Elves float.

Robert Castaldo of Braintree and Barbara Hooper of Quincy, who both submitted the winning entry in this year's parade theme contest, will ride along the route and will receive a special gift of appreciation at the awards ceremony following the parade.

Their entries were chosen from hundreds in the theme contest held earlier this year.

Major sponsors of the event are the City of Quincy, Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and The Patriot Ledger.

A number of streets will be roped off at the sidewalk and White asks the cooperation of spectators by keeping behind the ropes.

The streets are: Hancock St. from Granite to School Sts., St. Ann's Rd. to Old Colony Ave. to Beale, Billings Rd. to East and West Squantum Sts. as well as McIntyre Mall.

Parade Dedicated In Memory Of Thomas McDonald

This year's Quincy Festival Christmas Parade is being dedicated to the memory of the late Thomas M. "Tom" McDonald, long active in civic and charitable causes and a senior member of the committee who died last December.

Mr. McDonald began his involvement in the parade in 1951, serving on the committee since it was founded 38 years ago. He died three weeks after last year's edition.

The parade was founded in 1951 under the leadership of the late Rev. Thomas Tierney and the chairmanship of the late George C. Fay.

In McDonald's honor, the festival committee has designated an annual color guard competition trophy. Chairman George White said this is a parade activity that McDonald endeared.

The award will be presented each year in his memory.

In addition, a plaque listing the award's winner each year will be displayed at the George F. Bryan VFW Post #613. McDonald was a past commander of this veterans' organization. He was also a past VFW state commander.

"Tom was a leader, a participator and a doer, one who accepted and delegated responsibility," said White who served with McDonald as a committee member for many years.

"He very much played a major role, year in and year out, making this parade an on-going continual success. We miss him and Tom will always remain in our memory," he said.

A message depicting the Festival Committee's memory of Mr. McDonald will be carried along the parade route. It reads:

"Hey, Tom Thanks, The 1989 Annual Christmas Parade is dedicated to the memory of the late Thomas M. "Tom" McDonald, Committee Member 1951-1988."

Santa Arrives Saturday By Parachute

Santa Claus will once again arrive in Quincy in dramatic fashion on Saturday, Nov. 25 at 12:30 p.m. when he and several elves parachute from a plane and land at Faxon Field behind the Quincy Vocational Technical High School.

After he land, Santa, along with several Disney characters, will be transported to Hancock St. where he will reside until Christmas Eve.

Candy canes will be handed out to youngsters beginning at noon.

Christmas Lights To Be Turned On Friday

The Turning on the Christmas Lights in Quincy Square will be held Friday, Nov. 24 at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall Plaza.

Festivities begin at 6:15 p.m. as Rick Cobban the "One-Man Band" performing a one-man show.

At 7:20 p.m., city, state and local dignitaries will be introduced. Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Quincy Center business and Professional Association President Robert Coleman and Christmas Festival General Chairman George White will speak.

After the lights are turned on at 7:30 p.m. Santa Claus will make a special appearance and distribute candy canes to children.

Several Disney and other costume characters will also be present to greet the youngsters.

He Will Have 'Hands On' Sheets Promises Hard-Working Administration

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

It won't be for another 41 days until Mayor-Elect James A. Sheets is sworn into office but already he's laying down his golden rule: work, work and more hard work.

"This is going to be a hard-working, hands-on administration. We're going to make a difference. There's no 8 (a.m.) to 4 (p.m.)."

"We're going to move forward in the area of accomplishment we want. People (in my administration) are going to put in long days. If they're not willing to do that, they shouldn't be a part of my team because they're not going to be part of it for long."

"We're going to work until the job is done," said the 54-year-old Ward 4 Councillor who earned the right to succeed Mayor Francis McCauley Jan. 2 at 10 a.m. after defeating Peter O'Connell by 6,000 votes two weeks ago.

By surrounding himself with dedicated people, Sheets hopes to keep the city running in the black while improving the quality of life here. He's optimistic both can be achieved while reaching out to some new areas the next two years.

Among his goals are improving Quincy schools, continuing the beautification effort, promoting tourism, defeating Clean Harbors, tightening zoning ordinances and beginning the revitalization effort downtown.

But to get things off on the right foot, Sheets will have to deal with the city budget. Some say finances will get worse because of the state's budget crisis.

However, by following McCauley's fiscal conservatism, the new mayor believes city finances will continue on an even keel.

"It will always be my intention to deal with fiscal matters in a very restraining manner. I suspect that in some ways, I will function very much as Frank McCauley functioned in the area of fiscal responsibility yet there are going to be areas of differences."

"I think his fiscal conservatism has given us a better financial base than most cities have this year and it's something which I would continue. But I see that more as a part of responsible management anyway," Sheets said, adding that balancing the budget is not one of his main goals since he's "going to do it anyway."

He's not diminishing the importance of finances but rather suggesting that he can continue McCauley's budgetary work and other programs such as the Adopt-an-Island program while addressing other issues such as enhanced beautification, tourism promotion and development control.

"I think we're going to be able to contain the fiscal problems and deal with them. And I think we're going to be able to do some very creative things in other areas. We're impacted by the state's financial problems but we can't change that."

"We have to change how we respond to it. That's what we can control. Certainly there are going to be fiscal decisions to be made given what we see presently but... we're going to move forward in other areas."

For example, among the duties of newly appointed Executive Secretary Thomas Koch will be expanding the Adopt-an-Island program. Sheets hopes the program can be expanded to the point that every green spot and traffic island in Quincy is adopted by a business or resident.

"One of our goals is effectively changing the appearance of the city and making it more attractive." Referring to the island program which began earlier this year, Sheets added, "That was one way to deal with the appearance without having additional expenditures of city funds."

By enhancing the city's beauty, Sheets hopes it will bring more tourists to "The City of Presidents." He's not implying Quincy doesn't attract visitors but rather the city needs to be made more appealing to compete with other tourist spots such as Plymouth and Boston.

Specifically, he said he would like to start a historic trail shuttle bus which would operate from the Crown Colony Hotel. Once it opens, the hotel will have 300 units and convention facilities.

The bus could take tourists from the hotel along the Quincy Historic Trail which includes such stops as the Adams Birthplaces, Adams Mansion, First Parish Church and other significant places in Quincy.

"I really think we're going to have a clientele staying in the City of Quincy that will be able to go down and view the birthplaces of the Adams houses and to the First Parish Church," Sheets said.

Another key area Sheets will address is improving the Quincy public school system. It is this issue that Sheets believes he has a mandate to lead.

"I think people generally in the city are concerned about education and they're concerned that as we get into the 1990s that we indeed provide the kind of education that will allow a young person to graduate from high school with all of the skills necessary to become competitive in what's going to be a highly competitive global economy."

"We want to be sure that we have an educational system second to none."

Morover, he said he'll be personally involved in the school matters.

"I intend to become personally involved in the education process, in every aspect of it. I'm simply not going over and chair the school committee. I'm going to get involved with teachers, get involved with the parent organizations and I'll be involved with students as well as the school committee and the school administration."

"I'm going to roll my sleeves up and become part of the process so that I can be a better leader in that process," he added.

And Sheets is certainly no stranger to the educational process: He has taught government at Quincy Junior College for 26 years.

Already Sheets is thinking about new resources for the school system. He is

McGrath Solicitor, Mader Administrative Assistant

Bernice Mader has been appointed administrative assistant and Councillor Stephen McGrath will become city solicitor in the James A. Sheets administration, the mayor-elect announces.

Mader, president of Citizens Against Airport Noise and an elected State Democratic Committee-woman, will receive an annual salary of $38,040. As city solicitor, McGrath will be paid $49,072 yearly.

McGrath, a six-time elected councillor representing Ward 5 for 10 years and the entire city the last two years, ran for mayor this year but did not win a nomination.

A few weeks after losing the preliminary, he announced his support for Sheets. His council term expires the same day Sheets takes office, Jan. 2.

The mayor-elect, who appointed Thomas Koch his executive secretary last week, said his new appointees are well-qualified. Both bring experience, knowledge and understanding of city issues to his administration, he said.

"Bernice is extremely qualified. She's worked as chief of administration in veterans' services with a budget in excess of $10 million."

Charleston Mayor Thanks Quincy For Hugo Relief

The mayor of Charleston, South Carolina, has written to Mayor Francis McCauley thanking him for the hurricane relief package Quincy sent to that devastated area after Hurricane Hugo struck last month.

In a letter dated Nov. 17, Mayor Joseph P. Riley said: "I cannot adequately express my gratitude and that of the citizens of Charleston to you for your help in our recovery from Hurricane Hugo. The response of my fellow mayors has touched me deeply.

"Your aid has played a critical role in getting Charleston back on its feet, and we're going strong. Your quick response, coupled with the coordination by the U.S. Conference of Mayors staff, has created a powerful new resource for disaster recovery that could help cities all over the country.

"Again, my heartfelt thanks for your help."

An effort to help the citizens of Charleston was organized in Quincy after McCauley received an appeal for assistance from J. Thomas Cochran, executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

After McCauley organized a committee for hurricane victims relief, public officials, city employees, businessmen, local news media, volunteers and citizens of Quincy responded immediately.

A total of 6,185 pounds of non-perishable food, several chain saws and a $1,000 check were shipped from Quincy to Charleston.

Weekly Veterans Meeting At VFW

Veterans over the age of 60, their spouses and widows of veterans are invited to attend weekly meetings in a new veterans program.

Meetings are held Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30 p.m. at the Bryan VFW Post, 24 Broad St. Quincy Center. Each week a different speaker will address the group on issues and concerns of older veterans, including financial planning, veterans benefits, medicare and Medicaid.

The program is sponsored by the Social Work Outpatient of the Boston VA Outpatient Clinic.

BECAUSE YOU NEVER KNOW ...

Most of us think of insurance as something we keep paying for without receiving a return for our money. If you stop to really consider the principle of insurance, however, this will reveal itself to be untrue. You are purchasing something less tangible than material goods, perhaps, but intangibles can be more valuable than objects. Insurance buys a you a buffer in a realm that does not always take your best interest into account. The peace of mind that insurance offers is invaluable.

With insurance you are buying a pact between you and your insurance company that states, in the event you suffer any covered loss, the company will reimburse you for your losses up to the limit of your policy. And 99 times out of 100 that's a lot more than you could ever afford should you have to reach into your own resources to cover your losses.

It's something to remember each time your premium comes due. Your dollars are not buying something you can wear, eat or see today, but its value is there just the same. The feeling of knowing that you and your assets are protected against loss around the clock is a return on your money, indeed.

At Riley & Rielly Insurance Agency, Inc. our insurance professionals are happy to discuss the many protection options available today. Please give us a call at 471-6200 or stop by our office at 1050 Hancock Street in Quincy.

'Who's Coming, Going?'

It's "Who's Coming, Who's Going" speculation time at City Hall.

Incoming Mayor James Sheets will make something like 30 appointments between the time he takes office Jan. 2 and 1991, the second year of his term.

The biggest chunk of them are effective the first Monday in February — 17 —.

Most of them are department heads or assistant department heads — the so called "official family."

Sheets, as every incoming mayor before him, wants to make the announcements when he wants to make them. And like mayors before him, will try to plug any premature leaks. But, you can't stop speculation.

The feeling is that Sheets' official family will have a strong Quincy look. That he plans to give Quincy residents first consideration for appointments as department or assistant department heads.

Sheets has made three major appointments so far. None of which really surprised City Hall observers. The three:

Tom Koch, named executive secretary, played a key role in Sheets' stunning preliminary and final election victories. He probably could have had just about any job he wanted.

Steve McGrath, who will be the new city solicitor, threw his support to Sheets after McGrath failed to win one of the two mayoral nominations. They are long-time City Council friends and he's a good lawyer.

Bernice Mader, who will be Sheets' administrative assistant, is the state Democratic Committeewoman from this area and lives in Ward 4, Sheets' home front.

Incidentally her appointment appears to be an historic one. She will be the first woman to hold a post that high in a mayoral administration. And she's quite a capable gal.

Who's staying from the McCauley administration? Too early to tell. But two names are thought to be among the "safe."

They are Recreational Director Barry Welch and Ray Cattaneo, executive director of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments. Robert Denvir, parking and purchasing agent, could be another. Also, Robert Brennan, director of Date Processing.

There are sure to be others.

Department heads whose terms expire that first Monday in February and who either stay or go are:

City Solicitor Joseph MacRitchie, Assistant Solicitors Robert Quinn and Donald Hansen, Legal Counsel to the Police Department David Spillane, Public Works Commissioner David Colton, Deputy Public Works Commissioner Robert Federico, Planning Director Richard Meade, Traffic Engineer David Kinnecom, Personnel Director David Smith, Treasurer-Tax Collector Dana Childs, Rent Grievance Board Executive Secretary Jane Reikard, Conservation Enforcement Officer Heather Sargent, Forestry Supt. John Kogler, Assessor James Papile, Denvir, and Welch.

In addition to them there will be other terms expiring: Assessor Elmer Fagerlund in February, 1991; Assessor Marion Fantucchio in February 1992. Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue also in February, 1992 and Dog Officer Phyllis Berlucchi, the first Monday in May, 1990.

Also when Koch assumes his duties as the new mayor's executive secretary it will create a vacancy. Koch has been Council on Aging Director and Sheets will name his successor.

Assistant Recreation Director Brian Buckley's term will also be expiring next year.

As the Jan. 2 inaugural rapidly approaches there will be a lot of speculation around City Hall.

Whatever changes Sheets plans to make he no doubt will try to make them as orderly as possible. No real ax wielding among department heads.

WILLIAM REARDON of Merrymount, husband of City Council Clerk of Committees Jeanne Reardon, was recently honored by the Amateur Softball Association of Metro Boston. He was presented the Outstanding Umpire Of The Year award at that group's annual banquet.

Reardon, who has been in the ASA 25 years won the same award 11 years ago. He served as District Commissioner of the South Shore for the association from 1980 to 1986.

PROMOTION: State Senator Paul Harold, speaker at a recent Quincy Lions Club meeting, was introduced as "Governor" Harold. A slip of the tongue but Harold - and the Lions -- loved it.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter and from wherever they got it: "Laugh and the world laughs with you. Snore and you sleep alone."

$110,000 Goal For Salvation Army Christmas Kettle Appeal

The Salvation Army Quincy Corps, 6 Baxter St., officially kicked off its traditional Christmas Kettle Appeal Tuesday to raise funds to help the needy this year.

Last year, slightly more than $100,000 was collected at the various locations at Osco Drug and Bradlee's in Quincy; Jordan Marsh and Sears at South Shore Plaza, Braintree; Caldor's, Zayre's and Harborlight Mall in Weymouth and many of the large supermarkets such as Stop & Shop, Purity Supreme and Shaws. Workers can be found at these locations again this year.

Assisting the Salvation Army this year at the kettles will be members from:

- Quincy Lions Club Saturday, Dec. 2 at Osco Drug on Granite St.
- Quincy Rotary Club Saturday, Dec. 9 at Osco Drug and Hancock Bank on Hancock St.
- Baintree AARP Chapter members Tuesday, Dec. 12 at South Shore Plaza.
- Weymouth Kiwanis at Caldor's Saturday, Dec. 16.
- Quincy Kiwanis at Osco Drug Dec. 16.
- Salvation Army Advisory Board Dec. 16 at South Shore Plaza.

Major Paul Carlino, commanding officer at the Quincy Salvation Army, said a goal of $110,000 has been set to meet the increasing demands of human need, not only at Thanksgiving and Christmas, but all year round.

More than 2,000 will be served this Christmas, providing food baskets for families and individuals, toys for children, personal visits and gifts distributed at area nursing homes and hospitals by Salvation Army volunteers, and Christmas group parties involving all ages from pre-school nursery to senior citizens.

The Salvation Army appreciates the opportunity to serve the less fortunate on behalf of all who so generously give of their gifts to make the work possible. Major and Mrs. Paul Carlino, commander officers, said the Army believes the same spirit of generosity and support will be forthcoming again this year.

"In behalf of all who will benefit from our united giving, I say thank you and God bless you," they added.

Property Owners Attend Lead Paint Workshop

Quincy Community Action's Housing Service recently held a Lead Paint Workshop with approximately 40 area property owners attending.

Those interested in the workshop but were unable to attend can contact Michele Goss at 479-8181 for information.

Housing Services has counselors available to answer your questions about landlord/tenant rights and responsibilities, fair housing laws and more. It can also refer property owners to other resources such as weatherization or rental rehab.

Sheets Promises Hard Working Administration

considering bringing back retired teachers on a volunteer basis to teach. "There's a wealth of experience out there ... and we're not applying it."

Before such a program could begin, Sheets said issues like how the unions and teachers' aides would be affected would have to be addressed.

"The objective would not be replacing teachers' aides. You can't replace teachers' aides with volunteers," adding the volunteer would rather supplement teachers and their aides, thus creating a better learning environment.

Not only could volunteerism work in the classroom, it might assist the city's police effort.

Asked if he is considering expanding the role of the city's Auxiliary Police, Sheets replied, "I would like to expand their role but it would have to be an expansion that would occur within the agreed parameters of the police unions. Certainly you defeat your purpose if by expanding the role of the auxiliaries, you create problems with the police unions and that's counterproductive."

"It would have to be a use that we could commonly agree on."

Continuing, he said, "It seems to me we have one city; our objective is to make Quincy our objective is to make Quincy the best city in the Commonwealth."

"I would say within that broad objective, we should be able to reach consensus with groups like the police and the auxiliary police."

Sheets, known as a consensus builder as councillor of Ward 4, realizes his political role is different now that he's Quincy's 31st mayor.

"There's a great difference between a legislator and an executive. A legislator has to build consensus to get anything done."

"When you're mayor, you still have to build consensus but you are the decision-maker. You have to make that tough decision and I think the key there is to know when you have to build consensus or when you have to sometimes make that tough decision without that consensus."

"There will be times you won't have time to build consensus," he added, such as the budget.

"There may be no time to build consensus on (budget) policy because the fiscal decisions have to be made so then you simply, in your best judgement, make those decisions."

"I think you always attempt to build consensus where that's possible but I think in many cases as an executive it's not always possible."

To help him with those tough decisions, Sheets said he will not hesitate to seek advice from McCauley, his former opponent Peter O'Connell, or anyone else, as long as their wisdom helps the city.

"I'll tap anyone for advice as long as it's going to benefit the city. To me, the bottom line is what a person has to offer to make it better."

In the next two years, Sheets will have that chance.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Things Looked Bleak

"We've got a city that is dying right in our hands," Quincy Planning Director James E. Lee told the first open meeting of the Quincy Tomorrow Committee at the YMCA.

He pointed out that employment at the Fore River Shipyard would probably be under 2,000 by spring, retail sales were down and the whole area lacked a mass transportation system.

Lee was elected temporary executive secretary by the 45 people who attended the Quincy Tomorrow Committee meeting.

KILROY WAS THERE

James J. Kilroy, 60, of Halifax, who was said to have originated the slogan "Kilroy Was Here" at the Fore River Shipyard during World War II, died at Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston.

Kilroy, an inspector at the Yard, said he used to chalk the phrase on jobs to show the shipyard workers that he had been around to inspect their work.

After the war, he established his claim to the satisfaction of the American Transit Association, which awarded him a 22-ton trolley car used by his nine children as a playhouse.

environmental impact studies on proposed airport runway route changes.

Sheets, who said he considered others for the city solicitor's post, said McGrath's knowledge in law and city issues makes him stand out.

"Steve is a good lawyer. He's obviously doing well in his law firm along with Andrew Card."

"He understands how city government works. He has a good working relation with city councillors and with various people throughout Quincy who are in government and has a very good understanding of the issues."

"I think it's very important we have someone who has experience and history," Sheets added.

Sheets and McGrath were scheduled to meet Monday to discuss some issues involving legal matters, such as Clean Harbors, the MWRA and the Old Colony railroad.

"I think it's important to have someone on board qualified who can deal with these issues."

McGrath said he is looking forward to becoming the next city solicitor.

"(Jim) asked me to consider (the position) and I did and decided it would be very interesting and exciting to do it. It gives me an opportunity to help the mayor-elect deal in the legal department."

"I look forward to it. It will be very interesting."

A 1971 graduate of Archbishop Williams High School and 1975 graduate of Boston College, McGrath graduated from Suffolk Law School in 1978. Since then, he has practiced law with Andrew Card in Holbrook, father of Andy Card, the deputy chief of staff in the Bush Administration.

Mader, a former teacher at North Quincy High School, graduated from Bridgewater State College in 1967 with a bachelor of arts in history, political science and education. She received a masters in history from the University of Denver in 1970 and has taken business and management courses from Harvard University.

Ward 4 Recount Tentatively Nov. 28

A recount in the Ward 4 council race between winner Thomas Fabrizio and challenger Joseph Shea has been tentatively set for next Tuesday, Nov. 28 at 9 a.m. in the second floor conference room of the City Hall annex.

City Clerk John Gillis said.

According to Gillis, three out of the four members on the Board of Registrars have been notified. Gillis was waiting to hear from the fourth registrar as The Sun went to press Monday.

Shea, who lost the council race to Fabrizio by 122 votes, filed for the recount last Friday.

According to the computerized ballot counting, Fabrizio finished with 2,326 while Shea had 2,204.

The recount will be done by hand. Gillis said he does not know how long it will take.

The ballot boxes have been locked up in City Hall since the night of the election, Nov. 7.

'December Delight' Fair At Houghs Neck Congregational

The Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., Houghs Neck, will hold its annual Christmas Fair Dec. 1 and 2.

Entitled "December Delight" it will feature a mixture of old favorites and a new delight.

There will be a supper from 6 to 7 Dec. 2 with the fair opening immediately after until 9 p.m.

On Dec. 2 from 10 to 3 there will be an all day snack bar. In addition homemade baked goods and crafts will be available from our dedicated members who contribute their talents each year. A new delight offered this year will be a cookbook table which will give you an opportunity to sample its delicious recipes.

St. Ann's Marianns' Christmas Fair Dec. 1

St. Ann's Marianns' Christmas Fair will be held Friday Dec. 1 from 6 to 10 a.m. and Saturday, Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at St. Ann School Hall, One St. Ann Rd., Wollaston. Members have been preparing for the beautiful Craft Table which will feature marvelous hand made items for Christmas shoppers to purchase at reasonable prices.

The silent auction and "Big 25" will offer wonderful prizes and unusual items to please the pickiest of shoppers. The white elephant table again offers a wide variety of treasures for flea market buffs.

For the children, a "Kid's Corner" with prizes, candy and all those little items the kids love. Another wonderful feature is a Children's Craft Room with creative helpers showing the little folks how to make some craft items for Mom. Dad, Grandparents and other relatives.

The "Gift Basket Table" was a big success at last year's Fair featuring beautiful baskets filled with special items, and is sure to please again.

After shopping and browsing stop for lunch at the Kitchen Snack Shop and then to the Cookie Table where you can mix and match home baked cookies in a decorator can.

The drawings for all prizes will be held at the close of the Fair at 3 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 2nd. Chances available during the Fair.

Santa will visit Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. A picture with Santa will be offered for a small donation.

'Christmas Sleighride' Theme At United First Parish

This Sunday Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "Hold On! It's a Christmas Sleighride" during the 10:30 a.m. worship service at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

As the hectic activity of the Christmas holidays approaches, Dr. Bennett will consider ways to "hold on" and survive the season mentally intact and even renewed in spirit.

Norman Corey, music director, will play organ works by Bach, Sweelinck, Reger, and Rheinberger.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour in the Parish Hall following the service. Brenda Powers will be hostess. Marilyn MacDonald and Kay Johnson will usher.

The Church School children will make Christmas ornaments to hang on the Christmas tree during Decoration Sunday next week.

Historic First Parish is entering a float in the Quincy Christmas Parade. The float marks the conclusion of this year's 350th anniversary celebration of the church, established in 1639 and also known as "Church of the Presidents." The theme of the float is "Peace on Earth - the First Christmas Story." Jim and Lois Van Doren are chairpeople of the float committee. Church members will view the parade from the front steps after enjoying Celia Blight's famous Christmas Parade soup.

The church is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. Church School and child care are provided. Call 773-1290 for information.

A THANK-YOU RECEPTION was recently held at the First Parish Unitarian Church in Quincy Center for the more than 20 volunteers who donated their time this summer to conduct tours in the historic church. The tours were in jeopardy of ceasing but continued because of the large volunteer turnout. Volunteers include, front row from left, Charlotte Coates, Sarah Rockne, Edith Howlett, Dorothy Wrigley, Carmen

'Hanging Of Greens' At First Squantum

"The Hanging of the Greens," an annual event at the First Church of Squantum, will be held Saturday, Nov. 25, from 6 to 8 p.m. Activities will include the making of Christmas crafts and cookies, caroling and decorating the church. There is no charge to participate and persons of all ages are welcome, including people from the community or other churches who would like to join in the fun.

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum gathered Sunday morning for a Thanksgiving Sunday breakfast served by young people of The Way Up, after which a special Thanksgiving service was held in the sanctuary.

The Junior Choir and Chancel Choir, and congregation were accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott, organist.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on the subject, "Seeing Life As It Is."

The service was also celebrated as Stewardship Sunday when members and friends of the church returned their completed pledge sheets for 1990.

Stewart and Mary Scott were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and Valerie Gorrill and Ruth Lagh hosted the Fellowship Hour afterwards. This Sunday the worship service will be at 10:30 a.m., at which time the Sunday School and nursery of the church are also held.

Judgement Sunday At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Kirk Johnson, co-pastor with Rev. Kathleen Graves, will preach. His sermon topic will be, "Saved, Though Justly Punished."

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, will sing an introit and one anthem. Luisa Dano will be soprano soloist.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin as usual at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, a nursery is available for children age five and under. The attendant will be Wendy Lovendale.

Immediately following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs by Anna and Bob Day. At 12:15 the Trustee Board will meet with the person contracted to make a new sign for the church.

Activities for the week are the regularly scheduled Tuesday evening Bible study, the Wednesday evening prayer service, followed by choir rehearsal.

Coming events include a Christmas Mini-Fair on Dec. 2 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. sponsored by the Naomi Society and their men's auxiliary, a decorating party at the church on Sunday, Dec. 2 at 5 p.m., and the Senior Adult Luncheon and program on Dec. 16 (Sat.) at 1:45. The program will be a Christmas concert by Richard Smith on piano and organ and a few numbers by the choir.

In March of 1990 a special lecture series is planned for the Lenten season featuring Dr. F. Burton Nelson, a renowned Bonhoeffer scholar.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

'Sacred Alliance' Wollaston Congregational Topic

"A Sacred Alliance" will be the sermon by the Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern at the 10 a.m. worship on Sunday, Nov. 26, at Wollaston Congregational Church.

The chancel choir, directed by Don Reade, organist and choir director, will sing the Antiphonal and lead the singing of the hymns. Soloists are Paul Frazer, John Flavin, Carol McCrae, Frank Williams and Marian Channon.

A coffee hour will be held in the social hall immediately following the service, hosted by the nominating committee which includes John Zinkas, Joseph Sandahl, Phyllis Snow, Marion Channon and Mary Gifford.

The Scripture lesson from II Samuel 5:1-5 will be read by Charles Todd.

Karl and Erik Olson will be greeters; Paul Farrar and Ed Burgess will usher, and Erik Oster will be acolyte.

Abp. Williams High School Open House Nov. 29

Archbishop Williams High School, 80 Independence Ave., Quincy, will hold an Open House for eighth grade students and their parents

Wednesday, Nov. 29 from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

For more information, call 843-3636.

All are invited to attend.

Armand J. Fasoli, 69

A funeral Mass for Armand J. Fasoli, 69, of Quincy, a retired Boston building inspector and a World War II veteran, was celebrated Nov. 18 at St. Ann's Church.

Mr. Fasoli died Nov. 15 at Cardinal Cushing Hospital, Brockton.

A native of Italy, he moved to the United States with his parents and brothers when he was 8 years old.

For a time, he and his brother, Nicholas Fasoli, operated their own construction business working primarily on warehouses and other commercial buildings.

Armand Fasoli joined Local 4 in Boston, the heavy equipment operators' union. He worked both on union jobs and in his own business for some time.

He worked as a building inspector for 15 years, retiring in 1981.

Mr. Fasoli was both an Army and Navy veteran, serving first in the Navy and then switching to the Army. He saw wartime duty in North Africa and was wounded in action there. He also was a drill sergeant and spent eight years in the military.

He enjoyed going to golf driving ranges and horse and dog tracks. He also traveled to Florida and New Hampshire.

A resident of Quincy for two years, he previously lived in Canton, Milton and Hyde Park.

He is survived by his wife, Matilda A. (Delsignore) Fasoli; two sons, Paul E. Fasoli and Francis A. Fasoli, both of Quincy; his brother, Nicholas Fasoli; and nine grandchildren.

Burial was in Knollwood Memorial Park, Canton.

Quincy 65 years ago.

Wife of the late Joseph C. Croghan, she is survived by several nieces and nephews. She was the mother of the late Joseph C. Croghan Jr. and the late Ralph L. Croghan.

Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were by the Sweeney Funeral Home, 74 Elm St., Quincy.

Margaret M. Croghan, 91

A funeral Mass for Margaret M. (Burns) Croghan, 91, of Quincy, a former supervisor at Filene's Department Store in Boston for many years, was celebrated Nov. 18 at St. John's Church.

Mrs. Croghan died Nov. 14 at Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a long illness.

Born in Wakefield, she lived there before moving to

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

In essence Thanksgiving is as old as the spirit of worship. There were always thanksgiving festivals even among the pagan races.

We, in America, are blessed with holidays. We celebrate more than a dozen every year ... to say nothing of the reunions, picnics and fairs which we all enjoy.

Thanksgiving is the first holiday instituted on the American continent. We celebrate with our family gatherings, roast turkey, cranberry sauce and general replenishment of the inner man. (And let no impious cook forget the pumpkin pie!)

It is true that we have strayed a little from the significance given to the day by those God-fearing ancestors of ours and are perhaps inclined to think only of joyous reunions and delights of the well-laden table.

Let us all this Thanksgiving strive not to lose the true significance of this happy day. Let us be grateful to God for our personal safety and comfort, and for the rich, beautiful nation in which we live. Let us also be thankful for those courageous men and women whose names have lived in the history and romance of our country. We do truly have so much to be thankful for ...

Dominic J. Iacqua, 59 Plasterer, Active In Scouting

A funeral Mass for Dominic J. Iacqua, 59, of Quincy, a Korean War veteran, a plasterer for 36 years and an active Boy Scout, was celebrated Monday at St. John's Church.

Mr. Iacqua died Nov. 15 at Brigham and Women's Hospital, Boston.

For the past five years, he made an annual trip to Haiti with the St. Boniface Haiti Foundation, a group dedicated to helping the poor of that troubled nation.

Active in church affairs, he also cooked and donated sauce to St. John's Baptist Church for the annual St. Anthony Festival.

The father of nine children, he became involved in Boy Scouting many years ago when his oldest son joined.

A recipient of the Silver Beaver Award, the highest honor awarded volunteers by the Boy Scouts of America, he helped renovate Camp Massasoit in Cedarville in the early 1980s.

His trade was plastering but he did masonry work as well. The shoveler facility at Camp Massasoit is his handiwork.

He was a member of Union Local 10.

Mr. Iacqua's Boy Scout activities included membership on the committees for Troop 10 at the Quincy Jewish Community Center, Troop 20 at St. Ann's Parish and Troop 25 at Our Lady of Good Counsel Parish.

He was past vice chairman of the Blue Granite District Greater Boston Council of the Boy Scouts of America; a charter member and former president of the Massasoit Campers Association; and scouting coordinator of Camp Master Service Post 110. He was currently active in scouting.

Mr. Iacqua served in the Army during the Korean War and was a member of the Cavanagh Chapter of the Disabled American Veterans. He was also a member of the North Quincy Knights of Columbus.

A Quincy resident for 26 years, he was born in South Boston and attended Boston schools. He lived in Norwell before moving to Quincy.

Husband of the late Joan (Phipps) Iacqua, he is survived by four sons, Peter J. Iacqua of Plymouth, Dominic J. Iacqua of Hanover and Joseph J. Iacqua and Paul A. Iacqua, both of Quincy; five daughters, Joan Marie Engrassia of Hingham, Catherine Mosesso of Braintree, Mary E. Iacqua of North Hampton and Anne Marie Iacqua, both of New Hampshire, and Patricia M. Iacqua of Quincy; his mother, Santa (Macchia) Iacqua of Quincy; two brothers, Joseph J. Iacqua of Providence, R.I., and Anthony F. Iacqua of New Hampshire; two sisters, Mary V. Iacqua and Frances Iacqua, both of Quincy; and a friend, Anne Cavanaugh of Quincy. He was also the son of the late Joseph Iacqua.

Burial was in Pine Hill Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to the Carney Hospital Foundation, 2100 Dorchester Ave., Dorchester, MA 02124.

Mr. Bishop died Nov. 15 at Quincy Hospital after a long illness.

He was a member of the North Quincy Senior Citizens and Fore River Senior Citizens.

Born in England, he lived in Quincy 68 years.

Husband of the late Petronella "Nellie" (Weydt) Bishop, he is survived by two daughters, Johanna Brennan of Brockton and Jeanette Graham of Quincy; 18 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren. He was the father of the late Joseph B. Bishop.

Burial was in New Calvary Cemetery, Boston.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Geraldine M. Connors, 66 Founded Germantown Yacht Club

A funeral Mass for Geraldine M. (Morgan) Connors, 66, of Ormond Beach, Fla., formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck, by Msgr. James Keating, cousin of Mrs. Connors.

She died Nov. 16 at home after a long illness.

Burial was in Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

She was the founder and first commodore of the Germantown Yacht Club, which has only women members. The yacht club was organized when membership in some yacht clubs was restricted to men. A group of women saw the need for a women's-only club.

She was a retired switchboard operator at the former Quincy City Hospital, now Quincy Hospital, for 15 years.

Mrs. Connors received the Basil Q. Emanuel Award for heroism in 1954 for saving a child's life.

She was a World War II Coast Guard (Spars) veteran.

She graduated from South Boston High School in 1941.

She is survived by her husband, James M. Connors, Sr., two sons, James M. Connors, Jr., of Ormond Beach, Fla., and Gerald P. Connors of Quincy; three daughters, Marianne Collier-Keith of Quincy, Cathleen Cooke of Jacksonville, Fla., and Linda Connors of Ormond Beach; two brothers, Robert J. Morgan of Quincy and Charles E. Morgan of Falmouth; a sister, Margaret M. O'Neil of Quincy and Florida; six grandchildren and many nieces and nephews. She was the mother of the late Thomas W. Connors and the sister of the late Walter F. Morgan, Thomas F. Morgan and John Simpson.

Funeral arrangements were by the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

'Drug And Alcohol Abuse Awareness Month'

November has been proclaimed "Drug and Alcohol Abuse Awareness Month" in Quincy by Mayor Francis X. McCauley.

The proclamation reads: "It is the goal of all organizations that deal with the awareness of drug and alcohol abuse, to motivate people to a more active participation in programs of awareness, and

"Increasing recognition is being given to the role of the family, schools and community organizations for their role in creating awareness of the conditions that contribute to substance abuse; and

"Quincy Public Schools and the City of Quincy Substance Abuse Team have programs aimed at focusing public attention upon the seriousness of drug and alcohol abuse and work being done by the local agencies to encourage people to rediscover resources, and in general, to motivate people into becoming aware."

McCauley asks all community leaders to join together in a city-wide effort this month to raise all citizen's awareness of drug and alcohol abuse.

Shea Rink Open For Limited Public Hours Only

The MDC, which is financially strapped because of the state budget crisis, has opened Shea Rink in West Quincy for limited public skating, a spokesperson said Monday.

According to Leanne Del Vecchio, the rink, which had been figured not to open publicly at all this winter, will be open a total of 21 hours during the week.

The specific hours are: Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to noon; Friday, from 7 to 9 p.m. and Sunday, 10 a.m. to noon and 2 to 4 p.m.

"While we are certainly facing difficult times due to the Commonwealth's fiscal emergency, we realize the importance of public skating to the community," MDC Commissioner M. Ilyas Bhatti said.

"However, we are dangerously short on staff and feel we can only safely accommodate public skating on a limited basis."

Because of cuts made to the MDC's operations and maintenance budget, the agency was unable to hire skate guards to patrol the ice during public skating hours. Members of the MDC's Reservations and Historic Sites Unit have been trained as skate guards and are now working at the rinks.

The rinks, Del Vecchio pointed out, are still extremely understaffed. Last year, there were 189 full-time and seasonal workers to run its 22 rinks. This year, there are only 89.

"Staff who were in the reservations and historic sites unit are now in the rinks. We couldn't hire seasonal workers," she said.

Del Vecchio said the commissioner is looking at all possibilities to better serve the public. She mentioned the MDC is considering using volunteers but added there is a "serious liability problem" with that option.

More Than $1,200 In Prizes

Looking for some holiday cheer and perhaps an early Christmas present to yourself?

The Wollaston Business

Association's holiday festival "An Evening In Wollaston" Saturday, is where you'll find them.

The festival will feature holiday music by choral singers and bell ringers, the lighting of Christmas decorations and the drawing of more than $1,200 in prizes from Wollaston shops and businesses.

For the fourth year in a row, the Wollaston Business and Professional Association is decking their halls and offering free prizes to get the holiday spirit rolling.

There will also be a special movie matinee and of course, a personal appearance by Santa Claus.

Expectations are high that this will be the best festival ever.

"This is our fourth year and each year the festival gets a little bit bigger and we get a little more interest. The festival usually grows every year so we expect more people to be on hand this year," said Jeanne O'Brien of O'Brien's Bakery.

"We invite everyone in Quincy and other surrounding communities to come and enjoy the festivities," O'Brien added.

The festival will begin at 3 p.m. at the Wollaston Theatre, 14 Beale St., with a showing of "Scrooged," last year's holiday hit movie starring Bill Murray.

After the movie, the business district will await Santa's arrival, scheduled for 5 p.m. Mr. Claus will ride aboard a Fire Department truck down Beale St. to the Bank of New England where the official lighting of the Christmas decorations will take place.

Mayor Francis McCauley and Santa will have the honor of switching on the holiday lights in the bank parking lot at 5:15 p.m.

Among the special guests who will attend are Senator Paul Harold, Representative Michael Morrissey, Council President Patricia Toland, Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan and At-Large Councillors Stephen McGrath and Tim Cahill.

Once again this year, children will be escorted by volunteers to the Wollaston Theatre after the lighting ceremony where they can have a professional photograph taken with Santa until 6:30 p.m.

Fine Light Photography of Wollaston, a professional photography studio, will set up inside the theatre and take photos which will be developed within minutes.

Photos will cost $2.50 or only $2 if a special flyer is presented at the time of the order. The flyers will be available at participating businesses in Wollaston.

The musical entertainment will begin at 4:45 p.m. with performances by the Quincy Choral Society and the Beechwood Chamber players.

Free balloons and lollipops will be available throughout the festival.

Festivities will conclude at 7 p.m. when participating businesses from the Wollaston Business Association draw prizes from coupons in this week's Quincy Sun. The coupons are on pages 14 and 15. Coupons expire Saturday unless indicated otherwise.

Participating merchants and their prizes include:

Balloons and Stuff, 690 Hancock St., save $1 on any $10 purchase, $2 on any $20 purchase and $5 on any $30 purchase.

Bay Pointe Marina Chooses Dock Manufacturer

Bay Pointe Marina, 64 Washington St. Quincy, has chosen Atlantic Marina Services Corporation of Long Beach, Calif., to manufacture its all-new dockage system.

The Atlantic system is unique due to its unparalleled stability which results from the use of a patented monocoque design principle which employs skin panels to absorb tension and compression stresses caused by wind and rain.

Other Atlantic projects include Trump's Castle Marina, Atlantic City; Chandler's Wharf, Portland, Maine and Rows Wharf Marina, Boston.

When completed next spring, Bay Pointe Marina will provide dockage for 232 boats up to 110-feet in length. All of the docks will be wired for telephone, electricity and cable television.

Additional improvements include a new 50-ton travelift, complete repair service, shower and laundry facilities and a new gas and diesel fuel dock.

North Jayvees Roll By Quincy, 20-8

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity football team defeated Quincy, 20-8, last Saturday to finish with an 8-2 record. Quincy finished at 7-3.

Quincy was put in a hole right at the start, starting on its own 17 and getting off a bad punt to its 35. A face mask penalty put North on Quincy's 30. North's ace running back, Chris Murray (18 carries for 171 yards), picked up eight on his first carry and went the remaining 22 for the first Raider score. Rich Brooks passed to Mark Kelleher for the two-point conversion.

Murray added two more touchdowns later. Great defensive play by Mike Oliva and Chris McCallum kept the Presidents bottled up and Oliva recovered a fumble on North's 45 to set up another touchdown.

Murray ran for 25 yards, then Brooks found Mike Herman for 11 yards to Quincy's 14. Murray added six more and scored his second TD from the eight.

Quincy came back strong as quarterback Pat Gallagher raced 37 yards to midfield and his pass to Chris Walker for 25 yards gave Quincy its only score. Gallagher again hit Walker for the two points.

Brooks and Kelleher hooked up for a 30-yard pass but Quincy held on and North remained in front, 14-8, at halftime.

Early in the third quarter Murray scored his third touchdown on a 48-yard run which saw him break through a horde of Quincy defenders.

Gallagher put on a fine passing display in the fourth quarter, completing passes to Bob Crespi, Dan Thackery and Dave Chapman before he left the game with an injury. Gary Collins took over on the North 24.

A pass to Walker almost gave the Presidents another score but defender Jason April batted the ball away.

North's April, Mark Cocozza, Adam Strout, Mark Zych, Jon D'Angelo, Sean Moran, Derek Colantonio, Chris Melchin, Pat Faherty, Adam Somerville, Chris Peck, Brendon O'Connell, Will O'Donnell and Mike Picariello all received praise from coaches Tom Carter and Peter Chisom.

Quincy coach Bob Noble hailed the performances of Crespi, Chapman, Thackery, Gallagher, Walker and Collins.

Quincy Frosh Breeze, To Finish Undefeated

The Quincy freshman football team, which last year defeated North Quincy for the first time in six years, rolled to a 37-8 victory over the young Raiders last week to finish unbeaten at 6-0-1. North finished at 5-2-1.

The young Presidents wasted no time in scoring as Noel DiBona raced 48 yards the first time they had the ball. Dave Bogan added the two-point conversion.

A 37-yard punt return by Rob Kane increased Quincy's lead to 14-0.

Sinclair went 35 yards for a touchdown and Liam Higgins added the two points.

Kane, on a keeper, turned his right side for a 24-yard touchdown and DiBona added the two points for a 22-8 Quincy lead.

In the third quarter Mike Dern set up the fourth Quincy score with a 35-yard run to North's right and DiBona bulled over from the four.

The following kickoff put North in a hole on its six-yard line. A bad snap over the kicker's head gave Quincy two more points on a safety.

Quincy drove 62 yards for its final score. Kane and Bogan carried to the two from where Mike Kavanaugh scored. DiBona kicked the final point of the game.

DiBona, Kane, Bogan, Dern and Kavanaugh stood out for the Quincy frosh, who had their best looking team in years.

For North Josh Gott, Dave Reinhart, Erik Delorey and Sinclair were standouts.

3 Russian Youth Hockey Teams Play Quincy At Arena

Three youth hockey teams from Russia recently visited the area and played American teams at the Quincy Youth Arena.

The young players, 12 and 13, were allowed to be housed with the American boys, a first for such young Russian players.

Two North Quincy boys, Eric Zimmerman and Andrew Vermette, hosted two Russian boys.

The Russians went to Atlantic Middle School and went to classes with Zimmerman and Vermette. Although language was somewhat of a problem, communication was possible with an American-Russian dictionary.

Vermette, Zimmerman, David Pacino and Doug Nolan, who play for the Boston Junior Bruins, went to Boston Garden with the Russian team to see a Bruins practice session. The group toured Boston City Hall and Fanueil Hall and had lunch at McDonald's.

Gifts from Atlantic Middle School were given to the young Russians visiting Zimmerman and Vermette by principal Mrs. Laura Bogan and assistant principal Gerry Butler.

Raymer: 'Everyone Is Ready' Presidents Peak At Right Time

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy football team finds itself in the same position it was last year going into the 57th Thanksgiving Classic.

Just as it did last season, Quincy got off to a slow start but has peaked at the right time and goes into the game with impressive wins in its last two games.

"It is the same story with us," said coach Jack Raymer. "We struggled for a while, but we played some pretty strong teams, especially Peabody and Weymouth North. Now we have everyone ready and did a good job in our last two games. We'll be ready and it should be another great game."

Just as last season, the Presidents take a 4-5 record into the game and Raymer hopes for a repeat of last year when they won, 29-21.

"A key to our improvement has been the steady progress of quarterback Mike Flavin, who has come along well and did an excellent job in the last two games," Raymer said. "He gives us a well-balanced attack with Mark Bogan running exceptionally well and Lou Pagnani also running well. Flavin has some fine receivers in Jim Munroe, Chris Fay, sophomore Chris Walker and Bogan, who has done everything for us."

Bogan scored 37 points in the last two games, is the leading scorer going into the game and is the number two scorer in the Suburban League with 64 points. He not only is running well, but he is a fine pass receiver, runs back punts and kickoffs and stands out defensively. He has gained more than 1000 yards overall, running and pass receiving.

Defensively the Presidents have been tough, especially in the last two games. Co-Capt. Tom Morrell and Joe Baker have anchored the line and have played well both ways.

Quincy will have Munroe and Steve McInnis at tight end, Fay and Walker wide receivers, Baker and Tony Madden tackles, Morrell and Mike Tempesta guards and Rich Lallis center.

Flavin will start at quarterback with Bogan and Steve O'Donoghue at halfback and Pagnani at fullback.

Also due to see action on offense are Graham Chevy at guard, Bill Cantelli at wide receiver and Bill Reardon at running back.

Defensively the Presidents will have Chevy and Baker ends, Madden and Dave Johnston tackles, Scott Buckmann nose guard, Morrell and Munroe line backers, O'Donoghue and Reardon corner backs and Bogan, Fay and Pagnani defensive backs.

Ali Sleiman at line backer and Gary Collins at corner back will also play on defense.

"I expect another really tough game and I respect North Quincy's players at the skill positions, they can kill you," said Raymer. "(Dan) Gilmarin is an outstanding runner and we will have to stop him."

McPhee: 'We Will Be Ready' Raiders Have Two Matters To Settle

The North Quincy football team goes into the Thanksgiving Classic with five wins in its last six games and hopes to get even for the disappointments of the past two years.

Last season Ken McPhee's Raiders took a four-game winning streak into the game but were upset, 29-21.

Two years ago North was held to a shocking 14-14 tie by the 0-9 Presidents.

"The kids have a lot to get even for and they will be ready," said McPhee. "They have been playing excellent ball and I look for another exciting game."

A key man for the Raiders will be kicker Chris Deshler, who has brought back memories of Ed McAleny and Jackie Leone, who won a number of games for North in the past with their field goals. Deshler has kicked four field goals and 12 extra points and won the season's opener over Milton with two field goals. He could be the difference in a close game. Deshler has also done some excellent punting this season.

Danny Gilmartin and Dave Kiley have done some excellent running and Gilmartin is the number five scorer in the Suburban League (60 points), said McPhee. "Kiley has come along well and has done fine ball carrying. These two, plus Keith Gott, combined with Jim Bryan's passing, give us a well-balanced attack."

"We have some fine wide receivers, including Kevin MacDougall, Deshler and Desmond Bellot, an exciting sophomore, and Quincy will have a lot of people to cover."

Bellot pulled North through a tough test with Medford in the last game, returning the second half kickoff all the way to Medford's 25 setting up the first score and catching two passes for the other two touchdowns.

Offensively North will have MacDougall, Deshler and Bellot as wide receivers. Evan Kiley at tight end, Tri-Capt. Alex Malasi and Tri-Capt. Scott Leonard at tackle, Scott Kemp and Mike Iacobacci at

"We have the usual bumps and bruises, but we will have everyone ready," McPhee said. "Quincy is peaking at the right time and I have a lot of respect for them. (Mark)

Both Quincy and North Quincy have the same records going into Thursday's game as they did a year ago.

North takes a 6-3 record into the game with five wins in its last six games, while Quincy has a 4-5 mark after winning its last two in a row.

5 Ties, Including 4 Scoreless Quincy Has Edge, 28 Wins To North's 23

Going into Thursday's 57th game, Quincy has won 28 games and North Quincy 23.

Five games have ended in ties. Four have been scoreless ties in 1934, 1937, 1940 and 1983, while the 1987 game ended in a 14-14 tie.

Quincy has the longest win streak in the series, winning five in a row from 1954 through 1958. Quincy also won four straight from 1946 through 1949.

North's first five teams were unbeaten in the series, winning in 1933, 1935 and 1936 and playing to scoreless ties in 1934 and 1937.

Quincy Girls Bow In State Final Overtime

It was a dream match and it more than lived up to all expectations.

The Quincy girls' volleyball team, defending state Division I champion seeking its fourth state title in eight years, faced Case High of Swansea, last Saturday night before more than 1000 fans at Waltham High for the Div. I state championship.

Quincy went into the match with a 22-0 record and the Suburban League champion. Case was 24-0, the South Coastal League champ for the past five seasons and the Division 2 state titlist for the past three years. It was promoted to Div. I this year when the enrollment limits were lowered.

The championship match went the full five-game limit with Case dethroning Quincy as the Div. I winner with a 3-2 victory which featured two overtime games.

Case took a 68-match winning streak into the title match and stretched it to 69 matches with a 15-12 victory in the fifth and deciding game.

The first game went into overtime with Case pulling out a 16-14 victory with Quincy's big hitters, Chris Barrett and Melanie Sullivan, battling Case's Junior Olympian Aimee Lecomte and Kathy Kelly.

The second game also went into overtime with Quincy prevailing, 17-15. Elizabeth Vo served eight straight points to make it deuce as Sullivan scoured the net and peppered Case with four spikes. Randi Gaura served up the last two points for Quincy.

Case came back to win the third game, 15-7, but Quincy refused to die and, with Gaura serving nine straight points, was easily won, 15-4, to set up the fifth and deciding game.

"Quincy is by far the best team I've ever seen," said Case coach Christine Stanton. "But tonight Quincy had a real tough time getting going."

"This was one of the finest matches I've been involved in," said Quincy coach Tom Henderson. "Both teams played outstanding ball and Case deserves all the credit in the world. They have a fine team."

An interested spectator was former Quincy star and present Notre Dame of Hingham coach Donna Brinkley, whose team lost to Case in the quarterfinals.

Quincy had moved into the finals with a 3-0 (15-5, 15-5, 15-5) win over Bellingham, while Case had ousted Chelmsford, 3-0.

The first Ladies had made short work of league rival Brookline, winning 15-6, 16-6, 15-7 to win another East/Central Sectional championship.

"We played well tonight, as well as we've played all year," said Henderson. "We're playing like we're capable of and if we continue we'll do just fine."

Junior Lori Novak led Quincy at the service line with 15 points and contributed steady defensive work throughout the match. Junior Chris Barrett had eight service points and made kills at will.

Capt. Randi Gaura was another key and Melanie Sullivan also played well. Jennifer Richmond and Elizabeth Vo also contributed to the win.

In the sectional semifinals Quincy defeated cross-town rival North Quincy, 3-0 (15-9, 15-6, 15-11).

"Quincy is very tough with a great defense and we knew we couldn't overpower them and knew we'd need a break or two, which we didn't get," said North coach Jim Rendle. "We have only one senior and we made too many rookie mistakes in judgment, which comes with our inexperience, but I'm already looking forward to next year."

North Quincy had opened tournament play with an impressive 3-0 victory over Boston English.

Kara Sullivan, Brenda Hayduk, Tristen Mastrogacomo, Shana Cobban, Jill Haynes and Heather Rendle all played well for the Raidersettes, who finished up at 15-5.

Annette Pascarelli Art At Conference

North Quincy High School sophomore Annette Pascarelli was one of many young award winning artists from across the state who added their flair to the recent Massachusetts Superintendents and School Committees Conference held on Cape Cod.

Pascarelli's work had been completed during her freshman year and had won a Patriot Ledger Art Award. Her instructor, North Quincy's art teacher Brian Doherty, knows the excitement and honor of an art showing.

During October, the Heritage Plantation in Sandwich sponsored a one-man art show--the featured artist was Doherty.

He and Quincy Art Coordinator Robin McGoff anticipate continued recognition of Pascarelli's artistic talent.

WEEK OF: November 23

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're known as the zodiac's eternal student, and a student of life is one of your most notable qualities. The year ahead sees you returning to "basics"—taking a keen interest in gardening and/or environmental issues. Friendship circle widens over the coming 12 months.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19

You take a leadership position in a family matter; this may be one time where compromise is not the only answer. A reluctant friend or relative is more assertive, thanks to your example.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20

Contemplative Pisces can make two or three significant decisions at this time; the key is to act on them. Creative interests are spotlighted and may lead to renewed friendships.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20

Financial ideas are bright but require much more investigation. Inventive spirit is also soaring. Good week for updating wardrobe and decor, with the emphasis on natural, fall colors.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22

Cooperation is the theme of the week; through compromise and group effort, goals are reached on target. Exercise and fitness are current themes, but avoid excessive activity, especially through weekend.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

Commonsense approach is simple but effective, especially in areas of career and education. Good week for updating resume and promoting your abilities. Romance highlights an assertive manner.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22

Nostalgia is the week's theme as you return to a once-favorite haunt. Small problems should be looked after promptly. Influential friend may be more willing to help than you realize.

LEO — July 23 - August 22

Practical Leo takes an unconventional approach at this time—and the results are likely to pay off. Partner is more solitary, but you should not press. Health review is important.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

Generosity may not be your most famous trait, but your generosity with time and information is deeply appreciated by loved ones. Information arriving after weekend answers a pressing question.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22

Thursday-Sunday are favorable for travel, travel planning, and introductions to different cultures. Monday-Wednesday emphasize financial planning; spend as much time on this as you can afford.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21

A mixture of emotion and logic helps mend a slightly injured friendship. It is important to verify information that arrives at this time—no matter how trivial it may seem.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22

Thursday and Friday are favorable for creative activities, while the weekend emphasizes the intellectual side of your personality. Monday-Wednesday demand that you're super-observant about financial trends.

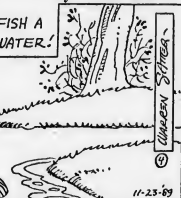

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20

A careful review of recent patterns helps you determine where a key relationship is headed. This week finds you successful in the areas of matchmaking and language studies.

BORN THIS WEEK

November 23rd, actress Vera Miles; 24th, actor Howard Duff; 25th, singer Tina Turner; 26th, singer Robert Goulet; 27th, producer David Merrick; 28th, actress Hope Lange; 29th, writer Bill Warren.

Nostalgic Notebook

By BOB CUSACK

Barbra Streisand made her acting debut in October, 1961 in an off-Broadway play called "Another Evening with Harry Stoones." The show only lasted for one performance.

The original title of the Broadway show "Oklahoma" was "Away We Go." The Oscar Hammerstein-Richard Rodgers adaptation of Lynn Riggs' book "Green Grow the Lilacs."

The Beatles had the top five songs on the Billboard Charts on April 4, 1964. Their number one song was "Can't Buy Me Love" on the Capitol label.

Elvis Presley was turned down when he and his backup group, the Blue Moon Boys auditioned for Arthur Godfrey's Talent Scouts in April, 1955.

It happened in November:

Apaches Stun Manets To Win Youth Title

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The North Quincy Apaches stunned the Houghs Neck Manets, 14-0, to win the Quincy Youth Football League championship Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Apaches turned the tables on the previously unbeaten and unscored upon Manets who had won the previous two meetings earlier in the season.

North Quincy capitalized on five Houghs Neck turnovers, four fumbles and an interception, which helped stop the Manet attack.

Tony Licciardi scored two touchdowns and rushed for a two-point conversion for NQ. Jason Fennessy ran for the conversion on Licciardi's second touchdown.

The Apaches were able to control the ball and eat up the clock by running the ball inside. Quarterback Mike Santoro did a nearly flawless job guiding NQ all afternoon. Licciardi did the bulk of the ball carrying.

Corey Chaggarris recovered a Manet fumble at the HN 45 late in the first quarter to set up the first score.

Licciardi scored from two yards out and ran for the conversion early in the second quarter for an 8-0 NQ lead.

Jason Picardi recovered a Manet fumble on the next series to halt a drive but Houghs Neck got the ball back near midfield when Matt Patten made a big hit on Licciardi who fumbled.

The Manets moved into position to tie the game as Mike Kane caught a pass for 12 yards and then ran for 11. QB Brian McPartlin then tossed to Mike Aupperle for a 17-yard gain to the Apache two-yard line.

However NQ's Steve Rayne recovered the third Manet fumble and the Apaches ran out the clock until halftime.

Rayne's fumble recovery was the key play of the game as it kept the Manets from gaining the momentum for the second half.

Both teams played solid defense in the scoreless first quarter but the Apaches put together a time-consuming drive in the final period capped by Licciardi's 25-yard TD scamper.

The Manets got outstanding performances from Kane, McPartlin, Rich Howard, Mike Bartlett, Jamie Schatzel, Ed Kenny, Ashley Davis, Harold Mortel, Patten, Joe Kelly, Aupperle, Jeff Craig and running back Sean Herron who played with an injured leg.

The Apaches were paced by Licciardi, Rayne, Santoro, Chaggarris, Mike Koski, Dave Carney, Jeremy Gott, Sean Halpin, Picardi, Fennessy, Nate Gott, Bill Crosby, and Justin Ackerman. Running back Sean Nee suffered a concussion early in the game contest and missed the rest of the game.

The Manets were coached by Dan Morrell and assistants Steve Craig, Dana Pringle and Howie Chadbourne. The Apaches were coached by Bill Peters and assistants Mike Peters, Steve Koski and Joe Bailey.

ADVERTISEMENT FOR BIDS

The Department of Public Works of the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for Contract No. 2, Construction of the Quincy Point Diversion/Interceptor until 10:00 A.M. local time, on December 14, 1989, at the office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, and at that time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work includes the construction of about 1835 linear feet of sewer lines 8-inches to 18-inches in size. Construction shall be completed within 115 consecutive calendar days plus 25 consecutive calendar days for permanent resurfacing.

A copy of the Contract Documents for the work may be obtained from the Office of Whitman & Howard, Inc., upon the deposit of $25.00 in cash or check made payable to Whitman & Howard, Inc. Contract documents will be mailed to prospective bidders upon request and receipt of a separate check for $10.00 made payable to Whitman & Howard, Inc., which will not be refunded.

The contract documents may be examined at the following locations during normal business hours:

Office of Dodge Reports Office of Whitman & Howard, Inc.
Tudantic Tower, Suite 300 45 William Street
400 Boylston Street Wellesley, Massachusetts Boston, Massachusetts

Office of the Commissioner of Public Works
55 Sea Street
Quincy, Massachusetts

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent of the Total Bid Price payable to the City of Quincy in the form described in the Information for Bidders.

Bidders' attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid after 60 days, Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded, after the actual date of the opening of general bids.

Complete instructions for filing Bids are included in the Information for Bidders.

The contract is funded in part by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

Bidders on this work will be required to comply with President's Executive Order No. 11246 and any amendments or supplements to that executive order. The requirements for bidders and contractors under this order are explained below and in the Information for Bidders.

Bidders attention is called to the EPA's Policy for Use of Small, Minority, Women's and Labor Surplus Area Businesses set forth in the Federal Register, Vol. 48, No. 60 dated March 28, 1983, and to the recipients guidance for utilization of minority business enterprises in procurements under EPA assistance agreement. Copies of each are included herein. The policy in brief states that: "It is EPA policy to award a fair share of subagreements to small, minority, and women's businesses. The recipient must take affirmative steps to assure that small, minority, and women's businesses are used when possible as sources of supplies, equipment, construction and services."

Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) and Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) policies of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the City of Quincy are applicable to this contract. The Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection goal for this project is a minimum of eleven (11) percent MBE participation and five (5) percent WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms (found in the Appendix I of the document "C-FED, Special Conditions EPA") with the bid. Failure to comply with the requirements of this paragraph may be deemed to render a proposal nonresponsive. No waiver of any provision of this section will be granted unless approved by the Department of Environmental Protection.

David A. Colton

City of Quincy, Massachusetts
Commissioner of Public Works

Note: This Contract (subagreement) to be awarded as the result of this Advertisement for Bids is expected to be funded in part by a grant from the United States Environmental Protection Agency. Neither the United States nor any of its departments, agencies or employees is or will be a part of this agreement or any lower tier agreement. This agreement will be subject to the regulations contained in 40 CFR 33, in effect on the date of issuance of the assistance award for this project.

Adams Garage Expansion Meeting

A public meeting on a proposal by the MBTA to expand the parking garage at the Quincy Adams Red Line Station in South Quincy will be held Thursday, Nov. 30 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

The plan calls for 1,400 additional spaces. The garage presently has 2,000 spaces.

According to MBTA Spokesperson Peter Diamond, the spaces would be added above the existing surface lot. The new addition would be connected floor-by-floor with the present parking garage, he said.

The MBTA is holding the public meeting to inform residents of the authority's plans. No public hearing is required, Diamond said.

The authority anticipates advertisements for construction bids will go out the end of next year. Funds permitting, construction could begin the spring of 1991.

L.E.A. Group of Boston, an engineering and architectural firm, is designing the addition.

Cerasoli Resigns Audit Chairmanship

Tall Tex

Quincy Delegation Firm Against Tax Increase

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy's three state representatives stood united Monday against a tax increase proposal with Robert Cerasoli leading the way by resigning as chairman of the House Post Audit and Oversight Committee.

Cerasoli, who was appointed chairman of one of the largest House committees by Speaker George Keverian in January, 1985, submitted his letter of resignation to Keverian late Monday night. The resignation, which had not been formally accepted by press time, is effective Dec. 31.

According to Cerasoli's administrative aide, Frank Falacci, the representative could not side with Keverian and his tax proposal because he opposes it and believes it is not within the best interest of his constituents.

"I sincerely believe you have been done a great disservice by misleading revenue estimates from the administration and your own

ROBERT CERASOLI

Ways and Means Committee.

"At this point, nothing less than a complete reorganization of state government and massive cuts in 01, 02, 03 and 07 subsidiary accounts will avert an even greater crisis within a year of this new tax package," Cerasoli told Keverian.

Essentially, the representative believes the tax plan provides only a short-term solution to the state's fiscal problems. He feels long-term solutions should be adopted, such as reducing the number of full-time and part-time state employees as well as consultants.

As such, Cerasoli decided he could not stand behind the Speaker's plan and resigned to save Keverian from any embarrassment.

"It's with a heavy heart that I write you this letter," Cerasoli said, adding it was one of the most difficult and painful decisions he has ever made.

Over the years, Cerasoli and Keverian have become close friends and colleagues. Cerasoli, a seven-term legislator, and his wife, Jo Ann, met while she worked in Keverian's office.

"He owes it to taxpayers and his constituents to stand on the side of principal even over his own personal friendship with the speaker," Falacci said.

Last week, Keverian issued an ultimatum to his chairmen: either support the tax plan or resign. As of press time Tuesday, Cerasoli was the only chairman who resigned.

According to news reports, Keverian's plan calls for:

- Increasing the sales tax from 5 percent to 6.5 percent.
- Doubling the capital gains tax to 10 percent.
- Raising gasoline tax 10 cents over the next three years; six cents the first year and then two cents in each of the following two years.

In addition, lawmakers are considering making the temporary state income tax of 5 and three quarters percent permanent. The tax rose from five percent earlier this year and is supposed to end December of 1990.

With the resignation, Cerasoli will lose the $15,000 salary that comes with the position. He will still earn the representative's base salary of $30,000.

News of Cerasoli's decision spread quickly with several hundred people calling his office in support of his stand against the tax plan. Many callers, from the Quincy-South Shore area as well as central Massachusetts and the North Shore, urged Cerasoli to reconsider but Falacci said his decision is final.

Shea Calls Recount Off But Will Continue Probe

The race for Ward 4 councillor is finally over.

Or is it?

Thomas Fabrizio's victory Nov. 7 was made official after a recount of three precincts Tuesday. Joseph Shea, who lost to Fabrizio by 122 votes on Election Day, called the recount off after the recount showed Fabrizio with five more votes.

Shea filed for the recount Friday, Nov. 17.

However, Shea said he will continue with an investigation into possible illegal voting registration in the West Quincy area. Private investigators and a lawyer are compiling information and will decide what action to take in the near future, Shea said after the recount Tuesday.

The recount of Ward 4 Precincts 2, 3 and 5 took 90 minutes to complete. There were about 25 people handling the recount by hand.

The recount showed no change in Ward 4 Precincts 2 and 5 while Fabrizio received five more votes and Shea one more vote in Ward 4 Precinct 3.

The totals were:

27 Residents Entitled To Refunds

Twenty-seven Quincy residents are among the 1,681 Massachusetts people who are entitled to refunds from the Internal Revenue Service.

The refund money, which totals $951,222, represents federal tax refund checks mailed in 1989 and were returned to the IRS by the Postal Department as undeliverable.

Refunds range from $1 to $17,224.

Quincy residents on the list are:

Michael J. Moore, Lisa Yanarella, John F. and Priscilla A. Fitzgerald; Zaina Gassenheimer, Amy A. Shay, Wagner Olivera, Belle E. Tesler and Michael Tesler, Jeffrey Sardina, Judith White, Sheri M. Pettengill, Thomas J. Sutliff, Stephanie A. Buonasaro, Frances Stark, Marie G. and Paul F. Dooner, Tina M. Erskine, Angela Hamilton, Antonio and Marieta Remigio, George A. Finn, Ho Shait Ho, Eugene W. Majewski, Barbara A. Whalen and Zadick and Elmas Ay.

Taxpayers listed should call the IRS toll-free at 1-800-424-1040. IRS personnel will assist them in applying for re-issuance of their refund check.

Taxpayers should be prepared to provide IRS telephone assistants with proper identification: name, address and social security number.

It is not necessary for a taxpayer to consult or engage the service of a locating or searching service or anyone to obtain information about these refunds.

2 Fires Cause $425,000 Damage, Leave 9 Homeless

By JANE ARENA

Two multi-alarm fires within 15 hours of each other last week caused a combined $425,000 in damage and left nine people homeless. No serious injuries were suffered.

A single family home at 5 Union St., owned by Gregory McMahon, was gutted on Thursday, Thanksgiving Evening. The home was occupied by McMahon, his wife Karen and their three children. There was no one in the building at the time of the blaze.

The first alarm sounded at 7:01 p.m. when a neighbor saw smoke coming from the building and called the Fire Department.

The Mahons themselves had called the Fire Department just over two hours before the fire at 4:45 p.m., when they smelled smoke and saw sparks from a ceiling light fixture in the kitchen.

"When we got there, there was an odor of electrical fire and smoke around the wiring," Fire Chief Paul O'Connell said Tuesday. "We checked around the kitchen light fixture and took that down. We found evidence of deterioration in the wiring of the fixture and inspected a circuit panel in the cellar."

Chief O'Connell said that firefighters found that a circuit breaker had been tripped, indicating an electrical short.

McMahon was instructed at that time to leave the breaker in the tripped or off position and to call an electrician in the morning or as soon as possible, Chief O'Connell said.

"Members of the fire department also checked the walls for heat and checked all of the electrical outlets in the building," O'Connell said.

"We thoroughly checked for any evidence of smoke, heat or fire and, at that time, found no evidence and had nothing else to react to. The building, we felt, was safe and secure."

When the department was called back at 7 p.m. fire was discovered inside the walls of the building in concealed spaces, O'Connell said. The fire was found to be electrical and to have started in the laundry room/pantry area of the first floor.

"That area was somehow involved in the ignition," O'Connell said.

O'Connell said that he had "some unanswered questions" about the blaze.

"There were no occupants home, but the lights were all on and the back door had been forced open, open to the weather. The owner stated that they had left the home secure and the lights off."

O'Connell also said that burn patterns were "very confusing."

"Upon further investigation, at this time," Chief O'Connell said Tuesday, "I am of the opinion that in fact the fire was originated somehow in the electrical wiring."

The Chief added that heavy insulation in the house may have prevented firefighters from detecting the fire inside the walls during the initial inspection.

After the fire, the building was inspected thoroughly by Chief O'Connell, Deputy Chief Thomas Jackson, Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey, and Wiring Inspector Thomas Purpura.

"The Quincy Fire Department is always concerned when we have to go back to a structure we were at hours before. But I would like to state that if we had to do it over again we would have done nothing different. We had nothing else to react to."

The McMahon family was temporarily relocated to a Weymouth hotel by the Red Cross. According to a Red Cross spokesman on Tuesday, their case is "still open" and the family is currently seeking permanent housing.

A second fire occurred Friday morning in a two story home at 84 West St. The first alarm struck at 10:41 a.m. and quickly went to three alarms.

The home was occupied by Paul Bandini, his wife Anna and her mother Libby Tocci, who owned the house. James Mazza lived alone in an apartment on the second floor.

According to Fire Chief Paul O'Connell, the fire began in a small second floor room at the front of the home used by Bandini as an office. The blaze spread quickly to several rooms and the attic.

O'Connell said the home sustained an estimated $275,000 in damage. The first floor sustained water damage and the second floor heat and smoke damage.

Six firefighters suffered minor injuries during the blaze.

Restaurant License Transfer

The License Board Tuesday granted a request from Steven A. Faber, of 214 Washington Corporation, 214 Washington St., for a transfer of the common victualer-all alcoholic license as held by Fil's Inc. of Quincy.

The location is the site of the former Brittany's Food and Spirits which has been out of business, the board noted.

Faber, who will manage the restaurant, told the board he has about four years experience in the food industry.

He told the board that he has already invested "thousands of dollars" into cleaning up the establishment and noted that the Health Department has given recommendations after a preliminary inspection. He said the department's recommendations are currently being met.

Faber also asked the board for a cabaret license but stipulated that entertainment would be limited to one musician, perhaps a guitar player, and said that he did not want to have dancing.

Police Captain Paul Nestor suggested that Faber "get the place stabilized" before adding music.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro agreed with Captain Nestor, asking that the board stipulate that no cabaret license be granted at this time.

"Music sometimes brings in an element you don't need in a restaurant," he said, "hold off on the music and see how things go."

The board granted the license without the cabaret license.

Seeking Elwin Merrill

Mayor Francis McCauley has received a letter from a man trying to locate Elwin Lawrence Merrill who was originally from Quincy.

Merrill is believed to have served in the U.S. Navy from June, 1942 until October, 1944. During that time he was assigned to the U.S.S. Chevalier and was friends with John W. Burden.

Burden's son, Kurt Bocian, has contacted McCauley for assistance in locating Merrill. Anyone with helpful information should contact him at 24853 96th Ave., S. #1, Kent, WA 98031-4802 or call the Mayor's Office at 773-1380, ext. 301.

But Not Against Sheets

O'Connell Not Ruling Out Another Mayoral Run

By JANE ARENA
Peter O'Connell says he doesn't know whether he'd run again for mayor. But he hasn't ruled it out. What he does know is that he would not run a second time against James Sheets.

In fact, at the end of the 10 month campaign, moments after he conceded, O'Connell offered his assistance to the new Sheets administration. That help was readily accepted, though specifics were not discussed.

There are no hard feelings on the part of O'Connell, just some genuine admiration for his opponent.

"I think he should write a book on how to win an election," O'Connell said during a recent interview with The Quincy Sun. "It would be well-read."

"Jim Sheets ran a great campaign. I think he had been planning how to do it for a long time and he stayed right on his game plan and executed it well. It was very clean and I give him a lot of credit for that."

But O'Connell, who, as a political newcomer, beat out more experienced preliminary candidates, former Mayor Joseph LaRaia and City Councilor Stephen McGrath, gives himself a bit of credit too, admitting he had some tough obstacles to overcome.

"Once you're characterized as a millionaire developer," he says, "you're dead. That's not a label you can survive."

"I have to look back on the race, and so many people had told me that you really have paid your political dues, which is an interesting concept. You really have to be before the people more than once, and so many people have not won on their first try ... and I don't know if that will be my first and last try. Only time will tell."

His first experience in the political arena would surely prove a thorough education should he decide to run again. O'Connell says he learned a lot about the political process during the last 10 months.

"I learned a great deal," he reflects, "and it really confirmed a lot of suspicions. I think that politics is much more personalities and perceptions than issues."

He imparts that he also received some political advice along the way.

"I was told not to talk on the issues," he says, "because I would be a good candidate, but I'd never by mayor." (He declined to disclose that particular advisor, saying only that it was a "high elected official who knows what he's doing.")

"Every time you talk on the issues," he adds, "you're losing people because those people don't have time to really get into the issues ... I was told that was the case and that person was right, although I still think, if I did it again, you do talk on the issues ... If I were elected, I didn't want any surprises."

"I wanted people to know what I said, where I stood and what I wanted to do. I think I said a lot."

O'Connell did a lot during his campaign too. He fought long and hard. And, he says, it was an enjoyable and worthwhile experience.

"It's quite a thing to go through," he says. "I've always looked at it as an obligation in a democratic society ... the campaign itself was a lot of hours. It wasn't that it was physically difficult, it was just totally consuming."

"It is such an effort to put somebody in office," he adds. "And I can only imagine some of the effort on the part of the Sheets people ... there were a lot of good people involved in the process this year. It was a good year for politics in Quincy. You had a lot of good candidates, a lot of issues and the city wasn't torn apart ... but it's a lot of hard work ... I remember Winston Churchill once said 'Democracy is the worst form of government devised by man, except for all the others.' I think he must have said that right after an election. It's a lot of effort."

And why go to such an effort?

"Rather than just sit on the sidelines and be critical, I think some of the problems that the city was facing (such as the MWRA and the Old Colony railroad issues), required a lot of management expertise. I was a candidate because I thought I could contribute something to my city ... Quincy has been very good to me."

One of the major thrusts of O'Connell's campaign was the issue of downtown renewal. He had proposed an urban park for the historic downtown area, which, he hoped would boost tourism in the city.

"That really would have been a priority for my administration," he says, "to try to get the city to recognize its heritage and to think about promoting tourism. I think we would have done well in that area. I was pleased to see Timmy Cahill's top City Council vote because he has been very out front on the downtown renewal issue."

And although O'Connell won't be able to do much in the way of his urban park proposal, he says he does hope to do something for the city as a private citizen.

During his campaign, O'Connell organized two big money-making events, which, he says, were some of the highlights of the entire 10 months. The Hawaiian luau and the trip to a Boston Red Sox game, attracted a lot of people, raised a lot of money, and provided a lot of fun.

"If you can do that, if you can sell 17 or 1800 tickets for somebody running for mayor," he says, "why not do it for a charitable cause?"

O'Connell hopes to run similar events next summer to benefit local charities, he says.

And what else does he have planned?

"I'll be spending a lot of time over the next couple of months just writing notes to people and answering some mail ... I've received literally hundreds of letters from people, just an outpouring of 'thank you's' for being a candidate, which is very nice."

But, perhaps as a hint to his future career plans, he added that he will also be keeping his eye on (if not his hand in) local and state politics.

"I'll certainly step up my reading of political materials and I'll be reading more about issues in government rather than just all business and financial magazines."

Finally, O'Connell says that he looks forward to spending more time with his family after working so hard for 10 months. And, he says, "it's time to reflect, to look back and to do some of the things that you want to do ... and that's not bad."

FOR PETER O'CONNELL, "It's a time to reflect, to look back, and to do some things that you want to do."

Pub Dennis Gets License At Hancock Plaza

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday gave the go-ahead for a Pub Dennis at 1515 Hancock St. in the Hancock Plaza Building.

There was no opposition to the granting of the license.

Robert Strberg, President of the Pub Dennis Company, Dennis N. Beausoleil, owner, and Arthur Simons, owner of the building at 1513-1537 Hancock St., were before the board Tuesday to request the common victualer-all alcoholic license for Quincy Food Service Corp., doing business as Pub Dennis.

The restaurant, which would seat 230 and hold a total of 250, would be comprised of a kitchen, a lounge area, a full dining room and a lunch dining room, Beausoleil said. He added that food would be served throughout the establishment.

"The basic thrust is a food restaurant," he said, adding that the 26 other Pub Dennis locations average about 27 percent liquor sales with the rest of the sales from food. No other location has ever had a liquor license violation, he said.

The nearest Pub Dennis is located in Weymouth. Beausoleil noted, and the Quincy location would be modeled closely after that restaurant, he said.

The hours of the operation will be Monday through Saturday 8 a.m. to 1 a.m. and Sunday 8 a.m. to midnight. According to state liquor regulations, no alcohol will be served before noon on Sundays.

The board had some question as to whether the restaurant would have a Hancock Street address or a Parkway address, as there will be direct access from both streets.

The board will check with City engineers to determine the street address this week.

According to Beausoleil the restaurant will be open in about six months.

McCauley To Be Honored At Breakfast

A breakfast tribute honoring Mayor Francis McCauley, outgoing Mayor of Quincy, will be sponsored by Beechwood Community Life Center Wednesday, Dec. 6, at the Sons of Italy Social Center, 120 Quarry St., Quincy.

Breakfast from 7:30 to 9 a.m. will be followed by a tribute given by Peter Kolson, master of ceremonies.

Friends of Beechwood, political figures, supporters, friends and admirers of Mayor McCauley are expected to show their support.

Tickets and more information are available by calling 471-5712. Proceeds from the breakfast will help to support the many services provided by Beechwood: Daycare, After School programs, Elder activities, music and enrichment.

"Mayor McCauley has been a tremendously strong advocate of and friend to Beechwood," said Joseph Daly, Chairman of the Board. "Whether by attending ceremonies and celebrations or by participating in the Senior Olympics and Elder day walkathons, Mayor McCauley has always given graciously of his time. Through his help, Beechwood Community Life Center has blossomed into an inter-generational center serving people 15 months old to 95 years old.

Sterling Students Visit Mass. Hospital School

Fourteen eighth grade students from Sterling Middle School, accompanied by physical education teacher Chris Prendiville and Mary Lydon, director of physical education for Quincy, recently visited the Massachusetts Hospital School.

The students first toured the facility including the gym where a physical education class was playing football from wheelchairs and a stretcher bed on wheels. The pool was the next stop where several elementary age children were enjoying the relaxing effect of the water with volunteer helpers.

The barn housing horses and goats led to some excitement as the animals were in a frisky and uncooperative mood. Students assisted in getting the animals where they belonged.

Students were then able to visit a "cottage" where the MHS students live, a facility closely resembling a college dorm. Students learned from their guide that MHS students include individuals with cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy or spina-bifida.

Touring the school building, Sterling girls could see students in various classrooms from the media center to shop classes. Most students, although physically handicapped, exhibited a normal to high level of intellectual capacity.

Next, the girls learned and practiced cooperation and trust in initiative games. On the MHS challenge course, students experienced the challenge of getting a wheelchair up a steep incline ramp, walking through a tire traverse and climbing a rope "scoop" ladder. After one student climbed the ladder, the next student was told to challenge herself by pretending she did not have the use of her lower body. Thin mats were placed on the ladder and Shannon Norton found herself inching her way up using only her upper body strength as she had to drag her legs up. She met the challenge.

After lunch, students were treated to a game of wheelchair basketball against several MHS students. The Sterling girls found it difficult not only maneuvering a wheelchair but also shooting a basketball into a 10-foot hoop from a seated position.

Because of all the fun they had, the students did not want to leave at the end of the day.

"It was fun meeting new people and meeting new challenges," said Susie O'Connell while Jamie Gally commented, "It was strange doing certain obstacles in wheelchairs although it was a real good experience and a lot of fun."

Sterling's drama department is considering putting on their production of The Lorax for the MHS students in the near future to further bring a greater understanding of this world of difference.

DeCristofaro Has It Wrapped Up

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro has the City Council presidency all wrapped up as neatly as a Christmas package complete with a bow on it.

The bow: he will unanimously be elected president by his colleagues at the City Council's meeting Tuesday Jan. 2 following Mayor-elect James Sheets' inaugural.

That may not come as too great a surprise to City Hall observers who have expected the gavel to be passed to DeCristofaro from Council President Patricia Toland.

Toland and DeCristofaro share seniority honors in the City Council with each entering their fifth term.

DeCristofaro, at age 66, is also the elder statesman of the council.

But while DeCristofaro's election to the council presidency may not be surprising, there is a bit of a surprise that goes with it.

Most observers have thought that DeCristofaro would stay in the council to serve as president and then retire.

Not so. "I have no plans to retire," he says. "I'm not ready to leave. I feel good physically and right now I would say I will run again."

That could leave several potential candidates for the Ward 2 seat waiting in the wings for at least two more years.

Names that have been mentioned as those interested in the seat include:

Mike Marshall, son of Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall who started his own political career as Ward 2 councillor.

Michael Condon, son of Joanne Condon, former Ward 6 councillor and unsuccessful candidate for mayor.

Ron Mariano, who in his first run for public office topped the School Committee field earlier this month.

Gary Fine, son of WJDA news editor Herb Fontaine, who was fifth in the School Committee race in his first bid for public office this year.

But if they have their eye on the Ward 2 seat they are going to have to wait for DeCristofaro to vacate it. Or, they will have to try to take it away from him.

And that would be no easy trick.

DeCristofaro has been a popular and respected ward councillor. And, a worker.

He does his job quietly. He's not a headline hunter. As he says: "If people have a problem, they know where I am and they know I will do something to try to resolve that problem."

Some have criticized DeCristofaro -- and unfairly -- because the Quincy Shipyard closed and the sludge facility will be built there. He had no control over that and shouldn't be blamed.

The fact DeCristofaro, who was unopposed this year and got 1553 blanks at the polls, might reflect the unhappiness in Quincy Point over the shipyard closing and the sludge plant coming.

But any candidate who runs unopposed has to contend with blanks -- the invisible opponent.

Three other ward councillors who also were unopposed this year got their share of blanks, too: Ward 3's Larry Chretien had 1641; Ward 6's Tom Nutley, 1555 and Ward 5's Charles Phelan, 1,362.

Blanks are a political annoyance but shouldn't be dismissed too lightly.

DeCristofaro in his eight years as Ward 2 councillor has been blessed with an understanding and helpful wife.

Betty DeCristofaro and Ted grew up in Ward 2 and were childhood sweethearts. They will be married 42 years Dec. 14, a happy marriage that has produced four children and nine grandchildren.

Betty is active in the community and knows what is going on in Ward 2 and in the city as a whole.

So when the phone rings and there is a constituent on the other end and DeCristofaro is not home, Betty can intelligently talk with the caller and sometimes can solve the problem herself.

"She's like having a co-councillor," says Ted. It would appear right now that if anyone wanted to get DeCristofaro out of that Ward 2 they would have to use dynamite.

THIS YEAR'S Quincy-North Thanksgiving Day game was the fourth in the series that had to be postponed because of weather conditions and rescheduled for a Saturday, according to Dave Lubarsky, Quincy sports historian.

LUBARSKY

And North, which won this year's thriller, 27-26 has the upper hand in the rescheduled games.

The 1940 game was postponed because of snow that fell before Thanksgiving that year says Lubarsky. The two teams battled to a scoreless tie.

The 1962 game was rescheduled because of heavy rain. North won that one, 18-0. The 1971 game was also rescheduled because of heavy rain and North won that one 30-12.

Lubarsky notes that this year's game was the first one postponed because of snow that fell on Thanksgiving Day.

Lubarsky, incidentally, can rattle off just about every score in the 57-game series -- and who scored the touchdowns.

Abortion Opposed

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The eyes of the world are constantly fixed on the United States for guidance and direction. Especially presently the eyes of the world are fixed on America whose veterans in all wars died for "liberty and justice for all."

It is ironic that at this time when the eyes of the world are fixed on America, when in China the young Chinese erected an American symbol of liberty and died for it, that at this time when all over Europe the American ideals of "liberty and justice for all" are celebrated as never before, it is ironic, I say, that at this time a pro-death demonstration is organized in the American capital requesting death for unborn Americans.

What If...

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Prominent in this pro-death alliance is the woman who aspires for the office of governor of Massachusetts. That woman, Evelyn Murphy, who never rocked a cradle, preaches to her more fortunate pregnant sisters to engage willing physicians to kill their own unborn children for money.

And while the Communist world marches toward the sunlight with American ideals on its banners, in Washington, D.C. and elsewhere, Evelyn Murphy and her likes are out of step with the march of time. They march to the beat of a different drummer, "death to unborn Americans!"

Abortion is the abolition of only of the laws of nature, but also of all religious and secular ideals of man in all recorded history. Abortion is contrary to the most fundamental tenets of all world religions and of all codes of law of the civilized world.

The Roman Catholic bishops of America in their firm opposition to this lunatic frenzy, speak not only for all Christians, and all believers in a Supreme Being, but also for all Americans, living and dead, faithful to the ideals of "liberty and justice for all."

It is the supreme duty of the leaders of men, religious and political, to point the way, to lead and not to follow. President George Bush, probably the most ambitious of all American presidents since World War II, deserves the highest praise that in spite of all pressures he stands firm for life.

IT'S NOT JUST "FIRE INSURANCE" ANYMORE

Years ago, when homeowners or apartment dwellers purchased a fire insurance policy, they received little else for their money except protection against loss by fire. Today wise individuals, concerned with complete disaster protection, have a whole array of options which they can add to their basic fire policy.

For example, policy holders can now add replacement cost of contents should their valuables be destroyed by lightning, smoke, vandalism, windstorm, freezing or water damage. They can also customize policies with a Home Replacement Cost feature which guarantees the actual rebuilding of the covered dwelling even if the cost thereof is greater than the amount of insurance.

Sit down with a qualified agent today to discuss how you can save important dollars and, at the same time, provide the most complete protective package you can purchase anywhere.

Seek Yugoslavian Prisoner's Freedom At Broadmeadows School Students Stand Up And Also Write For Human Rights

Respect for freedom and human rights has been a significant, ongoing theme at the Broad Meadows Middle School in Quincy.

Students have been standing up for human rights and making their voices heard for the past two years, through their involvement in human rights classes, programs and projects both in and outside the community.

Recently, Broad Meadows formed a partnership with Channel 7's Ready to Go "Kids' Campaign for Human Rights." The partnership evolved out of the school's involvement with Amnesty International. Last year, Broad Meadows students chartered their first Amnesty International Club at the school.

Two weeks ago, Channel 7 R.T.G. staff members contacted teacher advisors Eileen Sadof and Ronald Adams and Principal Tom Hall to invite students to appear on the R.T.G. program. They learned of the students' active participation and commitment to the Human Rights campaign.

Students enthusiastically agreed to appear on the program to participate in the R.T.G. program campaign to free a young prisoner of conscience, Nafije Zendeli who has been imprisoned in Yugoslavia for asking to be taught in her native Albanian language.

Students appeared on the program and eagerly agreed to write letters to the Yugoslavian government, asking to free Nafije. Three hundred and fifty-eight letters were written by students in their language arts and social studies classes. A tremendous amount of energy was evident as faculty and students collaborated on the meaningful project.

In addition to the letter-writing campaign, R.T.G. and Broad Meadows held a recent Chain Day at the school. Every student and faculty member created and wore a chain to symbolize the imprisonment of not only Nafije, but other victims of human rights oppression in this country and throughout the world.

Among the featured guests at the school-wide assembly were Channel 7 News Anchor Katy Abel and R.T.G. Hosts Liz Callaway and Scot Reese.

A special guest was actress Tina Yothers, star of the hit television program "Family Ties" now in syndication. Yothers, a young activist from Amnesty International, accepted the students' letters.

Students also heard from Mercedes Momeni, a representative from Amnesty International.

During the assembly, a student representing each grade level read his or her letter of conscience beside a silhouette of the imprisoned young girl.

Eighth graders wanted to share their letters of conscience and impressions about chain day with the community. Here are excerpts from some of the letters written to the Yugoslavian government:

TINA AND FRIENDS—Broad Meadows Middle School students, from left, Denise Robbins, eighth grade; Lisa Chenette, ninth grade; Jennifer Harper, eighth grade and Jennifer Shaw, seventh grade, present a bag of letters to actress Tina Yothers, co-star of NBC's "Family Ties" sitcom. In back are Channel 7's "Ready To Go" personalities Katy Abel, Liz Callaway and Scot Reese. Their show inspired the idea of "Chain Day," where students write letters addressed to foreign governments asking them to release political prisoners.

Hollywood Learns Kilroy Was Here Before He Was Everywhere

The history of Quincy shipbuilding spans both coasts and several generations.

At their Chain Day assembly, students from Quincy's Broad Meadows Middle School were pleased to learn that their special guest star, Tina Yothers of TV's Family Ties, knows all about the saying "Kilroy Was Here."

Tina, who is 16, and lives in Hollywood, was rehearsing with the Meadows Students, when she noticed a "Kilroy Was Here" pendant on teacher Ron Adams. Tina stopped the rehearsal to approach Adams to inquire about the Kilroy pin. She explained that her mother once owned a similar pin as a young girl during World War II.

"The pin was good luck and meant a lot to my mother," said Yothers.

Her mother lost the pin several years ago and as mother and daughter have traveled around the world on various film locations, one of their rituals is to shop for a Kilroy pin. Tina's trip to Quincy ended her search for the pin. Tina knew of Kilroy, but didn't know of the Quincy origin of the saying.

The students took five minutes to teach her about James J. Kilroy, Fore River Shipyard rate setter whose unique signature was scrawled on the ships during inspection of work, spread all over the world during World War II. They explained how the Quincy Shipyard was one of the most famous in the world. Yothers politely asked the students if she could have a Kilroy pin. The students agreed that she passed the test and deserved a pin for her Human Rights activism and her knowledge of Quincy history. The students will make her a Kilroy pin.

Quincy High School student Margaret McLean was put in charge of mailing a Kilroy Was Here pin to the TV star. Margaret McLean was chosen because of her leadership and hard work regarding the establishment of a Living Shipbuilders Museum at the Fore River Shipyard, as well as the Southern Artery Shipbuilding Museum now being planned.

"I plan to surprise my mother with the pin this Christmas," said a surprised and relieved Yothers. "She'll be so happy! I had a great time in historic Quincy."

A Poem For Jafije

Denise Robbins, a seventh grader at Broad Meadows Middle School, wrote the following poem to the president of Yugoslavia to free 18 year old Jafije Zendeli who was arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced to four years in prison for petitioning for bi-lingual education in her school in Yugoslavia.

The poem was part of the letter-writing campaign by Broad Meadows students. More than 300 letters were sent to the Yugoslavian government.

Quincy's Yesterdays Finds John Adams 'Most Fascinating'

Author Catherine Drinker Bowen visited Quincy, escorted by Historian William Churchill Edwards, to do research on her forthcoming book on President John Adams.

She started out to write a biography of artist Charles W. Peale, Mrs. Bowen said, "but as I read more and more of that period the name of John Adams kept coming up and before long this spirited Quincy man had completely captivated me.

"To me, John Adams was the most fascinating figure of the Revolutionary period. I like his spirit, the way he fought with people and his amusing letters."

TEACHER RAPs KIDS

Miss Mary E. Costello, a third grade teacher at Coddington School for the past 50 years, said that today's children are neither as well behaved nor as studious as their parents were.

"Parents were more interested in their children's school life than they appear to be now," she said. "The trouble today is that youngsters are given too much freedom. They are allowed to see too many movies."

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Charles A. Ross conferred with Sen. John B. Mackay and Reps. William W. Jenness, Charles W. Hedges, Alfred B. Keith and Avery W. Thayer, acting headmaster of Thayer Academy, warned the Men's Brotherhood of the First Presbyterian Church: "Like anything big and worthwhile the United Nations needs time to work. It cannot solve overnight the problems that have plagued mankind for centuries." The Quincy Manets defeated the Plymouth County All Stars, 19-0, with Hank Woronicz, Charlie Cantelli, and Johnny Morrell scoring the touchdowns. Miss Anna L. Gelotte, the Mayor's secretary, was back at her desk after a week off recovering from a sprained ankle. "Living in a Big Way," starring Gene Kelly and Marie McDonald, was playing at the Adams Theater, corner School and Hancock Sts., where ladies were given Mt. Vernon Rose dinnerware. The Quincy Knights of Columbus planned to honor past Grand Knight Walter E. Erwin on his promotion to treasurer of the Quincy Trust Co. The political study group of the Quincy Hadassah Chapter met at the home of Mrs. E. David Starr of 260 Common St., West Quincy. Johnny Pesky, the Boston Red Sox shortstop, was the guest at a testimonial banquet given by the Montclair Men's Club for its baseball team in the Quincy Park League. A 1931 Nash sedan was on sale for $85 at Hancock Motor Sales, 330 Hancock St., North Quincy. The Quincy Coast Guard chapter was renamed in honor of Bosun's Mate 1/c Warren J. Nicholson of 114 Montclair Ave., Montclair, who was killed on Aug. 27, 1944 while on his 13th LST landing on the Normandy beachhead. Jane DeNicola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Romulus DeNicola of 68 Haviland St., Wollaston, was the winner of a 2-year-old baby contest sponsored by the Proparvulus Club. Fred Hoffstein was elected commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans post. Hamburger was 39 cents a pound and LaTouraine coffee was 53 cents for a one pound can at Quincy Market, 18 Chestnut St. City Councillor Clifton H. Baker introduced an ordinance to place the City Engineering Department under the jurisdiction of the commissioner of Public Works. Matteo Cordone and Antonio Infascelli were members of a Sons of Italy committee arranging a concert by Robert Menga, 12-year-old violin virtuoso at the Quincy High auditorium. Secretary Frank C. Hendry said the Quincy Housing Authority was seeking an appropriate name for the $400,000 veterans housing project that was to be built in West Quincy.

How To Help Your Low Back Pain

By DANIEL S. KARP, Lic. Ac.

Within the past few years there has been an increasing awareness of the usefulness of acupuncture in the treatment of many medical conditions.

Next to headache, backache is the most common complaint today. Of the many causes of back pain, the most frequent is rheumatism, in the form of fibrositis, lumbago, and "slipped disc."

It has been found that these disorders can often be traced to so-called trigger spots remote from the site of the pain. The problem can frequently be corrected by treating these offending trigger points with acupuncture.

The muscles along the meridian where these areas are discovered are in a state of tension.

Acupuncture treatment of disc pathology is similar to that for arthritis causing analog symptoms. Before subjecting a patient to the hazards of laminectomy or even a myelogram for disc pathology, acupuncture should be tried. It can relieve muscle spasm which is worsening the condition. Acupuncture is safer than many diagnostic procedures, including myelograms. It is also safer than traction and bed rest since such inactivity may result in thrombosis of leg veins.

Millions of people with crippling illnesses are suffering at this moment, having resigned themselves to a life with pain, not realizing that acupuncture could be of help. However, the effectiveness of acupuncture has been proven beyond doubt, with many satisfied patients attesting to its benefits.

Those who have personal experiences with acupuncture would say without hesitation that the gift of acupuncture to the world by the Chinese people should rank as one of the greatest gifts to mankind.

Only pre-sterilized, disposable acupuncture needles are used.

Keeping Pounds Off During The Holidays

By NANCY STOLFA Manager and Counselor Diet Center of Quincy

Keeping pounds off during the holidays is always difficult.

At no other time of the year are there so many fattening foods so readily available. Statistics say that Americans gain as much as 10 pounds between Thanksgiving and Christmas. If you can lose a few pounds or just maintain your present weight, you'll be ahead of the average person.

Probably the most important thing you can do is prepare yourself mentally for each event. Start by deciding before you leave your home what you will and won't eat. Picture in your mind the things you will eat and how much you'll enjoy them. Follow that by picturing yourself saying "no, thank you" to fattening foods and by feeling that sense of accomplishment from being in control.

The next thing to prepare yourself is to eat something before you go out. A large salad or apple and a glass of water will give you a full feeling and enable you to make good choices when at the party. Also don't "save up" by starving yourself before the party. That will make your blood sugar drop and you'll feel so hungry that you'll binge instead of choose.

The next defense mechanism is to arrive a bit late; not to be fashionable, but to avoid nibbling on too many hors d'oeuvres. Once the food is served, remember your planned choices, take small portions and eat slowly. Some guidelines to follow at a buffet include: choose chicken or turkey instead of beef or ham, avoid sauces and salty food, and select raw vegetables and fruit.

When you are "the maker of the feast" yourself, you can offer both traditional holiday foods and a variety of tasty, low-calorie foods. You'll be surprised at the number of your guests who will appreciate and select the diet food. A salad buffet can be fun. It's economical, too, with very little meat needed and a wide variation in calorie content. Chicken is always good, healthful, and can be prepared simply or elegantly. One way might be as a filling for crepes. It's practical for large parties, simple to prepare, and possible to make well ahead and frozen. Crepes have many possibilities: from chicken to seafood to vegetables to desert. Yes, even diet desert crepes! Fill them with sliced strawberries mixed into sugar-free strawberry gelatin and listen to the compliments.

The last and best advice is to concentrate on the people around you, renewing and strengthening friendships. Remember, the real purpose of all these holiday festivities is to be together with friends and family. Make good fellowship the focus rather than eating.

This year, experience the joys of the holiday season without having to deal with the aftermath of holiday excesses. By taking charge of your eating habits, you will maintain your energy, your enthusiasm and your self-esteem. It does no good to blame your over-eating on the time of the year. Ultimately, the choices are yours and you are the one who must live with the consequences of your decisions. So choose wisely and treat yourself to a productive and healthful season.

Women's Fitness Classes

The Quincy Recreation Department announces that registration is now being held for the second session of two women's exercise programs.

The programs which are under the supervision of Mrs. Nancy Joyce will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings at either 8:45-9:30 or 9:45-10:30 a.m. at the Fore River Clubhouse.

Each program includes low-impact aerobic exercises to improve and strengthen flexibility, endurance and overall fitness. Adaptations to the exercises allows each participant to work at their own pace.

Cost of the program is $22 for 30 classes. Registration is on a first come first serve basis beginning Dec. 4 at the Recreation Office, 100 Southern Artery. Registration will continue from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. The first class will be held Monday, Dec. 4.

For additional information, call 773-1380, ext. 204.

Chiropractic Update

by Mark C. Jaehnnig D.C.

WHAT IS A "SLIPPED DISC"?

The term "slipped disc" has been used commonly by doctors and patients alike, to generally describe an injury to one of the 23 "jelly-like" shock absorbers found between each of the bones or vertebrae of the spine. These intervertebral discs are ligaments which actually consist of a "jelly-like" middle surrounded by rings of cartilage. While these discs do not actually "slip" from between the spinal bones, they can be worn, compressed, bulged, or ruptured, causing pressure on the adjacent spinal nerves. It is this bulged or ruptured disc that pressures or "pinches" the nerve which actually causes the severe back and/or leg pain that may result. Often times, muscle spasms will accompany a disc injury as the body attempts to stabilize or splint the damaged lower back or neck.

While the intervertebral discs may lose some of their height, and resiliency and dry out slightly over the years, the final straw of a disc injury may be a sudden twist or slip, an improper lift, or a seemingly minor accident.

Chiropractors are well qualified in the prevention and/or treatment of disc injuries and often employ the modern technology of M.R.I. or Catscan to ensure accurate diagnosis. Chiropractors use a drugless, non-surgical approach which may include manipulation, forms of therapy, proper exercise and bed rest.

If you have any questions or would like to make an appointment, please call Dr. Mark Jaehnnig, a lifelong Quincy resident, at Quincy Chiropractic Office, 440 Hancock St., N. Quincy -- 773-4400.

Golden Tells Quincy Students To Get Involved In Community

Senator William B. Golden (D-Weymouth) challenged an assembly of more than 500 ninth, 10th and 11th grade students from the three Quincy High Schools to get involved in their community. The theme of this assembly was "A Time to Make a Difference," and focused on the importance of community service.

Golden spoke of the challenge facing today's society — cleaning up the environment and keeping an economically competitive edge and keeping our promise to the young, old and those in need. Golden told the students that they are important partners in this battle. "You are going to inherit this polluted environment and weakened education system. The time to get involved is now because you can make a difference."

Golden has filed legislation calling for school systems to grant credit to students for involvement in community service. Golden is also on the board of directors of the Thomas Jefferson Forum, a private, non-profit organization which promotes high school based community service.

Other speakers at the assembly held at North Quincy High School included Councillor at-large Timothy Cahill, a representative from the Thomas Jefferson Forum and representatives from selected Quincy agencies.

For additional information concerning Bethany's programs and ministries, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

Point Congregational Begins Advent Sunday

Quincy Point Congregational Church will begin the Advent Season prior to Christmas Day Sunday at the 10:30 a.m. service.

The traditional Advent Wreath will be placed in the chancel, and one of five candles will be lighted each of the four Sunday mornings and the Christ Candle during the 7:30 p.m. Christmas Eve service. This Sunday, the candle of God's Promised Comfort will be lighted by Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Joyce) Romeri and family. On succeeding Sundays, the Emmanuel Candle, the Joy Candle, the Light Candle and the Peace Candle will be lighted by other families of the church.

On Christmas Eve, the Christ Candle will be lighted by the Pastors of the church, the Reverends Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon.

These candlelighting services have been prepared by Sister Joan Acker who is professor of science at Borromeo Seminary College, Cleveland, Ohio. The lighting of each candle will also include a special solo by one of the part-leaders of the Chancel Choir.

Advent hymns will be sung by the congregation and Chancel Choir. Soloist will be James Hill. Organ selections will be by Organist and Choir Director, Dr. Herman Weiss.

The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon's sermon theme will be "Of What Possible Use Is Advent?"

Church School classes are provided for all ages, infants through adults, from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. with experienced teachers. While the children and young people learn from "Discipleship Alive" curriculum, adults are invited to next Sunday's Bible Study class on Romans 15, verses four to 13 or next Sunday's "Issues and Answers" class for adults which begins a series of classes on "The Homeless in Quincy" led by members of Fr. Bill's Shelter staff. Next Sunday, the staff person will be Nancy Powers, the Executive Director of Fr. Bill's Place.

Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at Southern Artery and Washington St. There is off-street parking. Infant care is provided from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. each Sunday. For more information, call the church office, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

'New Gardens For Eden'

Sermon Topic At First Parish

This Sunday will be Decoration Sunday at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Center.

At the opening of the 10:30 a.m. service, children will enter the church bringing in greens, garlands and swags as adults sing a carol.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver the sermon "New Gardens for Eden." The sermon will discuss issues of ecology and religion and Dr. Bennett will propose a new approach for restoration of the Earth.

The first candle of the Advent Wreath will be lit by Marina Cramer and Bethany Savelle.

During the service, children and adults will gather around a tree, hang ornaments from the home, and sing "O Christmas Tree."

Music will be by the Church Choir, Norman Corey, director and organist.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service.

Historic First Parish, established in 1639, is also known as "Church of the Presidents" and continues today as a leader in liberal religion.

'Officer Bill' Draicchio Honored By St. Joseph's Students

St. Joseph School students recently honored a special friend, Quincy Police Officer William Draicchio, during a special Mass at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

Officer Draicchio, who has directed traffic at Southern Artery and Washington St. for 34 years in "a truly spectacular manner," will retire at the end of the month.

The children at St. Joseph School will miss him very much as he has seen them safely to and from school for generations.

The kids, with the help of Sister Anne Judge, principal, organized a special Mass in Draicchio's honor to show him how much they appreciate and love him. They also wanted "Officer Bill" to know how much they learned from him and how much they will miss him.

At the Mass, students read a tribute and presented him with a plaque.

Following the Mass, the officer and his family were invited to the school for a brief ceremony and presentation. Refreshments were served.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

At major airports everywhere planes take off continuously, invariably, in so doing, they head into the wind. Seemingly they should move with the wind rather than into and against it. However, to become airborne, a plane must meet and overcome wind resistance, in fact, use it as a means of getting off, up, and on the way.

Let's adapt this to our everyday life... To progress, or achieve, one must meet head-on and overcome various types of resistance... First, is the resistance of nature. The mountain climber, the agriculturist, the athlete - in fact, in almost every undertaking, you must face and overcome the resistance of natural laws of varied degrees... Second, is the resistance of friends and associates. Some are sure to discourage; say it can't be done; remind you it was never done that way; or ask, "Why change?"... Third, and the greatest of all, is self-resistance. Natural inertia, laziness, procrastination, lack of desire, or effort - these and many other characteristics are "winds of resistance," or obstacles ever-present in our daily life...

Ideas, resolutions, desires, good intentions will die aborning unless, like a plane, they are set out on an open runway and, in the face of resistance, implemented with the determination and action that forces them to become "airborn" and well along the way to reality...

We welcome any comments on the thoughts you read here...

Lydia Sisson, 105

Taught In One-Room School

A memorial service for Lydia (Staples) Sisson, 105, of Wollaston, once a teacher in one-room schools in Maine, was conducted Nov. 24 at Union Congregational Church, Wollaston.

Mrs. Sisson died Nov. 20 at home.

On her 100th birthday, she attributed her longevity to being from hardy Maine stock. Her mother lived to age 95 and her young sister to age 92.

Born in Wellington, Maine, she graduated from Bucksport Seminary in 1903 and went to work teaching all 12 grades in a one-room schoolhouse.

She was a substitute teacher in a Quincy Point elementary school for a time in the 1920s. She enjoyed playing bridge and cribbage and was accomplished with knitting needles and crochet hooks. When her children were young she made clothing for them.

Mrs. Sisson was a member of Union Congregational Church in Quincy, the Order of Eastern Star, the Society of Mayflower Descendants and the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was a former regent of the Phillips DAR Chapter in Quincy.

Wife of the late Rev. Howard Robert Sisson, she is survived by two sons, James T. Sisson of Braintree and John S. Sisson of Wollaston; two daughters, Martha Diddian of Bath, Maine, and Mary Ireland of Quincy; 10 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild.

After cremation, burial was in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va., beside her husband.

Funeral arrangements were by the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St., Wollaston.

QVNA Moving To Adams Building

The Quincy Visiting Nurse Association announces its base of operations will be relocated to the Adams Building at 1354 Hancock St. in Quincy Center from its present address at 1120 Hancock St.

"We have outgrown our space and require a more efficient operating environment," states Stephen M. Robbins, executive director. "We can now combine our Quincy VNA and Homecare clinical operations with the administrative activities to better meet the growing demand for service."

The Quincy VNA in the South Shore provides nearly 50,000 visits to over 1500 families in Braintree, Milton, Quincy and Weymouth.

Robbins feels that bringing Quincy VNA's 90 employees to Quincy Center will be a helpful factor towards continued revitalization of Quincy Center. The telephone number remains the same at 472-2828.

'Hanging Of Greens' At Squantum Church

The annual "Hanging of the Greens" at First Church of Squantum was held last Saturday night and drew the largest number of participants in its history. Nearly 150 people attended.

The next morning the congregation heard the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preach on the subject, "On Being Not Afraid."

The Chancel Choir and congregation were accompanied by organist Mary Ruth Scott.

Ralph and Del Dougherty were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and Edna Swanson and Mary Scott hosted the Fellowship Hour afterwards.

This Sunday the worship service will be at 10:30 a.m. The Sunday School and nursery are held at the same time.

Blood Drive At Point Congregational Church

The American Red Cross South Shore region will conduct a blood drive

Tuesday, Dec. 26 from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Quincy Point Congregational Church, Quincy.

Traditions Grow With Each Generation.

Back in 1931, Joe Sweeney joined his Uncle Dennis to help renovate the newly acquired funeral home on Elm Street. Originally a cabinetmaker by trade, Joe soon became the second-generation link in a family-owned tradition. One of instinctive and genuine concern for the city's bereaved families.

After the home's renovations were complete, Joe began assisting with services and went on to become a funeral director in 1941. When Dennis Sweeney died in 1948, it was to Joe that he entrusted the continuation of the Sweeney Tradition.

Well-liked in Quincy, M. Joseph Sweeney not only respected the customs of the large Catholic population, but also those of newcomers in the Protestant and Moslem communities. In 1962, he acquired the Elcock Estate, circa 1863, in West Quincy to better serve the residents in that growing area of the city.

Since 1917, Sweeney Funeral Homes have been responding to the needs of South Shore residents — whatever they were. As early as 1940, we began offering pre-planning as a way for wise Quincy residents to plan their future.

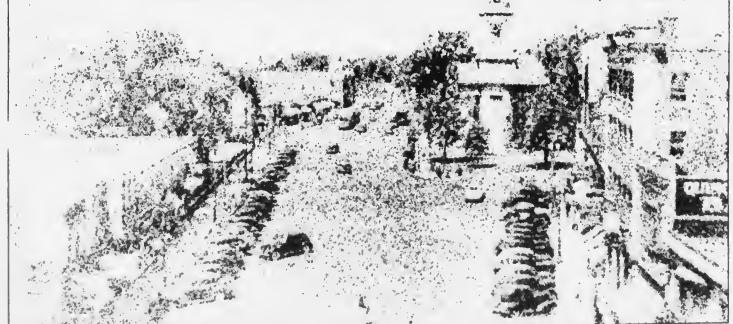

Today, with funeral costs one of the top five major expenses for most families, pre-arrangements make better sense than ever before. Call Dennis Sweeney, our third-generation funeral director, at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. We've been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years.

Tullish & Clancy Wins 4 Regional Awards

Century 21 Tullish & Clancy recently won four regional awards. The Weymouth office was honored as a third quarter "Pacesetter," which means the firm's production tallies for the July-September had to total over $130,000 in gross closed commission. Regional Director of Century 21 of New England, Inc., Bob Hutchinson, presented the award to owner Joseph Clancy. Three sales associates from the Weymouth office and one from the Quincy office were recognized and likewise congratulated by Hutchinson as Pacesetter agents. Paul Hogan, Braintree, Gary Lawrence, South Weymouth, and April Senseney, Brockton were named along with Marcia Karwoski of Abington. Production requirements for the agents to earn the pacesetter award are set at over $20,000 in gross closed commissions. Century 21 Tullish & Clancy's Weymouth office is at 457 Main St. In Quincy, the company is located at 1440 Hancock St.

Housing Demand, Stable Home Values Seen Over Next Decade

real estate/must/11/27/jc/s

As the baby boom population approaches retirement and the baby bust group matures, housing demand will become more sharply segmented than in the past, according to a report from the National Association of Realtors.

The study, "Demographics in the U.S.—The Segmenting of Housing Demand," anticipates strong housing demand and stable home values over the next decade, in spite of the smaller baby bust population producing fewer prospective home buyers than the baby boomers.

The demand will be fueled by widely varied housing needs—for affluent trade-up baby boom couples, baby boomers approaching retirement, and growing numbers of non-traditional households and immigrants, the report says.

The study was prepared by NAR's economics and real estate finance group.

"The healthy markets will offer diversity. They will have a variety of niche-oriented housing," said NAR President Ira Gribin.

The study explores several current and projected demographic changes that likely will have the greatest impact on the housing industry over the next decade.

Foremost among these are the changing age structure and household composition of the U.S. population.

The total number of households in the nation rose by an average of about 1.3 million annually during the 1980's, dropping from 1.7 million annually during the 1970's. The population aged 25 to 34, the group at which household formation is typically the highest, is getting smaller, while the age group 65 and older is getting larger.

The number of married couple households is declining. The decline is being countered by an increase in single-person households, female-headed households, non-family households, and a larger number of 18-to-24-year-old men living with their parents. Additionally, the average household size dropped from 3.14 persons in 1960 to 2.66 persons in 1987.

Households are moving more frequently, which is causing and will continue to cause a higher housing turnover rate. Legal immigration, notably by Asians and Hispanics, is increasing—the average annual rate of $70,000 was 30 percent higher in the 1980's than in the 1970's. Increased demand by foreigners seeking to rent or buy in the United States, will contribute to housing demand in the 1990's, the study notes.

According to NAR's Chief Economist John A. Tuccillo, the changing needs of changing households will help offset a drop in housing demand due to the smaller baby bust population. Predictions that home values will sour due to a fall-off in demand are too simplistic, and such projections fail to consider the continuing impact the baby boom generation will have, Tuccillo said.

Increased savings by baby boomers, combined with a smaller federal deficit and a larger Social Security trust fund, likely will push interest rates lower over the next seven years, he noted.

Additionally, some boomers previously unable to purchase homes will be buying, he said. "As the leading edge of the baby boom moves through its peak earning years, demand will pick up for second homes and retirement homes," Tuccillo said. He predicted that demand will shift significantly toward "smaller units in sunny climates."

In general, the Northeast and Midwest have experienced out-migration of residents, while the South and West have experienced in-migration.

In spite of home purchases by baby boomers and baby busters, the report notes that housing affordability problems will continue to plague lower-income consumers. According to the study, it appears that a widening gap in household demographics is accompanied by a growing disparity in home purchasing power.

For instance, the study says, typical real incomes for families in the highest-earning quintile of the population rose by more than 29.0 percent between 1970 and 1986. However, real incomes for families in the lowest-earning quintile rose by only 9.0 percent.

Because the incomes of lower-income households are not growing at the same rate as upper-income households, they are having more and more difficulty finding housing they can afford to buy or rent.

"We will still see a sizeable share of couples looking to buy a place to raise a family, repeat buyers looking to move up, and boomers looking for a place to retire," Gribin said. "But, we're also going to see more and more single-parent households, and smaller households," he said.

The study notes that single-parent households spent an average of one-third of their per capita incomes for shelter, fuel and utilities in 1985, up from about 27 percent in 1973. Female-headed family households, which tend to be among the poorest of the household groups, represented 8.7 percent of all households in 1970, and rose to 11.6 percent in 1988.

The differences in income and housing affordability separating local markets likely will stay wide, the report notes. For instance, median housing expenditures have been and likely will continue to be substantially higher in the Northeast and West than in the Midwest and South, in spite of higher median household incomes from the Northeast and West.

"In high-cost areas, the need for affordable housing undoubtedly will become more pressing," Gribin noted. "Households are getting older and smaller. But, so is this nation's stock of low-cost housing."

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

According to recent surveys, nearly all new home buyers consider a warranty an important part of their decision-making process.

Most warranties provide coverage against faulty workmanship and materials for one year and against flaws in the wiring, plumbing, heating and cooling systems for the first two years. For the final eight years of the program, the builder carries insurance to cover the cost of repairing major structural defects in the home.

Home Owners Warranty (HOW) Corporation is the nation's oldest and largest new home warranty and insurance program. For a free booklet on coverage, write HOW, P.O. Box 1214, Malvern, PA 19355 or call 1-800-CALL-HOW.

Donald O'Connor made his stage debut at the age of three days. His circus vaudeville troupe parents carried "Wonder Boy" on stage to inspire the audience to deafening applause. Soon, Donald was part of the act in the Ringling Brothers Circus.

Merv Griffin began his band singing with the Freddy Smith Band for $125 per week. Recently Coca Cola bought his production company, which includes Merv's creation of "Wheel of Fortune" and "Jeopardy" game shows, for $250 million!

Mel Blanc began his career in show business as a musician and a radio performer. He started in 1927, when he sang and performed on a Portland, Oregon radio show called "The Hoot Owls."

Bandleader Warren Covington, of "Tea For Two Cha Cha" fame, played in the bands of the Arthur Godfrey, Perry Como, Jackie Gleason and Ed Sullivan TV shows over a period of ten years.

In 1950, "South Pacific" won nine Tony Awards and the Drama Critics Award as Best Musical.

"King Porter Stomp" was originally one of Jelly Roll Morton's piano specialties. It was turned into an enormously successful instrumental number by Fletcher Henderson, first for his own band and later for the 1935 version of the Benny Goodman band.

Vaughn Monroe's biggest hits, "There I've Said It Again," "Ballarina," "Riders In The Sky," and "Let It Snow," have sold more than six and a half million records.

The hit song "That Old Black Magic," written by Harold Arlen and Johnny Mercer, came from the long-time forgotten movie "Star Spangled Rhythm" (1942).

The Burke-Van Heusen hit song "Moonlight Becomes You" originated from the 1942 Bing Crosby movie "The Road To Morocco."

Shoppers Special Pool Program At Hancock School

The Quincy Recreation Department will for the seventh year, conduct a special schedule of swimming Sundays now through Christmas as part of its recreational swim program at the Lincoln Hancock Community School Pool.

Recreation Director Barry Welch, said the pool will open Sundays from 1 to 4 p.m. for children age 6-18, who may swim all or part of this period, while parents take advantage of the Sunday store openings and shop at local stores. From 4 to 5 p.m. the normal adult swim will remain in effect. Regular pool memberships can be used or $1. for youth and/or $2. for adult guest's fee can be paid at the door.

All swims will be supervised by American Red Cross Trained Personnel from the Quincy Recreation Department. Adults may also swim in the extended hours and family groups are encouraged to participate. The dates of this year's special shopper swims are Dec. 3, 10, and 17. Welch said, "In past years this program has proven popular to parents and participants alike and I am pleased that we can offer it again."

For additional information, call the Quincy Recreation Department, 773-1380, ext. 204.

Bob Ray Honored For 39 Years With MBTA

After 39 years of service, MBTA Deputy Chief Transportation Officer Bob Ray of Quincy was honored by Secretary of Transportation Fred Salucci, the MBTA Board of Directors and General Manager Thomas Glynn at a recent awards ceremony.

"Bob Ray worked his way through the ranks at the T, using his skill and ingenuity to serve T passengers for almost four decades," Glynn said. "We honor his dedication and hard work for 39 years of service."

Ray started as a collector in 1950 and was promoted to spare motorman in 1954. Moving through the ranks at the authority he became superintendent of rail lines in 1982 and deputy chief transportation officer in 1983.

Although he is looking forward to relaxing and spending more time with his family, Ray says he will miss the friendships he has developed during his years as an employee at the T.

250,000 Turn Out For Threatening skies and cold temperatures didn't keep an estimated quarter of a million people from attending the 38th annual Christmas Festival Parade in Quincy Center on Sunday, although that number was down a little from the anticipated 300,000.

The parade, on the theme of "A Storybook Christmas," kicked off at 12:30 and took just over an hour to pass by.

The parade was sponsored by the Quincy Center

Business and Professional Association.

Spectators from all over the South Shore lined the 2.8 mile route and delighted in the several floats, marching bands, color guards and specialty units participating in the parade.

This year's parade was dedicated to the memory of Thomas M. McDonald, who had been involved with the parade since it began in 1951. McDonald died last December.

This year's grand marshal was North Quincy native Ken Coleman, long-time radio "Voice of the Boston Red Sox." Coleman, who now lives in Cohasset, began his broadcasting career covering high school football on WJDA.

According to tradition, floats illustrating the parade theme competed for trophies and prizes in both commercial and non-commercial categories.

Winners and their prizes were:

Quincy Bay Race Week Association took first place their float, "The Story of Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer." They received the Thomas Tierney Trophy $1,000; Quincy Junior College won and prize with "It's a Snowy Christmas," and was awarded $500; the Germantown Yacht Club finished third with its "Christmas With Peter Pan in Never, Never Land," was awarded a $300 prize;

The Woodward School took fourth place with "The Little Engine That Could," float and won $200. Colonial Federal Savings Bank took the Best Commercial Float for its entry depicting characters from "The Wizard Of Oz." The Mayor's Trophy for the Best Quincy Float was awarded to the United First Parish Unitarian Church for its entry titled "The First Christmas Story." High School Marching Bands also competed for prizes in the Christmas Parade. Bands in each of the four divisions were judged on marching and music. Winners were: Division I, Chicopee High School Band with a total score of 78.4; Division II, Abington High School Band, with a total score of 86.1; Division III, Agawam High School Band with a score of 86.5, and Division IV, Shepherd Hill High School Band, who scored 94.4.

DRAMATIC ENTRANCE-- Santa Claus drops in on Quincy by parachute Saturday at Faxon Field for the holiday season. He was accompanied by several of his elves.

QUINCY BAY RACE WEEK ASSOCIATION won first prize in the Quincy Christmas Parade float competition with "The Story of Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer." For winning, the QBRWA received the Thomas Tierney Trophy and $1,000 in cash.

UNITED FIRST PARISH UNITARIAN CHURCH was awarded the Mayor's Trophy for the best Quincy float in the Quincy Christmas Parade float competition. The entry was titled "The First Christmas Story."

GERMANTOWN YACHT CLUB finished third in the Quincy Christmas Parade float competition with its entry, "Christmas With Peter Pan in Never, Never Land." GYC was awarded $300 in cash.

WOODWARD SCHOOL'S entry of "The Little Engine That Could" was the fourth place winner in the Quincy Christmas Parade float competition. The school received $200 cash.

Harold, McCauley, Siciliano Receive Capitol Flags

Three American flags which flew over the U.S. Capitol on Veterans Day have been presented to Senator Paul Harold, Mayor Francis McCauley and Civil Defense Deputy Director Anthony Siciliano.

The flags were requested by Paul Eldridge, past commander of Quincy Veterans Council. They were presented on behalf of Congressman Brian Donnelly who ordered them after Eldridge's request. Since 1984 when Eldridge was commander of the Quincy Veterans Council, he has presented flags to different organizations and individuals in the city in appreciation of their help to the veterans of all wars.

A flag was presented to Harold because of "his never ending fight for the veterans not only for this area but the whole state," Eldridge said. "He attends all the ceremonies, parades and functions that are held during the entire year."

Another flag was given to McCauley for "his help not only to the Quincy Veterans Council, but to each of the different organizations that make up the council since he started his terms of office."

Siciliano received a flag for providing crowd control for parades, joining veterans groups in different parts of the state in parades, and helping Quincy residents in emergencies. "He has also helped people in different parts of the country and Puerto Rico when they needed help because of hurricanes, earthquakes and other natural disasters."

Eldridge purchased the flags.

'The Most Exciting Game Of The Series'

By TOM SULLIVAN

Pete Zoia, who played for North Quincy in the first three Quincy games in 1933, '34 and '35 and who has seen every game of the series, called it "the most exciting game of the series."

Last week's 57th game, postponed until Saturday for only the second time due to the heavy snow on Thanksgiving, provided the 5000 fans with all the thrills they could have asked for as Ken McPhee's North team made up for the disappointments of the past two years by squeezing out a 27-16 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

"This game is just another example of why this is such a great rivalry," said McPhee, whose team made it 24 wins for North as compared with 28 Quincy wins and five ties. "Both teams played outstanding ball and it was just a great ball game."

"I compliment North Quincy and we have no excuses," said Quincy coach Jack Raymer. "I'm proud of our players, especially the seniors and all we needed was one more conversion to win it. This was just another outstanding game in an outstanding series."

Dan Gilmartin finished his career for North Quincy with another brilliant performance, rushing for 161 yards and a touchdown and a two-point conversion. He finished the season with 924 yards rushing despite missing two games of the season. He has 68 points, third in the Suburban League.

Jim Bryan had a good day at quarterback, completing six of 10 passes for 117 yards and two touchdowns. He passed for nine touchdowns and two conversions for eighth place in Division 1.

Also having a fine day was wide receiver Kevin MacDougall, who had four receptions for 84 yards and two touchdowns.

Junior Mark Bogan completed a brilliant season for Quincy by rushing for 167 yards, giving him 1089 for the season although he played hurt for three games. He scored 20 points and played another fine defensive game. For the season he gained over 2000 yards rushing, catching passes and returning kickoffs and punts. He scored 57 points in his last three games and finished up with 84 points, second in the Suburban League. He had six 100-plus yard games.

Wide receiver Chris Fay caught four passes for 96 yards including a 45-yard touchdown reception and had a 20-yard reception nullified by a penalty. Sophomore Chris Walker made an excellent catch.

Quarterback Mike Flavin had a good day going 7 for 12 for 124 yards and a touchdown.

Jim Munroe had a phenomenal day on defense with 14 solo tackles, six assists, a sack and a fumble recovery. He saved two touchdowns with open field tackles.

Despite the icy conditions in the first half and the muddy conditions in the second half, there were only two fumbles in the game.

Although neither coach wanted to single out any particular players, saying "mention them all," everyone played his heart out.

Playing well on offense for North were MacDougall, Chris Deshler, Desmond Bellot, Evan Kiley, Alex Malasi, Scott Kemp, Matt Swierk, Mike Iacobacci, Scott Leonard, Bryan, Gilmartin, Rich Brooks, Dave Kiley, Keith Gott, Jim Ryane, Bill Earley and Adam Strout.

For North defensively Kemp, Malasi, Brian Zimmerman, Mike Oliva, Leonard, Kevin Heffernan, Mike Doherty, Earley, Bellot, Iacobacci, MacDougall, Gott, Gilmartin, Gary Rawdon, Deshler and Jason April played strong games.

Doing a fine job for Quincy offensively were Munroe, Steve McInnis, Fay, Walker, Joe Baker, Tom Morrell, Rich Lassis, Mike Tempesta, Tony Madden, Flavin, Bogan, Steve O'Donoghue, Lou Pagnani, Graham Chevy, Bill Cantelli and Bill Readon.

Playing well on defense were Chevy, Madden, Dave

QUINCY'S fans celebrate one of the Presidents' touchdowns in the game.

Johnston, Baker, Scott Buckmann, Morrell, Munroe, O'Donoghue, Reardon, Bogan, Fay, Pagnani, Ali Sleiman and Gary Collins.

Early in the game Quincy's Collins punted to the Presidents' 45 and on the first play Gilmartin raced the 45 yards for the first North score. The try for extra points failed.

It took just two plays following the kickoff for Quincy to tie the score as Bogan broke through the line and raced 56 yards down the left sidelines for his first score. The conversion try also failed.

North took only two plays following the kickoff to regain the lead. Gilmartin raced 38 yards to the Presidents' 32 from where Dave Kiley went around the right side for the touchdown and Deshler kicked the extra point.

Early in the second quarter Quincy took the lead. Bogan returned a North punt to his own 33. Pagnani went for six, Bogan added 10 and Flavin passed for Fay for 45 yards and a touchdown. The Presidents rushed for the two point conversion and the Presidents had a short lived 14-13 lead.

North drove to the Quincy 15 with Bryan hitting MacDougall for 37 yards. However, Quincy held and took over on its 20.

Collins punted to the Raider 37 and North drove 63 yards in 10 plays to again go out in front. With 1:15 left Bryan passed into the end zone and here Quincy received a tough break when the defender batted the pass away but right into MacDougall's hands for a score. Gilmartin rushed for the two point conversion and North lead, 21-14 at half time.

The only two fumbles occurred on the second half kickoff. North recovered the kickoff on Quincy's 42 but on the second play Munroe recovered a North fumble at the same spot.

North drove from the kickoff and on the first play of the last quarter Bryan passed to MacDougall, who made a great catch to complete a 37 yard scoring play. North made the two point conversion but it was voided by a penalty.

Quincy received a break to set up its final score. On fourth down, the pass was bad to Deshler, back to punt. He ran with the ball but failed to make the first down and Quincy had the ball on North's 20.

Seven plays later Bogan again scored from the one but once again North stopped the extra point try and North still led by a point.

The Raiders drove into Quincy territory after recovering the on-side kick but a fourth down gamble failed and the Presidents took over on their 30.

A pass was good for 27 yards and another to Walker was good for 18. On the last play of the game a long Flavin pass was knocked down in the end zone and North had its one-point victory.

North had 213 yards rushing to 175 for Quincy, the Raiders added 117 yards passing to 124* for Quincy and the Presidents had 14 first downs and North 13.

Team Work Puts Stadium In Good Playing Shape

Quincy Athletics Coordinator Marty Finnegan had nothing but praise for the Park Department and the school maintenance crew for their work in getting Veterans Memorial Stadium in respectable condition for the postponed Thanksgiving football game on Saturday.

"George Page and his park department workers and Jack Brown and his school maintenance crew did a tremendous job," Finnegan said. "Also, the North Quincy football players did a fine job clearing the stairways and the seats."

"We began the night of the storm (Thursday) plowing the field and we worked all day Friday," Page said. "Give the school maintenance workers plenty of credit. Usually we get all the credit but they did a great job. Friday afternoon we asked Derbes Brothers for a steamroller and an hour later they were there to smooth out all the ruts. They are always ready to help us out. There was about nine inches of snow on the ground."

"Thanks to all their efforts, the field was in pretty good shape," Finnegan said. "Financially, postponing the game to Saturday was very costly to us. We'll lose thousands of dollars as the crowd of about 5000 was half less than half of what we expected on the holiday."

— Lisa Vecchione
"Why have you imprisoned Nafije Zendeli? She is young and should be in school. Just because she wanted to be taught in her native language of Albanian doesn't mean she is a criminal."

All the students are proud of their efforts, enthusiasm and commitment to the human rights campaign. Their partnership was another way for them to "Get Up, Stand Up" and speak out for human rights.

Realizing that much tolerance and limitation on freedom still exists in the world, their teachers hope that experiences such as writing letters of conscience which decry violations of human rights will help students understand how important it is to act consistently on behalf of others whose rights are being denied.

The faculty of Broad Meadows Middle School is deeply committed to programs and experiences that encourage students to think and to take a proactive rather than a passive role on the side of justice, when they view inhumanity around them daily. Students are encouraged to make connections among historical events, present day events and experiences and to see how their own lives and rights are affected by all human behavior.

John McCarthy Mayor

Central Elects Officers, Senate, Representatives

In a recent election at Central Middle School, 20 students campaigned for the four top offices of the Central Student Senate while 55 others were candidates for the 22 Senate Representative seats.

Posters and speeches listed the candidates' qualifications in preparation for Primary Day on Nov. 3 and Election Day, Nov. 7.

John McCarthy was elected Mayor; Christopher Swanton, Deputy Mayor; Robert Picciano, Secretary; and Jerwyn Austria, Treasurer.

Senate Representatives include Lily Yeung, Matthew Orlando, David Rowell, Daniel Stone, Joseph McCarthy, David Sansevero, Michael Coner, Thomas Meade, Brian Driscoll, Joy Amo, Steven Barrett, Michelle Moffett, David Noonan, Zoe Bohl, Maureen McCarthy, Nick Kesaris, Tony Sansevero, Hilliary Kramer, Ann Marie Malloy, Daniel Duncan, Joseph Dillon and Daniel Hughes.

The Student Senate meets on Wednesday mornings before school sessions with Principal Louis DiMartino and Head Counselor Mary Catherine Iannoni, advisors. The first activity this year was the annual Appreciation Breakfast for the staff during American Education Week. Senate members who planned and served were Lily Yeung, Joy Amo, Maureen McCarthy, Tony and David Sansevero, Tom Meade, John McCarthy, Chris Swanton, Robert Picciano and Jerwyn Austria.

A drive for canned and packaged foods for Father Bill's Place is underway, and a dance is scheduled for early December. A parent who won the services of a DJ has given this winning to the students.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer

Crime Prevention: Watching Out, Helping Out

Crime and fear of crime are big problems which influence how we live.

Figures and statistics don't tell the whole story. Because each incident of crime hurts all of us - our neighborhoods, our schools, our businesses and our children. What can be done?

The most important resources we have in reducing crime and fear in our neighborhoods are neighbors working together to prevent crime. Crime Prevention. You know what it means? It means making it harder for crime to happen. It means reducing the chances for criminals to victimize you and your neighbors. It means protecting people and property, and increasing community safety and well being. Most of all, it means people like you taking responsibility for your own and your neighbors security, and knowing and working with your police department and your neighbors to protect your homes, your neighbors, and your kids.

Crime Prevention is watching out, and helping out. And it's easier than you think. Crime prevention activities are practical and direct approaches to reducing crime and fear in neighborhoods. Crime prevention is working in neighborhoods all around the country. It can work in yours. And the time to begin is before you, your family, and your neighbors are victimized by crime.

Crime prevention is catching on. Polls show that one is six Americans lives in a community with some kind of organized volunteer anti-crime program. Every day neighbors are decoding to work with each other and the police department to combat crime. Why? Because while crime strikes us one at a time, community responses have a much broader impact against crime. Individual and community security increases as more people become involved in Crime Prevention.

Quincy Community Theater In Christmas Revue

"What Christmas Means To Me," ninth performance of the Quincy Community Theater, will be presented at the Woodward School, 1102 Hancock St., Quincy, on Thursday, Nov. 30; Friday, Dec. 1; Thursday, Dec. 7, and Friday, Dec. 8, at 8 p.m.

This original revue includes a series of Christmas songs, stories, skits and poems, with families invited to join in the spirit.

The show was written and conceived by John F. McDonald, Jr. of Quincy, with musical direction by Earl Dimaculangan, a Berklee School of Music graduate, and choreography by Maryanne Ryan Palmer, formerly of Quincy.

"Our goal for this show is to provide an arena for folks to congregate and share in the holiday spirit," notes McDonald.

General admission is $10.50, and $8.50 for children under 14. Thursday evening there is special seating for senior citizens at $8.50. Tickets include hors d'oeuvres, dessert, coffee and tea. Cash bar is separate.

Proceeds will benefit the Woodward School Scholarship Fund.

For further information, those interested may call 773-5610.

THE ACADEMY OF THE POINT Theatre presents "Applause, Applause, Applause" as part of its recent showcase at the Point Webster School. Several works by various age groups were presented as part of the event.

WEEK OF: November 30

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're young at heart, thanks mainly to your keen interest in current topics and your love of people. The next six months are especially family-oriented, but career advances are indicated as well. In the latter area, it is important that you renew your sense of commitment.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19

The week sees you in the presence of several authority figures. This is a superb time for learning through example. Some financial news brighteners may be arriving after the weekend.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20

Intuition is strong at this time and can best be put to advantage in career or educational environment. Lessons learned over the last ten months come in very handy right now.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20

Communications are highlighted—this is a great time to get your message across, especially where finances are involved. Property negotiations may be time-consuming this week.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22

Responsibilities increase noticeably as the week progresses; by Tuesday-Wednesday, you may be assuming a leadership position. Romance is highlighted after the weekend.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

You may find that you need a dose of cultural activities; the weekend especially may see you visiting museums or attending the symphony. If traveling, plan for a series of detours and distractions.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22

You excel in the role of communicator; it's easier than usual to get your point across. Youngsters seek you out for advice while older relatives benefit from your gift of time.

LEO — July 23 - August 22

Avoid taking risks, no matter how seemingly small. Logical moves may not always work according to plan. Family-related responsibilities may lighten during this time.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

Innovative Virgo may be making a key discovery at this time. Travel is highlighted over this period, but be sure money-related details are worked out in advance.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22

Partnership activities are spotlighted, but ensure that division of labor is understood by both participants. Good week to have items appraised; you may be happily surprised.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21

Week is favorable for taking on new responsibilities; the key is to know how to delegate. New acquaintances with unusual backgrounds may help you over a family-related hurdle.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22

A relative may be contacting you after a considerable absence. Household matters demand more time than usual. Bookkeeping details also merit attention. Recent financial risk may pay off.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20

The goal you've been striving toward all year at last appears within reach. Group enterprises are spotlighted, but prepare to take a supporting role at this time.

IN COUNCIL

ORDER NO. 190

May 15, 1989

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy that the revised ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of Public Health, in Chapter 13, Article IV, Section 54, Regulation of Smoke within certain establishments (Council Order 15A of 1986). Strike out the following:

Section 3: Definitions. Subsections a, b and c.

This order amends page 15A of 15A of 1988.

November 6, 1989

of the floor space in which customers are served.

b. This prohibition shall not apply to an establishment seating less than forty (40) people.

c. Acceptable air cleaning/ventilation devices shall be required for installation in any new restaurant licensed after the effective date of this ordinance, new restaurants shall include newly constructed, expanded, or significantly remodeled restaurants, as well as the transfer of ownership of any restaurant.

Section 3: Definitions:

a. "Acceptable air cleaning system" shall mean a mechanical unit comprised of an air cleaning device and air circulating fan approved by the Quincy Health Department. Approval will be granted subject to satisfactory review of submitted documentation that 1. the air cleaning component has been tested by an independent laboratory for air filter performance (ashrae standard 52-76), and 2. the entire air cleaning system has been tested and approved for electrical safety.

Permanently installed units utilizing electricity require a licensed electrician and wiring permit filed with the Wire Department.

b. "Air change" shall mean the volume of the air occupying the room in which an air-cleaning device is installed.

c. "Air-Cleaning device" shall mean a device, or combination of devices properly located, providing six (6) air changes per hour and capable of removing particles as small as .03 microns, including smoke, dust, bacteria, and 99 percent of all pollutants which cleaned air discharged into the room in such a manner so as to prevent short circulating from the outlet to the inlet of the device.

d. "Bar" shall mean an area which is devoted to the serving of alcoholic beverages and in which the service of food is only incidental.

North Learning Center Defeats St. Coletta

The North Quincy High Learning Center soccer team recently traveled to Braintree and defeated the St. Coletta Day School, 5-4.

In the early going Thomas Peterson made several saves from point blank range to keep North in the game and Robert O'Keefe put North ahead with two quick goals. St. Coletta scored just before the half ended.

Second half action saw John Weisman score twice and Peterson once for North. Sheila Curtin, Mike Hennessy and Kenny McCloskey were outstanding for North along with Anthony DiBona, Todd Stewart, Erin Riley, John Bellia, Elaine McKeon and Brian Brunstrom.

The North Quincy class has established an inter-school athletic relationship with the students from St. Coletta and played a variety of games. Quincy Public School staff instructors are James Lynch, Howard Mason, Rita Carroll and Gail Mahoney. The program was organized by adaptive physical educator Vincent McGuire.

New Swim Program At Hancock Pool

Recreation Director Barry Walsh, announces that the Quincy Recreation Department will supervise a new schedule of recreational swim programs at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool.

The new schedule will take effect Monday, Dec. 4. The schedule:

PERSONALS

Most holy apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the Church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases of things most despaired of. Pray for me, I am so helpless and alone. Make me I implore you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings; particularly -- (here make your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever I promise. O blessed St.
Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron and to graciously encourage devotion to you. Amen)

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion, I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor.

No Beer, Wine For Tedeschi's At President's Place

By JANE ARENA

Tedeschi's Market at Presidents Place, 1250 Hancock St., will not be able to sell beer and wine, the license board said Tuesday, because of its proximity to Quincy Junior College and Quincy High School.

Atty. Anne A. Hummell, representing Terence Tedeschi, Robert Mahoney, store manager, and Joseph Ferreira, President of T.D. Beverages, Inc., was before the board to request a beer and wine license for T.D. Beverages to sell beer and wine within the store.

She told the board the area would be only 100 square feet inside the store and would be encompassed by four or five doors of a refrigerated compartment. She also noted that the doors would be locked all day on Sundays.

Tedeschi told the board that selling beer and wine would be an added convenience to the convenience store because there are no other stores nearby which sell beer and wine.

Captain Paul Nestor of the Quincy Police Department, sitting on the board in the place of Chief Francis Finn, noted that the Police Department was opposed to the license, due mainly to its location.

Nestor noted that students at Quincy Junior College are comprised of people both under and over the legal drinking age of 21, and that it would be convenient for someone over 21 to buy beer and wine for underage people.

Nestor also noted that other liquor stores in the area have failed in the past for precisely these reasons.

Ferreira told the board that he understands the concerns of the Police Department, but noted that the company operates two other locations similar to this and that all employees are fully trained to sell beer and wine.

Quincy Police Liquor Inspector Sgt. Richard Laracy was also opposed to the license. He noted that not only are students in the area, but said that Quincy Square is also a gathering place for the homeless, who may also buy beer and wine for underage people.

Lloyd Hill, Principal of Quincy Junior High School was also in opposition. He told the board that the location is just feet away from the high school and is "totally inappropriate."

Fire Chief Paul O'Connell spoke against it as well. "It's just that word 'convenience,'" he said, "and we're trying to make it inconvenient (for kids to buy beer and wine)."

Atty. Hummell, on advice from the board, withdrew the request without prejudice to perhaps resubmit the request at a later date.

tion, the focus moved to the other House chairmen, one of whom is Michael Morrissey, another Quincy representative.

Morrissey, who earns $7,500 as chairman of the Public Safety Committee, said Tuesday that he "is not inclined to resign at this time" but that he "may face the same fate."

"I'm sad (Cerasoli) resigned. He hasn't done anything wrong. I'm in the same boat as Bobby."

"I may face the same fate. I'm not inclined to resign at this time. If the speaker wants to get rid of me, he'll have to remove me."

Quincy's third representative, Steve Tobin, said Cerasoli's decision showed courage.

"This is not an easy decision. It takes courage to follow your convictions and I know that Representative Cerasoli is thinking in the best interest of his constituents as he has always had and this is nothing more than a reflection of his concern for his constituents," Tobin said.

Like Cerasoli, both Morrissey and Tobin expressed dissatisfaction over the tax plan and will probably not support it.

Asked if he supports the plan, Morrissey replied, "From what I know, I'm not inclined to support it." Tobin was more committal, saying "I will not support the tax package. Any notion of any increase at this time is inappropriate."

Instead of higher taxes, the representatives felt there are other ways to balance the fiscal 1990 budget which would have a $1 billion deficit next July.

For example, Morrissey said the House should take a "close look" at Medicare and Medicaid exemptions and cut back on some that have been added.

He also noted that the gas tax would raise revenue for roads and bridges and not go into the general fund.

Doubling the capital gains tax could raise $265 million in one year while increasing the sales tax 1.5 percent could raise $350 to $360 million in a year. However, opponents believe the hike could cause consumers to shop in tax-free New Hampshire.

Morrissey also questions restoring $100 million to higher education and human services accounts. "We spent two weeks cutting $250 million (from those accounts). I think we have to try to make a harder attempt."

Tobin also favors cuts in the budget. He noted that a 10 percent reduction in the state payroll would save $100 million. That proposal, introduced by Rep. Jack Flood of Canton, was defeated.

He also said the representatives united stand against the tax package should come as no surprise.

"That should not be unusual because the demographics are very similar. It would be extraordinary to have that disparity and I think Quincy is pretty solid against taxes," Tobin said.

• Ward 4 Precinct 3: Fabrizio 635, Shea 674, 55 blanks.

• Ward 4 Precinct 5: Fabrizio 435, Shea 305, 56 blanks.

With the recount, the new final figures are: Fabrizio with 2,331 to Shea's 2,205 for a margin of 126 votes.

According to Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke, the recount cost the city about $1,000. Although it only lasted 90 minutes, the city must pay the workers for a full day.

"Things went smoothly and the election workers did a fine job once again," said Registrar Michael Cronin.

According to Cronin, there was one protested vote out of the three precincts. There was question as to who the vote was intended for because the card was not fully punched. After some review, the Board of Registrars gave the vote to Fabrizio.

Besides Cronin, other registrars participating in the recount were John Papile, Louise Randall and City Clerk John Gillis, chairman.

McCauley Urges Support For Volunteer Protection Act

Mayor Francis McCauley has written President George Bush and Senators Edward Kennedy and John Kerry urging them to support the Volunteer Protection Act.

If passed into law, the act would encourage states to pass balanced, consistent and comprehensive laws on volunteer liability standards. Despite widespread national support and more than 200

House co-sponsors, the legislation has been held up in Congress.

McCauley told the president that "your support for the legislation will help prompt Congress to act on this issue."

In addition, the mayor wrote, "America's volunteers and the millions of recipients of volunteer services are looking to the Administration for leadership on the volunteer liability issue. Thank you for your considering supporting the Volunteer Protection Act."

In his letters, the mayor also noted that "The City of Quincy has benefited greatly from the volunteers that assist employees not only during times of crisis, but on a daily basis as well."

Nominations Coming 1

Nominations are coming in for The Quincy Sun's fifth annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service.

Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth emphasizes this is not a popularity contest. A person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal opportunity of being named the recipient.

Deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 30. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate a person they feel is the most deserving.

Nomination Ballot Page 28

After nominations close Dec. 30, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process is on Page 28 of this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know of someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

Citizen of the Year Award
The Quincy Sun
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169

Nominations should be postmarked no later than Dec. 30.

The ballots can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 30.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely of his or her time to a worthy cause.

The first winner was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Civil Defense and auxiliary police chief. He was selected from 31 nominees.

The second recipient was Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer. She was chosen from 43 nominations.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch, who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades. Mr. Koch, who died in August, 1987, was selected from 35 nominees.

Mrs. Simone Koch received the award for her late husband.

Last year, Martin C. Finnegan, athletic director for Quincy Public Schools, received the award for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and community adults to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems. He was chosen from 33 nominations.

The winner is honored at a reception hosted by The Quincy Sun at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

Those nominated the past four years are eligible to be nominated again this year.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 30.

The winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Here is the opportunity for you to voice your opinion as to who deserves to be The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1989.

Respond To Dukakis, Keverian Council Protests Threat To Withhold Local State Aid

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

City councillors have sent a clear message to Beacon Hill: Don't withhold our local aid.

At its meeting Monday, councillors voted 9-0 to send a resolution to state officials, namely Gov. Michael Dukakis, denouncing a threat to withhold $1.1 billion in local aid.

Earlier in the week, Dukakis and House Speaker George Keverian indicated that communities like Quincy might not receive their share of local aid since the revenue might be used to help bail out the state's budget shortfall. Some legislators called the withholding idea political blackmail after Dukakis suggested the withholding if new taxes aren't approved.

Councillor Stephen McGrath, who introduced the resolution, led the charge. "Entertaining the notion of not making local aid payments is unconscionable. It represents the height of irresponsibility."

McGrath noted that some 10,000 people have been added to the state payroll during the past several years. In contrast, Quincy has 400 fewer city employees now than eight years ago.

Without the money, Quincy would be faced with "disastrous" implications, City Auditor Robert Foy told the council.

"The city is due $15 million (in local aid) on December 29. If we don't get $15 million, we'll have to borrow the first week of January."

Without the revenue, Foy said layoffs and service cuts would result. "It's just something that the city could not survive. There's no way you could make up for the local aid," he said, adding that the city must pay for expenses already budgeted.

According to the auditor, Quincy receives local aid twice a year, in June and January. The June allotment was down $3.4 million over last year.

Foy, who contacted two Boston banks Monday, said local aid distribution was still planned for Dec. 29. However, that could change.

Other councillors lashed out at the state for irresponsible fiscal management.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien said, "The State House couldn't manage their way out of a paper bag."

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley added, "The implications (of lost aid) are enormous. Once again the legislative leadership is trying to pass their responsibility on to somebody else and that's shameful."

"I hope our legislators express their outrage."

Copies of the resolution were mailed to Dukakis, Keverian and Quincy's representatives.

Power Outage Darkens 3,000 South Quincy Homes

Some 3,000 South Quincy homes were without electricity for about 17 minutes Monday night because of a power outage.

According to Massachusetts Electric Field Engineer, Jay Locke, Independence Ave.,

Penn St., Kendrick Ave. and parts of Quincy Ave. were affected when power went out at 6:48 Monday night. Power was restored at 7:05 p.m.

Locke said the outage was caused by a "loss of supply from Boston Edison," and said similar incidents have happened before but that the occurrence is "not that common."

Mass Electric received 42 phone calls from residents during the brief blackout, he said.

Wollaston, North Quincy Post Offices Extend Saturday Window Hours

For the convenience of holiday mailers, Saturday retail window hours will be extended Dec. 9 and 16 at the Wollaston and North Quincy Post Offices.

The hours of operation on these dates at both offices will be 8 a.m. to 12 noon.

To ensure holiday mail arrives at its destination in a timely manner, the Postal Services urges customers to mail early, properly address cards and packages, use correct Zip codes, and include a return address on all mailing items.

Council Delays Action On Incumbent Issue

A home-rule petition calling for a clarification on the ballot designation of a councillor-at-large candidate was held up by the City Council Monday and will probably be voted on at its next meeting, Dec. 18.

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney, who sought the clarification after the incumbency designation issue was raised during the last election, wanted the council to act Monday night. However, Cheney decided to put the petition back into the Ordinance Committee after several councillors requested more time on the matter.

One councillor, Ward 3's Lawrence Chretien, suggested delaying the vote into the new year. But Cheney disagreed.

"We just went through an election in which everyone here was a participant. This city council should make that decision."

The present council has one more meeting, Dec. 18, before the new mayoral administration and council is sworn into office Jan. 2.

Two members of the present council will not return to the Chambers as of Jan. 2. Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets will begin his term as mayor while unsuccessful mayoral candidate and Councillor-at-large Stephen McGrath will become Sheets' city solicitor.

The council will have two freshmen members next year. Peter Kolson will represent Ward 1 while Thomas Fabrizio will be the new Ward 4 councillor.

Cheney ran a successful at-large campaign and will fill McGrath's seat.

At Monday's meeting, councillors agreed the issue should be clarified but some appeared unsupportive of Cheney's proposal. The petition would allow only elected councillor-at-large candidates to be listed as incumbents on the ballot.

Ward councillors running at-large would not be entitled to the "candidate for re-election"

McCauley, Sheets Press Conference Friday

Mayor Francis McCauley and Mayor-elect James Sheets will discuss city finances, both present and future, at a press conference Friday at 11 a.m. in the Mayor's Office.

According to Sheets, the press conference, his first since his election last month, will focus on city finances, both for the remainder of fiscal 1990 and fiscal 1991 which begins next July 1.

The conference will be a follow-up to a meeting held Monday in McCauley's office. Sheets was joined by newly appointed Executive Secretary Thomas Koch, Administrative Assistant Bernice Mader and City Solicitor Stephen McGrath.

On Monday, McCauley and City Auditor Robert Foy gave Sheets and his appointees several volumes of financial information and data.

On Tuesday, Sheets said he has been "working through the material." He said he wants to be comfortable with the material before making public comments.

It is unclear how the state's budget woes will impact Quincy.

Advisory Council To Hear Ricci On QHS-To Tech Reorganization Plan

The Quincy High School Parent Advisory Council will meet Tuesday, Dec. 13 at 7:15 p.m. in the Pride Room of Quincy High. Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci will speak on the proposed reorganization of Quincy High and Quincy Vocational-Technical School. All parents are invited to attend.

Historic District Downtown Extension Backed By Council

The City Council favors expanding the Quincy Historic District into the Hancock St. downtown area but has deleted two neighborhoods from the proposal.

At Monday's meeting, councillors dropped the Presidents Hill and Merrymount-Saville Ave. residential areas. The council will vote on expanding the district into the Hancock St. downtown area at a future meeting.

By a unanimous vote, councillors excluded the two residential areas because of public opposition from neighbors. Neighbors and other residents responded to the plan at previous public hearings.

Several councillors agreed the plan is too restrictive to include residential areas. Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney noted that residents would have been required to appear before the Historic Commission for minor alterations to their homes, such as painting and new gutters.

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, who made the motion to amend the order, said, "People don't want these types of restrictions on their homes. I think a lot of people are upset; they think it's an intrusion on their rights."

According to Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, most residents in Merrymount-Saville area are opposed to the expansion while people living on Presidents Hill are "fairly well divided."

He noted that those areas could be added to the district in the future.

By expanding the district downtown, Chretien said the city's tourism and downtown revitalization efforts would be benefited.

"At least this year we can prove an addition to the Quincy Historic District," he added.

Councillor Timothy Cahill said the Quincy Historic Commission has to persuade residents to support the plan before the district can expand into the neighborhoods.

"In the long run, if we can improve downtown through historical renovations, maybe we can go back to the residents and convince them this is a good project," Cahill said.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro noted the Adams Building in Quincy Square, which was refurbished after it was included in the district, is a good example of what can happen when the QHC gets involved.

Hospital Boards To Meet

The Quincy Hospital Board of Managers Finance Committee will meet Tuesday, Dec. 19, at 6:30 p.m. in the Education Center of the McCauley Building.

A Board of Managers meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m., with Tracy Buckley, chairperson, presiding.

Donut Shop License Put On Hold

The License Board Tuesday placed on file a request from Theodore Stamtiou for a common victualer license for Tasty Donuts, at 1635 Hancock St., across the street from Colman's Sporting Goods.

Board Chairman John Gillis told Stamtiou that parking in the area is "saturated" and suggested getting a recommendation from City Traffic Engineer.

Stamtiou told the board that he has an "her Tasty Donuts shop on Washington St. in Braintree Sq. He said that donuts would be transported from there to the Quincy store, at least at the beginning. He said he may add a kitchen to the Quincy location at some point in the future.

The board also noted that the Health, Building and Fire Departments must see plans for the location before a license can be issued.

The request was placed on file until the applicant provides plans and until the traffic engineer can review the plans to give input on any traffic and parking impact the establishment would have in the area.

Montello's Complaint Before Board Dec. 12

The License Board said Tuesday it would issue a letter to the manager of Montello's Function Hall on Mass. Ave.

instructing him to appear before the Board at its next meeting, Dec. 12. The board is checking a possible violation of "after wedding party" regulations. The alleged violation occurred at a Nov. 18 function at the hall.

Montello's manager, Paul J. Montello, signed an explanation of the board's "after wedding party" regulations in April of this year.

The board received a copy of a police report issued to Sgt. Richard Laracy, Quincy Liquor Inspector, concerning the November 18 function at Montello's.

Board Briefs

• Granted a request from the North Quincy High School Red Raiders Band to hold canning dates on Dec. 15 and 16.

• Granted a request from Atlantic Data Service, Inc., for a one-day all-alcoholic license to hold a Christmas party on Thursday, Dec. 21 from 5:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. at the National Fire Protection Association at Batterymarch Park.

'No Pie In The Sky'

Kolson Has Goals As Ward I Councillor

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Peter Kolson, 215 Palmer St., Quincy, has some specific ideas and goals as he prepares to become the next Ward I councillor.

Among them:

- Clean up and beautify the Ward I area more.
- Raising revenue through volunteer sticker programs and a commuter boat system.
- Curb public drinking and help spur the revitalization of Quincy Square.

Kolson doesn't want to set "pie in the sky" goals but rather realistic goals that he will work to accomplish. These are some of the ideas Kolson shared with The Quincy Sun during a recent in depth interview.

Kolson, who is employed as the superintendent of the Quincy Housing Authority, is a graduate of Quincy public schools and Arizona Western College. He also attended Massasoit Community College.

He and his wife, Judith, have five children: Juliana, Kerriann (deceased), Peter, Margaret and Caitlin.

Here is the text of the interview conducted at the Quincy Housing Authority.

Sun: Mr. Kolson, what issue or concern will be your top priority as Ward I councillor?

Kolson: There's probably not one major issue because there are a number of different issues and a lot of them stem from the influences outside the ward but specifically dealing with things that I would like to work on. Obviously, traffic and speeding in different areas of the ward is a concern.

PETER KOLSON
WARD I COUNCILLOR

Development is something that I've always been watchful of. Overdevelopment and proper development in the ward is something that I'm very concerned about. Beautification of the ward, sidewalks cleaned, and repair sidewalks, I think one of the things I'm going to do is make an inventory of all the different sidewalks and areas that have to be done. I'll be collecting that information and in the future, I'll be feeding that into our update of block grant money to try to make sure those things are kept up with.

Drinking in the public parks areas in the summer time is a concern of mine. It gets a little irritating after a while to deal with that and I think I have an idea that I'll be talking about in the council and hopefully I'll get a lot of support for it. I have to check it out legally first before I make anything public on it.

Ward I is sort of unusual as it relates to the other wards because we are primarily a single household type of community. There are not a lot of businesses. There are a few areas where I would like to see some small businesses. I think the ward would need a bakery or a hardware store or something that would be convenient to the people who live in the ward.

I'd like to see small business move into the community and be nurtured by the community so they have a partnership. It's important that those two things work hand in hand done properly with everyone's interest at heart.

We have the Clean Harbors situation and I think we're starting to turn that around. Hopefully we'll defeat that incinerator. That's going to be a major issue affecting Ward I.

The (MWRA) sludge treatment plant and Proctor and Gamble--those things affect the ward and as a ward councillor and a citizen, I feel it's my obligation to work on those things.

Sun: Have you any specific goals that you would like to look back on in two years as something you have accomplished?

Kolson: Yes, I think one is the repair work and beautification in the ward that has to be done. There are a few business areas that I would like to spruce up. I've set some realistic goals and sometimes as a newly elected official, sometimes you get carried away with your position and set some unrealistic goals. I think I'd like to take it slow and easy and see what I can accomplish. I think I'm going to surprise myself, hopefully.

Sun: What committee or committees would you like to chair?

Kolson: I'll serve on anything. It really doesn't bother me whatever the (council) president wants me to serve on, I'll do the best job I possibly can. I don't think there isn't one committee that I would shy away from. I don't have any specific yearning to be one committee or another. You can make a committee as important as you want it to be. The value of that committee, as long as it serves the purpose and serves the community as a whole, is an important committee.

Sun: How will you make yourself accessible to your constituents?

Kolson: I'm accessible now. My phone isn't unlisted and I'm on an answering service. I plan on having community meetings. I'll be attending the different neighborhood community meetings in Adams Shore, Merrymount, Houghs Neck and Germantown. Plus, I'd like to start a time at one location where I'll be at maybe once a month so that people can come because sometimes they don't want to call and would rather talk to you in private but not come to your house. I'm trying to find a place now, maybe the (Adams Shore) library because that is sort of a central location. I could hold office hours up there so that people could come in and see me and talk to me and whatever their needs are because sometimes you're not going to get to everybody. People are shy sometimes.

Sun: What kind of legislative style will you bring to City Hall?

Kolson: I like to get down to the nuts and bolts of things. I think I'm a very cooperative type of guy. I simply like to get things accomplished. I have very strong specific ideas on things. I think most people that I'll be serving will know that. Being active in various things, environmentally and overdevelopment and things like that, I think those issues are on the table. They know exactly where I'm coming from on those types of issues and I don't think there are any problems with that. And a lot of people feel the same way. I'm not saying I'm the only person who feels that way. I think I'm somebody who likes to see the problem and get to

BECAUSE YOU NEVER KNOW ...

Most of us think of insurance as something we keep paying for without receiving a return for our money. If you stop to really consider the principle of insurance, however, this will reveal itself to be untrue. You are purchasing something less tangible than material goods, perhaps, but intangibles can be more valuable than objects. Insurance buys you a buffer in a realm that does not always take your best interest into account. The peace of mind that insurance offers is invaluable.

With insurance you are buying a pact between you and your insurance company that states, in the event you suffer any covered loss, the company will reimburse you for your losses up to the limit of your policy. And 99 times out of 10 that's a lot more than you could ever afford should you have to reach into your own resources to cover your losses.

It's something to remember each time your premium comes due. Your dollars are not buying something you can wear, eat or see today, but its value is there just the same.
The feeling of knowing that you and your assets are protected against loss around the clock is a return on your money, indeed.

professionals are happy to discuss the many protection options available today. Please give us a call at 471-6200 or

Principle Over Friendship

For Rep. Robert Cerasoli it simply came down to a case of principle over friendship.

There was House Speaker George Keverian, his long-time close friend appealing to him to support his controversial tax package.

Support him or resign chairmanship of the powerful House Audit Committee.

The Quincy Democrat felt he just couldn't, in good conscience, support the package and his friend, so he resigned. "It was tough," he says,
"because of our friendship. 'But I felt I couldn't go for that tax package, so I submitted my resignation.'"

Time does have a way of changing things, including relationships.

KEVERIAN

Cerasoli was one of the first to support Keverian in his battle against Thomas McGee for the House gavel.
And now, he was the first to resign his chairmanship in a strong difference of opinion.

There's a little irony there.

Cerasoli supported Keverian for House Speaker because Keverian was the type who would give his committee chairmen latitude. Unlike McGee who believed in an iron fist.

Now Keverian was acting like McGee. "Be with me or you're against me. And if you're against me, you're out."
Cerasoli didn't mention McGee but acknowledged:
"He (Keverian) is not giving the leaders (chairmen) the latitude he gave them before. He has taken everything upon his own shoulders."

After Cerasoli submitted his resignation in a friendly letter, Keverian called him at his home and the pair chatted for an hour and a half about "the good old days."

Those days go back to 1975 when Cerasoli was a freshman legislator. He became friends with Keverian and the latter introduced him to his secretary, JoAnne, who Cerasoli wooed and wed.

But those days are gone.

"Now," says Cerasoli, "he (Keverian) has made this tax package a test of his leadership ability and he has taken it all on his shoulders. He has changed his way of doing things."

Cerasoli says the present tax package will breed another one because all it is going to do is play catchup with the financial mess the state is in.

"They don't understand economics up here," he says.

CERASOLI

Cerasoli says the Dukakis administration started cutting funds from the neediest when it should have lopped off the fat and tightened the fiscal belt in other areas.

Cerasoli says there is plenty of room to cut ballooning costs and prevent another tax bomb from going off next year.

Cerasoli, for example, would lay off 25 percent of the state workforce. That would be about 22,000 people with an average $25,000 salary. And add up to about a $500 million savings for openers.

He would start with, he says, the $50,000 plus jobs
Governor Dukakis created the past two years.

He thinks the state could get along without them.

He would cut down on overtime. Last year that amounted to $65 million. He would create two or three shifts in departments dealing with the public and have them open early or late at night for the convenience of the public.

"Supermarkets stay open until 2 a.m. Why couldn't, for example, the Registry stay open for the public's convenience - but not on overtime," he says.

Cerasoli is irked about the proposed sales tax increase that is still being kicked around on Beacon Hill.

"They want to implement it before the Christmas shopping season is over. That's going too far. It's ridiculous."

He also can't stomach the proposed increase in the gasoline tax from 11 cents to 17 cents and then, later to 21 cents.

They overlook the fact that there is going to be a new federal tax of about four cents in February, he notes.

"So that means we'll be paying 25 cents more a gallon in taxes next year. Or every time you fill up your tank, you'll be paying $4 in taxes."

These taxes, he says, are not fair to the public. The state is digging deep into the public's pockets to bail it out of a mess and could cut these proposed tax increases by trimming all the fat growing on Beacon Hill.

"There is still no planning for the future," says Cerasoli. "We may need an entirely new concept of state government. 'We can't go on the way we are sticking it to the public.'"

Cerasoli says that by opposing the current proposed tax bill and resigning his chairmanship, he feels "like a big rock has been lifted from my shoulders."

Does he think he can remain friends with Keverian?
"I would like to think so," he says.

But it will never again be quite like the "good old days."

Cutting The Fat

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
There has been a lot of discussion recently in the press and in the legislature about "cutting the fat" and "eliminating waste" in state government. In the last couple of days, that discussion has boiled down to cutting three executive offices. The savings from these cuts are illusory, and the so-called efficiency to be accomplished through consolidation would be a bad joke except that it's not very funny.

The Executive Office of Labor has no full-time lobbyist and no press secretary; I am concerned now that since we started this office in 1983, we have focused too much of our attention on doing the real work at hand and too little on exactly the kind of self-promotion the tax cutters deserve.

In fact our very small operation has achieved real results which matter to all the citizens of this Commonwealth who work for a living. Just recently, this office stopped legislation which would have allowed employers to move from paying their employees weekly to insuring semi-monthly or monthly paychecks.

We insisted on keeping the current law because we understand that most working people live paycheck to paycheck, week to week.

Mobile Post Office At 1000 S.A. Dec. 12

To assist senior citizens with their holiday mailing needs, a mobile post office will stop at the Senior Citizens Center, 1000 Southern Artery (North Wing Lobby), Quincy,
Tuesday, Dec. 12, at 10:30 a.m.

Customers may purchase the new Christmas stamps and mail greeting cards and letters at the mobile post office.

In addition to shopping and mailing early, the U.S. Postal Service urges customers to properly address cards and packages, use correct ZIP codes, and be sure to include a return address on all mailing items.

We've worked to reform the workers' compensation law;
one of the effects of that reform is that injured workers now receive a cost of living allowance to keep up with inflation.

I have personally visited hundreds of plant closings sites all over the state, and I am proud of the efforts of my staff and line agencies in developing programs which genuinely help people facing the devastating loss of a plant closing can be. We've worked in hard-pressed communities to rebuild an industrial base after these great losses, and we've accomplished some real results in places like Springfield, Greenfield and Fall River. People who have difficult reading and writing have learned basic skills at the worksite through programs we've developed and which have been hailed as a national model.

More than 700 calls per month come into our office from people who need help in figuring out how government can work for them. We hear from workers whose employers have failed to pay them or who are asking that they work unreasonable hours. And we have worked out referral and follow up systems to make sure that these people don't get lost in these people don't get lost in any bureaucracy. We also hear from workers, including pregnant women, who have just found out that their employer has cut off health insurance benefits and from people who have been fired unjustly. Sadly, many of these people have no redress under current laws, but we are fighting for legislation to help people with problems like these.

These are only a few of the issues we are involved in. All of the issues our office addresses affect all working people throughout the Commonwealth.

I am proud to serve as Secretary of the Executive Office of Labor, and all our citizens can be proud of the work my hard-working staff of nine people has done.
Abolishing this office would be a disservice and an insult to working people throughout the state.

ballot designation.

Over the years, there have been different interpretations of the incumbent label. Some ward councillors running at-large have received it while others have not.

Introducing the petition at an October council meeting, Cheney said he wanted to clear up the matter once and for all. He repeated that sentiment Monday.

However, Chretien, who was re-elected this fall with no opposition, said the petition is "arbitrary" and doesn't recognize a ward councillor's efforts.

City Clerk John Gillis, who is also chairman of the Board of Registrars, agreed. "I think a ward councillor does have a right to some recognition."

Gillis noted that a bill has been filed by Senator Paul Harold which is similar to Cheney's petition. The bill would allow ward councillors running at-large to have "current ward councillor" status under their names on the ballot.

Chretien suggested the same, while adding another compromise would be not to have any labels at all. According to Chretien, the councillor-at-large designation gives a councillor at-large "a further leg up on the ward councillor."

McGrath, who was the last ward councillor to benefit from the incumbency designation in his campaign from Ward 5 councillor to councillor-at-large two years ago, said the petition should be considered more. "It's one that I think we can wait on. It's worthy of more debate."

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan and Councillor-at-large Patricia Tolland also expressed support for Harold's bill.

Cheney's petition needs council approval and the mayor's signature before it can be sent to the state legislature for action.

The incumbency issue was raised by Denis Tardo during the last election. Tardo, who ran unsuccessfully for one of three councillor-at-large seats, challenged Gillis to drop the incumbency label from Cheney's name on the ballot.

Gillis referred the matter to City Solicitor Joseph "Jav"

MacRitchie who stated in an opinion that a ward councillor running at-large should be entitled to the incumbency designation.

MacRitchie said the manner of which councillors-at-large and ward councillors are elected is different: the former by the whole community while the latter by one sixth the electorate.

He also said their responsibilities are slightly different. Essentially, he said ward councillors must balance city-wide interests with interests of their own ward while councillors-at-large must be responsive to the entire community.

Per his request, Cheney was not listed as an incumbent on the ballot.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Burgin Defeats Ross For Second Term

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, newly re-elected to a second term by winning 27 out of 30 precincts, pledged to work to see hundreds of men and women on relief absorbed into private industry.

"With the new Procter and Gamble factory to be built in the city and the coming of more jobs at our shipyard for the construction of a battleship I look forward to the new year with great optimism," he said.

Burgin defeated Charles A. Ross, 15,963 vote to 9,416.

In other contests, John P. Flavin and John H. Taylor were elected to the School Committee, ousting Mrs. Esther V. Purcell, who had held the post for three years.

Neil A. McDonald, Joseph Kendrick and Laurence J. Curtin were the winners in the race for three at-large seats on the City Council, but Edward J. Sandberg, who lost out by 228 votes, asked a recount.

WOODRING AT LAUNCHING

Secretary of War Harry S. Woodring was the chief speaker at the launching of the SS Ancon, first of three ships to be built for the Panama Railroad Co. to go down the ways at the Fore River Shipyard.

The $4 million, 10,000-gross ton ship, which was said to be virtually "sink-proof" was scheduled to carry a maximum of 206 first class passengers between the Canal Zone and New York via Haiti.

Kolson Has Specific Goals As Ward I Councillor

the core of it without doing a lot of fringe playing; see if we can get the problem resolved and get it off the agenda and more on to something else. I just don't know if I have one specific style or not. I don't think I can categorize myself because I simply don't know yet. Maybe if I'm up there a term or two, maybe I will have some sort of style.

Sun: Away from Ward 1, what issues do you plant what issues do you plant to work on?

Kolson: I think the restoration of Quincy Square to a certain degree. What we have to get into our heads is that we have to make Quincy Square viable first and primarily to the people in Quincy. Make sure they enjoy shopping there and that their benefits and their services are met by what goes on in Quincy Square. There are few stores up there that have done a beautiful job. Hancock Court, for one. It's only four stories but will amply serve the needs of the citizens of Quincy. Ample will serve their needs. I'd like to work with Mayor James Sheets and Planning Director Richard Meade in getting good business in Quincy Square. I think that would be a major concern.

Sun: What ideas do you have in raising revenue?

Kolson: While I was campaigning, I mentioned having a volunteer sticker that could be provided to every homeowner with a registered car in the city of Quincy. There are some 33,000 households in Quincy and that would raise about $330,000 if everybody bought one ticket for one car per household. Obviously, if there is more than one car per household, then you'd be talking about even greater revenue. It would be a volunteer thing and I think when people look at the average parking fine is $10 to $15 anyhow, I think it would be worthwhile for people to purchase it and I think it would encourage people to shop in Quincy Square (and other places in Quincy) It would do a world of good for commerce.

I was also thinking about Quincy's own commuter boats (at the former shipyard). I would like to talk to Ward 2 councillor Ted DeCristofaro about that.

Residents would buy a ticket for one year at whatever price would be profitable and I think it would be just for Quincy people to start off with. Then if Quincy people didn't want to participate, then we could open it up to other people. This ticket would allow you to have your own parking space for a year, you'd drive down there, park your car, walk to the boat and be shuttled to Boston without the hassle and headache of driving through the traffic. I think it would be a heck of an idea.

There are ideas that are not going to hurt but benefit the citizens of Quincy, especially the people in my area, Ward 1.

Laura Hennessy Attends Advanced Studies Program

Notre Dame Academy student Laura Hennessy recently returned for her senior year after spending six weeks this summer at the Massachusetts Advanced Studies Program.

Hennessy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hennessy of Marlboro St. in Wollaston, is a graduate of St. Ann's School.

She was chosen from among more than 500 nominees to attend the statewide program which is open to outstanding public and parochial school juniors. Held each summer on the campus of Milton Academy, MASP allows students the opportunity for intensive college-level study together with college guidance, financial and planning, college visiting, sports and recreational and cultural activities.

Grants from banks, corporations and philanthropies throughout the state make it possible for any student elected to attend, regardless of financial need.

Each student chooses a special field of study, as well as a writing skills course. Hennessy concentrated on experimental biology and took autobiography, writing from life.

"Attending MASP was an experience that I will never forget. I had the opportunity to meet people from all across Massachusetts in a college-like atmosphere. In my concentration, I was able to devise and carry out biological experiments that I would otherwise not have been able to do in high school," Hennessy said.

School nominations to the program from this year's Junior class will be made in January. Information is available from school guidance offices or from the MASP office at Milton Academy, 170 Centre St., Milton, MA 02186.

LOCAL PROGRAMMING FOR CONTINENTAL CABLEVISION

'Emmanuel Candle' To Be Lighted At Quincy Point Congregational

Church members and friends at the Quincy Point Congregational Church are lighting candles during the Advent Season.

Each Sunday, as the congregation gathers for worship at 10:30 a.m. one of four candles of the Advent Wreath is lighted to mark the faith pilgrimage to Christmas. Last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Romeri and their son Chris, lighted the "Candle of Comfort."

This Sunday, Dec. 10, the "Emmanuel Candle" will be lighted by Mr. and Mrs. Glen McGhee and family. Soloist will be Donna Baione.

The theme for Sunday's service will be need and availability for hope. Dr.

Herman Weiss, Organist and Choir Director, will direct the Chancel Choir.

Church members and friends are reminded to bring with them "white gifts" of knitted gloves, mittens, hats or scarves wrapped in white tissue paper and to place them on and about the Christmas tree in the sanctuary. These gifts will be delivered to the City Mission Society in Boston for needy families this Christmas. This project is being sponsored by the Mission Board of the church.

This Sunday, Church School for all ages will be held from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. Infant Care is provided in the Crib Room during Church School and during morning worship with adult supervision. Adult classes include Bible Study at 9:30 a.m.

The Adult Class on "Issues and Answers" will focus on "How Are the Homeless Cared For in Quincy?" and will be led by Mary Jo Dion, staff member at Fr. Bill's Place, one of Quincy's shelters for the homeless.

Quincy Point Congregational Church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery. The Reverends Carol and Fred Atwood-Lyon serve as the co-Pastors. For more information about the church, call the church office at 773-6424, Mondays through Fridays, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Hanging Of The Greens At Bethany Church Sunday

The hanging of the greens will take place Sunday, Dec. 10, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at the opening of the 10 a.m. service.

The sanctuary windows will be decorated with large evergreen branches and candles. Gerard Capobianchi and Bruce Crofts will hang the greens brought to them by children of the Church School: Robin Briggs, Jonathan Caliri, Brian Capobianchi, Mary Chenette, Kristin Cotter, Beth Devin, Craig Gifford, Stacey Gruner, Danny Kinnecom and Scott Massey.

During the ceremony the congregation will sing Christmas carols. Preceding the greening, the senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will give a brief commentary concerning this Christmas season tradition.

The Advent wreath candlelighting ceremony for this Second Sunday in Advent will be led by Carolyn Leuchte and her children, Eric, John, Elizabeth and Rebecca.

Rev. Elizabeth M. Upton, interim associate minister, will preach the sermon on "Choose Love," lay scripture readers will be Marion Lockwood at the 9 a.m. chapel service, and Bruce Byorkman at the 10 o'clock service in the sanctuary. Pastor Arnold will be the liturgist at both hours.

The Chancel Choir under the direction of organist Charles J. Blue, Sr., will sing as the anthem "Alleluia" by Randall Thompson, and as the offertory Saint-Saen's "Praise Ye the Lord of Hosts."

The worship service will be broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 o'clock over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc.

Children of the Church School will attend the first portion of the 10 a.m. service, after which the pupils will go to their classrooms. Child care is provided for babies and toddlers.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship time in the Allen Parlor with coffee and light refreshments being served.

A Christmas party sponsored by the 'Mothers and Others' Club of Bethany for children in nursery through 5th grade will be held in the Allen Parlor this Saturday, Dec. 9, from 1 to 3 p.m.

For information about Bethany and any of its ministries and programs, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

Hospital, Osco Drugs Cholesterol Screening

A series of community cholesterol screenings, co-sponsored by Quincy Hospital and Osco Drugs, will begin Wednesday, Dec. 13 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. at the Osco Drug Store on Granite St., Quincy.

All screenings will be conducted by registered nurses, who will offer general information about nutrition and lifestyle issues affecting cholesterol levels. Referrals for further medical care will also be available.

The cost of the screening is $5 per person. An individual screening takes approximately 5 minutes. No appointment is necessary.

Future screenings in 1990 are being planned for Jan. 10, Feb. 14, March 14, April 11 and May 9 at the same Osco Drug location.

PREPAYING A FUNERAL PRESERVES YOUR ASSETS

The law permits a certain amount of money from your estate to be set aside for funeral expense should illness deplete your assets. We can help you place such funds in an irrevocable trust that will guard against inflation. Participation in THE NEW ENGLAND FUNERAL TRUST assures that your wishes will be known.

Please write or call for a free brochure that explains the details of funeral preplanning.

Vo-Tech Joins MADD To End Drunk Driving

Quincy Vocational Technical School has joined with Mothers Against Drunk Driving and Razzal Soda in a national campaign to end drunk driving.

The school will participate in MADD's 1989-1990 National Poster and Essay Contest.

The contest, targeted at middle, junior and high schools, kicked off recently with a dramatic mailer, a box containing a crushed beer can. The mailer was sent to over 2,000 school principals in New England with an invitation to "stamp out" drunk driving.

The contest will be supported with a Razzal Night Dance at the school.

For further information on the MADD poster and essay contest, contact Rick Miller, Razzal Corp., at (508) 443-3737.

Crime Watch

By ROBERT HANNA
Crime Prevention Officer

Neighborhood Watch

When it comes to fighting crime, we're all in it together.

Crime is a local problem. So to combat crime effectively, you've got to organize locally, on your home turf. Crime patterns just aren't the same everywhere, each neighborhood is different.

What's your neighborhood? Maybe it's a suburban subdivision, or one or more urban blocks bounded by a park or school. It could be a small rural area, or a highrise apartment building. It's where you feel at home.

All that's needed for most neighborhood crime prevention activities are your eyes, your ears, a little of your time, and a lot of caring about the well-being of your neighborhood.

Begin with Neighborhood Watch, a mutual protection program where neighbors look out for each other's safety and property. Neighborhood Watch programs are available through the Quincy Police Dept. You can start by calling us here at the Quincy Police Dept. and requesting a Neighborhood Watch Program. After that you can exchange work and home telephone numbers with your closest neighbors. Keep them posted on your daily and vacation schedules. Let them know about scheduled repairs or deliveries. That way your neighbors know what to look for. If they spot a suspicious car in your driveway or unusual activity in your home while you're away they'll know something's wrong and call the police.

ObituariesDiane M. Brooks, 47*Received Good Citizen Award

A funeral Mass for Diane M. (Dauphinee) Brooks, 47, of North Quincy, was celebrated Dec. 1 at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy. Burial was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Mrs. Brooks, a member of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and the recipient of the Good Citizen Award from the Quincy Hospital, died Nov. 27 at University Hospital after being ill for eight years.

Mrs. Brooks was a precinct captain in the election campaigns of former city Councilor Joanne Condon.

She received the Good Citizen Award in 1983 for her volunteer work at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center. She assisted at the organizations Christmas parties and July Fourth celebrations.

She served as a den mother for Cub Scout Pack 27 and Den 5 in Quincy and watched over 15 youngsters at the meetings. She was also a Brownie Scout leader.

When her sons were playing football and baseball at North Quincy High School, she never missed a game, her husband said, and she was active in the school's Football Boosters, working on Fundraisers such as Las Vegas Nights and dances. She was also active in the Quincy Parent-Teacher Organization.

Mrs. Brooks was born and lived in North Quincy all her life. She graduated from North Quincy High School in 1960. She was a communicant of Sacred Heart Church.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Most of us, at certain important and appropriate times, have something to say. We have things to say to our spouses, to our children, to our friends and to our fellow workmen, etc.

We all know that the lower forms of life do communicate with one another. Yet, nowhere in all of creation is there any creature as well equipped as people for saying things to one another. There is scarcely a moment between dawn and dusk that we do not have something to say. It should behoove us to think well of how we exercise this right... Let us use it rather than abuse it... Having a purpose behind what we say makes the distinction between most ignored 'small talk' and our being actually heard and listened to.

Some famed men of history were fairly quiet men... They said little but did much. George Washington was one of the silent men of the American scene. He talked when it was necessary; was not hesitant, however, to speak up when directions were to be given or advice sought... Lincoln had his silent hours when he appeared withdrawn from the social chatter around him... Yet in a few words spoken at Gettysburg, he set a standard for oratorical excellence that has probably never been surpassed!

A Third Generation Continues Our Traditions.

Quincy has changed a great deal since Sweeney Funeral Home was established in 1917. But, it's nice to know some things will never change. Like the observance of traditional values and customs.

At Sweeney Funeral Homes, older residents are quick to notice the subtle reminders of yesteryear, such as the grey gloves our funeral director still wears. Like the characteristic top hat and tails that our founder, Dennis Sweeney, wore over 30 years ago, they reflect our Tradition. One that has been built on a dignified and instinctive concern for the city's bereaved families for three generations.

Today, our founder's grand-nephew, Dennis S. Sweeney has continued the family's philosophy of maintaining a beautiful, home-like atmosphere.

And like his namesake, who started pre-arrangements in the 1940s, Dennis believes in helping residents to plan for the future. Pre-planning means that this financial decision is not left for a family to decide while they are attempting to cope with a major personal loss. It's a difficult time, a time when family members are least able to make the wisest choice.

Sweeney Funeral Homes has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. Call Dennis Sweeney at (617) 773-2728 for a free consultation. There's no time like the present.

'Aspects Of Christmas'

Wollaston Congregational Topic

At the 10 a.m. worship service at Wollaston Congregational Church, Sunday, Rev. Elden Zuern's topic will be "Aspects of Christmas: Seeking Pleasure." Scripture readings will be by Kurt Olson. Ushers will be Joseph Sandahl and Ellis Laycock. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson will be greeters. Erik Oster will be acolyte.

In the continuing ceremony of lighting the Advent candles, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Todd lighted the first candle last Sunday and Mr.

and Mrs. Paul Gifford will light the second candle this Sunday. Richard Kelsey's class will present a Christmas program.

Flowers on the altar will be in memory of Ida C. Well, given by her daughter, Norma Zuern and family.

'Joseph' Sermon Topic

At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Kirk Johnson, co-pastor with Rev. Kathleen Graves, will preach.

His sermon title is: "Joseph—The Forgotten Man's Story."

The Day family will light the second advent candle, the symbol of peace. They will do the readings also. The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, will sing an introit and two anthems.

Sunday School, with classes for ages nursery through adult will begin at 9:30 a.m. Preparations are underway for the program Dec. 17.

Immediately following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. Servers for the month of December will be Astrid Somontes and Esther McCarthy.

A nursery is available for children age five and under. The attendant will be Nancy Johnson.

This week's activities include a Diaconate meeting Friday at 1:30 p.m. and a trustee meeting at 7:30 p.m. at the church. On Sunday, Dec. 10 there will be an open house at the parsonage from 2 to 4 p.m. At 4 p.m. there will be a meeting of the Christian Education Board.

Coming events include:

Saturday, Dec. 16 at 8 a.m. the mens prayer breakfast. At 11:45 a.m. the senior adult luncheon and program featuring a Christmas concert by Richard Smith on piano and organ and special numbers by the choir.

Sunday, Dec. 17 at 10:45 a.m. a service of lessons and carols and the dedication of the new music room, at 4 p.m. the Sunday School program and party; Dec. 25 at 5 p.m. a candlelight evening service; and Dec. 31 at 5 p.m. an all church New Year's Eve Potluck supper.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

Rev. Denis O'Driscoll Resigns As Blessed Sacrament Pastor

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Rev. Denis O'Driscoll, pastor of Most Blessed Sacrament Parish, Houghs Neck, for two years, has announced his resignation for health reasons.

In Sunday's letter to parishioners, Fr. O'Driscoll wrote:

"It is with a heavy heart I announce my resignation as Pastor of Most Blessed Sacrament Parish. Since my major heart attack last March, it has become increasingly evident that I am physically unable to serve the parishioners as they deserve to be served. My cardiologist is worried with my slow progress. His Eminence the Cardinal has graciously accepted my resignation to become effective Jan. 4. Please pray for me."

In his two years as parish priest, Fr. O'Driscoll is credited with both physical and spiritual improvements in the parish.

With full cooperation of parishioners and many volunteer workers, the rectory at 1000 Sea St. was physically improved. Urgent and necessary repairs have been made to the church. St. Thomas Aquinas Hall has seen the inclusion of a CCD office, with more alterations planned.

A Parish Council has been initiated, with members elected from parishioners. There is an Advisory Committee to the Council, and also a spiritual advisory group.

Fr. O'Driscoll has helped raise the spiritual level of the parish through innovative and social events.

A Biblical course for adults was begun. Members have been encouraged to become lectors and eucharistic ministers.

In addition, plans have been made for the 75th anniversary of the church on June 15, 1990. Pictures of early years have been requested of parishioners, and are now hung at the rear of the Church.

Youth groups, including a children's choir, have been reactivated. Tours of the Church were initiated to explain the meaning of benches, windows and artifacts.

In many of these activities, Fr. O'Driscoll has been aided by Rev. Joseph P. Veneto, recently assigned as senior priest in residence.

Fr. O'Driscoll was born in Cork, Ireland, where he was ordained in the African Missionary Society. He served in Liberia for seven years. Visiting the United States during a sabbatical, he enrolled at Catholic University, and subsequently decided to become a parish priest.

He has served at St. Paul's Church in Hingham, Fr. Joseph's Church in Malden, and in Braintree before coming to Houghs Neck.

Hong Kong Native Chinese Ministry Pastor At Wollaston Lutheran

The Rev. Richard Man Chan Law will be installed as pastor for Chinese Ministry at the Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St., Sunday, Dec. 10 at 3 p.m.

The officiant will be the Rev. David Mulder, bishop of the New England District, the Lutheran Church — Missouri Synod. Preacher will be the Rev. Frank Bauer, pastor emeritus of Wollaston Lutheran. Liturgists will be the Rev. Dr. Adolph H. Wismar, Jr. and the Rev. David Mahn.

Pastor Law, a native of Hong Kong, received his Divinity Degree from the Concordia Lutheran Seminary in Hong Kong. He received a Bachelor of Arts Degree from Warburg College in Iowa, and he received a Master's Degree in Social Work from Washington University in St. Louis.

After graduation from the Seminary in 1969, Pastor Law served as pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church in Hong Kong. From 1977 to 1985 he served as director of Hong Kong Lutheran Social Services, overseeing a staff of some 80 persons. In addition, beginning in 1979 he served as pastor of Sharon Lutheran Church in Hong Kong. He also served as Lecturer, part-time in the Department of Social Work at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. From 1987 to the summer of this year he served as Executive Director of World Vision of Hong Kong. World Vision is a Christian charitable organization supplying relief to areas of the world stricken by drought, famine and war.

Since his arrival in Quincy in September, Pastor Law has lent his talents to community groups seeking to help immigrants and refugees who have recently settled in Quincy. He has also initiated a Chinese Bible Class on Sunday mornings at Wollaston Lutheran. Early next year he anticipates beginning a Sunday service in the Cantonese language.

At present Pastor Law's wife, Wendy, and sons Eric and Steve, remain in Hong Kong. It is hoped that they will be moving to Quincy within the next several months.

Conway Ends Year With Profit

Jack Conway Co. has ended its latest fiscal year at a profit, according to President and CEO Richard F. Cahill.

"To have brought the company in at a profit during the difficult year of 1989 required the full cooperation of all our staff and 723 sales associates in our 36 sales offices," said Cahill.

Cahill, a former State Realtor of the Year, said that total sales were off six percent from previous years, but profit was protected by "some serious budgeting coupled with increased services for our customers and continuing education for our sales associates."

"During 1989 we kept our branch organization intact and our only change was merging our Middleboro and Bridgewater offices, done to solve a lease problem," Cahill said.

"1989 marks the first year in a long time that we did not open any new branches," Cahill noted. "We just tightened our operations and the result was a fine profit which will give us the financial strength to move ahead as the real estate market turns for the better."

Cahill outlined expanded services which contributed to the company's success during 1989.

The Relocation Division doubled to accommodate the increasing number of properties assigned to Conway by corporations managing executive transfers.

The marketing division for new single family homes and condominiums, Conway Development Sales (CDS), increased in size and scope and now provides sales and marketing services at five developments.

Conway Property Management (CPM) became a separate division overseeing 150 commercial tenants in 39 buildings. Increased staff and equipment at Conway Appraisal Co. stimulated a 37 percent increase in billing.

The company's tabloid newspaper, the Conway Chronicle, was improved, expanded and the circulation increased with more than a half million copies distributed during 1989, he said.

Cahill said strong educational programs also contributed to the company's success including the incentive educational award trips to the Caribbean with 200 participants and the second annual two day convention held at the Sheraton Regal in Hyannis and attended by 400 Conway associates.

A FREE WATERFRONT CONDOMINIUM at Marina Bay, part of a $250,000 prize package, will be given to one lucky person in a drawing Dec. 19.

Free Marina Bay Condo Part Of $250,000 Giveaway

Marina Bay in Squantum is offering a deal on one of their new waterfront condominiums—they are giving it away.

The give-away is part of a special promotion in conjunction with radio station WZOU 93.5 fm.

One lucky person will win, not only the condominium valued at $125,000, but also win a new 1990 Mazda Miata, an 18-foot Bayliner speed boat, a boat slip at Marina Bay and $10,000 in cash.

The total package give-away, estimated at more than $250,000, will be drawn Dec. 19 at 6:30 p.m.

"What this contest is all about is lifestyle," said Reesa Fischer, marketing manager for Marina Bay and the Codman Company, exclusive marketing agent for the condominium community.

"Whether you win this home or buy it, what you are really getting is the excitement of living by the water, surrounded by a marina and shops and yet you are only 10 minutes from Boston."

People can enter the drawing by stopping by the sales center at The Seaport at Marina Bay and filling out an entry form, visiting any of the participating retail stores or listening to WZOU for details.

The Seaport, a 125-home waterfront condominium community on 440 acres of land overlooking the Atlantic Ocean, is one of the residential communities at Marina Bay. One and two bedroom homes range in size from 684 to 995 square feet for one-bedroom and 889-1,285 square feet for two-bedrooms.

All units have fully appliance kitchens featuring microwave, dishwasher, modern cabinetry and more. Deeded garage parking is also included.

In addition, whirlpools are standard in most master baths and many homes have balconies overlooking landscaped lawns and ocean.

Along the boardwalk, a picturesque 675 slip marina sits with quaint shops and restaurants, giving the area the feel of a small Nantucket village.

Proposed amenities include The Ocean Club which will have a health club, swimming pool and restaurant.

The Seaport sales center is open daily from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. To pick up an entry form or make an appointment, call the center at 479-5600.

Marina Bay is owned by the Boston Harbor Marina Company and managed by the Codman Company.

Good Size, Speed, Shooters North's Prospects Look Promising

By TOM SULLIVAN

With the best size in years, good speed, an outstanding jumper and some excellent shooters, things look extremely promising for the North Quincy basketball team.

"I don't want to appear overly optimistic, but I honestly think this could be our year," said coach Ted Stevenson. "We will finally be able to match most teams in size and we have some fine shooters."

Last year North finished at 7-13 but wound up well, winning its Raider tournament with wins over two of the South Shore League's top teams, Norwell and Hanover.

Stevenson has only two returnees from his varsity squad, co-captains Erik DeBoer (6-5) and Jeff Calvert (5-8).

Other seniors, all up from Jed Phelan's outstanding junior varsity team which went 16-3 a year ago, are Billy Warren (6-6), Angelo Kyranis (6-3), Dave Cawthorne (5-10), Steve Kavol (5-8), Young Kao (5-9), Dan McLean (5-10) and Brian O'Malley (6-4).

also up from the jayvees are junior Brian Curran (6-4) and John Chou (5-9) and sophomore Desmond Bellot (6-2).

Rounding out the varsity squad is freshman Sean Donovan (6-1).

"Donovan is an excellent prospect and is my second best shooter," said Stevenson. "DeBoer is our best shot and a great all-around player. He will play both on the outside and inside."

"Bellot is only 6-2 but can outjump much taller players. He can dunk the ball and will be a big asset off the boards. Warren also will be a big help off the boards."

"We scored 91 points in a scrimmage against Milton Academy and I also was pleased with our showing against Brintree."

North will open the season next Tuesday at Malden and will open the home season on Friday, Dec. 15, against Somerville.

There will be no Raider tournament this year and North will face two new opponents, Boston College High, coached by Quincy's Brian Buckley, and Boston Latin. The Raiders will host the annual Christmas tournament, facing Quincy, Weymouth North and Weymouth South.

Phelan is back as junior varsity coach and Dan Guddy returns as freshman skipper.

Only One Starter Back

Quincy Team Young But Has Skill

Although Quincy boys' basketball coach John Franceschini has only one starter returning from last year's 8-12 team which won four of its last five games, he feels this year's young team is the best skilled in his five years as coach.

"I think this is a direct result of our youth program which I began in my first year as coach," Franceschini said.

Last season's team won its last three regular season games and defeated Hingham in the first round of the Quincy Invitational tournament before losing a close decision to Silver Lake in the title game.

The lone returning starter is Capt. Joe Russell, 5-9 senior starting his fourth year on the varsity.

"Joe is one of the best guards in the state," Franceschini said. "He led the Suburban League in three-point shot percentage last year and is one of the best players in assists in school history."

Other seniors are Mike Scolaro (6-3), Nick Malvesti (6-0), Steve Hill (6-2), Kevin McPartlin (6-0), Peter Whyte (6-1) and Robbie Allan (5-10).

Juniors are E.J. Nordstrom (6-3), Ralph Bevilacqua (6-2), Mark Bogan (6-0), Mike Norton (6-0) and Lap Wai Cheng (6-3).

Franceschini expects a lot from Joey Crespi, 6-foot sophomore and Chris Walker (6-1) is another fine sophomore prospect.

"I hope to use eight or nine players a game and we will have to make up for our lack with a pressing defense and a fast-break offense," said Franceschini. "In our first scrimmage we had a lot of steals and our defense worked well. We are young and there are a lot of questions, but if we can steal a few wins against Greater Boston League opponents before the league season opens, we could do alright."

The Presidents will open at home next Tuesday night against Medford and will play at Revere on Friday, Dec. 15. They will again play in the annual Christmas tourney, being hosted by North Quincy this year, facing the Raiders, Weymouth South and Weymouth North.

Ray Papile is back as junior varsity coach and Mike Dracchio returns as freshman mentor.

Next Tuesday's opener will mark the first annual Alumni homecoming night conducted by the Quincy High Boys Basketball Association.

All basketball alumni are invited. The 1989 Hall of Fame inductees will be introduced between the junior varsity and varsity games. A coffee hour will follow the varsity game for the alumni and their families.

Malvesti, McGann, Pacino Junior Baseball MVP's

The Quincy Junior Baseball League coaches recently selected the Most Valuable Players for 1989.

Tom Malvesti of Burgin Platner was named the overall

MVP, Ronnie McGann of Keohane's the National League MVP and Dave

Pacino of Bryan Post the American League MVP.

All have been drafted by Babe Ruth League teams and next season Malvesti will play for Sons of Italy, McGann for Barry's Deli and Pacino for Morrisette Post.

QHS Hockey Hall Of Fame Seeks Nominations

The newly organized Quincy High Hockey Hall of Fame has named its committee, which is accepting nominations for induction.

The committee has also established a scholarship fund which will be used to help defray the cost of college tuition for a worthy Quincy High hockey player.

Nominations and donations to the fund can be sent to George Peachey, c/o Quincy High School, 52 Coddington Street, Quincy 02169. Checks should be made payable to Quincy High School Hockey Hall of Fame Scholarship Fund.

The committee includes Peachey, class of 1938; Russ Ericson, 1940; John 'Bucky' Zanardelli, 1956; Bob Carroll, 1962; Jack Crowley, 1966; Kevin Lewis, 1968; John Prescott, 1973; Peter DiBona, 1974, and Dennis Bertoni, 1976.

A nominee must be out of high school a minimum of 10 years and either played, coached or managed for a team. A letter must be sent to the committee in care of Peachey at the high school describing the qualifications of the nominee. All letters must have the name and address of the person making the nomination. An induction ceremony will be held at a future date.

The nomination period will be Dec. 1 through Dec. 31 and no nominations will be accepted after the 31st.

Marla Smith Football Contest Winner Second Time

For the second time this season, Marla Smith of North Quincy is the winner of the Quincy Sun Football Contest.

Smith correctly picked nine out of 11 winners, missing the New York Jets-San Diego game and the Detroit-New Orleans contest.

The contest will continue another three weeks and conclude when the regular season is over.

10 Inducted Into Football Hall Of Fame

By TOM SULLIVAN

Ten new members were added to the Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame at the sixth annual induction ceremonies at Morrisette Legion Post before the largest crowd to witness the event.

Quincy football coach Jack Raymer who, along with North football coach Ken McPhee and John 'Butch' Mahoney, started the Hall of Fame six years ago, was the toastmaster.

He introduced the Hall officers, president Lionel 'Shine' Buckley, who did an outstanding job not only organizing the dinner by the Hall of Fame exhibit in The Quincy Sun window; vice president Tom Kiley and treasurer Nick Malvesti, and the members of the committee.

Raymer introduced the 'veteran,' Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Parish, who called upon the "rookie," Fr. Brian Parrish, to give the invocation.

The following Quincy players were inducted into the Hall of Fame:

Harold 'Turk' Beston — played 1938-40 and was on the first Quincy team to defeat North Quincy in 1938. The first three-time Patriot Ledger all-scholastic, he made all the all-scholastic teams, later played for the Quincy Manets and was a World War II hero. He was honored by the president and received the French Cross.

Glenn 'Shorty' Fleischer — Small in stature, he was one of Quincy's all-time best running backs, starred on the 1940-41 teams. He was an all-star in football, basketball and baseball at Bates College and was a fighter pilot in World War II. He came up from Florida for the induction.

Noel Balducci — Played on the 1956-57 team, was named to several all-scholastic teams, won the Granville Award in his senior year and played in the Shriners game. He went on to star at Hofstra University.

Michael Jordan — played on the 1964-65 teams, was all-scholastic and captain his senior year and starred at Holy Cross.

Mark Giordani — Played on the 1976-77 teams, scored three touchdowns in the 1977 win over North (Mike Conroy's last season as coach), went to the University of Massachusetts and transferred to the U. of New Haven, also played baseball and hockey and came back as an assistant football coach at Quincy for three years.

The following North

Quincy players were inducted:

George Mathurin — was outstanding fullback on the 1933-34 teams, rated one of North's best punters and also starred in basketball and baseball. He was unable to appear for the induction.

Ken Sargent — Played on the 1951-1953 teams, never missed a practice session and only missed one game in three years. Won the Station WCOP Award of Merit, was a high school All-American in 1953.

Ray Doherty — Played in 1948-49, was named to several all-scholastic teams and went on to star at Northeastern University.

Paul DeSchamp — Played on the 1962-64 teams, captain his senior year and was recognized as one of the Raiders' best offensive guards.

Jack Hatfield — Captain of the 1975 Super Bowl team, was an Agganis all-star and a Suburban League all-star.

Special awards went to Guido 'Buddy' Pettinelli and Ken Coleman.

Pettinelli, a life-long Quincy resident and a three-sport star at Quincy, was recognized for his work with the youth of the city. He has been closely involved with youth baseball and football. "If the youth of the city needed anything, all they had to do was ask Buddy," said Raymer.

Coleman, Voice of the Red Sox for more than 20 years, graduated from North Quincy High where he played baseball with North's gift to the major leagues, Dick Donovan, who pitched in the majors for several years.

"I don't deserve this, but I have arthritis and I don't deserve that, either," he said. "While growing up in North Quincy, I had many role models and the first was Pete Zoia. Others were Curly

Rogers, Joe McBride, Nick Malvesti, Vic DiGravio, Peter Cooke and Robbie Williams, for whom I played baseball with Sacred Heart.

"When I began to broadcast Quincy and North Quincy games for station WJDA, I had two more role models, two of the finest men I ever met, Munroe MacLean and Jack Donahue. You boys (speaking to the Quincy and North Quincy senior players who were guests at the induction) are looked up to by the younger boys and have a chance to be real role models. Learn when to say no and stay away from gangs and the young people will look up to you.

"I've received many awards throughout the country before as many as 2000 people but, this is the most meaningful I have ever received because it comes from Quincy, the city I love."

Ken broadcast Cleveland Browns football games for 14 years and Cleveland Indian baseball games for 10 and also broadcast Cincinnati Red baseball games.

Among the guests introduced by Raymer were mayor-elect James Sheets, Rep. Michael Morrissey, North Quincy principal Peter Chrisom, Quincy principal Lloyd Hill and coordinator of athletics Mary Finnegan. He also introduced many past inductees into the Quincy/North Hall of Fame.

Other special awards went to Ed Leone, Horace Call, Tom Maskileson and Frank 'Bud' Rougieux.

A moment of silence was observed while McPhee and Raymer read off the names of several former Quincy and North players who have passed away and whose names are inscribed on a special Roll of Honor.

They are Walter Joly, Bob DesRoches, John Kerrigan, Ken Harding, Bill Moody, George Murphy, John Muldowney, Joe Collins, Paul McGuigan, Tom Meade, Rich Trubiano, Marty Keefe, Tom Connolly, John Randolph and Ed Swirbalus of North Quincy.

Also Paul Larkin, Bill Jennings, George Fostello, Bill Hanson, Percy Jenkins, Bill Manning, Larry Leavitt, Jim LeCairn, Steve Freely, Ray Pece, Fred DeSantis, George Comi, Paul Wolfe, George Cole, Joe Alfano, Don Lundin, Jack Granville, Bob McDermott, Dr. Richard Maloney, Craig Capacciolo and Dom Delforno.

LeRoy 'Curly' Rogers, 88 years young but looking 20 years younger and a legend at North Quincy, was a special guest and was thanked by several inductees for his influence and guidance through the years.

The Hall of Fame committee will present a new trophy to the outstanding player in the Quincy North game. The trophy will go to a player of either team and not necessarily a senior. It will be presented in addition to the annual Jack Granville Award for the best Quincy player and Jack Donahue Award for the best North player.

Raymer and McPhee introduced their senior players and assistant coaches.

50 Turn Out For Quincy Girls Basketball

Fifty girls turned out for the Quincy varsity, junior varsity and freshman basketball teams and varsity coach Doug MacFarlane expects his team to improve greatly on last year's 2-17 record.

"We had mostly sophomores last year and have nine players returning from the varsity," MacFarlane said. "Only two seniors are among those nine, so things look good for the next two years."

The returnees are seniors Maureen Shea and Lisa Morrell, juniors Amy Baker, Christine Barrett, Erin Doherty, Jennifer Dondero, Julie McCloskey and Melanie Sullivan and sophomore Kim Marsden.

Other players are seniors Lisa Connelly, Marsha Goodman, Violet Kambanis, Kathy Kane, Andrea Mohr, sophomores Holly

McDonough and Melissa Stevenson and freshman Christie Richmond.

Trying out for the junior varsity are juniors Lori Allen, Adriana Bagu, Meredith Barnes, Kerry Calhoun, Maureen Cully, Jen D'Alesandro, Ann Kane, Joan O'Connor, Chris Ross, Kim Va, Jennifer Verlicco and Anne Wong and sophomores Angie Cavallaro, Ann Christian, Judy Goodman, Becky Siteman, Tricia Vacca, Jody Ravida and Theresa Elwood.

The jayvees this year are coached by Mary Holleran, the freshman coach the past two years.

The freshman team will comprise Lisa Chenette, Carrie Frenette, Colleen Gallagher, Debbie Gray, Maureen Lind, Margaret McLean, Maureen Mellett, Deirdre O'Donnell, Nicole Shaughnessy, Susan MacKay and Heidi Daggart.

The freshman coach is Glenn McGhee, who coached the jayvees the past two years.

"We're really excited about the coming season," MacFarlane said. "Number one, we have our largest turnout ever and secondly, our varsity has nine returning veterans. We are going to be very competitive and should be even better next year."

The First Ladies will be opening at Medford next Tuesday night and will host Revere at 5 o'clock on Friday, Dec. 15. They will play in the annual Christmas tournament at Weymouth South, facing North Quincy, Weymouth North and Weymouth South.

• Pee Wee House

Bersani, Colonial Win

Bersani Brothers moved back into first place in the Pee Wee House League by edging Keohane's, 3-2.

Patrick Connelly, Bob Flannery and Chris Grant had the goals and Jim Kelley, Steve Barrett and Flannery had assists. Josh Wingate and Eric Oliva scored for Keohane's and David Doherty, Robbie Callow and Dan Donahue had assists. Colonial Federal defeated

UCT, 3-1, on goals by Jim Hasson, J.J. Borden and Ronnie McGann. Jeff Earnest had two assists and Dan Boylen one. Mike McKinnon scored for UCT with an assist for Jason Fennelly.

The standings: Bersani, 3-1-4; Keohane's, 4-3-1; UCT, 2-2-4; Colonial Federal, 2-5-1.

Salters Named To All-Conference Team

Craig Salters, a sophomore center from Quincy, was one of four Lake Forest College football players named to the Midwest Collegiate Athletic Conference North Division all-conference team.

Bryan Post Honors Ruth, Junior Champs

Bryan V.F.W. Post, sponsor of two teams in the Quincy Youth Baseball Leagues, recently honored its 1989 Babe Ruth and Junior League champions with an awards banquet at the Cathay Pacific Restaurant.

Trophies, plaques and jackets were presented to each member of the Babe Ruth city champions and also the Junior League champions.

In addition, special MVP trophies were awarded to Mark Kelleher (Babe Ruth) and David Pacino (Junior).

The MVP selections were determined by a vote of all the coaches in the respective leagues.

The presentations were made by post commander Ernest Barrett, post chaplain Joseph Sullivan and league representatives Mr. and Mrs. Sal Salvatore.

The Babe Ruth League roster included Philip Bell, Jeff Breslin, Richie Gorman, Bob Kane, Mark Kelleher, Steven Loud, Michael Malvesti, Joe Marinkovic, Billy Morrissey, Paul

Murphy, Tom Nutley, Todd Portesi, Terry Sheehan, Sean Skahan, George Wirtz and coaches Tom Foley and Jim Higgins.

Squirt As In Second Place

Quincy's Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, walloped Somerville, 10-3, to move into second place in the Greater Boston League, one point out of first place.

Eric Wood led the attack with a hat trick. Tom Sullivan and Scott Cooper scored two goals each and John Ryan, Matt Jarnis and Paul Princiotto one apiece. John Manning, Sullivan and Dan Hughes had two assists apiece and Tim Sheehan, Princiotto and Jarnis one each.

Joe Bracken, Bruce Stenberg and Dan Stone played strong defense and Robbie Pirelli, Tim Wood and Billy Barron played fine two-way games.

The Squirt A's also upset previously unbeaten Westwood 4-2.

Manning scored all the goals and Eric Wood, Pirelli and Stone had assists.

Sheehan was outstanding in goal and Princiotto, Barron, Ryan and Stenberg did some excellent penalty killing. Bracken, Hughes, Jarnis and Tim Wood played strong games defensively.

Earlier Quincy lost to Edgewood, R.I., 603, in a scrimmage with Manning scoring twice and Pirelli once. Eric Wood had two assists and Tim Wood and Princiotto one each.

Pee Wee As Undefeated

Quincy's Pee Wee A hockey team, sponsored by the Elks, remained unbeaten in the Greater Boston League with a 3-0-2 record with a win and a tie last weekend.

The team blanked Triboro, 7-0, as David Cooper scored two goals and Eric Zimmerman, Billy Coughlin, I-1, with Donahue, Scott MacPherson and Dennis Pateras one each.

Cooper, MacPherson, Zimmerman and Jay Evans had assists.

The team tied league-leading Somerville, 1-1, with Cooper scoring with eight seconds left to play and Zimmerman and David Pacino assisting. Goalie Mike Manganaro was superb as he had 25 saves.

Four Quincy Skaters On Boston Junior Bruins

The Boston Junior Bruins have selected 18 boys to represent the Bruins in the 30th International Youth Hockey Tournament in Quebec in February and included are four Quincy Pee Wees.

The Quincy players are Eric Zimmerman, David Pacino, Doug Nolan and Andrew Vermette.

The team will face other NHL representative teams at the Quebec Coliseum and the games will be televised throughout Canada.

The boys will be staying with French speaking families and will visit the Canadian Parliament, a hockey stick factory, the winter carnival, Old Quebec City and other sites.

The trip is expensive and the players are selling chances and soliciting donations from local merchants.

Tax deductible donations can be mailed to Boston Junior Bruins c/o Quincy Youth Hockey Association, 60 Murphy Memorial Drive, Quincy 02269. All donations will be credited to the Quincy players.

Squirt Bs Undeclared

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team, sponsored by Quincy Cablesystems, defeated South Boston, 5-4, to remain undefeated in the Greater Boston League.

Quincy came from behind with two goals in the last two minutes for the win.

Robbie Winter had two goals and Jason Snaith, Jeff Coleman and Jimmy Hasson one each. Matt Langille had two assists and Matt Radzevich, Coleman and Winter one apiece.

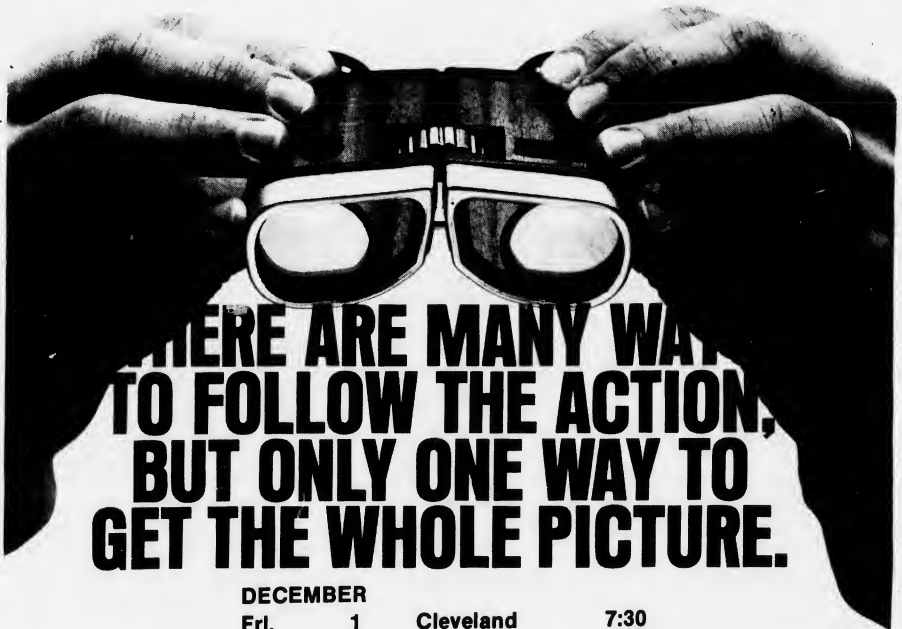

Danny Stock, David Rowell and Bruce Stenberg played strong games.

Mite Bs Breeze

Quincy's Mite B hockey team, sponsored by the Firefighters, rolled over Wellesley, 13-0, in a Greater Boston League game.

Michael Powers, Patrick Grogan, Chad Fitzpatrick and Andrew Boyd scored two goals apiece and Ryan Barrett, Michael Fitzpatrick, Bobby Harvey, Brian Ehrlich and Joe Ardagna one each. Matt Allen, Brian Correia, Billy Griffin, Brian Nolan and Sean Slattery had assists.

Goalie Jeff Langille was outstanding as he recorded his first shutout.

North Quincy High Christmas Concert Dec. 14

The music department of North Quincy High School will present a Christmas concert on Thursday Dec. 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. The concert choir of 70 students, under the direction of Catherine Carnabuci, will begin the concert with a candlelight procession. "Sing We Noel", a dynamic opening piece will be followed by "I Wonder As I Wander" with Tracy O'Sullivan, soprano soloist.

A premiere performance of "In The Bleak Mid-Winter" will be among the highlights of the evening. The 20th century hymn by Gustav Holst has been arranged by Erik Gustafson, a senior, who also wrote the musical accompaniment. Christine Carrol and Bonnie McLaren will perform the solos. Members of the choir also rendering solos include: David Ziolkowski, Donald Howie, Jeffrey Bell, Anthony Sabadini, and James Peers. Recently these students and choir members, Mark Jolly, Cassian Jae, Christine Carroll and Deborah Hourin, were selected by audition to participate in the Southeast district music festival in January.

North's Jazz Choir will add a lighter touch to the evening with "Let It Snow" and "Santa Baby". Arienne Mercier, Maria Passalacqua, Claire McCarthy, Suzanne Beers, and Xanthra DuFrane will give solo performances. The full choir will conclude the choral part of the program with "O Holy Night" and "Gloria In Excelsis Deo". The string ensemble will present music from the "Nutcracker" and "Swan Lake". "Little Drummer Boy" and "Donna Nobis Pacem" are among the selections which will be played by the North band under the direction of Francis Rull. The band captured second place in the Christmas parade. Percussionist Stephen Howard was recently selected for the Southeast district music festival's prestigious Jazz band.

Principal Peter Chisom and Assistant Principal, Eileen Feehey, invite the public to the concert. Tickets which are $2.50, may be purchased in the school office or at the door Thursday night.

NQHS Teacher Assists Berkeley Scientist In Research

Thomas Donnelly, a teacher at North Quincy High School, worked this summer with Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory scientist, George Smoot, who is involved in testing of the thermomechanical liquid Helium pump for Astronag.

Selected from a national pool of outstanding teachers nominated by their state Title II coordinators, Donnelly is one of 18 secondary-school and community college teachers who worked with LBL researchers for eight weeks in LBL's Teacher Research Associate (TRAC) Program.

The TRAC research laboratory assignment is the heart of the LBL Program. While serving as members of research teams, program participants updated their scientific knowledge and learned to use the latest scientific instrumentation.

TRAC participants also heard internationally renowned scientists, such as Nobel Laureate Glenn Seaborg, discuss current research, as well as national education and science policy developments.

Based on his research assignment, Donnelly developed new ideas for classroom activities.

John Kerry Cable Show On Channel 53

"John Kerry's Cable Town Meeting," a monthly cable show featuring a legislative wrap-up of the first session of Congress and its impact for Massachusetts, was scheduled to air Wednesday, Dec. 6 from 7 to 7:30 p.m. on Quincy Community Television Channel 53.

"I am very pleased with the viewers' response from the first two shows," Kerry said. "The Town Meeting gives the people of Massachusetts an opportunity to ask leaders like Senator (George) Mitchell (D-Maine) and Senator (Albert) Gore (D-Tennessee) about issues that are important to many in Massachusetts. It also provides me another important way to communicate with constituents."

Since Congress is in recess, Kerry will answer mail from constituents on issues ranging from housing, drugs, education, El Salvador and the president's capital gains tax initiative. The letters came from various Massachusetts cities and towns including Shirley, Worcester, Methuen, Marblehead, Webster and Danvers.

The cable show airs the first Wednesday of every month. The first show of 1990 will air Jan. 3rd.

When Congress goes back into session in mid-January, the show will resume its call-in format.

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 7

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You're known as a perpetual student, and your studies extend to life itself. Some find you hard to pin down—hardly surprising, as you tend to be in so many places. The key this year is to consolidate your interests. Mid-1990 focuses on financial matters; again, consolidation is important.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19

You're overzealous—a trait that may prove either an asset or a liability right now, depending on how you organize your time. Financial news-brightener helps offset some unexpected expenses.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20

Undue concern over a friend's opinions can prove counterproductive. It's important that you get on with your own affairs. Financial assignments bring out your talents. Shared financial arrangement needs prompt review.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20

Quick attention to mini-crises helps you avoid any potentially major ones. Your input is valuable, but listen extra carefully to the opinions of others. Unexpected recognition may come your way.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22

Recent achievements are heralded after a delay. Relationships improve following a decline. As the year draws to a close, you are possessed with foresight and can make plans for the next six months or so.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

Partner is preoccupied, and though you may feel inclined to press, it's probably best to maintain a detached stance. Invitation arriving now requires further information before you say yea or nay.

CANCER — June 22 - July 22

The week has literary quality; you're reading or writing or both. Don't take shortcuts in matters legal or financial. Combinations are more successful than you may initially believe.

LEO — July 23 - August 22

Leadership role is shared—you may be meeting your equal in this department. Your special ability this week is to make order out of chaos. Relationships demand that you keep your sense of humor active.

VIRGO — August 23 - September 22

It may be time to advise a loved one to become more responsible. If planning a gathering, check your guest list one more time. Household activities may prove more demanding than initially expected.

LIBRA — September 23 - October 22

Joint ventures are generally favorable at this time, but be thoroughly professional in your activities. Creative skills are sharp; this is a good week for designing various gift items.

SCORPIO — October 23 - November 21

Good week for sharing ideas, especially if involved in fund-raising or other money-making activities. A lighter touch helps in iffy romantic situation. Relative is surprisingly candid—his/her approach is refreshing.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22 - December 22

Current events play a role in your personal life; keep abreast of news items. Rocky relationship appears on a steadier course, but don't let the situation coast. Your encouragement benefits an older relative.

CAPRICORN — December 23 - January 20

Modesty is becoming, but this week is important for tooting your own horn. You may come into contact with a highly influential person. Weekend offers opportunity for acquiring long-sought-after object.

BORN THIS WEEK

December 7th, actress Ellen Burstyn; 8th, comedian Flip Wilson; 9th, actor Beau Bridges; 10th, actress Susan Day; 11th, actress Rita Moreno; 12th, singer Dionne Warwick; 13th, actor Dick Van Dyke.

'Everyday Is Christmas' Store Holds Grand Opening

A new store, owned and operated by Jeanne Marsh and Ann Papagno, has opened in the Dimmock Building near Quincy Square, 1147 Hancock St.

The shop features unique and exclusive home decor items, porcelain dolls, toys, gifts and of course, Christmas merchandise. Customers receive a catalog from which they can order any of the more than 2,000 items carried in the line. Many items ordered through the catalog take approximately three weeks to receive. All merchandise ordered from the catalog carries a 30-day unconditional guarantee.

The store also showcases party demonstrations held late afternoons and evenings. Hostesses who have held parties in the showroom have received an average of $100 in free merchandise from the catalog. Showroom and/or home parties can be scheduled now until mid-November.

Both Ann and Jeanne reside in Quincy and each experience in selling Christmas merchandise through a company called "Christmas Around the World" the past few years.

The store is open every weekday, except Tuesday, from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Beginning Oct. 14, the store will be open Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Hours will be extended as the season progresses. Visa and Mastercard are accepted.

For more information, call 770-1855 or 472-2691 after 4 p.m.

Elk's, City Co-Sponsor National 'Hoop Shoot'

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks will again co-sponsor the City of Quincy Championship in the Elks National, "Hoop shoot", Free Throw Contest.

The Quincy competition is the first step in a National Contest for Boys and Girls age 8-13. Contestants are assigned to three separate age categories, and a boys and girls division. Age groups are 8-9, 10-11, and 12-13. The contestants age is determined by their age on April 1, 1990.

Over 3,000,000 boys and girls will participate nationally in this annual contest, which is celebrating its 18th year. The participants are awarded points for successful free throws. The boys and girls in the age 8-9 age group will shoot from four feet in front of the regulation foul line.

The program will be supervised in neighborhood gymnasiums by recreation

Welch said, "We are pleased that the Quincy Lodge of Elks has once again provided this program for the benefit of our participants. Many Quincy residents have in the past enjoyed the benefits of this activity at the local, regional and state level." The Quincy Lodge Chairman is Ed Miller, the former North Quincy High School coach, who now coaches at Marshfield High School.

The first round of the Quincy Contest will be offered at the following gymnasiums:

Parish, Hingham, and Sister Eileen Driscoll, C.S.J., Director of the Office on Aging for the Archdiocese of Boston, will discuss their holistic philosophy of aging. All are welcome.

Central First To Win Stop & Shop Computer

Central Middle School is the first school in the Greater Boston area to place an order for a computer in the Stop & Shop "Apples For Students" promotion.

The school was presented with an Apple IIGS Color System computer last week. In celebration of the company's 75th anniversary, Stop & Shop is giving computers and computer equipment to schools who collect a designated amount of Stop & Shop register tape. Bradlees stores (owned by Stop & Shop), are also now participating in the promotion.

Some 2,800 schools in Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and parts of New York are participating in the program.

Students at Central Middle School, with the help of the community, collected the required $160,000 in register tape for the computer.

During last week's presentation, students handed Stop & Shop representatives another $160,000 in register tape for a second computer.

MAYOR-ELECT James Sheets, with Mayor Francis McCauley at his side, announces the city faces a projected $13.5 million deficit in fiscal year 1991 which begins next July 1. Sheets said he hopes to balance the budget through consolidation, attrition and service fees before considering layoffs and other cuts. Story On Page 2.

More Expected Later Sheets Keeps 7 McCauley Appointees

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor-elect James A. Sheets has added seven people to his administration, all of whom are not strangers to City Hall.

On Tuesday, Sheets announced he was reappointing seven current department heads. All reappointments are effective the first Monday in February.

The reappointments are: James Papile, Board of Assessors; Barry Welch, director of Recreation; Robert Denver, parking and purchasing agent; Dana Childs, tax collector; Robert Brennan, director of Data Processing; Jane Reikard, executive secretary of Rent Grievance Board, and David Kinnecum, traffic engineer.

Sheets emphasized that there will be other reappointments, as well as new appointments, in the ensuing weeks. He announced the seven appointments after speaking with each department's head.

The mayor-elect said he reappointed the departments heads because he was more than satisfied with their work. He also said their knowledge of city government in light of the pending fiscal problems will be invaluable.

"I've looked very carefully at their performance and I feel each one has done an outstanding job. There's no need to appoint someone to take their place.

"In light of the fiscal situation, they will have more insight as we deal with the budget," Sheets added.

The mayor-elect still has about a dozen more appointments to make. He is not certain when he'll make the rest, noting that he might make one or two more appointments within the next week.

Toland, Cheney Get Top Posts DeCristofaro Makes Appointments As Council President

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, who is expected to be unanimously elected the next president of the City Council in January, announces his appointments to the various council committees.

DeCristofaro will be elected council president during the city's inaugural ceremonies Tuesday, Jan. 2 at the Quincy Vocational-Technical gymnasium. His committee assignments will take effect after the council is sworn in.

Councillor-at-Large Patricia Toland, who is completing her second term as council president, will become the new chairman of the Finance and State and Federal Funds committees.

In both those posts, Toland succeeds Councillor Stephen McGrath who will become city solicitor in Mayor-elect James A. Sheets' administration.

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney, who will become a councillor-at-large, will remain chairman of the Ordinance Committee in January.

Peter Kolson, the next Ward 1 councillor, has been appointed Public Works chairman, succeeding DeCristofaro.

The other freshman councillor, Tom Fabrizio of Ward 4, will be the new chairman of the Oversight Committee. He succeeds Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley in that capacity.

In addition, Fabrizio has been assigned chairman of Human Services, taking over from Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien.

Nutley has been appointed chairman of Public Health and Hospital, succeeding Sheets. Nutley was also reassigned Public Transportation chairman.

Chretien was appointed Disposal and Sanitary chairman, succeeding Sheets. He was also reassigned chairman of Education.

Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill will continue as chairman of Downtown and Economic Development while Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan will remain Public Safety chairman.

The vice-chairmen of the council's major committees are:

Nutley: Finance, Ordinance and Human Services.

Phelan: Public Works and Education.

Cahill: Oversight.

Kolson: Disposal and Sanitary.

Toland: Downtown and Economic Development.

Fabrizio: Public Safety.

Cheney: State and Federal Funds, Public Health and Hospital, and Public Transportation.

Appointed to serve in the other committees are (first person is chairman and second person is vice chairman):

• Rules: Chretien, Kolson, Cahill, Fabrizio and Nutley.

• Tourism: Cahill, Fabrizio, Kolson, Phelan and Cheney.

• Public Parks and Recreation: Kolson, Cahill, Cheney, Nutley and Fabrizio.

• Land Conveyance: Nutley, Chretien, Fabrizio, Cahill and Phelan.

• Beautification: Cheney, Toland, Chretien, Cahill and Nutley.

• Pension: Toland, Kolson, Cheney, Cahill and Fabrizio.

• Youth: Cahill, Phelan, Nutley, Fabrizio and Kolson.

• Veterans Services: Nutley, Cahill, Phelan, Fabrizio and Kolson.

• Senior Citizens: Phelan, (Cont'd on Page 4)

In addition, McCauley said it is possible that he will reveal his future employment plans after he steps down as the city's chief executive Tuesday, Jan. 2.

some of the accomplishments of his administration while making his budget recommendations to Mayor-elect James Sheets public.

McCauley will first outline his recommendations to Sheets in private.

Mayor Francis McCauley will hold the last press conference of his administration Tuesday, Dec. 26 at 3 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club, 26 Glendale St.

At the press conference, McCauley said he will discuss

Police Explanation Awaited On No Sex Attacks Alert

After being faulted last Friday by Mayor Francis McCauley for failing to alert residents about a series of sexual assaults in Wollaston, the Quincy Police Department had still not explained the reason for its action by The Quincy Sun's press deadline this week.

On Monday and Tuesday, the Sun contacted Capt. Paul Nestor for an official police department statement regarding this matter. Nestor is the ranking officer while Chief Francis Finn is on vacation.

Nestor was called Monday and approached after Tuesday's License Board meeting. After the meeting, Nestor said there would be a statement within the next day or two. He added the department is trying to take action so that this kind of situation does not happen again.

However, no police statement was forthcoming to The Sun's request for an explanation before The Sun went to press Tuesday night.

After meeting with Nestor and Capt. David Rowell, chief of detectives last Thursday, Mayor McCauley said the department should have warned women about the assaults, which included the attack of a woman who was grabbed off a Wollaston street in the middle of the day and raped in nearby bushes.

He also criticized police for denying to residents the reports that the attacks occurred.

"There were calls made to the police station by the press and concerned residents who heard of the alleged incidents and it was my understanding that the police denied anything had happened."

"I felt that the police should have notified the press so that women in the Wollaston area would be alerted to a potential problem," McCauley said.

From his meeting with Nestor and Rowell, the mayor said he is "convinced the police department is working very hard" on this matter.

"They have increased police presence in the area, both uniformed people as well as detectives who are working on the case. Hopefully, we will possibly have a resolution to some of these matters."

"I do think, quite frankly, that when people call or the

Montello's Liquor License Suspended For January After Wedding Fight

By JANE ARENA

The License Board Tuesday suspended the liquor license of Montello's Function Hall on Mass. Ave for nearly a month after a hearing on violations of the City's "after wedding party" regulations which occurred Nov. 18.

The establishment will not be able to serve liquor from Jan. 2 to Jan. 31, 1990. Weekly - sober dances and other functions not involving liquor will be able to be held, the board said.

The party in question resulted in a fight which began inside and was continued outside the establishment at about 10:30 p.m. Nov. 18. The fight involved the attempted assault on a Quincy Police officer and the subsequent arrest of the groom. Ten or 12 police cars responded, Laracy said, about half the number on duty that night city-wide.

According to a police report from Sgt. Laracy, the hall was rented for an after-wedding party for about 125 people, from 6 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. City regulations state that a police officer must be hired one half hour before the start of an after-wedding party following a wedding reception. The detail officer was brought in at 9 p.m.; the report states, three hours after the start of the party. The regulations also state that an employee of the hall must be present to monitor the sobriety of patrons as they enter. No such employee was present, according to the report.

Montello's manager Paul J. Montello signed an agreement of these regulations with the City in April of this year.

Montello, present at the hearing with his attorney Richard Barry, told the board

Sheets Budget Strategy Consolidation, Attrition, New Fees Before Cuts

By ROBERT BOSWORTH
Mayor-Elect James A. Sheets, who must grapple with a projected $13.5 million shortfall for fiscal 1991 when he takes office in January, has devised a three-pronged strategy to balance the city's next budget.

On Tuesday, Sheets said he would look at department reorganization, attrition and new revenue sources such as service fees to make up for the shortfall before considering layoffs and reductions in city services.

"Certainly, we're going to look at consolidation. We're going to look at some departments to see if we can bring them into a new configuration to save money. Certainly we're going to consolidate wherever possible.

"We're not going to fill vacant positions unless they are absolutely critical. Through attrition, we can chip away at the deficit," the mayor-elect said.

Sheets also said he will consider new revenue sources, such as sewer user and trash hauling fees as well as a hotel/motel tax.

If these measures are insufficient, Sheets said he will explore cutbacks and layoffs.

"We're looking at (department) reorganization, attrition and new revenue sources. If these aren't satisfactory, we'll have to look at cutbacks," he said, adding "that's the last thing you want to get involved in because that means cuts in services."

Sheets will be sworn into office Tuesday, Jan. 2, which is less than three weeks away. Now through then, he plans on studying the city's fiscal situation. He will reveal his recommendations after he takes office.

"I hope very early in my administration to make (cost-saving and revenue-raising) recommendations. We're working on that now."

At a press conference last Thursday in the Mayor's Office, Mayor Francis McCauley and Sheets announced that the city faces a projected $13.5 million for fiscal 1991 which begins next July 1.

The city also faces a $9 million shortfall by the end of fiscal 1990 next June. However, that shortfall should be covered by the free-cash account.

According to budget projections, the city's FY 1991 budget and appropriations will total $126,067,409 while total revenues amount to $120,361,497.

Non-appropriation charges, including Cherry Sheet offsets, overlay deficit and current five percent overlay are estimated at $7,839,200. With those charges figured in, only $112,522,497 is available for next year's budget, leaving a $13,544,912 shortfall.

Why does Quincy face so much red ink in FY 91? McCauley and Sheets explained that health insurance costs and MWRA assessments are rising while the city must come up with revenue for contracted pay raises and workers compensation.

To make fiscal matters worse, the state is cutting back on local aid to the point where municipalities can no longer depend on the revenue. McCauley noted that this money was supposed to help cities and towns finance services after Proposition 2 and a half was enacted in 1981.

Over the past several years, Quincy has received up to $2 million in aid over the previous year. However, the first local aid payment in June this year was down $3.4 million. Another payment is expected at the end of this month or early next year.

With the state facing a $1 billion deficit, no one knows for sure what the next local aid amount will be.

The $13.5 million shortfall is based on a level funding of state aid.

Sheets said the city's fiscal problems are directly linked to the state's money woes. Compounding the problem are dramatic increases in

Liquor License Transfer Request Withdrawn

By JANE ARENA

At a meeting of the License Board Tuesday Steven A. Faber of the 214 Washington Corp., 214 Washington St., withdrew without prejudice a request for the transfer of a common victualer-all alcoholic license as previously held by Fil's Inc. of Quincy.

The location is the site of the former Brittany's Food and Spirits which has been out of business.

Faber was before the board Nov. 28. At that time the transfer of the license was granted conditionally, pending a routine police check on his background.

During that meeting, Acting Police Chief Captain Paul Nestor noted Tuesday, Faber was asked if he had had problems at his Braintree establishment, The Good Company Lounge. Faber said that he had not. He was also asked whether he had had any license violations with the establishment and told the board he had not.

However, according to police the background check by Quincy Liquor Inspector Sgt. Richard Laracy shows there had been problems at the Braintree establishment in the past and that Faber has been before the Braintree Board of Selectmen but no action had been taken. Faber had not been charged by the selectmen with any violations.

Laracy's report is unavailable for review until the License Board has time to look into it further.

However, the report generally states that, according to discussions with various Braintree Police officers, there had been previous problems at the establishment, including a fight which resulted in an injury. Laracy said he had been told that employees of the lounge had tried to "hide" the injured party from the police in the kitchen.

Faber later called that allegation "ridiculous," and told the board that the injured man was in the kitchen with an ice pack on his head.

The report also states that a patron of the establishment was arrested at a nearby cab stand on a drug-related charge after he left the lounge. Faber told the board that man has since been barred from the lounge. The man was not arrested for activity inside the lounge, Laracy said.

There were two Braintree police officers present at the hearing who were willing to testify on behalf of Faber, but the Board opted not to hear them.

Captain Nestor said that the important aspect of the hearing was the fact that Faber had told the board Nov. 28 that he had no problems or violations at the Braintree establishment and that a police check had shown that was not true. He said the Board should not get involved in what appeared to be a dispute within the Braintree Police Department.

Board Chairman John Gillis noted that the board was forced to take some action on the matter of the license during Tuesday's meeting as it was their last scheduled meeting before the new year. Gillis said that, if the Board moved to refuse the license transfer, Faber would have to wait a full year before re-submitting the request. Faber has already spent some $25,000 to $30,000 on the establishment.

If the request were denied, however, Faber would be allowed to appeal it with the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission whereby they might instruct the Board to take the matter up again.

MAYOR FRANCIS MCCAULEY was honored recently by the Beechwood community Life Center at a breakfast held at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. The mayor was recognized for assisting the operation of the center. Presenting plaques and Senior Olympic medals are Mary "Jane" Powers, left, vice chairman of the board of directors, and Executive Director Deborah Clain. Councillor-elect Peter Kolson served as emcee.

Even if you are not storing a lot of gifts in your home, consider these precautions that you can take during this holiday season.

- Surround your home with light:
Most thieves prefer to work in the dark. Keeping a light on at your front door and rear, or side door will make a thief think twice about breaking in. You should leave these lights on whether you are home or not. When you leave your home turn your radio on so that if a thief comes to the door, it will appear that someone is at home.
 - Don't leave your garage door open:
While you go away for "just a few minutes" you'd be surprised how often bicycles, motorcycles, lawnmowers and power tools are stolen this way. Also an open garage door may provide easy access to your home.
 - When you lock your doors remember your windows:
Burglars usually don't both with a carefully secured door, why should they, if there is an easier, less observable way to get in?
 - Don't forget to lock your car:
Each year many people have their cars broken into and gifts stolen. If you are going to keep your shopping bags in the car, keep them out of sight. Put all of your bags in the trunk. If you have a station wagon or van, put the bags on the floor and cover them with a blanket. Remember the saying "out of sight out of mind." Make sure that you lock your car each time you leave it.
 - Don't flash cash:
Take only the amount of money you will need with you. Often times people will have hundreds of dollars on their person, it isn't really necessary. If you have a large amount of money with you don't keep it all together. Thieves look for people with large wads of money, they may be easy prey.
 - Watch your neighbor's house while they're gone:
Ask them to do the same for you.
- Above all, call the police ANY TIME about ANYTHING that seems suspicious.

Fabrizio, Kolson, Chretien and Toland.
• Environmental Control: Cheney, Chretien, Cahill, Kolson and Nutley.
• Data Processing: Phelan, Chretien, Cahill, Cheney and Toland.
DeCristofaro informed his fellow councilors of the appointments in a letter dated Dec. 12.

In his letter, he said he gave "a great deal of thought to each selection" and sincerely hopes his colleagues will be pleased with their chairmanships and vice-chairmanships. "I know that each one of you will work diligently with your special committees for the benefit of the citizens of the City of Quincy," DeCristofaro added.

Lonely For Republicans

When Mayor Francis McCauley leaves City Hall next month you might say 50 percent of Republican held elective offices in Quincy will go with him.

McCauley's departure will leave only one Republican in office: School Committeeman Frank Anselmo, age 91.

Mayor-elect James Sheets is a Democrat. So were the other three contenders this year: Councillor Steve McGrath, former Mayor Joseph LaRaia and businessman Peter O'Connell.

The last Republican mayor before McCauley was Walter Hannan elected in 1971. He later became a Democrat.

"Almost like the end of an era," says McCauley who can remember the old days when

SHEETS

Republicans held just about every elective office in Quincy and every local state and county office. The big political names around here then were Thomas Burgin, Charles Ross, Charles Hedges, Amelia Della Chiesa, Clifton Baker, Avery Gilkerson, William Jenness, David McIntosh, etc.

Quincy was a Republican stronghold until the mid-1950's when young Democrats started coming on. James McIntyre and Charles Shea took City Council seats, and McIntyre, Shea and Joseph Brett captured state representative seats. James McCormack unseated Burgin for the senate seat and James Burke succeeded Richard Wigglesworth as Congressman.

For years before then, Democrats were pretty much in the same boat as Republicans are today. The standing joke in those days was that there were so few Democrats they could hold their rallies in a telephone booth.

But times certainly have changed. Look at these figures.

In 1949--40 years ago--Quincy had 14,786 registered Republicans, 7,034 Democrats and 22,125 Independents. That means there were twice as many Republicans as Democrats. But there were more Independents than Republicans and Democrats combined.

Today there are 29,664 registered Democrats to 7,132 Republicans. So, there are more than four times as many Democrats as Republicans. Independents number 12,216. Democrats outnumber Republicans and Independents combined by 10,316.

So, in those four decades, Republicans have dwindled by nearly 8,000 and Democrats have gained by 22,600. And, apparently, Democrats have been converting Independents who now number 10,000 less than in 1949.

McCAULEY

Of course, Quincy municipal elections are non-partisan but those elected usually bring party philosophies to office with them, whether it be mayor, city council or school committee.

With the financial mess the state of Massachusetts is now in, Republicans may have the opportunity to win back the governor's office and maybe, down the road, some local offices.

But unless Republicans pump some healthy young blood into the GOP elephant's veins he could yet become as scarce as the buffalo or as extinct as the dinosaur. Geritol and Serutan aren't going to be enough.

They aren't going to go very far with political retreats. They're not going to convert the Independents without some fresh new faces.

During the Republican heydays, they lost promising young future political stars when the Old Guard refused to step aside and let them run for office. They politically ate their young.

And many of those young promising Republicans defected to the Democrats who gave them a chance to run. Locally, one of them was a young Jim McIntyre whose mother and father were both Republicans.

The last thing we need is a one-party system. But we could become one unless the Republicans get up off their memories of the good old days and get moving.

Opportunity is knocking on Beacon Hill. And they should be there to answer the door.

LOOKING AT QUINCY'S voter registration figures, it is interesting to note that women continue to gain in numbers. Of the city's 49,012 voters, 27,701 are female and 21,308 are male. That gives the women a 6.393 vote margin.

In January, there will be three women in elective office: Councillor Patricia Toland, and School Committee members Mary Collins, and Mary Jane Powers.

There should be more in the years ahead. Maybe even a woman mayor.

WELL, BRIAN BUCKLEY has done it again. Another celebrity Christmas card. This one is a photo of him and TV's Monty Hall.

Past Christmas cards have featured photos of him with Jack Nicklaus, Bo Derek, Bob Hope, Rafer Johnson, Bobby Orr, Reggie Jackson, Rodney Dangerfield, AND FRIEND Carroll O'Connor and Jerry (The Beaver) Mathers.

None objected to posing with him. "All of them have been very nice," he says. "Real nice."

PROGRESS: They're filling in Quincy's "Grand Canyon," the big hole left by the fire that destroyed the old Kincaide store building. It's been a long-time eyesore. Now, if something can be built on it!

IT'S NOT JUST "FIRE INSURANCE" ANYMORE

Years ago, when homeowners or apartment dwellers purchased a fire insurance policy, they received little else for their money except protection against loss by fire. Today wise individuals, concerned with complete disaster protection, have a whole array of options which they can add to their basic fire policy.

For example, policy holders can now add replacement costs of contents should their valuables be destroyed by lightning, smoke, vandalism, windstorm, freezing or water damage. They can also customize policies with a Home Replacement Cost feature which guarantees the actual rebuilding of the covered dwelling even if the cost thereof is greater than the amount of insurance.

Sit down with a qualified agent today to discuss how you can save important dollars and, at the same time, provide the most complete protective package you can purchase anywhere.

For professional advice on all of your insurance needs please contact the experts at Riley & Rielly Insurance Agency, Inc. Call us at 471-6200 or stop by our office at 1050 Hancock Street in Quincy.

that he was not aware when he rented the hall that the function was an after-wedding party. He told the board that he has a policy against such functions and that he was told it was a wedding reception.

Montello also stated that the employee he had assigned to monitor the door was unable to work that event due to illness. She was in the hospital that night, Atty. Barry said.

Montello told the Board that he had also left the establishment ill that night after calling his father to come to the Hall. When Montello realized the party was out of hand, his attorney said, he shut down the bar at 10 p.m. and called his father.

Montellos has been before the board on numerous occasions within the last few years, Building Inspector Matthias Mulvey noted, although previous problems dealing with parking and traffic have apparently been resolved.

Police Captain Paul Nestor said that it was Montello's responsibility to know exactly what kind of a party was being held in the hall. He further said it was Montello's responsibility to monitor the sobriety of patrons as they entered.

Nestor noted that Montello has been manager at the hall since 1977, and that he should be well aware of his responsibility.

Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue further noted that a buffet which was served at the party in question was never given a permit by the City Health department. She requested that in the future, all requests for food to be served in the hall should be cleared with the health department.

Captain Nestor first made a motion for a five day suspension of the license at Montellos. However, because functions at the hall are scattered throughout each month, the board later decided on a 30-day suspension.

Mulvey warned Montello that if he were ever before the board on another violation, he would make a motion to revoke the license.

Consolidation, Attrition, New Fees Before Cuts

health insurance costs and the MWRA assessments.

Over the course of next year, the city will pay $4 million more on health insurance and $2 million to the MWRA. In addition, the city must come up with $200,000 for workmen's compensation and another $1.8 million in school budgeted fixed costs. The school costs include pay raises and state-mandated costs.

"Those figures are costs that we have to bear. We're mandated to pay them," Sheets said.

If the city were still receiving its proper local aid and if health insurance costs weren't up $2 million over last year, the situation here would "still be tight but manageable," he said.

However, Sheets blamed Beacon Hill for the city's projected money problems.

"Quincy has fallen to the state's fiscal mismanagement. There's nothing we can do about that. If the Legislature cuts local aid further, it will just make our problem worse," he said.

If cuts are to be made, they won't come easy because Sheets believes there is very little "fat" in the city budget. He noted that the number of city employees has dropped 400 from 3,390 in 1982 to 2,976 today.

"I don't think there's a whole lot of fat there. There's not much you can cut without affecting someone," he said.

Of all the budget figures, Sheets said he is most shocked by the $2 million increase in health insurance costs. However, the city's next mayor is confident and optimistic that Quincy will land on its feet.

"I'm fully convinced we'll work our way through this."

$15 Million In Contracts Seen For Shipyard

John T. Wiseman, regional general manager for the Bethlehem Steel Co., predicted that contracts totalling $15 million for three high speed dry cargo vessels will be awarded to the Fore River Shipyard early in 1991.

Meanwhile, negotiations on a new contract for some 20,000 members of the CIO Shipbuilders Union got underway in New York.

Fred Burgess, president of Local 5 at Fore River, said the first negotiating session will deal with "a general and uniform change in the wage rates." Pay scales were said to average $1.60 an hour.

Officers of Local 5 urged that workers vote in favor of a union shop in a coming NLRB election as a means of strengthening the union at the negotiating table.

SCHOOL BUILDING TO START

The School Committee voted to start considering the next phase in the city's $4 million school construction program which was to include a Montclair addition and a new school in the Whitwell St.-Furnace Brook Parkway area.

The Committee also posed the question to School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard as to whether the city should add to the Atherton Hough School in Houghs Neck or to build a new school in the Great Hill section.

press of the radio station call about incidents they should be made aware of them. I think this was a breakdown in communication at some levels in the Quincy Police Department regarding these matters.

"When you have cases of this nature, even if they are isolated, it might be just as well to let the public know so that women in the area can be on their guard," the mayor said.

since April, four women have been sexually assaulted in Wollaston, but it was not until last week that the police acknowledged the rapes had taken place. Rumors about the assaults spread through the neighborhood recently, but the police department repeatedly said no rapes in Wollaston had been reported.

McCauley said there is no evidence of a single assailant being responsible for all four attacks.

'Travels In China' Topic At Quincy Historical Society

Members and the public are invited to the "Quincy Remembers" lecture taking place Dec. 20 at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy at 1:30 p.m. The guest speaker this month is Thomas Hurlbaeus.

His topic will be "Travels in China."

The presentations will focus on Hurlbaeus's visits to China and the conditions he found there. Due to recent changes in Chinese-American relations, this should be a very timely topic.

Hurlbaeus is a member as well as board member of the Historical Society, and is well known for presentations to local civic groups. He is also an active member of the United First Parish Church.

Since retiring from the Massachusetts Air National Guard, Hurlbaeus spends much of his time travelling around the world.

Refreshments will be served. There is no admission charge, and parking is available.

Woodward School Presents Gifts To Six Charities

Gifts to six different charities were a part of the Woodward School for Girls' Thanksgiving program.

Appropriate articles were presented to DOVE, Long Island Hospital, UNICEF, Boston Floating Hospital, Father Bill's Place and Rosie's Place. They were accepted by Nancy Powers, Ginny Finn and Marilyn Terry. Senator Paul Harold read the Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Students taking part in the program were Terri Murphy, who led the Pledge of Allegiance; Anne Malmquist, Sheryl Ott, Kim Hearn, Kerri Gillen and dancers, Loryn Adelizzi, Lauren Davidson, Kristin Holliday, Melanie Morano, Jennifer Nassif, Kellie Powers, Marie Sourmaidis and Jessica Young, with Carolanne Reich, announcer.

Rev. Sheldon Bennett of First Parish Church gave the benediction.

A "luncheon feast" followed the program.

David MacIntosh Honored By S.S. Cooperative Bank

David B. MacIntosh of Quincy, chairman of the Board of Directors of the South Shore Cooperative Bank and long-active in Quincy Community affairs, was honored recently by the bank at a testimonial dinner for his 20 years of service as a director.

MacIntosh has served actively on all the bank committees and has helped the bank experience a steady growth pattern over the years. When he joined the bank in 1969 the assets were $15 million and have steadily increased to $43 million in 1989.

He was the former purchasing manager of Armstrong World Industries in Braintree until his retirement in 1980.

Well known for his participation in various community activities in Quincy, he is a member of Bethany Church, Rural Lodge of Masons and Board of Managers of Quincy Hospital serving as chairman from 1987 to 1989.

MacIntosh is also a member of the Harvard Club of Quincy, serving as president from 1984 through 1986, and the Harvard Varsity Club.

Married to the former Helen Batson, they have three children and five great-grandchildren. His mother resides in Quincy and his father, the late David S. MacIntosh, was a former mayor of Quincy.

CAN YOU SPOT THE $8 HAIRCUT?

Jennifer and Lauren just had their hair cut, and they both look terrific. The difference is, Jennifer paid just $8 at Great Cuts and Lauren paid over $20 someplace else.

Lauren's never doing that again. Because she can't see any difference either.

At Great Cuts, you can get great-looking haircuts for the whole family—at a really great price.

Why would anyone want to pay more?

Koch Club's Christmas Charity Project Underway

The Koch Club of Quincy annual Christmas Charity project is now underway.

This year the club is collecting funds and non-perishable foods and new toys and games. The Koch Club will purchase turkeys, hams and fresh fruits and vegetables and make up several food baskets and gifts for distribution through local service agencies for needy Quincy families.

In 1948, the Koch Club was founded by the late Richard J. Koch. Four years later in 1952, the Christmas Charity Project started when the Koch Club assisted needy families in the North Quincy area.

The program has grown each year, peaking in the mid 1970's when thousands of toys were collected and distributed and hundreds of local needy families were aided with food and new toys and games.

Committee members include Frank Nestor, Ray Cattaneo, Fr. Charles Higgins of Sacred Heart Church, Jackie Whitcomb of the South Shore YMCA, Jim Moody, Bob Woods, and Quincy Park Department and Thomas Koch. For more information, contact Cattaneo or Koch at 773-1380.

Koch noted that the success of the Koch Club's annual Christmas Charity project has been made possible through the generosity of many individuals and organizations throughout the Quincy-South Shore area.

INSTRUCTOR Anne McDonough and students Susan Hayder, Michael Kane, and Erin Flaherty study the world map in the course entitled "Where In The World." The students were participants in the Eighth Annual Summer Institute for Gifted/Academically Talented students sponsored by the Quincy Public Schools and Quincy Junior College.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It has been said that expressing appreciation is a lost art. If so, it should be rediscovered ... Have you noticed how quickly animals respond to praise and appreciation?

This is true of people. A word of praise and appreciation makes us feel good, lifts our spirits, and gives us the urge to do better. Have you ever thought how important this is? A word of praise will make anyone's day!

"A little boosting now and then is relished by most of men! No matter what your job may be, if cutting hay or serving tea, from drafting laws to making shot -- A little boost may mean a lot. A cheery word, a kindly smile -- A friendly nod once in a while May be the sanding of the track For some poor chap, who's slipping back, It isn't 'blamey, bunk' or 'tawny' To give a guy a glad 'Hello' And let him know, you mean it, too -- For somehow it comes back to you And makes for you a brighter day. The moral is -- again I say -- It's relinquished by the most of men -- A little boosting now and then."

Christmas Vesper Service At Point Congregational

Friday, Dec. 15, Quincy Point Congregational Church will host the Northfield Mount Hermon choruses and orchestras as they present their annual "Christmas Vespers" service in the sanctuary of the church. The church is located at the corner of Southern Artery and Washington Street in Quincy; and there is excellent off-street parking.

The two choruses and two orchestras will present two services at 4 p.m. and again at 7:30 p.m. The orchestral preludes will begin at 3:45 p.m. and 7:15 p.m. Featured will be music by Monteverdi, Bach, Holst and Schubert plus traditional carols.

A reception will follow the 7:30 p.m. service to which all who attend are most welcome. Both services and the reception are being sponsored by the Music Committee of the host church.

Northfield Mount Hermon is a private, boarding, secondary school. It was founded by the Evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, and is located in Northfield, Massachusetts. The school has an international student body and has many young people of clergy and missionaries in attendance.

Each year, prior to their returning home for the holidays, the singers and musicians present "Christmas Vespers" in the New York or Boston areas; this year, the church is highly pleased to host the choruses and orchestras.

There will be no charge or offering for the Vesper Services; but church members and friends, residents of the South Shore and alumni/ae are asked to secure tickets to assure seating. Tickets may be obtained at the Senior Citizen's Center at 1000 Southern Artery in Quincy or at the church.

'Aspects Of Christmas'

Wollaston Congregational Topic

"Aspects of Christmas: Seeing Splendor" will be the sermon by the Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 10 a.m. at Wollaston Congregational Church for the third Sunday in Advent.

John Flavin will lead the congregation in the call to worship. Donald Reade, organist, will sing the psalms and the offertory psalm.

William Walker will read the Scripture lesson and lead the responsive reading. Marjorie Schwendenmann and her son, Andrew, will usher. Fran Barlow and Erik Schwendenmann will be greeters; and Steven Stentford, Jr. will be acolyte.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg Sweetser and family will light the third Advent candle. A Christmas pageant will be presented by Bradley Martin's first and second grade Sunday School class.

A coffee hour following worship will be hosted this month by the church deacons, Gus Oster, Donald Frazee, Steven Gutro, Peg Sandahl, Phyllis Dixon and Nancy Sheehan.

Advent Penance Service At St. Joseph's Church

The Spiritual Development Committee of St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, will hold its Advent Penance Service Monday, Dec. 18.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. instead of the usual 7:30 p.m. starting time in the church.

Fr. Joseph Raeke, former associate pastor of St.

Joseph's Parish will talk on "Reconciliation" in preparation for the coming of Christmas. His talk will be followed with a time for reflection and an opportunity for those present to go to confession.

Additional priests will be present to assist with confessions.

Refreshments will be available in the School Hall during and after the time for confessions.

Anyone needing transportation may call the rectory at 472-6321 and arrangements will be made.

All are welcome.

'A New World Coming' Houghs Neck Topic

"A New World Coming" is the subject of the Rev. M. Alicia Corea at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 9 a.m.

Peter Johnston will be organist.

At the 10:30 a.m. worship, Rev. Dr. P. Corea will have as his subject "Understanding Jesus Christ."

A coffee hour follows the early service.

A Christmas pageant, "Why the Chimes Rang," will be presented by the Church School at 4 p.m. A supper will follow.

Tuesday, Dec. 19, at 7:30 p.m. the Houghs Neck Congregational Church Choir will present a program of Christmas music under the direction of Arden Schofield, church organist.

'The Christmas Message' United First Parish Topic

This Sunday Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, Minister, will deliver the sermon "The Spiritual Message of Christmas" during the 10:30 a.m. service at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy Square.

As the second of a two week sermon series for Christmas, Dr. Bennett will reflect on the spiritual sources of creative power that renews and sustains the work of "On Earth, Peace and Goodwill."

The Church Choir, Norman Corey Director, will sing anthems by Schroeder and Franck. Mr. Corey will also play organ works by Pachelbel, Brahms and Peeters.

Anthony and Michael Kutchmanich will light the advent candles. Gwyneth Hambley will be greeter, and Bryan and Natalie Donovan will usher.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the Social Hour following the service. Ardis Porter will be hostess.

The Church School will celebrate the Mexican Christmas custom of Posadas where children go door to door searching for the creche. When it is found, there will be a joyous celebration with singing, feasting, and the breaking of a special Christmas star pinata hand made by artist Priscilla Kutchmanich for the occasion.

The church is located in Quincy Square, opposite City Hall at 1306 Hancock Street. Telephone 773-1290 for information. Child care is provided.

Festival Of Lessons And Carols At Covenant Congregational

The 10:45 a.m. worship service at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., will be a special service of Christmas music and scriptural passages.

The music will be provided by the choir, which will be directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music. The scriptures will be read by both Rev. Kathleen Graves and Rev. Kirk Johnson, co-pastors.

Sunday School with classes for ages nursery through adult, will meet at 9:30 a.m. The children will be rehearsing the Christmas play.

During the service, a nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Beth Wynne.

Immediately following the worship service, there will be a brief dedication ceremony of the Florence Collins, Elsa Danielson, Hildur Palmer, Mildred Starck Music Room.

After that coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. The hostesses for the month of December are Esther McCarthy and Astrid Somontes.

Activities for this week are: the men's prayer breakfast hosted by David Day on Saturday, Dec. 16 at 8 p.m., the senior adult soup and sandwich luncheon Saturday at 11:45 a.m., followed by the Christmas concert at 12:30 p.m. The concert will feature Richard Smith on organ and piano and some numbers by the choir. On Sunday at 4 p.m. the Sunday school will present "The Little, Late Angel." Following the program will be the Sunday School Christmas Party.

Coming events include a 10:45 a.m. worship service on Dec. 24 and a candlelight evening service on Dec. 25, and a New Years Eve potluck supper.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

'Mother Mary And Jesus' Sermon Topic At Bethany

In his sermon the senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will focus on the place of Mary, the mother of Jesus, in Protestant theology and devotion. Titled "Mother Mary and Jesus," the sermon will be based on passages from the Gospel of Luke 1:26-38 and the Gospel of Matthew 1:18-25.

There will be two worship services Sunday, Dec. 17 at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary. The associate minister, Rev. Elizabeth M. Upton, will serve as liturgist at both services.

The lay scripture readers will be Robert L. Lockwood in the chapel and Richard E. Briggs in the sanctuary. The ceremony of lighting of the Third Advent candle will be led by George and Linda Nicholson and their children, Jennifer, Stephanie and Elizabeth.

During the 10 o'clock service the following persons will be received as new members of Bethany: Freida M. Matthews, Suzanne W. McMahon, Linda H. Roberts, and Valerie G. Zartarian.

The Bethany Folk singers, with lead singer and guitarist Carol Ann Bohlen, will present two selections: "The Star Song" and "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming." The Chancel Choir, under the direction of organist Charles J. Blue, Sr., will be accompanied by Edward Aluisi on the clarinet and Charles J. Blue, Jr., on the cello.

The worship service is broadcast "live" direct from Bethany's sanctuary at 10 a.m. over radio station WJDA, 1300 kc. In addition, a cassette tape of the service and sermon can be obtained at cost for $2 by contacting the church office.

Sunday School will be in session from 10 to 11 a.m.

with classes for children pre-school through 9th grade. Child care for babies and toddlers is also provided.

At 11 a.m. there will be a fellowship time in the Allen Parlor with light refreshments. Individuals and families are welcome to come and share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the Sunday School.

Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. a large group of carolers will leave from the church to go visit and sing at the Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital in South Braintree. George Nicholson will serve as the song leader, with Edith Ryder at the piano, Gene Ryder on the saxophone, and Ed Aluisi on the clarinet. Following the caroling there will be a Christmas party at the home of Ron and Jackie Rivera.

For more information concerning Bethany's ministries and programs, contact the church office at 479-7300.

'Project Sparkle' At Point Congregational

Church members and friends have embarked upon a program to beautify the building and grounds of Quincy Point Congregational Church.

The $48,500 capital fund raising effort, called "Project Sparkle", will seek to achieve four important goals: the repair and renovation of the side entryway to the narthex and sanctuary, the painting of the narthex and sanctuary, the resealing and relining of the parking lot, and the installation of a new and larger sign for the front yard of the church.

In addition to meeting these needs, church leaders also voted to give ten percent of the amount raised to the Mission Board of the church for a special outreach project as determined by the Board as a "Thank Gift" for God's blessings to the church and its people.

Nearly three years ago, the church raised more than $60,000 from 229 church families and friends for the restoration of the church's steeple and special lighting of the steeple and front of the church at night. Church leaders are hopeful that church families, friends of the church, Quincy Point neighbors and South Shore families will support "Project Sparkle" with a gift for Christmas or following the holidays.

Last year, the church celebrated its 150th anniversary; since 1838, the congregation has served the community and the world faithfully and effectively. Today, the church continues to engage in a wide variety of ministries to children, young people, adults and senior citizens. The Reverends Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon serve the church as Pastors; and the church is located at the corner of Southern Artery and Washington Street in Quincy.

Individuals and families wishing to support "Project Sparkle" are invited to do so by sending a check to Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington Street, Quincy, 02169, and indicate "Project Sparkle".

Christmas Music At Faith Lutheran

Christmas music by the Faith Lutheran Church choir will be presented at Sunday's, Dec. 17, worship at 10 a.m. at the church, 201 Granite St. Rev. James Kimmell is pastor.

All are welcome.

Cookbooks featuring Scandinavian and American recipes may be obtained from the church office.

Cantata At Central Baptist

"Let Heaven and Nature Sing", a cantata, will be the annual Christmas musical of Central Baptist Church, 65 Washington St., on Sunday, Dec. 17, at 6 p.m.

All are welcome to this choral celebration. Following the musical, there will be a fellowship time.

The musical is presented by the sanctuary choir and the Junior Choir.

Nursery care will be provided.

Economists Predict Lower Interest Rates And Stable Housing Markets In 1990

Lower interest rates, stable housing markets and increasing popularity of fixed-rate mortgages were among the predictions made for next year, by economists addressing a recent session of the National Association of Realtors 1989 Convention and Trade Exposition in Dallas.

John A. Tuccillo, NAR's chief economist; James Christian, chief economist of the U.S. League of Savings Institutions; and Neil Roberts, senior manager for Roulac Consulting Group, gave their perspectives on the economic and real estate market outlook for 1990 and beyond, during the session held on the fifth day of the Nov. 9-14 convention. About 15,000 Realtors and guests are attending the meetings.

Terming his 1990 forecast a "crashing bore" because he expects "more of the same stable but slowing growth we've seen in the tail end of 1989," Tuccillo said long-term mortgage interest rates should average about 9.5 percent next year, compared with about 10.3 percent this year. "Inflation will turn out to be a small lizard with a big growl," with consumer prices rising about 4.1 percent next year, compared with 4.8 percent in 1989, he said.

Christian agreed with Tuccillo's forecast, adding that slower housing demand next year would likely result in slower home price appreciation and lower mortgage demand.

The three economists agreed that the first half of the next decade would be characterized by falling interest rates, which would cause buyers to turn more heavily to fixed-rate mortgages than adjustable-rate mortgages.

By the latter half of the 1990s, Tuccillo said the aging of the baby boom generation is likely to bring a decline in housing demand. "However, this could be offset by demand for different kinds of housing by changing needs of changing households," he added.

"The aging of our population, the early retiree market and the fact that people are living longer will mean a different kind of housing market than what we've geared up to handle at this point," Christian said.

The economists said the late 1990s and the beginning of the 21st century are likely to be characterized by a growing demand for smaller homes and condominiums that offer low maintenance and leisure-time activities.

With regard to non-residential markets, the economists predicted investment real estate will remain weak. However, Tuccillo said a shrinking labor pool may force many firms to rely more heavily on advanced technology, which will require additional space, thereby increasing demand for industrial and commercial space.

The National Association of Realtors, the nation's largest trade association, is the voice for real estate, representing nearly 800,000 members involved in all aspects of the real estate industry.

Marina Bay Offering 4.75% Finance Program

Financing programs, with rates as low as 4.75 percent annually, are available at Marina Bay to assist homebuyers in purchasing homes in the seaside condominium communities.

Homebuyers can choose from two financing packages, both substantially below current market rates. One option is a 30-year term mortgage with rates of 4.75 percent, 5.75 percent and 6.75 for the first three years and 15.00 for the balance of the term. A 10 percent down payment is required.

Another option enables the buyer to secure a 9.75 percent fixed rate, 30-year term mortgage with no money down. These programs are available for a limited time only.

Marina Bay, located on 440 acres overlooking the Atlantic Ocean, is close to Interstate 93 and only 10 minutes from Boston.

The Seaport at Marina Bay is the latest residential phase at Marina Bay.

The Seaport has 125 homes, offering one and two-bedroom residences ranging in size from 684 to 995 square feet for one bedroom and 889-1,285 square feet for two bedrooms.

Whirlpools are standard in most master baths while a variety have balconies overlooking landscaped lawns and the ocean. All homes have fully appliance kitchens featuring microwave, dishwasher, modern cabinetry and more. Deeded garage parking is also included.

There is also easy access to a 675-slip marina, the largest in the Northeast. Owners may dock their boats at the waterfront and frequent quaint shops and restaurants along the boardwalk.

Proposed amenities for the future at Marina Bay include The Ocean Club which will have a health club, swimming pool and restaurant.

The Seaport sales center at Marina Bay is open to the public from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. To see model homes, make an appointment or inquire more information about the financing program call 479-5600.

Owned by the Boston Harbor Marina Company, Marina Bay is managed by the Codman Company.

'Big Shoes To Fill'

Peters New Hockey Coach At North

By TOM SULLIVAN

Dave Peters is the new North Quincy High Hockey coach and for him it is a homecoming.

Peters, a native of Quincy, attended St. Mary's School and Abp. Williams, where he excelled in hockey. After a year at New Prep he played for Boston College. Last year he was an assistant coach at Weymouth North High.

He came up through the Quincy Youth Hockey League, played in the New England Pro-Amateur League and the Pro Elite League and currently plays in the Quincy Executive League.

"I am very happy to be coaching in Quincy," he said. "I know I have big shoes to fill as Kevin Jago took four of his seven teams into the state tournament, but I feel we have a good team and we will be competitive and in the thick of things."

Brian Zimmerman is the team captain and Peters calls him "an outstanding leader."

-Zimmerman will join two other seniors, Joe Fasano and Sal Manganaro, on the first line. "This is a very strong, veteran line and I expect good scoring from all three," Peters said.

The second line includes seniors Jamie Tapper and Bill Lydon and freshman Mike DesRoches, who looks impressive.

Making up the third line are junior Mike O'Brien and sophomores Mike Christopherson and Sean Hannan.

On the fourth line are three sophomores, Steve O'Brien, Chris McCallum and Mat Riley.

Defensemen are seniors Armando Mancini and Jim McCarthy, juniors Duane Keegan and Matt Swierk and sophomore Mark Zych.

Pat O'Donoghue, a junior, and freshman Sean Connolly are the goalies and Peters has been pleased with their performances in scrimmage.

The Raiders have scrimmaged Marshfield, Weymouth South and Weymouth North and Peters said he was satisfied with the team's showing.

"We face a real tough schedule with 10 games against tournament teams," Peters said. "Most of our players came up through the youth league and we are reaping the benefits of this fine program."

Peter DeBona and Peter Furtado are back as junior varsity coaches.

Their roster includes junior John Jarnis and Alan Murray, sophomores Sean Vermette, Aidan O'Donoghue, Nelson Gee, Dave Thompson, Steve DeRoches and John Linnehan and freshmen Rick Gilbert, Mike Moody Brian Kelly, Mark Cahill, Eric Shaughnessy, Dennis Smith and John Gladu.

The Raiders played in the annual youth arena jamboree last Saturday and opened the season last night (Wednesday) at home against Everett. They will play Malden at the Medford rink Saturday at 4 o'clock and will be at Medford next Wednesday night at 8.

Things Looking Brighter For Quincy Icemen

After a disastrous 1988-89 season during which Quincy High hockey hit a new low with a 1-18 record, things appear to be looking up again for the Presidents.

"Last year we had a turnout of only 27 and were without players due to illnesses and injuries in several games and we were greatly undermanned," said Bob Sylvia, starting his 26th year as Quincy coach. "I was very discouraged and was honestly concerned about whether we would have a team this year."

"However, we have a fine group of freshmen, several of whom will stay with the varsity, and together with some experienced players, I am pleased with the outlook. We had 40 turn out and I'm enjoying myself right now like I haven't enjoyed myself for the last 10 years. If I can get a few good freshmen next year to go along with this year's freshmen and sophomores, I feel we will be getting Quincy hockey back where it used to be."

Quincy will have one of the best goalies in the Suburban League in Craig Sullivan, last year's starter, and sophomore Steve MacPherson also looks good.

On defense Quincy has senior Dave Mellyn, Jim Marani, sophomore Shane Abboud, junior Chris Lewis and freshman Mark Gilmore.

"This group looks good and I think the defense will be strong," Sylvia said. "As usual, our main problem will be getting the puck into the net."

The green line has seniors Fred Reagan and Paul Shine and sophomore Scott MacPherson.

Playing on the red line are seniors Steve McGinnis and Scott Curtin and freshman Sean McArdle.

The blue line is made up entirely of freshmen, Jimmy Schatzl, Dave Mullen and Jeff Craig.

Vying for positions on the yellow line are sophomore John Lewis, freshman Mike Dern, sophomore Jimmy Smith, freshman Dewey Holmes and junior Tom Balzano.

"Scott MacPherson looks like one of our top scorers and McArdle also has good future offensively," said Sylvia.

"Reagan, McGinnis and Shine also look good. We are not big physically but we will be a pesky team. If everything falls into place we have the potential for a winning season and we could be a long shot to finish at least second in the league and make the tournament, something we haven't done for several years."

Sylvia thought the Presidents did a good job in scrimmages with Marshfield and Hanover.

Quincy opened last night (Wednesday) at Malden and Saturday at 6:40 with host Medford at the Youth Arena. Next Wednesday night the Presidents will play at Marshfield at 5:30.

Bob Troup and George Peachey are back as assistant coaches and joining the staff is Robbie Craig, a former President who started at West Point. —TOM SULLIVAN

North Sweeps In Jamboree

The North Quincy hockey team, under first-year coach Dave Peters, made its first pucio appearance last Saturday night in the annual Quincy Youth Arena jamboree and won both its abbreviated games.

The Raiders defeated Plymouth, 1-0, in the first game and edged Dom Savio, 2-1, in the second.

Capt. Brian Zimmerman scored against Plymouth with Joe Fasano and San Manganaro assisting.

Zimmerman and Fasano scored against Dom Savio with Manganaro having an assist.

Pat O'Donoghue, who reported for basketball but decided to play hockey, was in goal against Plymouth and freshman Sean Connolly in the second. Both played well.

"Jamie Tapper and Bill Lydon played well on the second line and Armando Mancini, Jim McCarthy, Matt Swierk and Duane Leegan played strong defense," Peters said.

"I was happy with our performances and I feel the Plymouth win was significant as they have virtually their whole Old Colony League championship team back and are ranked fifth in Eastern Massachusetts."

ENC Women Win District Volleyball Title

The Eastern Nazarene College women's volleyball team defeated St. Thomas Aquinas, 3-0, recently to win the NAIA Bi-District 14 championship.

It marked the second straight year and six of eight that ENC has taken the District 14 title.

Jill Caldwell and Kathy Stark each had 10 kills and Tricia Bradley added six for ENC on the way to its 15-6, 15-8 and 15-3 sweep.

The lady Crusaders (40-4) will next play for the NAIA national title in Hawaii.

ENC qualified for the District 14 finals by winning the NAIA District 5 crown.

ENC was ranked second in New England and would have captured a #3 NCAA spot for the Northeast Region. It chose to pass up NCAA competition for the chance to play in Hawaii.

Historically ENC has left footprints on volleyball programs all over New England with their play spanning all NCAA divisions. Dr. Nancy Detweiler's teams have a 440-168 record over her coaching career.

This year's team has had outstanding play from senior Stark of North Quincy, a .92 server who averaged .62 blocking and .30 skills for the season. Besides being named an NAIA scholar-athlete, she was named MVP of the Roger Williams Tournament, NAIA all-district and N.E. Senior all-star.

Also named to the NAIA all-district team were Caldwell of North Quincy and Rebekah Corbin. Bradley received the all-star Salem Tourney award and former North Quincy players Treasa Gray and Julie Detweiler and Janelle Neilson contributed to this year's success. Missy Buchko (scholar-athlete), Ruth Corbin (N.E. Senior all-star), Sue Puukila and Julie Stevens have been outstanding hitters for the lady Crusaders.

Baronas Selected For B.C. High Hall Of Fame

65 Turn Out For Girls Basketball At North Quincy

Coach Jeff Hennessy welcomed 68 candidates for the North Quincy girls' track team and is hoping to improve upon last year's 2-4 record.

Gone are top scorers Karen Cashman, Bridget Toland and Robin Guilfooy, but a record 28 freshmen turned out and, although the team is generally inexperienced, Hennessy hopes team depth will spell the difference as it did during this fall's successful (5-1) cross country season.

"We are hoping to just improve over last year," Hennessy said. "It's a long season, so we're taking a long term approach. Most of our major performers are underclassmen so it's a learning process. We'll be ready when crunch time comes in February and March."

Hennessy is being assisted by Maureen Roche, former state champion shot putter who competed at Abp. Williams, Northeastern University and U/Mass Boston. She will work with the field events and the sprinters.

North's senior leaders are Janet Corrigan, Joanne Moriarty, Sherrin Quintiliani and Mary Iafalla, all middle and long distance runners and cross country veterans. Quintiliani has scored in state competition several times and, although she has been plagued with injuries, Hennessy hopes the long season will work to her advantage. "We are bringing her along slowly with the plan of running her in the two-mile," the coach said. "She has been a real team leader and I just hope we can keep her healthy."

Other distance runners are junior Danielle Lewis and freshman sensation Suzanne Lewis (no relation to Danielle), who placed sixth in Division 2 in cross country. Middle distance runners include juniors Jenn Flynn, Julie Tangney and Claire Walsh, sophomores Kim DeLongo, Rebecca McCosh and Cindy Walsh and freshmen Jen Brams, Kim Chiu, Ilana Cobban, Stacy Flynn and Krista Olson.

Sprinters include juniors Rachel Marshall, Stacy Trainor and Carol Wirtz, sophomores Aimee Chin, Tammy Coull, Cheryl Velly, Maria Mattson and Amy Wong and freshmen Julie Barbuto, Gina Climo, Maryellen Eddy, Kerry Evans, Kerry Fitzgerald, Susanne Hamilton, Karen Leary, Angela Marinilli, Kelly Meade, Jennifer Nutley and Myion Park.

Hurdles are juniors Tristan Mastrogiamomo and Jill Haynes and sophomores Kara Feeney and Kelli Gott.

Shot putters are Mastrogiamomo and junior Nancy McCadden and sophs Claire McCarthy, Melanie McTiernan, Voula Regas and Tricia McNamara.

High jumpers are freshmen Rebecca Squires and Susanne Hamilton.

Quintiliani, Corrigan, Moriarty and Mastrogiamomo are the team captains.

North opened last Saturday at the Falmouth jamboree and begins its final Suburban League season today (Thursday) against Waltham at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

In the Falmouth jamboree Cobban was fourth in the 600, Squires second in the high jump, McNamara fourth in the shot, Suzanne Lewis first in the mile and Gott advanced to the semifinals in the hurdles and Wong and Hamilton went to the semifinals in the dash. Nutley turned in an excellent performance in the 300, missing the final by .7 of a second.

In boys' events no North performers scored but good efforts were turned in by Greg Buck in the mile, Mike Yee, Adam Chansky and Josh O'Donnell in the 600 and Chris Murray in the dash.

- TOM SULLIVAN

Pool Memberships Gift Certificates Available

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces that a special holiday Gift Certificate is available for membership to the Pool Programs sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool.

Memberships to the pool is open to Quincy residents and there are a variety of membership plans including children, adult, senior citizen and a family plan or a family half year plan. Welch, said "each membership comes with a special holiday greeting and is an ideal stocking stuffer, or a last minute gift. The health benefits of swimming are well documented and this gift could provide a years worth of positive recreational activity for each recipient."

Membership gift certificates to the pool will be sold Monday through Friday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Water St. entrance to the Lincoln Hancock school from now until Dec. 27.

More information can be obtained by calling the Recreation Department, 773-2380, ext. 204.

South Shore Hockey Results

Quincy Dinner Theatre's 'Musical Holiday' Just That

QUINCY DINNER THEATRE'S "MUSICAL HOLIDAY PARTY II"
Playing at the Quincy Masonic Temple, 1170 Hancock St. Dec. 16, 17 and 22
Tickets: $25 (includes dinner and show)
Call 843-5862

By JANE ARENA
If long lines, slow clerks no parking have you down this holiday season, if you're fighting a losing battle with tangled strings of Christmas lights which seem to have a mind of their own, or if you just need a booster shot of holiday spirit, the Quincy Center Dinner Theatre has just what you need.

Their "Musical Holiday Party II" could knock the humbug out of Scrooge and make the Grinch's heart swell at least four sizes!

Written and directed by George Stevens, the show features the talents of some 20 South Shore performers, in holiday skits, satire and songs.

The first half of the show is devoted to comical skits, (a-la Bing Crosby and Bob Hope), and Christmas songs, some traditional and some outrageously original.

Pianist and humorist John Paluch took the liberty of rewriting some familiar tunes to the delight of the audience.

Little Geoffrey Stevens takes the stage at one point and, to the tune of "It's Beginning to Look a Lot Like Christmas," sings "I'm too little to get so sick of Christmas," in a child's eye view of the tribulations of the season.

The opening number, a slight twist on "We Need A Little Christmas," was a big hit, especially in its choreography (Corrine Drake), and succeeded in getting hoots and applause from the audience two minutes after the curtain went up.

Especially enjoyable were a group of street ruffians who gave the performance an almost Dickensian feel, with a number called "Pick A Pocket." Wonderful.

The women cast members got together for a Paluch original called "Mr. Santa," sung to the tune of "Mr. Sandman" ("You can keep your Christmas junk/Mr. Santa bring me a hunk!")

The most familiar song from Broadway's "A Chorus Line," "One," became a song about the endless commercialism of the holiday season: "One neverending season, now it starts at Halloween!" which was an absolute riot.

The first act also featured skits including "Christmas with the Farquars '89" (Joyce McDonough and Joe Hochkeppel doing a fine piece a-la "The Honeymooners"), and a hokey but enjoyable short called "The Holiday News," along the lines of a Saturday Night Live news farce. Some local humor and a lot of slapstick saved it from being too old-hat.

Weaved between the songs and skits, the whole ensemble sang choruses of a holiday favorite from local radio stations, "The 12 Pains of Christmas." This worked extremely well, after each chorus the audience couldn't wait for the next installment.

One imagines a lot of rehearsals were needed before the cast could sing some of these Paluch originals with straight faces. He's got quite a knack.

The second half of the show is devoted to the 'cast party' after the show, and this is where the vocal talent really comes through. While the first act was punctuated by uproars of laughter and applause, during some of the solos in the second act you could have heard a pine needle drop. There are some amazing voices in this cast.

Just about everyone in the ensemble has a solo performance during Act II, but among the definite highlights are "Emmanuel" as sung by Amy Perreault, Brenda Chase's "Christmas Hymn," and Daryl Drake's painfully beautiful rendition of "Oh Holy Night."

Lance Reddick's "Christmas Song" was another highlight, as was "That Christmas Feeling" sung by all the men and featuring a fabulous bit of choreography.

Toward the end, the whole cast got into "choir formation" to sing "Carol of the Bells." When this is done right (and it ain't easy!) it can sent shivers up your spine. I know I got shivers and I'll bet I wasn't alone.

Overall, "Musical Holiday Party II," despite becoming a bit hackneyed at moments, is a wonderful way to get into the spirit of the season. With a family-style dinner, it's a real party atmosphere.

The one and only thing that was lacking, which would have been the icing on the cake, was an audience sing-along at the end. After all that music, people were aching to join in. But, nearly everyone was singing on their way out the door, anyway.

quarte.

The Feeley Sisters, an Andrews Sisters-style vocal trio, will sing.

Quincy Youngster To Appear In Movie

Eric Torvi, 13, of Quincy, will appear in the soon to be released feature film, "Glory," starring Matthew Broderick as Robert Gould Shaw.

Shaw headed the first black regiment from Massachusetts during the Civil War.

Torvi plays Broderick's character as a young man.

The film, scheduled for release sometime this month, was shot on location in Scituate and Sturbridge Village. It was directed by Ed Zwick.

Torvi considers the role a highlight of an already busy acting career.

A student at the Children's Theatre Workshop since the age of eight, he played the role of Tiny Tim in the 1985 production of "A Christmas Carol" at the Nickerson Theatre.

He has also done work for Channel 5, Advil, Baybanks, Massachusetts Tourism, a Dixie Whitley promo, Peugeot, and General

Cinemas. In addition, he has starred in two of Family Theatre Video's educational videos, "The Day The Clowns Cried," and "Perchance to Dream."

Recently he performed in the Children's Theatre Workshop's road show at the Franklin Park 'Zoo Bash.'

A student at the Atlantic Middle School, he is the son of Debbie Edgerly of Quincy.

Quincy Faces ... Quincy People Exhibit At Historical Society

The Quincy Historical Society has opened a new exhibit entitled "Quincy Faces...Quincy People" containing more than 100 oil and pastel portraits, engravings, daguerreotypes, tintypes and photographs of people who lived in Quincy.

Many famous Quincy people are represented, such as John Hancock, John and Abigail Adams, John Quincy Adams and the Josiah Quincy's. There are well-known local figures such as Theophilus and Delecevere King, Dr. Walter Kendall, Colonel Paul Revere, Howard Johnson and Mayor Thomas Burgin. However, many of the pictures on display are of less distinguished Quincy people.

One of the exhibition's objectives is to demonstrate the wide range of techniques used during the past two hundred years to capture people's images, and the diverse audience who were having their portraits taken. All of the portraits are part of the collection of the Historical Society.

The exhibit does contain some rare portraits, including portraits done on glass of John and Abigail Adams by Quincy's Asa Pope in 1800. Both are primitives, probably copied from other portraits, and both were donated by Pope's granddaughter during the early 1900's. The James Shorples 1797 pastel of John Adams has been in the possession of the Historical Society since 1893, and there is some indication that the portrait was actually done in 1783 at ending the American the Hague when Adams was there to sign the final peace treaty with Great Britain Revolution.

Other rare portraits include cut silhouette portraits of Ebenezer Francis Thayer and Colonel James Thayer done early in the nineteenth century, and a watercolor of Warren Veazie done in 1839 showing him as a two-year old holding his favorite grey cat.

Included in the exhibit is a collection of nineteenth and twentieth century professional and amateur photography equipment, four complete dresses worn by Quincy women, and Colonel Revere's Civil War greatcoat. "Quincy Faces...Quincy People" will remain on display until May 1. The Quincy Historical Society is open Monday through Friday 9:30-3:30 p.m. and Saturday 12:30-3:30 p.m. It is closed on holidays.

Recreation Dept. Plans N.H. Ski Trip

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department will sponsor a one day ski trip to King Ridge Ski Area, New London, N.H.

The trip will be held Sunday, Jan. 14 and is open to all Quincy residents age 10 through adult. Those under age 10 may attend if accompanied by an adult.

The trip will be supervised by Recreation Department staff members. The fee for round trip coach bds and all day lift ticket is $33 for youths 11 and under, $36 for youths 12-17, and $39 for those 18 and over. Reduced rates for rental equipment and optional lessons can be arranged.

Registration will be held in the Recreation office at 100 Southern Artery beginning Tuesday, Dec. 19 and will continue weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. as long as openings exist.

King Ridge Ski Area features a variety of skiing terrain for every ability. It has a total of seven lifts, including three chair lifts and 20 trails and slopes with both eastern and southern exposure. Complete lodge, restaurant, and rental shop are centered at its unique summit village. The area has also a separate first aid and ski patrol building and ski school. Snow making is available on all major slopes.

Participants are urged to register early. Additional information can be obtained by calling the Recreation Department 773-1380 ext. 204.

Ice Skating Lessons To Start Jan. 3

Recreation Director Barry Welch announces the Quincy Recreation Department is conducting registration for its Instructional Ice Skating program for boys and girls age six through fourteen.

The program will be conducted at the Quincy Youth Arena Wednesday afternoons beginning Jan. 3. Instruction will be under the supervision of Mrs. Anne Eagles, a United States Figure Association Professional, and will utilize the basic program of instruction designed by the U.S.F.S.A.

Instruction is from beginner to advanced and there are two separate classes: one at 3:10 p.m. and one at 4:10 p.m. Each class runs for nine weeks. The cost is $36 which includes instruction and ice time.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday-Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. beginning Dec. 18. Enrollment is limited and will be taken on a first come first served basis.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the Quincy Recreation Department at 773-1380, ext. 204.

WEEK OF: DECEMBER 14

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
You're a devoted family member. As a friend, you give your all, when needed; other times you're hard to track down. Meaningful relationships are highlighted in the coming months. 1990 may find you making a commitment—something rather rare for you.

AQUARIUS — January 21 - February 19
Your practical side plays a supporting role to your idealistic side. The week may find you involved in tasks that help human-kind. Recent financial windfall should be invested wisely.

PISCES — February 20 - March 20
Creative Pisces may create a mini-masterpiece at this time. Influential person is backing you, and you may be in for an advancement. Education demands a greater commitment, but dedication pays off.

ARIES — March 21 - April 20
Capitalize on your skills and you can make key strides at the workplace. Mini-adventures are indicated; you and companion may be rediscovering a once-favored haunt. Loyal friend needs your support.

TAURUS — April 21 - May 22
Information arriving at this time should be read between the lines. Optimistic friend can help you over a personal hurdle. Mechanical projects demand the attention of a competent worker.

GEMINI — May 23 - June 21

PRAYER OF APPLICATION TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who send all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me, I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion, I want to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor.

Most holy apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of God, the church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases of things most despised of. Pray for me, I am so helpless, you, to bring visible and speedy help, where help is almost despised of. Come to my assistance in all my necessities, tribulations and sufferings, particularly - (here make your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever! I promise O blessed St. Jude, to ever meditate of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen!

McCauley To Receive Public Service Award

Mayor Francis McCauley has been named the 1989 recipient of the Associated Builders and Contractors Mass./R.I. Chapter Public Service Award. McCauley will receive the award at a membership dinner meeting Thursday, Jan. 18 at 7 p.m. at the Vista International Hotel in Waltham. The award is presented annually to an individual in public life who demonstrates leadership and public support of the principles of free enterprise upon which the association was founded. On Tuesday, McCauley said he was surprised to hear he was selected. "I had no inkling it was coming," he said. Forty years ago, Associated Builders and Contractors was founded nationally to provide an organization of support and industry services to merit shop contractors who believe in fair and open competition in the construction industry. The award recognizes public leaders who stand firm in their beliefs in the face of tremendous opposition which Executive Vice President Stephen Tocco called a "rarity."

"As mayor of the City of Quincy, you certainly demonstrated leadership and support of free enterprise through your vetoes of local prevailing wage ordinances and public support of the "Vote Yes on Question 2" position in the 1988 election," Tocco said.

1990 Boat Excise Bills In Mail

Quincy Tax Collector Dana Childs announces that boat excise tax bills for Fiscal 1990 have been mailed and gives the following information for boat owners regarding the bills:

- Bills cover the period from July 1, 1989 to June 30, 1990 and are due within 60 days from date of issue.

- Make checks payable to the City of Quincy and mail to: Collector of Taxes, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, MA 02169 or bring to Tax Office at City Hall Monday through Friday 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

- Do not ignore the bill. If there is any mistake or if you have any questions regarding the bill, call the Boat Excise Division of the Assessor's Office, 773-1380.

- By recent changes in state law, if the bill is not paid the boat owner will be subject to additional charges and the harbor master shall refuse to allow the vessel to "moor, dock or otherwise be situated within the waterways" of Quincy.

Thanks to the effort and kindness of many individuals, local agencies and organizations, Christmas will be a bit brighter for many of the city's needy this year.

Some 340 food baskets have been distributed this year, as well as gifts of toys for children and winter clothing. In addition, shelter and holiday meals will be provided for many of the city's homeless.

The Koch Club of Quincy, the Quincy Lodge of Elks, the Salvation Army, Father Bill's Place Shelter for the homeless, as well as many churches, organizations and individuals pulled together to bring holiday cheer to those families and children most in need.

The Koch Club distributed some 50 food baskets this week, as well as toys and games to households with young children.

Each food basket was filled with a turkey and a ham, fresh fruits and vegetables and non-perishable foods. The baskets were delivered through local agencies including the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, St. Vincent De Paul and the Koch Club's own charitable organization, now in its 34th year.

Tom Koch of the Koch Club said that the generous contributions of food, toys and/or funds from the city residents and groups, continue to make the Christmas charity a success.

Those providing assistance this year include Father Charles Higgins of the Sacred Heart Church, The Catholic Women's Club of North Quincy, the Sacred Heart School, Jackie Whitcomb of the YMCA, Ray Cattaneo, executive director of the city's park, forestry and cemetery department, Frank Nestor, the Quincy Park Department and the George Bryan Post Auxiliary.

Koch said that several individuals, many of them "old friends of the Koch Club," send something every year.

Wrapped toys and games were distributed through other local agencies, he said.

The Quincy Lodge of Elks once again contributed their efforts to spreading good cheer throughout the city.

The group distributed some 140 food baskets as well as 10 fruit baskets. The food baskets were each filled with a 16 pound turkey, an assortment of fresh vegetables, a bag of apples and cookies for households with children.

In addition to distributing the food baskets, the Elks also brought gifts to patients at the VA Hospital in Jamaica Plain.

The Ladies Emblem Club also visited the VA Hospital, putting on their annual Christmas Show. They also host a Christmas dinner for Quincy senior citizens.

The Salvation Army, who are kept busy throughout the year, but are most visible at Christmas, said Monday that they planned to distribute some 150 food baskets to Quincy families in need. Households with children up to age 12 will also receive toys. Food vouchers and small articles of clothing will also be distributed.

In addition, the Salvation Army has hosted several Christmas parties and provided gifts for their preschool program and senior citizen day care program.

A spokesman from the Salvation Army thanked the residents and merchants of Quincy who have been so generous in contributions this year. Christmas contributions, the spokesman said, help to support Salvation Army programs throughout the year.

Father Bill's Place Shelter for the homeless said Monday that they expect to shelter some 65 people this Christmas. According to Jim McGill, Director of Case Managers at the shelter, a Christmas dinner will be provided to some 250 people this year, as well as Christmas presents for the needy.

"This community is great," McGill said Monday, adding that he has "an office full" of presents donated by area churches, women's groups and men's groups.

Once again, as in years past, the city's residents and organizations have shown their concern and support to make the holiday season a little bit brighter for others.

Real Estate Tax Payments Due Dec. 31

Reminder notices have been sent to those taxpayers who have not paid the first half 1990 real estate tax in full, announces Quincy Tax Collector Dana Childs.

The first half bills were mailed on Sept. 27 and were due Nov. 1. All late payments will be charged interest at the rate of 14 percent per annum computed from Oct. 1.

Childs reminds taxpayers that payments must be received by Sunday, Dec. 31 in order to be eligible for a deduction on the 1989 federal tax returns.

Wants To Be Remembered As 'An Honest Mayor' Who Did His Best' McCauley Looks At His Accomplishments, Frustrations

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

When Francis X. McCauley was sworn into office nearly eight years ago, he made city finances his top priority.

Now, with only a dozen days to go before he leaves office, finances are the hallmark of his administration.

With McCauley controlling the city's purse strings, Quincy has had sizable revenue/deficit surpluses as well as free cash surpluses.

In seven years, the revenue/deficit surplus has increased significantly from $89,813 in 1982 to $4.4 million in 1988. Over the same period, the free cash turned around dramatically: from minus $10.9 million in 1982 to its peak of plus $10 million in 1987.

As for the city's credit rating, that financial barometer jumped three and four notches during the McCauley years. One rating rose four levels up to single A while another rating shot up three to A plus.

However, eight years ago, those numbers seemed unrealistic.

McCauley set the financial tone of his administration when he took office Jan. 4, 1982. In his first Inaugural Address, he noted the city's credit rating, which had been double A, had slipped continuously to one of the lowest ratings in the state: BA.

Getting the city back on strong financial footing was not going to be easy, the new mayor told onlookers that January morning.

"I have been in the banking business for 25 years and I know it is easier to get into financial difficulties than it is to get out; but we are going to make the beginning this year."

The financial problem really hit home six months later when the free cash deficit was learned: $11 million, some of which included delinquent real estate and personal property taxes.

To make his job more challenging, Quincy was one of three communities forced to cut its tax levy three years in a row to comply with Proposition 2 and a half. Knowing organization would be the key, McCauley ordered a new data processing department to bring Quincy up-to-date with tax billing and collecting.

"I think we've had a good eight years in office. We've had some substantial accomplishments in city government."

Reflecting on his eight years as mayor, McCauley says putting the city back on strong financial footing is his greatest accomplishment.

"All in all, we went from one of the weakest financial communities in the Commonwealth to one of the strongest today. And that's not to say we don't have any problems but at least this particular year we were able to get by without massive layoffs as many other communities have had to do."

"I think we've done well," the mayor adds.

McCauley characterizes his administration as efficient, one that met problems head-on and worked diligently to resolve them. As such, he believes he is leaving this city better than when he took over in 1982.

"I think we've had a good eight years in office. We've had some substantial accomplishments in city government. We didn't accomplish everything we would have liked to do but there has been progress made."

"I think I'm leaving the city to Jim Sheets that's in better condition than it was before. I think that's what every mayor would like to do is pass on to his successor a city that's a little better off than when he took it over and I think that's what I've done."

Eight years ago, McCauley was optimistic that he would meet the challenges ahead. As he declared in his Inaugural Address, "I am basically an optimistic, otherwise I would not be here this morning; but I feel that all of us working together can make Quincy a better place to work and to live as we proceed throughout the 1990s."

Today, McCauley's mayoral resume lists many achievements, most of which stem from that financial success. "If you're not in a good financial situation, you really can't make much progress anywhere else," he explains.

In 1984, he established a capital outlay program. Since then, the city has spent some $21 million on capital outlay, including:

- New school equipment such as computers.
- Six new fire department pumps, a new ladder truck and a new rescue truck.
- Communications equipment for both fire and police departments.
- Replacement of half of the police patrol car fleet every year.
- New library bookmobile.

New snow plows and general upgrading of public works and forestry department equipment.

All this, plus $8 million on school refurbishing and

If you take a trip down Hancock Street through Quincy Center, you're bound to see something quite remarkable. A buffalo on the outside of the new Presidents Place. And inside, you'll find the new branch of The Boston Five.

You can come by and see what it's all about at our Grand Opening beginning Saturday, December 2. There will be plenty of free refreshments. A drawing for a $500 savings account. All of our professional staff. And lots of information about a wide range of services — from checking and savings accounts to CD's and money market accounts.

And if you miss the grand opening, stop by anytime. Because this buffalo is in Quincy to stay.

Readers Forum Tax Pushing Easy Way Out

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The fiscal crisis facing the Commonwealth of Massachusetts is rooted in a paralysis of leadership. It appears when push comes to shove, the only answer seen to current budgetary woes is to push more taxes. The sordid details are clear from both the Dukakis Administration and the Democratic-dominated state legislature as the liberal Democrats turn up the heat on the bully pulpit to guilt people into accepting a heavier tax burden.

What happened to the Massachusetts Miracle? Or was it just a presidential mirage all the time? Didn't the governor really cut $644 million from the budget? Hasn't the state held the line on spending? Didn't the state's tax revenue grow by 5 percent over last year? If so, then why the need for a $1.4 billion tax package and why there a $825 million budget deficit? Obviously, the pols up on Beacon Hill have taken the easy route out of this mess by turning into—you guessed it—tax-pushers once again.

Government has lost faith with the electorate. People just don't believe any of our so-called public servants from the governor on down. A crisis of confidence has taken hold and folks have turned to the Barbara Andersons, Jerry Williams and Howie Carrs to vent their anger and frustration. Bay State residents want to know why they were misled and why the sudden need for additional tax revenue and/or massive program cuts in basic human services needed by poor and working folks.

According to Human Service Secretary Philip W. Johnson, "These staggering cuts will severely impact the people of this state who depend on us for survival. I believe we've cut enough. I don't want to be part of any more. It's wrong from a moral point of view." His concern was echoed by Mary Ann Hart, a spokesperson for the state Department of Public Health, "There's a tremendous amount of unmet need but we are working hard to maintain the core of our program... the cuts have really affected us."

Most of this state's taxpayers could hardly be considered scrooges but they are concerned about the mess the politicians have created and refuse to allow them to resurrect "Taxachusetts" again. The state has a $12 billion budget and it should be enough to get us by without handing taxpayers more regressive taxes and without hurting those folks in need of basic state human services.

It is time for Bay State pols to get off their bully pulpits and get to work in restoring some long overdue fiscal sanity. The question, though, is "does the crue in charge now have the competency to do it?"

IT'S NOT JUST "FIRE INSURANCE" ANYMORE

Years ago, when homeowners or apartment dwellers purchased a fire insurance policy, they received little else for their money except protection against loss by fire. Today wise individuals, concerned with complete disaster protection, have a whole array of options which they can add to their basic fire policy.

For example, policy holders can now add replacement costs of contents should their valuables be destroyed by lightning, smoke, vandalism, windstorm, freezing or water damage. They can also customize policies with a Home Replacement Cost feature which guarantees the actual rebuilding of the covered dwelling even if the cost thereof is greater than the amount of insurance.

Sit down with a qualified agent to discuss how you can save important dollars and, at the same time, provide the most complete protective package you can purchase anywhere.

The Exclusive 20-Year Club

James Sheets, who takes office as mayor Jan. 2, could be the next member of Quincy's exclusive 20 Year Club.

All he has to do is be re-elected to a second term and he will join 12 others who have served the city in municipal elective office 20 years or more.

Only 12 have accomplished that feat in Quincy's century old history as a city.

Sheets has 16 years as Ward 4 councillor going into the mayor's office. That first two year term will make it 18 years. And one more term will move him into the 20-year circle.

Outgoing Mayor Francis McCauley is tied with Amelio Della Chiesa for fifth place in this longevity department.

McCAULEY

McCauley will be closing out 22 years service, eight as mayor, four as city councillor at-large, four as Ward 1 councillor and six as a school committee member.

Della Chiesa served eight years as Plan A mayor, eight years as City Councillor at-large and six years as

ANSELMO

The all-time champ in the 100 years Quincy has been a city was Dr. Nathaniel Hunting who served 36 years on the School Committee.

Frank Anselmo, still going strong at age 91, is the runner-up with 28 years on the School Committee and looking forward to his 29th year in 1990.

QUINN

In third place is the late John Quinn who served 24 years as a councillor at-large.

Fourth place honors go to Charles Ross who compiled 22 years and three months service -- nine and three months as mayor, nine as councillor at-large and four as Ward 3 councillor.

Ross' nine years, three months is the record for a Plan A mayor.

Female honors go to Beatrice Nichols who was a school committee member 21 years and ranks sixth on the city's all-time longevity list.

And she is the only woman in the city's history to serve 20 years or more.

Behind her is the late Thomas

BURGIN

Burgin who served 20 years and five months -- Plan A mayor seven years, five months, councillor at-large eight years and Ward 1 councillor five years.

He was Plan E mayor two years while a councillor at-large.

SHEETS

ANDERSON

SWEENEY

Joseph LaRaia, Carl Anderson, A. Wendall Clark and Charles Sweeney are all tied with 20 years service each.

LaRaia had two years as mayor, 12 years as councillor at-large and six years as Ward 2 councillor.

Anderson served 16 years as a councillor at-large and four as Ward 2 councillor.

Clark and Sweeney each served 20 years on the School Committee.

SCHWARZ

ERIC SCHWARZ, Patriot Ledger reporter-columnist, will be leaving that newspaper in January to attend Harvard to complete his masters degree in 1990.

Word is that Schwarz would like to land on a New York newspaper or maybe buy a weekly up New Hampshire or Vermont way.

DENIS TARD0, unsuccessful candidate for City Council at-large this year, will try to help get Steve Pierce elected governor next year.

Tardo will serve as campaign coordinator in this senatorial district for the House Minority leader from Westfield. Pierce, of course, is a Republican.

Tardo also is joining forces with Mike Preble, unsuccessful candidate for School Committee in a business-political consulting endeavor. They will be located at 508 Sea St., Adams Shore. The location is a footnote to Quincy's political history: it served as the first campaign headquarters of Mayor Francis McCauley and Senator Paul Harold in their first outings.

Incidentally, did you know that Tardo used to play Santa Claus for former Governor Edward King, appearing with him visiting children in hospitals.

Tardo had the right qualifications: a natural beard he powdered white and he never needed a pillow for that Santa Claus look.

3 Quincy Schools On CNN Friday

Three Quincy schools will be featured on a news segment of Cable Network News (CNN) to be shown several times on Friday, Dec. 22. CNN crews visited the Quincy schools on Dec. 18 to film some of the schools programs to reduce prejudice and discrimination.

Broadmeadows students were filmed illustrating articles of the Declaration of Human Rights. The school initiated a human rights program last year in one class and then expanded the program throughout the school.

CNN also visited North Quincy High School to film a meeting focusing on equity programs in the schools. The meeting was attended by School Supt., Dr. Robert Ricci, District Attorney William Delahunt, Martin Walsh of the U.S. Department of Justice, Sgt. Thomas Casey, Quincy Police Civil Rights Officer, and by administrators and students of Quincy Public Schools.

Later, CNN went to Atlantic Middle School to film a class of students learning to speak and write the Chinese language.

Alicia Coletti, Equal Opportunity Coordinator for Quincy Schools, said she is happy with the coverage.

"We were pleased that Cable Network News chose to spotlight Quincy and its schools for their programs and policies to combat prejudice," she said. "Many teachers have been working hard to help students understand and appreciate the cultural heritage of Quincy's increasingly diverse student body."

The North Pole was flown over for the first time by Richard E. Byrd and Floyd Bennet on May 9, 1926.

Council Expands Historic District To Shopping Area

As expected, the City Council Monday unanimously approved the expansion of the Quincy Historic District to the Hancock St. shopping area between School and Granite Sts.

With the approval, storefront changes will now need approval from the Historic District Commission.

The district currently runs from Hancock to Dimmock streets to Granite St., covering the area immediately around the Church of the Presidents, where Presidents

John Adams and John Quincy Adams and their wives are entombed.

Earlier this month, the council decided against expanding the district to include residential sections of President's Hill and the Merrymount/Saville Ave. area.

The council voted against it after hearing from residents in the areas who had complained that inclusion would force them to go through too many bureaucratic delays in making simple home alterations.

McCauley Looks At His Achievements, Frustrations

upgrading school buildings. McCauley also considers the grade reorganization of Quincy public schools as a notable accomplishment. Within one month after being sworn in, the system was changed from kindergarten through grade six in the elementary schools, grade seven, eight and nine in the middle schools and 10 through 12 in the high schools to K-5, grades six through eight and nine through 12.

During his four terms, the city also dedicated a new hospital, police station and animal shelter. On a smaller scale, the Burgin Parkway extension opened and a new traffic division with a professional traffic engineer was set up.

"The whole General Dynamics situation was a frustrating thing. I took a lot of beating on that whole scenario ... that whole issue, we lived with it the full eight years. A lot of it was beyond my control."

However, like any elected official, not everything was wine and roses for McCauley. The loss of General Dynamics and the purchase of the yard by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority "frustrated" the mayor throughout his administration.

But the mayor doesn't consider that a disappointment because he feels the situation was never under his control.

"The whole General Dynamics situation was a frustrating thing. I took a lot of beating on that whole scenario, starting with that adverse court decision where we had to settle and pay (GD) back some $19 million going on to the closing of the shipyard and the purchase of the yard by the MWRA.

"It was really a frustrating thing. That whole issue, we lived with it the full eight years. A lot of it was beyond my control.

"I think some people felt I could have done more and I think that we did all that we could do in that particular area but it was a particular frustrating issue."

However, McCauley does admit that his proposal for a four-year mayoral and councillor term, which failed twice, brings some disappointment.

"I think, in this day in age, a four-year term is a must. I think we have to get away from this running for office for a full year every other year.

"I think it just detracts from the operation of city government. It's not a major thing but I think it's something the mayor (James Sheets) should look at."

Asked what his proudest moment has been, McCauley quickly answers, "When I was sworn in for my first term." Born and raised in Quincy and involved in both elective and state offices, his swearing-in capped his political career and made him a part of local history.

McCauley is the only resident to be elected to each of the city's four elected positions: mayor, councillor-at-large, school committee and ward councillor. He was elected Ward 1 councillor in 1963 and re-elected in 1965, elected to the school committee in 1972 and re-elected in 1976, elected councillor-at-large in 1977 and re-elected in 1979.

He was elected to his first mayoral term in 1981 and was re-elected three times, in 1983, 1985 and 1987. In 1983, he was re-elected unopposed, only the second man to have that distinction. Former Mayor Thomas Burgin is the other.

Looking back over his administration, McCauley says, "I'd like to think that after my eight years I've made the most of my opportunity in the Mayor's Office. We have a lot of accomplishments and nobody leaves here with everything off their agenda but I think we've resolved a lot of problems, things that Mayor Sheets won't have to deal with when he moves into office."

McCauley was mentioned as a possible Republican candidate for state office during his fourth term. First, it was governor, then treasurer and finally auditor.

After some thought, but not serious consideration, he decided returning to private life was what he wanted. However, he leaves City Hall with the door on his political career ajar.

"I think time will tell whether I really would want to come back for any job, whether it be a councillor-at-large or a state representative or something like that.

"You never really know. At the present time, I have no interest in running for public office."

He admits he has lost some of his desire for the campaign trail. But even more, he feels satisfied with the job he has done as mayor and does not believe he has to come back to be vindicated.

McCauley says he would like to be remembered as "an honest mayor who did the best he could" and one who made a positive difference in the city.

By the time 1988 rolled around, a lot of things were taking shape. A new hospital, police department, police station and Presidents Place were nearing completion. The city budget was firmly in the black.

"It was almost like a logical place to jump off the bandwagon," McCauley says, adding, "I don't think I have to be vindicated. I'm very comfortable with my career."

Yet, he does feel some vindication as he prepares to leave office. He isn't arrogant about it but rather grateful that he stuck to his guns.

Two years ago, he revealed that the city had a $10 million surplus. Many special interest groups were urging him to spend it. But he refused, saying repeatedly that Quincy would need it for a rainy day.

Now, with state fiscal matters in dire straits, it's fiscally raining in Quincy and McCauley looks like a prophet.

"I think there is a little bit of vindication over two years ago when a lot of people were upset at me because we had the surplus and it wasn't being spent. I'm trying to say we have to be careful.

"Two years ago, we didn't have all the problems that the state has and people weren't thinking that way. But I was. I was thinking of the bad days that I thought would be coming."

That surplus will help the city balance this year's fiscal budget which ends next June.

"Now, I look better and the city is a lot better for me saying no and being conservative than I really had to be when the good days were here."

With his days as the city's chief executive winding down, McCauley says he would like to be remembered as "an honest mayor who did the best he could" and one who made a positive difference in the city.

"I think that's what you'd like to do, that you think you made a difference being here."

DPW Recommends New FR Bridge

The Mass Department of Public Works recommended that a new Fore River Bridge be built, large enough to "enable all vessels that could be constructed in the foreseeable future to pass up and down the river."

The DPW estimated that a vertical lift bridge with minimum approaches would cost some $13.5 million while a larger bridge, tied in with the proposed Shawmut Trail from the Southeast Expressway to Lincoln St., Hingham, would go $27.4 million.

PRAISE FOR LARAIA

The City Council voted 8-1 to override Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa's veto and amend the salary schedules of city employees upwards, adding $569,000 to the city payroll.

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia cast the only dissenting vote.

"Six months from now," said George Yarrington, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association. "Councillor LaRaia will be considered the most intelligent member of the Council by the general public for this stand tonight."

"It's nice to see a councillor have the courage of his convictions."

KENNEDY CAKE SCRAPPED

Ernest J. Montilio of Quincy gave up plans to bake a seven-foot high cake for President Kennedy's inaugural after the waiters' union said its members would not serve food at the dinner if non-union cake was on the menu.

"I had to bow out rather than embarrass the President," said Montilio.

MERRIAM FUND CHILDREN'S GIFTS — Rev. M. Alicia Corea co-pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church, Merriam Fund trustee, presents to Donald McCarthy, Atherton Hough PTA president, a check for the 67th year to help provide presents for Houghs Neck children, "irrespective of race, religion or color."

(Quincy Sun photo by Robert Bosworth)

He Was More Santa Than Scrooge

By RUTH WAINWRIGHT

Sixty-seven years ago Houghs Neck children became recipients, "irrespective of race, religion or color," of a trust fund established by the late John C. Merriam, who died in 1922.

Today, some 26,500 gifts and roughly $7,000 later, older residents still wonder: Was Merriam a real Santa Claus, or was he more an Ebenezer Scrooge?

Merriam, a native of Nova Scotia, in 1912 opened a grocery store on the corner of Charles St. and Centre Rd. (now Macy St.) He operated it seven days a week. Childless, he and his wife and sister lived in an apartment above the store.

He had the usual penny candy counter for youngsters, but not a pleasant disposition to attract their business.

"He was a crab," recalls Minnie Keith of Turner St., a 1924 graduate of Atherton Hough School where the "gifts" were distributed.

"Children were always unwelcome. This is no place to be hanging around," he'd tell them.

It was amazing to learn in 1922 that in his will, Merriam had left a bequest of $1,000, the interest to be used each year for gifts to Houghs Neck children.

Strangely also, the bequest was left in trust to a church he had never attended, nor supported, the People's Union Church on Bayview Ave. The church was left nothing in his will except the responsibility for trusteeship of the children's fund.

After church members reluctantly voted to accept the legacy, Roland K. "Pop" Josselyn, church treasurer, was appointed trustee to invest the fund and to use its interest to purchase gifts for the children. For 55 years, until his death in 1977 at age 93, he fulfilled his duty.

The first year the bequest was used, an evergreen was planted on Atherton Hough School grounds, to be known as the "Merriam Fund Tree." It did not survive due to poor soil. (A granite war memorial is in its place today.)

Then it was decided that boxed candies, and possibly an orange, would be suitable reminders of Merriam's grocery store. In 1922, there were 410 children to be remembered in eight grades. Over the years, this figure rose to more than 700 children in 1952. Today, however, there are only 312 students in kindergarten through fifth grade, according to Edward Baccari, principal.

Interest rates fluctuated, and in 1940, the Atherton Hough PTA took over part of the financial responsibility, which it has continued to the present.

This year, after a formal request from Donald McCarthy, PTA president, Rev. M. Alicia Corea of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, which succeeded the People's Union Church in 1928, authorized Edwina Robinson, treasurer for the past 12 years, to transfer the sum of $160, to the PTA.

Thursday, Dec. 21, at 1 p.m. the year's gifts will be given out by Santa Claus, portrayed for the past eight years by Councillor Michael Cheney, assisted by McCarthy and the school faculty.

Openings Available In After School Day Care

Quincy After School Day Care, Inc., a non-profit program which serves 80 children in Quincy by allowing them to stay in school until their parents return from work each day, has some spaces available at the Montclair, Lincoln Hancock and Squantum schools.

Not only does the program help keep parents in the workforce, it allows children to participate in activities including creative arts, drama, sports and reading programs.

Founded three years ago in response to needs identified by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, the program, which also includes the Snug Harbor school location, has recently hired Mrs. E. Sine Pounder, who has over 20 years of experience in child care, as Program Administrator.

"One of my first tasks as program administrator has been to raise funds for the program to correct a deficit situation. The community response has been remarkable and we are slowly reaching our financial goals. Our plan is to be self-supporting by 1991," commented Mrs. Pounder.

An example of this terrific community response is a $3000. donation by Thomas Nutley, city councillor of Ward 6. Interested persons can send donations to Mrs. Karen Quinn, c/o Quincy Savings Bank, 1200 Hancock St., Quincy.

Parents interested in the available program spaces should call Mrs. Pounder at 773-3299 for more information.

Sheets Replacing Smith, Undecided On Colton

Mayor-elect James Sheets, who last week reappointed seven present department heads, said this week he will replace David Smith as the city's $42,251-a-year personnel director.

Sheets also said he is undecided whether he will appoint or replace Public Works Commissioner David Colton.

With the announcement, Smith will be returning to Quincy High School as a biology teacher after a five-year leave.

As for his commissioner of Public Works, Sheets said he will probably reveal his decision after he is sworn in Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Last summer, Colton was appointed to succeed Paul Anderson. Colton had served six years as deputy commissioner and also served as superintendent of public buildings.

Sheets said personnel director and public works commissioner were the major appointments among some 13 administrative positions remaining to be filled.

He noted that his transition team is searching for a successor to Smith, whom he described as a good public official. He praised him for his work as chairman of the city's environmental task force.

Sheets said he was replacing Smith to ensure that he would have his own person in the often sensitive city personnel post.

$293,102 In Wiring For November

The city's department of wire inspection issued 160 permits for an estimated $293,102 during November, Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura reports.

The major projects for which permits were issued last month are:

Day care facility at 2100 Crown Colony Dr.; Lincoln Heights Project consisting of a recreation building and 24-unit multi dwelling at 175-A Centre St.; 12-unit multi dwelling at 175-B Centre St.; 24-unit multi dwelling at 175-

C Centre St.; 24-unit multi dwelling at 175-P Centre St. and 24-unit multi dwelling at 175-Q Centre St.

A total of $8,892 in fees were collected. There were 72 certificates of approval to the inspections, 57 defects noted, Massachusetts Electric 28 reinspections and two fire company.

CAN YOU SPOT THE $8 HAIRCUT?

Rob and Dave just had their hair cut, and they both look terrific. The difference is, Rob paid just $8 at Great Cuts and Dave paid over $20 someplace else.

Dave's never doing that again. Because he can't see any difference either.

At Great Cuts, you can get great-looking haircuts for the whole family—at a really great price.

Why would anyone want to pay more?

For the second consecutive year, the 55 offices of the Bank of New England-South throughout southeastern Massachusetts are providing Christmas stockings to area needy organizations, announced Senior Vice President, Henry Larochele.

Each branch office has a supply of 18-inch colorful stockings for customers who wish to fill them. Each stocking has an information card indicating which organization will receive the stocking, as well as a list of suggested stocking stuffers (toys, books, clothing, food

Bank Of N.E.-South Providing Holiday Stockings

Agencies to receive the stockings in this area are: Father Bill's Place and Southwest Community Center, both in Quincy.

"Last year, customer response to our 'Stockings of Joy' project was so overwhelming, we are doing it again this year," Larochele said. "We aim to provide 10,000 filled stockings to the needy and homeless—3,000 more stockings than last year. Bank of New England-South is pleased to bring the entire community together to help the less fortunate this holiday season in a practical and meaningful way."

Filled stockings must be returned to a branch office by today for distribution. Customers are encouraged to visit the nearest branch and pick up a stocking at these area locations:

Braintree, 1 Rockdale St., Quincy, 1495 Hancock St., 415 Hancock St., 521 Southern Artery, 20 Beale St.; Randolph, 21 Memorial

Bringing 'Stockings of Joy' TO THE NEEDY -- Bank of New England-South's Quincy regional office is providing filled Christmas stockings to area needy. Dana Gould, community bank division head, left, and Henry Larochele, regional manager, displays one of the stockings. Agencies which will receive the stockings include Father Bill's Place and Southwest Community Center, both in Quincy.

Special Program For Children With Asthma

A Saturday program for children ages 6 through 12 who have asthma will be sponsored by the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association in association with the South Shore Y.M.C.A. in Quincy.

This will be the 15th year of the program at the Y.M.C.A.

Swimming, gym activities and asthma education are included in the program, with children taught special breathing control techniques and relaxation skills. A series of parent workshops will also be conducted. Fee for the program is $50.

Parents interested in enrolling their child in the program may call the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association at (508) 668-6729. Because of limited class size, advance registration is required.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

Students in Quincy public schools again this year were invited to submit articles for the holiday season. This year's theme is: "If I could have one wish come true this Christmas-Chanukah-New Year it would be:"

Students participating are in Grades 3 and 5.

The Sun is happy to share these young thoughts with you at this season. Publishing these articles has become a tradition which all of us at The Sun look forward to and, we hope, you do, too.

We want to thank Dr.

Janet DiTullio, Director of Curriculum in the Quincy Public School System and classroom teachers for their assistance.

We were again swamped with entries and because of space limitations we regret we cannot print every single article submitted.

So many others were worthy of publication, too. We hope to publish more next week.

To all who participated we extend season's greetings and a happy, healthy New Year.

Thank you all, most sincerely.

That every one could have a house and money.

Sarah Kiley
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be to have peace in America. I would try to get people together and wish everybody a Merry Christmas.

Elaine Leung
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be to have happiness. I would want to have happiness because I love to see people happy. Happiness means friendship, laughter, and caring. When I see people smiling it makes me happy. I would like to see the world full of happiness.

Jennifer Campbell
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be peace and love for everyone.

Helen Lao
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be ten million dollars because I could go to Hawaii again. I would still have enough money to buy a Lamborghini and a new house. There is only one problem. I am too young to drive!

Tommy Machum
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be for all the homeless people all over the world to have homes, food and friends for the holidays because I don't like to see people on the streets near Christmas time.

Krystin MacRitchie
Squantum, Gr. 5

One wish I would like to come true this Christmas is for more homeless shelters so all the homeless people will be off the street. It will be cold and they could freeze.

Michelle Donnelly
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be wishwell because I would wish for anything in the world. I will wish for all people to get well again.

Paul Bradley
Squantum, Gr. 5

To have any grandmother get better, because my grandmother has been sick for a while. She is nice. I love her a lot. I hope she is not sick anymore. She plays games with me and we have fun together.

Stacy Gruner
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be that people are not poor. If they are poor they would not have clothes, schools to go to and the adults would not make money. If I do not make this wish they will be poorer and poorer.

Amy Sreto
Parker School, Gr. 3

It would be a snow-board. I could go to a hill and snow-board down. I could go to the golf course and jump little ramps and try to do a spin.

Danny MacDougall

Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that all the homeless people have a home for the holiday. Then they would have a warm and happy Christmas.

Sheila Cannon
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that I could see my old friends again. I want to see my old friends because I want to play with them again. When I was in my old school I would see them on weekends or after school. I would go to their house. May and Lily would come over to my house after school.

Jane Lin
Parker, Gr. 3

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas it would be that Santa would give me a hamster. I like hamsters. They are furry. They are funny too, you know.

Rebecca Lebron
Parker, Gr. 3

If I could have just one wish for Chunuka it would be for everyone in the world to have what they need because I'd hate to see a bag lady.

David Choram
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

My Christmas wish is for a game called Guess Who? It is fun and I like it. My sister and my cousin like it too. I want that game to be my Christmas gift. And it's worth a lot of money.

Eric Yu
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

If I could have anything I want this Channukah it would be Genesis. It is a Sega System. I really like it. It's a video system.

Sean Sarabia
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be Peace in the world. No one would fight and families would be together again and no fights.

Sean Slattery
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be a water bed because it is comfortable and I can sleep all night long. When Santa Claus comes I'll be sleeping in a warm bed and I'll be glad.

Brendon Jones
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be a guitar. It is my favorite. I want to learn to play songs.

Mikey Halachis
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

Mayor Frank McCauley, his wife Sandra, and the entire McCauley family would like to extend their best wishes for a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to the citizens of Quincy.

As my tenure in the Mayor's Office comes to a close, I would like to thank the people of Quincy for giving me the opportunity to serve as Mayor, City Councillor and School Committee Member over the past 26 years.

I have enjoyed serving the citizens of Quincy. Happy Holidays!

Sincerely,
Mayor Frank McCauley

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be to have my grandmother come alive to celebrate Christmas with my family. I know it can't come true but I wish it could.

Kara Magaldi
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be that all the homeless would have homes. They will be warm for the winter. They would have a warm place to sleep and have enough food to eat.

Jimmy Wong
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be to have my mother and father come back wherever they are.

Coreen Chiminello
Wollaston, Gr. 5

If they have nothing to eat the world will disappear. The poor do not have clothing, they would get sick and have disease and then pass away. If the poor have no homes, they could freeze outside.

Julie Strout
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be to have a million dollars. The first thing I would do is give someone the poor. Then I would buy a Lamborgine, a mansion, and thousands of toys, a factory of toys. I would buy a bank full of money, then I would put all my toys and Lamborgine in my large safe.

Yvette Marie Molina
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be a puppy. I want a puppy because I would be able to share with other people. I like puppies because they are cute. I have a name picked out for my puppy, Spot.

Valerie Kuhlman
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be an electric guitar. I want it because I can play a lot of notes. My dad and I can practice together. Then I could be a real good guitar player.

Joseph Marin
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for everyone to have a Merry Christmas this year. So that everyone can be together on Christmas Eve. If there was no violence everyone would be happy.

Aimee Kivior
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be a Panasonic 12 speed bike. It would be black and yellow spokes. It would come with two pairs of tires, and a really strong frame. It would have fluorescent pink lines on the frame too.

Michael Cuniff
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for my uncle to come to Quincy. I would love a good Christmas I wish. I would share Nintendo tapes, I will share my toys with my sister.

Ricky Kwan
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be an Nintendo because you can pay a lot of games on it and it's my best thing I would like.

Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be 30 Nintendo tapes. I do not want just one Nintendo tape. I sometimes like to play another Nintendo game so I'd like 30 Nintendo tapes.

Francis Lee
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be a new Nintendo game because it is fun to play. It gives you a lot of exercise for your fingers and it makes you laugh a lot.

Michael Mulvey
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be to have a nice and fun Christmas. I would like to celebrate this Christmas at my aunt's house. Last year we had Chinese food at her house. We stayed at her house until 11:50.

John Hurley
Montclair, Gr. 3

I would want to see the worlds past in the middle ages. I have studied about the middle ages. It would be fascinating to see castles and dragons. There probably would be lots of peasants and life would be hard. I'd like to build a castle, it would be challenging and fun.

Elizabeth Ashworth
Wollaston, Gr. 3

To stop starvation because I feel bad for the people that are almost dying. If I was like that it would probably be terrible.

Holly Collins
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To have a roller skating rink in Houghs Neck so that all of us can have fun.

Ellen Davis
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

I would like the people in Quincy to stop the alcohol, and drugs. That would make everyone a lot better.

Shannon Hanly
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To give homeless people a home and a good Christmas.

Dominic Catranbone
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

For all the alcohol to be illegal in Quincy. Because I know people that lost their friends from alcohol.

John Donovan
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

That there will be no more water pollution in the water. That fish would come back to the water. That there will be no air pollution.

Geoffrey King
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

I would want the homeless people get homes, the hungry to be fed and for the kids who probably will not get toys for Christmas. I want them to get for Christmas.

Peter Dennis
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

That people from Hurrican Hugo will have shelter and the people that were in the earthquake too. I wish that for Christmas nothing else will happen for a while.

John Sullivan
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To help more people like to send them food and clothes to help them. I wish we could help people and to help the sick.

Cheryl McIne
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be for people to stop polluting the air. People breath and it may hurt their lungs. It might be very foggy. It might hurt people. It might kill trees. It might hurt wild animals. It might be able to go to work or school. It might never be sunny anymore. It might be cloudy and thats why I want people to stop polluting the air.

Meissa Flavin
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be to live in California. My godmother lives in California. That is where almost all my cousins live. There is a very big pool there too and I can go to a beach everyday. I like it there because I can play with my cousins computer. It beariy snows there. We have lasagna there for supper everyday I can catch snakes there and I can go fishing.

John Donovan
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be to let the homeless have a home. Because they can die in the street. They can freeze in the snow at Christmas. They have to look for food in the garbage. They have to sleep in the steet. They can't wash their clothes. They can't change their clothes and they can't cook.

Sai Fai Tsang
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be for my freckles to go away. Because they are ugly. I hate them. I wish they were gone. I want to send them to my cousin. Because she thinks she is so great. Because she does not have any. I never want to see them again. I want them to stay away from me. I want them to go back where they were before they came on my face.

Kristen Perry
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

I wish so much I had a Celtics jacket. I love the Celtics team very much. When I grow up I want to play for the Boston Celtics. I think the Celtics are awesome. Mr. Bird is number 33. I wish he was my uncle.

Jonathan Fennessy
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

I would wish for a puppy. I would take care of it. I would wake it in the morning and take him outside and love him and be good friends.

Ann Cloonan
Merrymount, Gr. 3

To have people stop destroying forests for making buildings. People who camp will thank you for your consideration.

Justin Cram
Merrymount, Gr. 5

To stop the was, because a lot of people are being killed for no reason. Innocent people are losing their homes, and children can't go to school or play in the streets.

Meissa Ring
Merrymount, Gr. 5

To help the homeless. I would like to make housing for the homeless. I have a warm, safe, house and a bedroom and it is really neat.

Lisa MacNeill
Merrymount, Gr. 5

I wish that animals have a home forever. I hope that people stop putting buildings on the animals' homes so they don't die. Already animals have started to die in the United States. So if you are planning to build something stop for a minute and think about the animals.

Bobby Schwartz
Merrymount, Gr. 5

People would not litter. When people throw stuff in the water you are killing the fish. When I go to the beach I like to have fun but I can't because people leave messes.

Christopher Geary
Merrymount, Gr. 5

To stop the fighting in Ireland. So the kids could go play in peace. All families would be safe and happy.

Charles Feeley
Merrymount, Gr. 5

It would be that my grandfather will be better because my grandfather is very sick. I want my whole family this Christmas to be healthy and that my family and I have a lot of fun.

Jennifer Stipkovich
Merrymount, Gr. 5

To have all my family in Kentucky come down to Quincy for Christmas. I love it when they visit. I have not seen them in such a long time.

Kristina Evans
Merrymount, Gr. 5

To have world peace and no fighting. I wish the homeless people would have a home, a good meal, and presents for Christmas with their families.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas it would be to see my real mother and father with my real two brothers and one sister. I was taken away from my mother and father because they couldn't take care of me. The people took me away when I was three months old. I went to a nice family and they adopted me when I was one year old and now I've got a loving family who cares about me.

Jennifer Marshall
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to go to B.C. High School. I want to go there because you can get a good education there and get good grades in college.

Minh Bui
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that drugs would never be invented. When people take them it fries their brain. That would be the biggest change in the world. My only question is why take em. I wish they were extinct, forever. I should start my own motto MAD, me against drugs.

Jimmy Finn
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be for people who smoke to quit. I would wish this because smoking causes cancer. I know a lot of people who smoke and I don't want them to get sick or die. Some teenagers smoke and they might get cancer and die at a young age.

Laura Shea
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be for all the homeless people all over the world to be happy. They would come home to their warm houses and families for Christmas. The reason for this wish is I don't think it's fair that we can come to our houses and open presents when they are out there freezing in a blanket begging for money.

Sarah Downing
Wollaston, Gr. 3

If I had one wish for Christmas my grandparents would come back alive because they died.

Jennifer Garciga
Wollaston, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish come true this Chanukah it would be to end world hunger. Yesterday I saw a program on television about hunger and what happens to you when you don't get enough food. Hundreds of children die every day of hunger. That is why I would wish for everyone to have enough food.

Rebecca Gordan
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be that my grandfather and aunt would come from the dead. They would come for Christmas so they could at least see me.

Lisa Bragg
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be for freedom because then everybody would be free and I would be able to see my family and friends in Guatemala.

Karla Ochoa
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be that all the wars would stop. Then the world would be more peaceful. If the world was more peaceful it would be a better place.

Paul Foley
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be to have lots of money to pay people to clean all the harbors. Then people could swim in our beautiful beaches and harbors.

Robert Delaney
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be that there were no drugs in the world. People who use them can't stop. Sometimes people die from drugs. Some teenagers use drugs. Drugs are very bad for your health. So I wish that there were no more drugs.

Catherine Wong
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for every country to be free. It would be a much better world if there was freedom.

Jamie Parisi
Montclair, Gr. 3

If I had one wish this Christmas it would be that the sick children get better and spend a Christmas with their parents.

Amber Leonard
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be that there were no crime, no child abuse, no murder and a lot of love from parents because every home would be a happy home.

Tommy Gouthro
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for the poor. I wish they would have clothes and a house and money. Their food would be fresh. I hope they would have work. They should have a Merry Christmas.

Thomas Wilson
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be to ask people to stop smoking. I wish that the parents that have children or no children would not smoke because inside your body is black and they could die. Please I ask you don't smoke.

Gary Yee
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be that no children would have to go to a foster home and no children would lose their parents.

Christopher Powers
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be to meet the "New Kids on the Block" in person on Christmas Day. It would be great to meet them because they are famous.

Julie MacDonald
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

All the toys in the world for everyone.

Jeremy Wray
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish this Christmas it would be no nuclear weapons in any place in this world. That way, people never die.

Michael Nutty
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be a mini motor scooter. I like this because I can then get around without walking. Also I can go to the store for my mom. I could see the world.

Ian Garvey
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be for my leg to get better because I really can't do anything that I like to do. I can't go to physical education class. I can't ride my bike. I can't sit on the floor. So that is my wish.

Sarah Jenkins
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish it would be for me to be a famous hockey player. I like to play hockey and I feel good about it.

Mark DiBlasi
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to become a famous ballerina. People would come from miles around just to see me. I would wear pink ballet shoes, with a skirt that would go to my knees. I wish I could be a famous ballerina.

Keri Speranzo
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish this Christmas it would be for the homeless to have homes, food, clothes, peace and love. They can then have things that they could only wish they had. They should have the love and care that most people have. It is not fair to them. There should be more shelters for them. They should not have to go hungry and be cold. People should help them and give them love and care.

Jennifer Doren
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to get the power to fly. I would like it because I would never be late for school and it would just be fun to fly around and no one could try to give me candy. I wouldn't get hit by a plane because I would fly low. I would be able to see far over the earth.

Tracey Chandler
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that the countries would throw away their nuclear weapons. There would be no more robberies and everybody's friends. I wish this comes true because I don't like fights and I don't like fighting. If this comes true I will be very happy.

Donna Marie Damata
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for my best friend Kim Tomeburg and I to be together. Because I moved to another part of Quincy we don't see each other. If this wish came true, it would mean a very long time! She is my very best friend.

It would be to stop all the pollution in the water so we could swim in it.

Stephanie Szabo

It would be world peace. We would have no more wars and no more nuclear warheads. We would have no more bombs and no more deaths. No more guns so people couldn't kill each other.

David Klingstein
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be world peace. I want world peace because too many people are dying and if there was world peace we wouldn't have to make bombs. They can use the extra money to help stop pollution, get homes for the homeless and food for the hungry.

It would be that when I woke up in the morning, I would find next to my tree a beautiful Arabian horse. It would have a light brown body and a long dark brown mane. I would be very happy because I've always wanted to have a horse to ride, to feed, and to brush.

Holiday Reflections

Somehow at this time of year politics seem to fade while thoughts of family gatherings and memories of the past come flooding to mind.

Roll call votes, zoning debates and other important issues of state seem to be crowded out by the holiday spirit, as people scurry up and down Hancock Street, shopping and planning for Christmas, carrying home Christmas trees on the tops of their cars, wondering if the snow will last and we will have a white Christmas.

I'm sure all of us find our thoughts drifting to Christmases past -- to our childhood laughter and joy with mom and dad, brothers and sisters, to the singing of carols and opening of presents; to those quiet moments of deep reverence as we worshiped in our church or synagogue, pondering the true meaning of Christmas or Hanukkah. There are no more precious gifts than these memories.

With these thoughts in mine my family and I would like to thank each of you for years of kindness and friendship. For helping make Quincy a warm, wonderful and caring city: a city which through the centuries has opened its heart and arms to all. A city which has compassion enough to care for its homeless and needy. A city rich in history and tradition, whose two presidents helped shape the generation of this nation. A city whose men of sea and quarry, with muscle and determination, with hope and dreams, built a home. A city which watched and cried as its young men marched off to a hundred different battlefields, some never to return. A city whose strength is the graciousness and goodness of its people.

Yes, as I look out across Hancock Street at the Church of Presidents, at people scurrying about with presents for friends and loved ones, elections, campaigns and politics grow strangely dim. Perhaps sometime during the rush of last minute shopping, putting up the tree, singing Christmas carols, opening presents and trying on the new shirt or coat to see if it fits, we will stop briefly and give thanks that we live in America, a land of freedom and opportunity, that we live in a beautiful city where we are safe and secure in our homes.

Perhaps we will stop for another moment and give thanks for grandmas and grandpas, for moms and dads, brothers and sisters, for friends. And perhaps for a moment -- with a twinkle in our eye and a smile on our lips -- we will remember Christmases past.

lights the way to the spirit and brotherhood of Christmas

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her first-born Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the Inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

Candlelight Service At Covenant

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Streets, the final advent candle, symbolizing joy, will be lighted by the Dano family.

Rev. Kathleen Graves and Rev. Kirk Johnson, co-pastors, will share in delivering the message.

The choir, directed and accompanied by Richard Smith, Minister of Music, will sing an introit and two anthems. Mr. Smith will play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin as usual at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, a nursery is available for children age five and younger. The attendant will be Pamela Francoeur.

Immediately following the service coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. The hostesses for the month of December are Esther McCarthy and Astrid Somontes.

Activities for the week are: a candlelight Christmas service at 5 p.m. on Christmas Day; the regular weekly prayer service Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. followed by choir rehearsal at 7 p.m.; and the senior adult soup and sandwich luncheon on Saturday, Dec. 23 at 11:45 a.m. (This was postponed from Sat., Dec. 16) Following the luncheon Richard Smith will present a Christmas program of organ and piano music, with a few selections by the choir.

Coming events include a New Year's Eve potluck supper at 5 p.m. on Dec. 31 and an all church winter retreat from Sunday, Jan. 14 to Monday, Jan. 15 at Pilgrim Pines in New Hampshire.

For more information, call the church office at 479-5728.

10 Christmas Masses At St. John's Church

At St. John's Church, 10 School St., ten Masses are scheduled for Dec. 24 and Dec. 25.

Holy Day Masses begin at 4 p.m. Sunday, with upstairs and downstairs Masses and congregational singing. At the upstairs 5:30 p.m. Mass, there will be congregational singing also.

At 7 p.m., upstairs, there will be Mass with a family liturgy and a folk group. The 12 Midnight upstairs Mass will be a choir Mass with guest instrumentalists, while downstairs, there will be congregational singing with Schola and guest instrument-alists. Caroling at 11:30 p.m. will precede Midnight Mass.

Monday, Christmas Day, the 7 a.m. Mass will include congregational singing. At 9 a.m. the Choir Mass will feature congregational singing and choir. At the 11 a.m. Mass, upstairs only, there will be family liturgy and a folk group. Congregational singing will be a part of the 12:30 a.m. Mass also.

5:30 p.m. Mass will be omitted on Christmas Day.

Those attending any of these Masses may bring bell of any kind to the service to help make the singing ring out.

Family Sunday Christmas Eve At First Parish Unitarian

There will be two Christmas services at United First Parish Church Unitarian this Sunday.

The 10:30 a.m. morning service will be a family service with carols, readings, a story, and a message from the minister. Norman Corey will play the organ. Matthew Malloy and Richard Post will usher.

Children and adults of all ages are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Russell Savelle will host.

On Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m. there will be the traditional Candlelight Service. The service, in the beautifully decorated sanctuary, will include carols, music, and readings. Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will deliver a message for Christmas Eve and offer a prayer. At the close of the service, individual candles will be distributed and everyone will sing "Silent Night, Holy Night" in the dark by candlelight.

The Church choir will be directed by Norman Corey. He will play organ music by Handel, Buxtehude and Bach. The music will include accompaniment by oboe and violin.

Young people of the church will be ushers and candle-lighters. They are: Marc Adams, Gabrielle Bennett, Valerie Chin, Alyssa Costello, Eddie Costello, Anthe Kelley, Stephanie Post, and Russell Savelle. Gabrielle Bennett and Stephanie Post will be readers.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located in Quincy Sq., opposite City Hall. Visitors of all faiths are welcome.

Candlelight Service At Central Baptist

Central Baptist Church, 65 Washington St., Quincy, will present a candlelight service and carol sing on Christmas Eve, at 6 p.m.

On New Year's Eve, Dec. 31 at 6 p.m. the film "Treasures of the Snow" will be shown. All are invited.

Christmas Services At Bethany Church

The Nativity of Jesus Christ will be celebrated with three worship services Sunday, Dec. 24 at Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center.

Sunday at 10 a.m. there will be a Christmas celebration in the sanctuary, which will be beautified with some 150 poinsettias, later to be taken to members and friends confined to their homes, nursing homes, or hospitals.

The Chancel Choir will sing Handel's "Glory to God in the Highest" with soprano soloist, Carol Massey, singing the recitatives. Mr. Charles J. Blue, Sr., will be at the organ console. Instrumentalists accompanying the choir and carols will be Pauline Rowe and George Vallanti, violinists, and Edmund A. Aluisi, clarinetist.

The Children's Choir, under the direction of Marsha Archer and Carolyn Leuchte will sing "The Little Drummer Boy" by Davis.

The Advent wreath ceremony will be led by Clara MacLean and her daughters, Mary Carol Heermance and Jean Ann Phinney.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will preach the sermon, "Eternal Christmas." The lay scripture reader will be Darryl Mikami. Associate minister, Elizabeth M. Upton, will offer the Christmas prayer and serve as liturgist.

There will be no early chapel service or Sunday School classes. Children are encouraged to attend the worship service with their families. Nursery and toddler care will be provided, under the supervision of Pamela Ford Curran, Bethany's church school coordinator.

The service will be broadcast live direct from Bethany's sanctuary on radio station WJDA, 1300 kc, at 10 a.m. Sunday.

Following the worship service there will be a fellowship hour with light refreshments in the Allen Parlor.

Also on Sunday, Dec. 24 there will be two Christmas Eve celebrations, both in the sanctuary. A Family Service at 7 p.m., about 45 minutes in length, will include carols, special music by the Bethany Folksingers, and brief comments by Rev. Elizabeth Upton. Pastor Arnold will have a story for the children entitled, "The Donkey's Dream."

The Advent and Christ candles will be lit by Ronald and Jackie Rivera and their children, Jason and Kimberly.

The children are invited to bring their favorite stuffed animals to the service and during the worship there will be a procession of the animals to the Manger.

At 11 p.m. there will be the traditional Christmas Eve Candlelighting and carol service. Guest soprano soloist will be Pamela Wolfe who will sing Adam's "O Holy Night," Mozart's "Et Incarnatus Est" and "Gesu Bambino" by Pietro Yon. Instrumental accompanist will be Bruce Boddon, flautist, and Charles J. Blue, Sr., organist.

The Advent and Christ candles will be lit by Harry F. Massey, Jr., and his children, Linda, Kris and Scott.

Pastor Arnold will give the meditation on "Imagine: A World Without Christ." Rev. Elizabeth Upton will be the scripture reader.

The service will climax with the lighting of individual candles by each worshiper, prayers, carols and chimes at midnight.

All three services are open to the community and visitors are most welcome. For additional information about Bethany's ministries and programs, please contact the church office at 479-7300.

Christmas Masses At Blessed Sacrament

There will be a Christmas Eve Mass at 5 p.m., Sunday, at Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Houghs Neck. This will be the Children's Mass.

At 8 p.m. a Christmas Eve Mass will take the place of the Midnight Mass

On Monday, Dec. 25, Christmas Day Masses will be at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m.

Confessions will be heard on Saturday, Dec. 23, from 11 a.m. to 12 noon and from 2 to 4 p.m.

Christmas Eve Service At Wollaston Congregational

At Wollaston Congregational Church, there will be a family candlelight service on Sunday, Christmas Eve, at 7 p.m. Children and parents are most welcome. Mulled cider will be served after the service by the deacons, with Steven Gutro and Gus Osteras hosts.

Rev. Elden D.J. Zuern's sermon topic for Christmas Sunday at 10 a.m. will be "Aspects of Christmas - Immanuel." Paul Frazer will sing, and Communion will be served by the deacons. The Hetmann family will light the Advent candles. Susan and Gregg Sweetser will be ushers; Steven Stentford and Erik Oster, greeters. Linda Walker will read the Old Testament Scriptures. Jason Towle will be acolyte.

The deacons will host the coffee hour.

Christmas Eve Service At Houghs Neck Congregational

Houghs Neck Congregational Church Christmas Sunday, services will be at 9 and 10:30 a.m.

Rev. M. Alicia Corea will speak on "The Shining Hour" at 9 a.m., while Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea will have "Understanding History" as his sermon topic at 10:30 a.m.

The traditional Christmas Eve Service with candlelighting will be held at 11 p.m. with "Understanding Christmas" as the subject.

Church School classes will be omitted on Sunday, Dec. 24, and Sunday, Dec. 31. Classes will resume on Jan. 7.

Christmas Eve Service At Squantum Church

There will be three worship services at the First Church of Squantum on Sunday, Dec. 24. The morning service will be held at 10:30 a.m. The two evening services for Christmas Eve will be held at 7 and 11 p.m.

The earlier evening service will be for children as well as adults. The later service is the traditional Christmas Eve Candlelight Service. Participants in either service are encouraged to bring bells with them to jingle as the carols are sung.

Last Sunday members and friends of the church gathered in Fellowship Hall before the service for the annual Christmas Breakfast. Evelyn Ahearn and Ruth Swenson were in charge and young people from The Way Up assisted.

The sanctuary of the church, which had been decorated during "The Hanging of the Greens," was banked with poinsettias arranged by Pat Olson and Drusilla Warnes.

Music was by the Cherub Choir, the Chancel Choir, the congregation, pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott.

Other special music included a medley of Christmas carols played by saxophonist Jack Chapman and trumpeter Kristin Fluhr.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the subject, "According to Luke." It was the third of a series of four Advent sermons entitled, "Witnesses to the Coming of Christ." Adam MacMullan, Ian MacRitchie, Cheryl Potter and Kenneth Shionis helped the pastor light three candles in the Advent Wreath.

The children of the Sunday School attended a "Baby Jesus Birthday Party" while their parents were in church.

Stewart and Mary Scott were the greeters, Tore Wallin and Harry Holmes were the ushers, and Shirley Mason and Pat Olson hosted the Fellowship Hour afterwards.

This Sunday the worship service will be at 10:30 a.m. Sunday School children are invited to sit with their parents during the service but there will be a nursery for younger children.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

I wish the world was never poor. The government wouldn't have to waste all that money. I feel sorry for them so that's why I wish the world was never poor. It's all because of the government raising our income tax. Dow Jones and prices for food products.

There is no reason why they should be sitting in the street drinking and talking to themselves. I think something should be done before Christmas and that's another reason why I even thought up the wish. So that's my wish for Christmas, if I ever get a chance.

William Chan
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to win the Lottery and become a millionaire. I would buy my mother a big white house, my father lots of flashing lights, my brother, all the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles, and my sister a shopping mall. Then I'll save the rest for college.

Kara Timbone
Squantum, Gr. 5

That human rights are made in all countries and homeless are saved, also that we become friends not enemies so that the world would become a better place.

Kerry Sullivan
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be that I could open a shelter. When I get older and if my wish comes true I bet it will be the best shelter in the entire city of Quincy.

Mellisa Dick
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To get all the homeless people in shelters and give them a meal. I think homeless people or no homeless people everyone should have a good Christmas or Chaukah.

Heather Moore
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be for all my relatives to come down from Heaven because I really loved them all. I know my wish can't come true but I wish it could.

Marianne Cannon
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to have a good Christmas and for everybody to get along.

Kate Bryan
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be that on Christmas Day all poor people would have something. I also wish that for Christmas vacation I could go to one place I've always wanted to do.

Tasha Belus
Parker, Gr. 5

That my grandmother would go to Heaven. She's very sick right now and she's probably not going to live until Christmas. I think she should go to Heaven because she deserves it, she would be happy there.

Maureen Sullivan
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to own Toys R Us, K.B. Toys and Child World. I could have all the toys in the world, all the Nintendo things and all the games and for kids that have no toys, I would give them some. And I'd save some for me.

John Corey
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to build more shelters and put the homeless people in them. I would give them three hot meals and snacks a day, with a warm bed to sleep in. I would try to get jobs for them and nice clothes so they could start a whole new life. I would get them the medical help they need to be healthy so they could live a long and happy life.

Christine Shields
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to be with my dad and my cousins. My grandmas and granpas, my aunts, uncles and my mom would be there too.

Mark Peterson
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be a horse. I love horses. They are my favorite. I like to ride them. They also can bring you places where you want to go. I think you will have fun with one, too.

Katherine Frustaglia
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be a New Kids on the Block video tape because I love the New Kids on the Block. I like Joe M. and Donnie W.

Stacie Bush
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be for the homeless people to get a house and be healthy. I want the people to live a long time.

Tracy Crowley
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

I'd wish for all the people that are sick will be cured. I also wish that all the people with no homes would find homes. And all the people that are hungry will have food in front of them.

Julie DeLuca
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be for everyone to have a happy Christmas.

Alpen Nacar
Squantum, Gr. 3

It would be to get my book published because all my family would be proud of me. I would be proud of myself too. I would probably be the youngest person to get a book published.

Joseph Watson
Squantum, Gr. 3

To get all the homeless people off the streets and into shelters with food and clothing. I think everyone, including the homeless, should be able to enjoy Christmas.

Tommy Leung
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be food for the poor. Cause I don't like to see them eating food from trashcans. The food from the trashcans makes them sick and they might die.

It would be that all the poverty in the world would be the hungry could be fed, the naked could be clothed; and all the poor people in the world would have a nice place to go. I think more fortunate people should show more thanks for what they have and not ask for more than they need. It would be great if more wealthy people would give a contribution to the poor.

To go to the Bahamas to go fishing, swimming, scuba diving and going there on a big cruise. Then in my wish I would say I would like my grandfather back to life so I could take him to the Bahamas with me. I would take him lots of places. At night I would take him to a restaurant and after take him out to the ocean. We'd watch the sun set, and then go home and sleep. Then wake up and go out fishing and do lots of other things.
Mike Johnston
Wollaston, Gr. 5

Peace in the world. Also I wish for the wars to stop, hostages to be released, and for people to have freedom of speech. There are some countries where they don't have those types of freedoms.
Meaghan Powers

It would be that my grandmother would get out of the hospital. I want my wish to come true because after my grandmother fell down the stairs, I wasn't able to see her again. She was always so nice to me. I would like to see her but I can't. So I don't know what happened to her because I can't go see her. Also when she gets out of the hospital, I can visit her more often.
Kari Brown
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be peace among all the world. There are way too many wars going on every day! I wish the world could live in peace as America does without the bombing and killing. I wish this Christmas could be as peaceful as possible so people all over the world could be much happier. Maybe even a million times as happy as you already are on Christmas Day.

Anthony Conley
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be shelter for more of the homeless because they don't even have food. They have to eat out of trashcans to survive. In the winter, many of them die because they don't have warm clothes. They have to use cardboard boxes for their houses.
The children living on the streets are afraid and cannot trust a living soul. A home would give them warmth and would keep them healthy. The mothers of the babies of the future would be safe from danger and cruelty and madness in the world. Beside giving them a few cents or a can of food, give them love from your heart and see what you'll get in return.
Han Quach
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be that the homeless people all over the world find a place to live. I would also like them to have a Christmas meal. I would hope that they would have as many presents as I will have this Christmas. I also wish I could say two words to them: "Happy Christmas." If you want to know why I want all this it's because I feel sorry for them.
Dawn Kohler
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to have all the people that are poor get some presents like clothes and toys because they don't have any clothes or toys.
Kevin Sullivan
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be for the homeless to get homes and the poor to get food. The homeless and poor should be able to have Christmas dinner and a Christmas tree. Everybody should get presents so that everybody could have a happy Christmas.
Kelly DiCarli
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to walk into a store and be the fifty millionth customer and get fifty million dollars. I'd want this money so I could get anything I wanted like a college degree a big house and clothes. I'd put some money in the bank with interest. I'd also get back stage tickets to the "New Kids on the Block" concert. That's why I'd want fifty million dollars. But then again, maybe I'd really want all the homeless people to find homes and food because I don't want anymore people to die. This Christmas I want fifty million dollars so I can get the things I want and help some dying people too.
Michelle Cole
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to change the way people fight over things in a bad way. I'd like the government in Columbia to fight harder and harder to end the drug wars so children won't get addicted. And for me, I'd just like to have a wonderful life until I die. I'd wish for a lot of presents, but not really too many because my birthday is on Christmas. I hope somebody will give that big wish to me.
David Parra
Parker, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas it would be that I would win Mass Millions, like 40 million dollars. I would buy anything my family wanted or needed and buy my family the longest limo anybody ever saw. Then I would tell a house builder to build a huge house and have 15 bedrooms, 4 bathrooms, 5 dining rooms, 2 huge party rooms, 3 living rooms and buy the furniture my house needs.
Then I'd give 10 million to the poor people, and have the old, poor people live with me. But, they would live in a different house that I would build for them so they would not have to live in the freezing cold weather and the hot weather. Then I would give them a thousand dollars to spend. I would let my sister go to the best college she could have. Then I would take my family to Walt Disney World in Florida and to Hawaii. Then I would take the old people where ever they wanted to go in the U.S.A.
Khanh Diep
Parker, Gr. 5

That the people from the Bay area can pull their lives back together after having them torn apart from the San Francisco earthquake. I wish that South Carolina and Puerto Rico can do the same after Hurricane Hugo.
Mary Damata
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

That they will stop fighting in El Salvador and Israel so that no more people will get killed.
Dennis Kohut
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

That all my family will be together at the holiday season and will be safe and well. Most of all I wish that everyone else will be with their family too.
Tina Watsarikas
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be for me to win the Lottery for $50,000,000,000. Then I'd buy a mansion and an extra long stretch limo. I'd give some money to my parents so they wouldn't get mad. I'd go shopping and hire three maids, two butlers and a cook. Then I wouldn't have to do everything myself.
Jennifer Alberti
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be that when my Nana goes to the Bahamas, I wish she has a very, very good time.
Brian P. Sylvester
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be that we would have no homeless in America. I think that no one should be without a home.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

That all the homeless people get a home. I want all the people that have cancer, AIDS and any other diseases to get better.

Andrew Byrne
Merrymount, Gr. 5

That every child feel safe at least on Christmas Day.

Amanda McKenna
Merrymount, Gr. 3

To have no violence and for everyone to have peace.

Ruthie Fishman
Merrymount, Gr. 3

That there could be peace in the world. Then people will live happily in the world. I'd wish that people wouldn't be walking around with guns.

Douglas Coates
Merrymount, Gr. 5

It would be to get Typhoon Hove Craft. It goes on water and sand. Also it goes five miles per hour and I would put my hamster, Dutch Jr. on it. He would like it so much.

Stephen Powell
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for my Nana Pope would come back from heaven. I miss my Nana Pope. I miss her. Nana Pope her paintings are pretty. She was very special to me. I hope she is better in heaven. I'm glad she died in peace. I pray for her every night. I wish she could come back for Christmas. I wish she could visit.

Kellie Johnston
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be to have a flying star. I wish that I could have a flying star because I like stars. I like them because they twinkle and they are pretty. I wish I could have a flying star because it would take me places. I would be nice and warm to sleep with. It would protect me. It would play with me.

Jane Walbel
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

I want my family to live forever. I want my mom and dad and my sister to live not die but live. Because I love them a lot. They help me do work. They are very nice to me. They give me a home. They give me food. They give me clothing. They put me in school. They love me a lot. They check my homework for mistakes. They give me shoes so my feet don't get cold.

Sean McCusker
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be for my grandpa to be alive for Christmas. I love him. He died in the war. He used to play ball with me. He loves me. I used to play games with him. He liked ice cream. He used to say milk does a body good. I love you grandpa.

Tammy Comness
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

That my aunts, uncles, and cousins could come to my house for Christmas. I wish this because I haven't seen them in a long time. They live in California and Nebraska.

Jeff Burke
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for all the whole world to get together and clean the earth of pollution and pick up trash, and everyone could live in a cleaner world.

Betsy Stone
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be that my mother's and father's families could get together. If we could have a Christmas together, I think we could have a very good time. At first they won't know each other but after a while they will. I think they should know each other.

Jamie Walter
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be for world peace so that people on the other side of the world could meet with families in another continent. All the weapons would be burned and there would be no more wars in the world. That way the United States could be sure that there will not be a nuclear war. There will not be a World War III. It will be much better without wars because many people are wounded and hurt because of wars.

Erie Smith
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be that we have no more poverty in the USA. Every time I go to Boston I always see at least five people on the streets. One time I saw a whole family out on the streets with barely anything material except the clothes on their backs. Another time when I was on a subway going home, there was a man trying to drink himself to death. He had four full bottles of vodka and three empty ones. He might have thought that he was of no use to our country. As far as I see it, he was 100% wrong.

Jay Emerson
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be for the poor people to have nice homes and lots of food. A lot of children won't have Christmas at all and I don't think that's very fair.

Erika Thompson
Wollaston, Gr. 5

It would be to have my own cursive writing book. I would like to practice cursive writing. Then I would know how to write in cursive. I would practice every day and night so I will know how to write in cursive.

Caitlin Powers
Montclair, Gr. 3

I wish the poor and the homeless people will have a real nice Christmas this year.

Kenneth Mah
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be a Christmas at Disney World. It would be fun. We would go to Gatorland Park after Christmas.

Anthony Monaco
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be to get more wishes. Then every year for twenty years I would make one useful wish. If it really comes true the first wish I would make is NO MORE CRIME. I always have believed in wishes and always will.

Meghan Spillane
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

To wish for homes for people without homes. Also for people who are poor because they are unfortunate.

Melissa Griffin
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be meeting the New Kids On The Block. They are so awesome.

Laura Hamilton
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

For the homeless people to have homes, enough food to eat, and warm clothes. I hope my wish will come true.

Katherine Kesaris
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

That the homeless will have a nice Christmas and that the homeless will not be sick. Also that their family will get together.

Scott Finn
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be a remote control car. I would really like a remote control car because all my friends have one. I think I would have a lot of fun with one.

Kevin Walsh
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be a doll named Jen. Jen is a doll that says "Hi" and "Good Morning" and "Thank You." She loves you.

Erin Moran
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be a black and white spotted puppy. My mother wants a white puppy. I like puppies because they are very cute.

Jennifer Chin
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be a white Christmas, it would be the best Christmas ever. I would share my toys with others and open up my gifts and go play in the snow. I just wish we could have a white Christmas, just once please have a white Christmas.

Danielle Gaglione
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be a big horse set with a lot of horses. Also I would like a stable with a fence and pinto horses. I like horses alot.

Chris Lohman
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for everybody to have a safe and a happy Christmas. They might fall on the ice and hurt themselves. When its time to open gifts I want everybody to have a fun time and get what they asked for. When you go ice skating be sure your mother or father is with you.

Christopher Petit
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be to stop drugs because drugs are hazardous to your health. I really hate drugs because they can kill you because drugs are illegal. I would like my wish to come true so life would be easier.

Michael Kelly
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be a puppy. I want a puppy because I always wanted for one. If my wish did come true, I hope it will be a black puppy. I'd name it shadow.

Michelle Manolakis
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be a new bedroom for myself because all my sister does is bother me what I try to go to sleep. I'd like pink wallpaper and a desk with a computer on it. I would like my own bed because my sister and I have to share a bunkbed. I'd also like a pink rug and a bathroom in my room so no one could come in. I'd like a lock on my bathroom door and a lock on my bedroom door so when I have homework nobody can bother me.

Kate Lavery
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that my best friend would not move to Boston or wherever he is going. I won't have any best friend if Ben moves because if he moves, I won't make any more best friends.

Eric Stoekel
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that my godparents would come over because I love them. They always give me good presents.

Sandra Sullivan
Parker, Gr. 3

It is the best toy. I have asked my mother for a long time. If I had a G.I. Joe Snake eyes it would be my best toy of all. I want more toys but I want Snake eyes the most. I like Ninjas and he is a Ninja because Ninjas are the best fighters.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be for no more drugs, because they hurt people. And it makes me sad. I wish they were never seen again.

Rele LaFleur
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be to have all the countries stop fighting and be friends. So less people will be killed. Less money will be wanted. People will not need guns. No more houses will be destroyed. People will not hide. No more bombs will be dropped. People will not be homeless. Jets will not crash anymore.

Jeffrey Langille
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be having a pet hamster. I want one because it is a cute pet and my sisters would have so fun with something. I just wish I could have a hamster and have fun for the rest of my life.

Nancy Lee
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be for people to have homes all over the world and for people not to be starving and be very healthy and trim. I hope this Christmas everyone will have a tree and presents.

Timothy Shubert
Parker, Gr. 5

To stop world hunger. I think just because a man/woman is not wearing Calvin Klein or Liz Claiborne, they should not be able to get a job.

Hillary Rogers
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

I'd wish for a million pots of gold. I'd trade them in for 27 million, 95 billion, 98 million, 7 thousands and 83 dollars. I'd buy a big nice house, a nice car, a couple of pets and a maid. I'd marry a princess.

Nyland Coughlin
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be to win Mega-Bucks, so that I could buy homes for the homeless and everything that my family wanted. I would give presents to everyone in my class. I would own Toys R Us, Bradlees, and Zayre. Merry Christmas!

Erin LaForge
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be for me to win the lottery. I would get 90,000,000,000 dollars, and I would get a mansion and a limo. I would not tell my parents, because they would take my money and pay the taxes with it. I will have a collection of all kinds of cars. I will own the whole block. When my whole family rings the doorbell, I will say, "Let them in," to my butler. When he lets them in, "Welcome Home!" I will say, "This is the best day of my life."

Michael Masticola
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be that every person in the world would stop smoking, so kids won't smoke. Smoking can clog up your lungs and that will lead to a hard time breathing. You can get into a coma, and you can die.

Cheryl Potter
Squantum, Gr. 5

I'd wish for a Mickey Mantle rookie. If I could have one I would be happier than anyone than anyone in the world.

Robert Bell
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

If there would be a huge snowstorm for six weeks. We would miss a lot of school, and I would be able to play with my friends in the snow.

Elizabeth Bennett
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

I wish everyone would be happy and warm; and the homeless would get food! They will get sick real bad so they need help badly.

Bernazzani, Gr. 3

Ten million dollars. When I have ten million dollars then I will be rich, I will buy a limo.

Danielle Graham
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be to hope everyone have a Merry Christmas and to stay safe and warm.

Edwin Lond
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that I want to be the first kid to go up in space. This wish is special because I like science. It's fun to learn about the solar system. I want to go inside of a rocket ship some day.

Philip Miceli
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for everybody to have a good Christmas, be happy, and do all the right things. Then they can stay good and lead a good life, even me. They would tell the truth and not tell any lies. They'd do no drugs because you might die and I want everyone to live.

Donna Robbins
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for me to be the president of the United States of America. I would try to get rid of drugs in our country.

Paul Stewart
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be for the homeless. I hope they have food and shelter. Also I wish for the African's who are dying. I wish they have food.

Vickie Ross
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be for world peace. I wish for that because many people are getting killed for no reason.

Jennifer Tantillo
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be Nintendo. All my friends have it. My favorite game. Mario Brothers.

David Kenney
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be for my dad getting his job back, because he is upset. But just a little upset. He is the best dad in the world!

Leanne Martin
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

If I could have one wish for Christmas it would be for no more harm because if there was no more harm in the world no one would get hurt.

Jamie Lynn McCarthy
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

For peace to be spread around the world and love and kindness to share food and shelter. I would wish we didn't have locks on the doors and have expensive alarms and to keep thieves out from stealing and killing. I want everyone to live in peace like one big family.

Lee Bullens
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas, it would be for people to be happy.

Erica Laforge
Squantum, Gr. 3

If I had a wish I would give money to the poor.

James Garlock
Squantum, Gr. 3

I would help the poor. I would give food, clothes, money, for school and things so they can have a happy Christmas.

Nancy Gardner
Squantum, Gr. 3

To stop the drug abuse on the street corners, and together all of the kids and grown ups talk about how to stop the drug abuse in America.

Jean Alkens
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be Nintendo, because it is fun on a rainy day but my mother only let's me use it for an hour. There are so many games. My favorite is the California game. I like skating and a lot more! I hope I get it!

Amy Harper
Squantum, Gr. 3

No more pollution in the pumping yard. And to stop the drugs in this country. I wish the people in San Francisco could have homes because the earthquake wrecked their homes.

Michelle Showstead
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To have total peace on Earth I'm really tired of people fighting and arguing, it's just not right. Everyone should be friends and love each other. It's a shame people have to fight to get their way. Simple things mentioned in an argument from one country to another have started wars such as World War I and 2, the Civil War and The Viet Nam War.

Alicia Quigg
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

That all the homeless had homes and clothes and something to eat and they have friends. I hope they get a big dinner and presents on holidays.

Kimberly Mackey
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To stop most violence in the world so kids wouldn't be afraid of teenagers and going out places. I wish we wouldn't need the Armed Forces.

Michael Freel
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be to feed the hungry, and shelter the homeless, to stop wars and to stop people buying and selling drugs. I would also like to cure the ill.

John Heim
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be that my dog would come back because I love my dog very much and she is still in my heart. I always would take my dog out for a walk. I can't help it if I love my dog very much. I would always feed her.

Ronald Logan
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be for the whole world to be rich. People could get better clothes, colleges and food. There would be no slaves or wars and people could celebrate God in their own way.

Nicholas Favorito
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be for people to stop killing animals. I am an animal lover. Why do people kill animals? What did they ever do to you? Animals don't have minds, like us. They're not regular like us. How would people like it if they were animals? I know they wouldn't like to die.

Kim Lacorazza
Parker, Gr. 3

I would want my new dad to adopt me. This would make my family happy and I would feel great. He likes me very much, and I think he's good to me. Like him.

Danny O'Keefe
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I would wish that my grandpa could get better. He was in a car accident a few years ago. He needs a cane but he walks better. He is in good shape and he's fun to be with.

Jeffrey Brophy
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be to have all my relatives come visit for Christmas. Because I want to see them. I have never met all my relatives, and this would be a good opportunity.

Kelly Scott
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I would wish for less crime. If there was less crime people would be much safer. Feeling safe is a very nice feeling to feel you know. It would make me feel really good just to hear about it.

Heather Brown
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be to see my aunt and uncle because they live in California. Then we could talk and get to know each other and see if they are doing fine. My aunt and uncle live in Los Angeles, it's nice.

Lauren Prague
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be to help my grandfather to get better. I would cheer him up by buying him a puppy.

Stephen Esdale
Wollaston, Gr. 3

My Christmas wish would be to have a cleaner environment. I want people to stop cutting down the rain forests. We won't have any clean oxygen. I feel it is really important to take care of our planet.

Denis Murphy
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I would wish for the drug problem to stop. I'd wish for the drugs to be destroyed and the plant fields to die. I'd put the drug dealers in jail and let the innocent out. I do not want anything to happen this Christmas to me or my family.

I want this problem to stop, so nobody will get hurt anymore. I feel something bigger should be done than what the President is doing to stop it.

Jason McGough
Squantum, Gr. 5

If I could have just one wish this Christmas it would be to have a million more so I could wish for more things.

Kevin Michaels
Squantum, Gr. 5

My wish this Christmas would be not to have prejudiced people and to have people with different skin colors get along and all work together because we all live in the same world together.

Erica Galanek
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be for every Nintendo tape in the world. I would be awesome and fun. If I had a lot of friends to play Nintendo with we would have a ball.

Dennis Alden
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be for the ozone layer to be saved. Then the world would stay cool for a long time. Then our children would be as healthy as we are.

Joseph Marini
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be for families that don't have money and don't have anywhere to live to live in good homes. I don't want them dying on a street or in a door step.

David Blake
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to treat the sludge and toxic waste. It is a big problem in our country. It harms animals and pollutes the beaches so badly we have to close them.

Bob Wan
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to get the basketball Shot Clock Challenge game. I wished for that because I like to play basketball and I play well. It would also help me play better.

Jason Lumaghini
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be for my family to celebrate Christmas. My family only celebrates Chinese New Year and Thanksgiving. I wish that because it would be nice to be giving and receiving presents like almost everybody else at this time of year.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

It would be for homeless people to have homes.

Sean MacDonald
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be that my best friend Benny would not die because I love her so much.

Capree Lafford
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be for my mom to come home from the hospital for Christmas.

Robbie Mood
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be that Effy McIowd will get well.

Colin Rodman
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be to own a palace. My mother would be queen. My father would be the king.

Brian McDermott
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be that all of the people and the animals were nice and warm.

James Webb
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be to have my own bedroom.

Danielle Hutchins
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be to meet the New Kids on the Block, because they are cute. I like their songs.

Andrea Failla
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be for my dog Rudi to have puppies. I would like to have my grandfather and grandmothers back for Christmas because I miss them.

Ryan E. Barrett
Parker, Gr. 3

If I had a wish this Chanukah, it would be that when I grow up I'll have a good education and that everybody in my family would be happy.

Maya Barahona
Parker, Gr. 3

That I could ride with Santa on Christmas Eve. I could give every child gifts and help Santa fly the sled. I want to ride with Santa because it would be fun and exciting.

Devin O'Brien
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that the homeless people have a home so that they will be warm. It's sad that people don't have homes to keep them warm. It is cold out there when you don't have a lot of clothes on. When you are out there you might get sick. So I hope that my wish will come true this Christmas.

Matt Noonan
Parker, Gr. 5

I would like to be older than my sister Shannon. It would be fun because she bosses me around and I don't like it. But I love her anyway. Have a merry Christmas!

Kathleen Williamson
Parker, Gr. 3

I wish I had a red ten-speed bike for Christmas and lots of toys. But, the one thing about Christmas is God. It is God's birthday.

Rene Monti
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that my family and friends have a nice Christmas. If they have a nice Christmas then I'll have a nice Christmas. I'll be happy.

Renee Tasney
Parker, Gr. 3

I want all the Bionic Six. All of them have different super powers. But, what I really want is the whole collection of Batman and the whole collection of Superman too.

Alex Sanders
Parker, Gr. 3

I wish for happiness for all the nice people. It is fun to get together for Christmas. Christmas makes all the kids happy in the school.

Chi Cheng
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be for three million dollars. Then, I would buy all the presents for everyone. Then, I would buy a bike and a toy store and go to Disneyland for one month and visit my cousins.

Craig Bigham
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be to be together with my family. I would like to be with my family because I like to be with them especially on Christmas. I also like to be with them because I am happy when I am with them.

Matthew Melchin
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be to have a White Christmas. The reason why is because I have only heard of them. I have never seen one because I was too little to remember. It would be nice to have a white Christmas. There would be snow on trees, roofs, and all other things. You could look out your window and it would be snowing. That is the kind of Christmas I would like. I think that is the kind of Christmas everyone would like.

Patricia Christello
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to have peace in the world.

Jillian King
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be for all black and white people to be friends. So everybody would be happy. I think just once to be friends, we should try it. I think everybody should be friends. I have a friend that is black too. So people white or black are homeless. I think we should give. I think some people should be nice to one or another. If you do not want to give its alright.

Dawn Dalrymple
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be to see my grandma. She is the only one who knows me upside down, rightside up, and inside out rightside in. After my grandfather died it was dreadful. It seemed like she forgot me but she didn't. Then she moved to Florida. My dad and my uncle had to go for a little while. I have not seen her for two years. So you see that is my one wish for Christmas.

Keith Cohen
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

I wish I had a dog to play with and to go places with. If I get a dog I will name him Chopper. I wish I had a dog very very much. If I did I would walk him every day and I would feed him and give him a bed.

Billy Duke
Point-Webster, Gr. 3

It would be for no one in my family to be sick.

Crystal Sacchetti
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be to have no robbers or people who do drugs. If there were no bad people in the world, the world would be nice again.

Courtney Davis
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that my grandmother and grandfather were alive again because I love them and I never saw my grandmother. If I did, I would invite them over for Christmas.

Sarah Holliday
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to have America and Russia to come together and make peace.

Shawn Cheney
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to have no kidnappers or robbers because too many kids are missing and too many things are getting stolen.

Mark Hawes
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to have Santa Claus' reindeer so I could fly. It is important to me because I could get to school faster. I could help Santa Claus bring the Christmas presents to all of the houses.

Brian Quinn
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to be able to fly. Then you would not have to buy a car.

Michael Carvello
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to ride in Santa's Sleigh. We would go all over the world and give people presents. And then we went to the North Pole and we got to see all the elves and then he'd take me home.

Brian Radell
Squantum, Gr. 3

It would be a wish for no more smoking, because smoking harms and puts our lives in danger. People who smoke let a lot of yucky carbon dioxide out. If you compare a 14 year-olds brain who doesn't smoke with a 14 year old's brain who does smoke, you would see a great difference.

Laura Iaccocio
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be to win $60,000,000,000. I would give some to my parents and family. I would buy a house with a butler and a maid. I would give the rest of the money to the homeless at Long Island.

Elizabeth Downey
Squantum, Gr. 5

It would be for the homeless to get socks, shoes, food, drinks and especially free housing. I would wish that, because I would like to see the streets without people sleeping on them. I would also like to see less people walking around in rags.

Nicholas Shea
Squantum, Gr. 5

All the baseball cards in the world. Especially Jose Canseco.

John Lynch
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be to have peace and kindness in this world. I wish for love and not to have any more wars.

Courtney Paquette
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be that my family would be happy, and we will all love each other.

Lisa Pettiti
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be happiness. I want that wish because I want a world with no crime. I want a world with happy people, freedom, and people helping and caring for each other.

Jimmy Tan
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be for my family to have lots and lots of peace, happiness, and to be kind to each other.

Hillary Miller
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be that people could live in peace all over the world.

David Haendler
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

Is if there would be no school, so I could stay home and play with my friends. I wouldn't have any homework. But school is fun in some ways.

Brendan Griffin
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

I wish I could have all of the baseball cards in the world.

If I Could Have One Wish

It would be Nintendo because I have Atari, and I'm getting sick of it. I would get games with it. They would be Super Mario Bros. 1 and 2, Zelda, Jaws, Commando, Mike Tyson's Punchout, Contra, Skate or Die, and Pretator. It'll be fun.

Stephen Ryan
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be a dune buggy. Then I could drive it to school each morning. I will have four wheel drive. It will be awesome. I'll have a phone, radio and four seats.

Adam Leet

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

I wish my whole family could get together in Florida so we can have a fun holiday together. I hope the rest of the family has a happy holiday.

Patricia Nuziato
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be nice to my family. I would help around the house and try to remember special days for them. I love them and they are always good to me.

Quentin Lom
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I would want the people that were in Hurricane Hugo to have help. Especially if they lost their homes, and jobs, they would need food and money. This would make their lives easier.

Jennifer Musso
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I would like my father and I to make fruit baskets for our neighbors. I enjoy making them, so every year I would like to do it. I like bringing them to our neighbors and making them smile!

Kristin Greene
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be to clean up the city of Quincy because people throw trash all over the place. It looks awful. I hate seeing Quincy look dirty. Someday I will be mayor and help my city.

Shannon Kiely
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I wish my family could have good health for this coming year. I want my grandparents to be healthy, too. I want to see them this holiday. They live in Pittsburgh and we don't get to see them very often.

Alexis Pivnicny
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be to get the whole family together. My grandmother, grandfather, aunts and uncles. We would have a great time looking back in the past. Everybody would start laughing and have a great time. I can't wait for Christmas.

Jim Sullivan
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be to have a remote control plane. I always wanted a remote control plane all my life. Every Christmas I wish for a remote control plane but I never got one.

Mike Galligan
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to visit my grandmother. My grandmother lives in Tampa, Florida. I have never met her before. I am sure she is nice.

Michael Hastings
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to see a puppy that my dog had. I liked her a lot. I named her Jessie. I hope I can see her on Christmas. We gave her to my aunt.

Andrea Cappellano
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to let everyone in the world have shelter and warmth for the winter.

Kristian Lundberg
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be for everyone to have an excellent Christmas. I wish for great stuff in my stocking. I wish my family a great Christmas.

Nicholas Cyr
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be a thankful family and thankful friends because Christmas is a time to give thanks. I hope everyone will get what they wish for.

Rachel Bonanni
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be very nice if I could be older than my brother. Christmas is a great holiday. I hope everybody has a great Christmas!

Alice Chan
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be that the starving people would get food and nourishment. I want the world to be free.

A.J. Quinn
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be for my dogs to be quiet ... at least for one day! It always seems the night I've stayed up the latest I go to bed and my dogs wake me up at 1 a.m.! Once I think two years ago we had this big party on Christmas Eve. I went to bed right after the party and I hardly got any sleep because of my dogs!

Linda M. Wallace
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for a radio controlled racing dirt buggy. It goes thirty four miles per hour on turbo.

John McGrath
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that there wouldn't be any more wars so all of the countries would have peace. I think too many people are getting killed. They are getting shot and bombed. That is my wish this Christmas.

Lisa Patten
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to get enough presents for my family and to make them happy.

Jarrad Jacobs
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that I could see my cousin. I never saw my cousin in my whole life. I only saw pictures of her. My aunt said she is nice.

Nela Foster
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for the poor people. I wish that they could get new homes and get what they want for Christmas. I hope Santa goes to the poor people and they could have a happy and safe Christmas.

Heather Schatel
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for a new cousin. His name would be Jake. He would be born on Christmas Eve. Brent Dennis

Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to see Jesus and talk to him. Jesus would come to my house every day. Jesus and I would be best friends. I would love him so.

Kathleen Mary Pringle
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be for the poor because they don't have clothes or toys to play with. Some don't have houses to stay in and money too. I wish they would be like us. If they were just like us there would be no poor people in the world.

Sauna Harrison
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that Miss Callanan would be the first Woman

President of the United States. Kimberly Ann Callanan
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that I'd get New Kids on the Block tickets. But my overall wish is that the starving people of the world would get food and the people with Cerebral Palsy would get cured. I'd want this to happen because I almost burst out in tears when I saw the commercial for the Christian Children's Fund. I'd like to help these children myself but I can't come up with seventy cents a day. I still wish this would happen although I'd do anything for New Kids on the Block tickets.

Shannon Williamson
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to have peace on earth. I'd hope that no one would ever fight or hurt themselves. Where ever people go it would be nice if people would treat them nicely and with some respect. A world without peace is like a world without friends. Everyone is fighting and fighting and hurting. Not one word of kindness is heard all over the world. Everyone is yelling and screaming. How very, very, very nice it would be if we only had peace. No fighting and shouting and screaming. How very nice it would be if we only had peace.

Vivian Chan
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to grow up and live a good life like my very wonderful parents. I would also like to go to work or to feed my family.

Leanne Joyce
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to have no drugs in the world. So when I go into the sixth grade I won't have to worry about being offered drugs or alcohol and because there are too many people dying in drug wars.

Kara Lightbourne
Parker, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas I'd wish that there was no war or drugs and that the homeless had homes. If there were not drugs it would be a better place to live and you would not have to worry about kids. If I had enough money, I would give it to the homeless. I am glad that I have a home to live in. If there was no war, we would get rid of the weapons and stuff like that. If we had no guns we would live in a safe place. I would like to grow up in a place with no guns, war, drugs and a place where people would have homes to live in.

Brian Walsh
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be that I could go on a trip around the world and learn all different languages. I'd stop whenever I wanted and stay there as long as I wanted. I'd bring back all different things with me. I would like to go because I need a vacation away from my baby sister.

Danielle Rinaldi
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be a Nintendo set and games because I could beat my Dad and Mom. Maybe Santa will give it to me. I like Christmas because I get a lot of toys, that's why I want Nintendo. I pick one present I like the most and sometimes I get it.

Alana Hamm
Montclair, Gr. 3

It would be for me to get a dirt bike. I would like a dirt bike so I can ride it to places around here, and so I can go riding in the Blue Hills. Maybe I can ride it in competitions.

William Fitzgerald
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to stop all the crimes that are going on. Because a lot of people are getting hurt and killed.

Christine Barrieau
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

To get Quincy Bay clean so the fish could come back and people could catch more fish.

Billy Calhoun
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be that there will be world peace. That there will be no more hunger in the world and the people that needed help would get it.

Donald McCarthy II
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be to have a gerbil. I am going to name him Ricky I want a gerbil because I feel lonely when school is over.

Mary Nguyen
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be to stop people polluting the water. It is important to me because people can swim in water that isn't polluted. If this wish came true, people could swim in the water every summer.

Michael Hartford
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to get an electric guitar. I like to make music and make a band.

Jacob Fleming
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that I'd have lots and lots of money. I could give some to everybody. I could buy lots of clothes and shoes. I would like to have more clothes and besides clothes I could buy lots of other things too.

Loriann Fraser
Lincoln Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to stop people from using drugs. I want this wish because there's been too many accidents, when people use drugs and die.

Jennifer Vickery
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be to stop all the people who take drugs. Most who take drugs get killed! These people try to tempt other people too! I think it should stop right now! Have a great Christmas!

Michelle Raimondi
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be that this world would be a better world. People everywhere would have food to eat, the homeless would have a home like everybody else, there wouldn't be any crime, and the white people would get along with the black people. I'd wish that the world will be more peaceful, calm, clean, beautiful and everyone in the world would have their freedom to do what they wanted to do.

I'd want this wish to come true because I believe that everyone should have these things. This world would be really better if we had these things. I think that it is not fair that somebody have all the good things and some don't have as many good things as others do. I hope that this wish will come true.

Li Hong Li
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be an airplane. It would be a B-1G Bomber. With fifty caliber guns and bombs.

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

I wish that everyone would be thankful for Christmas. Then it would be a loving country.

Brad Karalius
Parker Gr. 3

It would be that everybody would have lots of good food to eat. It makes me sad to think that some people will be hungry on Christmas Day. I would wish that nobody is going to be hungry again.

William Meade
Parker, Gr. 3

It would be to meet my cousin. My cousin plays hockey in the N.H.L. I would like to meet him more than my Christmas presents. His name is Allen Macinnis. He is from Canada. He plays with the Calgary Flames.

John Katsarikas
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be that I could be that I could be a professional and beautiful ballerina. I could stand on my toes on pretty shoes. And everybody would watch me on stage. It would be very exciting to be a ballerina.

Nina Ciruolo
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 5

It would be love. Love is very warm and sensitive. It is snuggable. Love is the best thing. It does not have to be red or pink. But very nice. That's what I think it does not have to be white or gray. But that's what I want from Santa's sleigh.

Brynnie Dearie
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

I wish that there would be no drugs in the U.S. because drugs kill you.

Rich Dalrymple
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

I would want to get a sport car. It will be red with a sun roof with every radio channel in the world. It will have a car phone, electric seat and electric locks.

Jonathan Amate
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be some money. Do you know why I want some money? Because I want to give some money to the poor, and get some presents for my whole family. I wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Stephanie Tat
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be a computer, because I think it's fun. My father wants one too, because he goes to a school and his teacher gives him homework. He needs a computer to help with his homework.

Eric Leung
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be for every one to have a Merry Christmas because I care for others, and I want everyone to have the best Christmas ever.

Eric Craven
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be food for the poor, so they can have a nice Christmas just like other people.

Rachel Powers
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be to have the biggest and best blizzard that ever happened in eternity. We could all go out and go skiing and sledding. We would have a great time. Most of all, we would have no school.

Jeremy Rile
Wollaston, Gr. 5

Atherton Hough School would have all the computers in the world and all the game discs so we can play on rainy days.

Kevin Ryan
Atherton Hough, Gr. 5

It would be the ice hockey cartridge to Nintendo. I don't have a lot of games to Nintendo.

Michael Mezzetti
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be to get a puppy. A cute roly polly puppy. It would be black and white and have a long tail. Its name would be Spot. It would have two black paws and two white paws. My friends and I would bathe it, feed it, give it water and play with it. The puppy would follow me everywhere. If I played baseball and someone hit the ball my dog would go get it for me. It will sleep in my room.

Sarah Larson
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be a dog. I like to walk around the block. If I got a dog for Christmas, I would walk it around the block.

Catherine Cacciatore
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be to get a computer from Santa. I've always wanted a computer. If that's all I get, I don't care, just so I get a computer.

Nate Witmer
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be a puppy. I like animals. I have a cat. For a change I want a puppy. The only animals I ever had were fish, a toad, cat and a bird. My cat is wild. She's like a lion. I want a puppy because puppies aren't so wild and I like their fur. They can't hide under the sofa so I can't find them. I like animals and for a change I want a puppy. That's all I want for Christmas.

Christina Smith
Lincoln-Hancock, Gr. 3

It would be to get a skateboard, because they are fun to ride and not very big. All my other friends have one. So I hope for one on Christmas, to ride around the house and outside on the street with my friends.

Sinead Lovett
Bernazzani, Gr. 3

It would be a little baby sister because I love taking care of little babies and they are very cute and small. I have a little cousin that is one year old and I love her very much. She is the cutest cousin that I've ever had.

Quan Ha
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be for peace on earth. No World War III or any other bomb dropped. I wish everybody a very merry Christmas or Chanukah.

Joe Cox
Parker, Gr. 5

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas it would be to get ten billion dollars. I could get almost anything I want. This is what I would buy: A castle, a mansion, a Ferrari, a bunch of sport's equipment, lots of clothes, the longest stretch limousine in the world, a house for each one of my family, a car for each one of my family, ten thousands stores of my own and a company. I'd give ten million dollars to help find a cure for AIDS, give a million dollars to charity, give ten million dollars to Ethiopia to help feed them and give ten million dollars to schools in America for them to buy supplies. I'd give money to my family and friends, and keep the rest. The reason I would do this is so people would be safer and happier.

Shirley Wu
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I really hope poor people can get homes and jobs. I wish poor people could enjoy all the holidays. I wish they weren't on the streets.

Brian Correia
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be that the poor would have some food and some nice clothes like you and me. I wish that all the poor people would have a house. I wish that poor people would have a lot of money too. I wish that they would be able to go to school. I wish everybody in the world would have a very merry Christmas.

Kathleen Arnold
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be a dog because I love dogs. They are so nice and cute. I would want it to be a pure blooded German Shepherd.

Gina Pope
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to be rich and famous. I could have a house with a pool inside. I would have parties all the time. It would be fun. Plus I would have people who have no money come over.

Matthew Gibbons
Atherton Hough, Gr. 3

It would be to get season tickets for the Red Sox spring training and regular season. Of course I would sit in the dugout every game. While staying in sunny Florida with my family, we would stay at the finest hotel and dine on lobster, shrimp and scallops.

After getting a tan I would take the to the beach for a day of swimming, volleyball, and water skiing I would like this wish to come true because I want to visit Florida and I would love to go to every Red Sox home game and sit in the dugout. I'd like to talk to the players for two and a half hours. It would be great to see such stars as Canseco, McGuire, Yount, Stewart, Griffey Jr. Abait and Gordan.

Chuck O'Brien
Parker, Gr. 5

It would be to give money, clothes and food to the poor so they can be like you and me. I hope my cousins from California come to visit my family.

Shirley Wu
Wollaston, Gr. 3

I really hope poor people can get homes and jobs. I wish poor people could enjoy all the holidays. I wish they weren't on the streets.

Brian Correia
Wollaston, Gr. 3

It would be that the poor would have some food and some nice clothes like you and me. I wish that all the poor people would have a house. I wish that poor people would have a lot of money too. I wish that they would be able to go to school. I wish everybody in the world would have a very merry Christmas.

Kathleen Arnold
Wollaston, Gr. 3

That the homeless would have homes and warm beds and good food.

The North Quincy boys' basketball team broke even in its first two games last week and took its 1-1 record into the Revere game Tuesday night.

Ted Stevenson's Raiders will play at Medford tonight (Thursday) and next Thursday and Friday night will play in the annual Christmas tournament at the North gym. North will face Weymouth South in the first round Thursday at 7:30 while Quincy will meet Weymouth North at 6. The consolation game will be Friday, the 29th, at 6 and the championship game at 7:30.

Last Friday night the Raiders rebounded from a tough opening night loss and defeated Somerville, 62-45.

Erik DeBoer paced North with 24 points, including seven of eight free throws down the stretch. The Raiders' pressure defense, led by Jeff Calvert, who had four steals, held Somerville to 10 shots and 15 points in the first half.

Brian Curran had nine points and Bill Warren contributed eight.

Earlier in the week North staged a big fourth quarter rally after trailing by 10 points, but fell short and lost a 59-57 decision at Malden.

DeBoer had 20 points and took down eight rebounds. Curran had 14 points and sophomore Desmond Bellot added 10.

TIM BRILLO of Quincy was a member of the Westfield State College football team which finished at 3-7 but was 3-3 in the South Division of the New England Conference. Tim, son of Frank and Maureen Brillo, was a quarterback and played his high school ball at Don Bosco.

Presidents Lose To Revere, Medford

The Quincy boys' basketball team, with only one starter back, is off to a slow start as the Presidents lost their two opening games last week.

John Franceschini's Quincy team will host Arlington tonight (Thursday) and next Thursday and Friday will play in the annual Christmas Tournament at North Quincy. The Presidents will face Weymouth North in the opening game Thursday at 6 and North Quincy will meet Weymouth South at 7:30. The consolation game will be Friday at 6 and the championship game at 7:30.

Quincy dropped a 77-53 decision to Revere last Friday night as poor shooting and execution in the second half cost the Presidents, who trailed by only six at the half.

Mike Norton scored 11 points and kept Quincy close during the first half.

Earlier in the week Quincy had opened the season as it rallied from a 16-point deficit to tie Medford, 41-41, with 1:50 left but lost, 49-43.

Sophomore guard Joey Crespi had 11 points and six assists to pace the Presidents. E.J. Nordstrom had 10 points and six rebounds and Mike Scolaro contributed nine points and seven rebounds.

Ralph Bevilacqua keyed Quincy's trapping defense which held down Medford in the second half, but Jason Bates, who had 24 points for Medford, hit the key free throws late in the game to ice the win.

Ehrens Wins N.E. Junior Swim Classic

Karl Ehrens, 8, of Quincy, a member of the South Shore YMCA Strippers swim team, outswam competition from all over New England to win the high point trophy in his age group at the two-day Junior Fisherman's Classic, a New England/United States swimming meet held at the Cape Ann Y in Gloucester.

Ehrens compiled 56 points to claim the trophy over the second place finisher, who had 43 points. He placed first in the 25-yard backstroke (17.94), 50-yard backstroke (39.68), 25-yard freestyle (15.42), 50-yard freestyle (34.35) and 50-yard breaststroke (48.29). He also placed second in the 25-yard breaststroke (20.63), setting a new Strippers record and the 100-yard individual medley (1:30.16), third in the 25-yard butterfly (17.80) and the 50-yard butterfly (40.17) and fourth in the 100-yard freestyle (1:20.96).

Earlier Ehrens won all five 8 and under boys events at the U.S. meet sponsored by the Merrimack Valley Pirates at the Greater Lawrence Technical School.

He won the 50-yard freestyle (35.93), 50-yard backstroke (41.49), 50-yard breaststroke (47.50), 50-yard butterfly (43.42) and 100-yard individual medley (1:30.63).

He also took four first places in the recent meet at the Beverly YMCA, winning the 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard backstroke, 50-yard butterfly and 100-yard individual medley. He also placed second in the 50-yard breaststroke.

Karl has come a long way under coach Janet Keyes. Last July he placed in the top ten in New England in both the U.S. short and long-course seasons. He is a fourth grader at the Parker School.

North Swimmers Win First 2 Meets

Bill Walker's North Quincy girls' swim team had its best season ever this fall and his boys' team is off to a good start, winning its first two meets last week.

The Raiders will host Walpole today (Thursday) at 6 o'clock at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool and will be home to Blue Hills Wednesday, Jan. 3, at 3:30.

North last Friday squeaked by Newton South, 86-85, by sweeping the diving and winning the 400 relay.

The Raiders won only four events but their depth paid off. Alex Smith was a double winner in the 50 (25.7) and 100 (57.5). Donald Howie won the breaststroke (1:12.2), Kevin Heffernan won the diving (139.1 points) and the 400 relay team of Pat Noonan, Smith, Mark Nitschke and Eric Gustafson won in 4:17.6.

Placing second were Nitschke, 200 and 500; Dan Reilly, 200 individual medley and butterfly; and Noonan, diving.

Taking third places were Howie, 100; Gustafson, 200; Greg McKay, backstroke; Heffernan, breaststroke, and Mark O'Neil, diving.

North had opened earlier in the week with a 100-67 victory over Framingham South.

Nitschke was a double winner in the 200 (2:21.07) and 500 (6:46.65). Other winners were Smith, 100 (1:00.33); Reilly, butterfly

(1:12.7); Howie, breaststroke (1:13.99); Heffernan, diving (personal best 154.05 points), and the 200 medley relay team of Jim Peers, Howie, Reilly and Noonan (2:08.30).

Taking seconds were Smith, 50; Howie, 100; Gustafson, 200 and 500; Reilly, 200 individual medley; and Heffernan, breaststroke.

Placing third were Nader Sidahmed, 500; Peers, 200 individual medley; Scott Harris, backstroke, and Noonan, diving.

Rendle Wins Letter At Colgate

Freshman outside hitter Holly Rendle of North Quincy recently received her first varsity letter as a member of the Colgate University women's volleyball team.

Rendle played in 78 games for the Lady Raiders this season, and had 82 kills, 20 service aces, and 99 digs in her first year as a collegian.

Colgate finished the season with an 18-9 record for head coach Janet Little. The Lady Raiders won the Colonial League Tournament and the Colgate Invitational, plus were second at the New York State Tournament.

Rendle, who is majoring in biology at Colgate, was a three-time all-Suburban League and Patriot Ledger all-scholastic choice in volleyball at North Quincy High. In addition, she was named to the all-Boston Globe and all-Boston Herald teams. In 1987, her Red

Raiderettes Win Two As Panaro Debuts

Ken Panaro, who has taken over as head girls' basketball coach at North Quincy, faces a big challenge, but he is off to a good start as his Raiderettes won their two opening games last week.

Panaro, junior varsity coach for the past four years, succeeded Paul Bregoli, who retired after nine successful seasons at the North helm.

Panaro has big shoes to fill as Bregoli took five of his nine teams into the Eastern Mass. Tournament and compiled an enviable record at North.

"I am happy to succeed Paul as varsity coach and have a fine group of girls here," Panaro said.

The Raiderettes will host Medford today (Thursday) at 5 o'clock and will compete in the annual Christmas tournament at Weymouth South next Thursday, Dec. 28, and Friday, the 29th. They will meet Weymouth South in the opening round Thursday at 7:30. The consolation game will be Friday at 6 and the championship game at 7:30. Quincy and Weymouth North are the other teams in the tournament.

Last Friday night the North girls breezed past Somerville, 44-15, as their tenacious defense completely bottled up the Somerville offense.

Junior guard Tara Miles scored 12 points, sophomore guard Tricia Hughes had eight and sophomore center Joanna Rugnetta had seven points, 12 rebounds and three blocked shots.

Earlier in the week the Raiderettes had opened with a 54-35 victory over Malden.

Again the North girls sparkled defensively and hit on 18 free throws.

Miles again led the way with 12 points, Gina Golden, Kristen Haddigan and Rugnetta had eight apiece and Soyon Park played strong defense and controlled the boards.

Earl Metzler, an assistant football coach, has replaced Panaro as junior varsity coach.

Manganaro Hot As North Wins Pair

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's hockey team is off and running under first year coach Dave Peters, winning both of its opening games last week and scoring 14 goals in the process.

The Raiders faced a strong Medford team last night (Wednesday), will host Peabody Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and will be at Revere next Wednesday night at 8.

North scored five goals in the second period last Saturday and defeated Malden, 7-3, paced by Sal Manganaro's hat trick, giving him seven goals in two games.

"We started slowly and trailed, 1-0, after the first period," said Peters, who succeeded Kevin Jago, who retired after seven years as coach. "But we caught fire in the second period and played well the rest of the way."

"I am pleased with the way we have been scoring and the defense has played well, especially against Malden. Pat O'Donoghue played an outstanding game against Malden with 23 saves. I am concerned about the Medford game as they will be the strongest team we have faced. If we can continue to do well against Greater Boston League teams, it will give us some momentum going into our Suburban League season, which opens Jan. 6 against Quincy."

Brian Zimmerman had two goals and an assist against Malden, Billy Lydon a goal and assist, Jamie Tapper a goal, Armando Mancini three assists, Mike DesRoche two and Mike Christopherson one.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had opened the season with a 7-6 victory over Everett as Manganaro scored four goals and added an assist. His first goal came after just six seconds of play.

The teams were tied at 2-2 after a period with Manganaro scoring both North goals.

DesRoche and Zimmerman scored early in the second period to give the Raiders a 4-2 lead, Everett's Mike Squillacoti scored for Everett, Manganaro scored his third goal and Joe Crowley scored for Everett, leaving North in front, 5-4, going into the final session.

After Squillacoti scored to tie the score, Manganaro scored his fourth goal and Joe Fasano took a pass from Manganaro and scored the insurance goal which proved the winner.

Fasano had three assists, Jim McCarthy two and Tapper one.

"Manganaro, Fasano and Zimmerman played fantastic games," said Peters. "I took a chance and went with only two lines. I was just hoping they'd catch their second wind."

Those three make up North's first line, which should be one of the best scoring lines in the league. O'Donoghue had a busy night in goal, stopping 22 of Everett's 28 shots.

Manganaro, one of the outstanding players in the state, had 20 goals and 12 assists last year and is ahead of that pace.

"He's a good two-way player because of his skating ability," said Mike O'Connell, director of the New England Pro-Am League, in which Manganaro played the past two summers.

Last summer Manganaro played against some of the world's best players in his age bracket when he played against the Soviet Select 16 team in a tournament at BU. "He was our best player," said coach Bill Hanson. "He has great skills. He's a real potential Division I player. I would have loved to have him this year at Catholic Memorial."

Following that series, the team went to Prague to play Czechoslovakia's top 17-year-olds.

"The Czechs played the same style as the Russians, but they were much stronger and faster," Manganaro said.

His game also improved after he got involved with the Satellite Development program directed by New Jersey Devils coach John Cuniff, a former Bruins assistant, and Hanson. He also was invited to Colorado to try out for the Select 17 team last summer but was cut.

"He's a hard worker, but he was cut because of his lack of experience defensively," Hanson said. "Dave Peters is a good coach and will make him a better two-way player."

First Ladies Off To Slow Start

The Quincy girls' basketball team has only two seniors and the young First Ladies have gotten off to a slow start with losses in their two opening games last week.

Doug MacFarlane's Quincy team hosts Arlington today (Thursday) at 5 o'clock and next Thursday and Friday nights will play in the annual Christmas tournament at Weymouth South.

The First Ladies will face Weymouth North in the opener Thursday at 6 and North Quincy will clash with Weymouth South at 7:30. The consolation game is Friday at 6 and the championship game at 7:30.

Last Friday night the Quincy girls lost to Revere, 64-50, despite outscoring the winners from the floor. Revere hit on 26 of 36 free throws while Quincy was only 10 for 27.

Erin Doherty scored 15 points and Amy Baker 12 for the First Ladies, while Chris Barrett had eight points, eight rebounds and six steals.

Earlier in the week Quincy had opened the season by losing a tough one to Medford, 35-32.

Tied, 20-20, at the half, Quincy scored only two points until the final two minutes.

Barrett scored eight points, had 10 rebounds and three steals, while Baker scored seven points.

Nolan In Quebec Hockey Tournney

Doug Nolan of Quincy is one of 16 boys from the Greater Boston area to represent the Boston Bruins and the Greater Boston Youth Hockey League in a hockey tournament in Quebec in February.

The team will be playing for the American Cup with teams from many other nations. Over 200,000 people will see these games which will be televised throughout Canada.

The players must raise $20,000 to make the trip and they are seeking donations from businesses and individuals. Checks made payable to the Greater Boston Pee Wee All-Stars can be sent to Doug Nolan, 248 Winthrop St., Quincy 02169.

Quincy Shows Promise

Quincy's rebuilding hockey team, with seven freshmen and five sophomores on the varsity, and hoping to rebound from last year's 1-17 season, showed much promise last week when it tied Malden, 5-5, in its opener and lost to Medford, one of the Greater Boston League powerhouses, 6-2.

Bob Sylvia's Presidents played at Marshfield last night (Wednesday), will play at Revere Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and will be home to Somerville next Wednesday night at 6:40.

The most disappointing feature of last week's games was Quincy's inability to hold on to a 5-2 lead with a little more than two minutes to play against Malden.

"I am heartened by our showings," said Sylvia. "It was frustrating now to be able to hold on to our lead against Malden, but the boys showed a lot of spirit and I think it will be an interesting season."

"Medford is a very strong team and we played them even until the last period when they scored three goals."

In the opener Scott MacPherson had a hat trick for the Presidents, Fred Reagan and Paul Shine scored a goal each. Reagan also had two assists.

Bruce Nylind had a hat trick for Malden and scored the tying goal in the final seconds.

MacPherson and freshman Dave Mullen scored against Medford and Reagan had an assist.

Goalie Craig Galligan had a busy time in both games and came up with a number of excellent saves.

Vacation Gym Schedule At 11 Locations

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch announces that the Quincy Recreation Department will supervise 11 local neighborhood gymnasiums on an expanded schedule during the school vacation period.

Activities are scheduled at various times and all programs are CO-ED, for boys and girls age 8 through high school. The basic schedule is from 8 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. for elementary age, 10:30 a.m. to 11:45 a.m. for middle school age and 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. for high school age. Depending on enrollment slight variations may occur at some locations.

Welch said most locations will see an increase of 19 hours in addition to the regular Saturday Gym schedule that will be conducted for its normal Saturday schedule, Dec. 23, and Saturday, Dec. 30.

The expanded schedule is as follows:

Atherton Hough, Atlantic Middle School, Central Middle School, Merrymount School, Montclair, Daniel Webster, Snug Harbor, Sterling, Squantum and Wollaston School, all open on Tuesday, Dec. 26, Wednesday, Dec. 27, Thursday, Dec. 28, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. and on Friday, Dec. 29, will be 8 a.m. to noon.

The Beechwood Community Life Center Gym will be supervised on Tuesday, Dec. 26, and Thursday, Dec. 28, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Record Turnout For Boys Track At North

Coach Peter Chrisom welcomed 68 boys, the largest turnout ever for winter track at North Quincy. With many talented underclassmen, North hopes to improve on last year's 1-5 record, despite a 54-32 loss to Waltham in the opener last week.

The Raiders today (Thursday) face Suburban League powerhouse Brockton at 3:30 at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

Highlights of the opening meet included three sophomores, John O'Donnell (high jump), Adam Chansky (600) and Mike Yee (hurdles) winning their events. Only eight points were scored by seniors.

Taking seconds were Wayne Sit, 50; Yee, 600; Wayne McCully, 1000, and Andy Wohlrab (mile).

Placing third were Tony Anderlionis, 50; Marc Larson, hurdles; Blaine D'Acci, 300; Ngoc Vo, 1000, and Greg Buck, two-mile.

North's distance runners are led by Capt. Wohlrab. Others are seniors John Henry and Aiman Janinch, junior Mike Herman, sophomore Buck and freshmen Jeff Earnest and John Laing.

Middle distance runners are senior McGully, junior Eddie Rizzitano, sophs Chansky, Mark Jolly and Vo and freshmen James Campbell, Jim Georgaklis, Andy Kenny and Steve Ma.

Sprinters include seniors Anderlionis, D'Acci, Jeff Cluett, Scott Krupnick and Jim Rayne, juniors Hico Ngo, Sit, Paul Murphy and Andy McPhee, sophomores Mark Cocuzzo, Cassian Jae, Nhut Ly, Chris Murray, Chris Peck, Brian Toland, Ronnie Tam and Sam Kwan and freshmen Dave Chan, Eric Delorey, Keith Lentini, Nick Mastrogiacomo, Josh O'Donnell, Bill Sit, Mark Sinclair and Sheldon Wong. Hurdlers are sophomores Yee, Larson and Garvin Chan and freshman Kevin Price.

High jumpers are junior Ngo and Don Anderson and soph John O'Donnell.

Shot putters are juniors Adam Somerville, Kevin Glennon and Chris Lineman and sophs Scott Kohler, Dave McNally and Tae Kim.

Chrisom is cautiously optimistic about the chances of improving on last year's record. "We are thin in the distances and throws, and we have a very young and inexperienced group," he said. "We'll just have to keep improving every time."

Chrisom is again assisted by Ken McPhee and girls' coaches Jeff Hennessy and Maureen Roche are also helping out.

Panther Cheerleaders Eye Florida Trip

The Quincy Point Panther cheerleaders have done it again.

After defending their National Cheerleaders Association (NCA) New England title, the Panthers came back to win the Universal Cheerleaders Association regional crown at Norwood High School.

Now they have a chance to compete for another national title in Orlando, Fla., which is televised nationally on ESPN.

"No matter what happened, the girls and I decided before the NCA competition that there was no way we could go back to Texas," said coach Patti Myers. "They exhausted themselves with fund raisers and practices which were all crammed in before Christmas. People were so generous and the Quincy Sun helped us out each week with all the publicity. We knew it was for a trip the girls will never forget."

However, with some encouragement from parents and friends, the Panthers decided to try another competition later in the season, one which had 29 teams.

They won again and were crowned state champions.

"How could I tell them we couldn't at least try to raise the money to get to Florida?" Myers asked. "They deserve it. They proved they are the best and next year maybe we won't be as lucky."

Starting after Christmas the squad will attempt to raise the $7000 needed for a five-day trip to Orlando. A candy drive has already started and a tag day will be held next weekend.

Donations for the trip are being accepted and can be sent to the Quincy Point Panthers, c/o Curran, 23 Smith Street, Quincy 02169.

Team members include Capt. Debbie Russell, Co-Capt. Amy Murphy, Vicky Comeau, Jennifer Kelley, Amy Gallagher, Cindy Cedrone, Christine Curran, Kara Bagen and Christina Staffier.

Public Skating At Shea Rink Expanded

Public skating hours at the Shea Memorial Skating Rink in West Quincy have been expanded, the Metropolitan District Commission announces.

The MDC has added public skating on Tuesday and Saturday afternoons to the rink's existing schedule.

In response to community requests made by Senator

Paul Harold, and Representatives Robert Cerasoli, Michael Morrissey and Steve Tobin, Quincy legislators met with MDC officials to discuss increasing public skating opportunities at the Shea Rink.

Despite the state's fiscal crisis and MDC staff shortages, the agency was able to extend the schedule.

The new public skating schedule at Shea Rink is: Monday-Friday, 9 a.m. to noon.

Tuesday, 1 to 5 p.m.
Friday, 7 to 9 p.m.
Saturday, 2 to 4 p.m.
Sunday, 10 a.m. to noon, 2 to 4 p.m.

For more information, call the Shea Rink at 472-9325.

North Girls Win Track Opener

The North Quincy girls' track team got off to a good start last week with a 50-36 victory over Waltham.

Jeff Hennessy's Raiderettes face Suburban League powerhouse Brockton today (Thursday) at Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 5 o'clock. Only five points were scored by North Quincy seniors and Hennessy was pleased with the performances of the underclassmen.

Highlights of the meet were a double win for junior captain Tristen Mastrogiacomo in the hurdles and shot put. She qualified for the state meet in the hurdles along with Amy Wong, who won the 50-yard dash, and Suzanne Lewis, who won the two-mile. Other winners were Claire Walsh in the 1000 and Sherrin Quintiliani in the mile.

Second places were taken by Jennifer Nutley, 300; Ilana Cobban, 600; Cindy Walsh, 1000; Danielle Lewis, two-mile, and Cheryl Kelly, high jump.

Placing third were Susanne Hamilton, dash; Kelly, 300; Jenn Flynn, 600; Joanna Moriarty, mile, and Rebecca Squires, high jump.

Flaherty Tri-Captain At Don Bosco

Daniel Flaherty of 25 Webster St., North Quincy, has been named a tri-captain of the Don Bosco High School swimming team, along with Sean Lucas of Hyde Park and John Molineaux of Dorchester.

The team, which will participate in 11 meets, is coached by Doug Schramm.

Dick Abbott Wins Sun Football Contest

For the second week in a row, Dick Abbott of 159 Standish Rd., Quincy, is the winner of the Quincy Sun Football Contest.

Abbott compiled a 7-4 record and won the contest on a tie-breaker. Bill DeCoste of 125 Granite St., Quincy, also went 7-4.

However, Abbott was closest on the tiebreaker which was the Indianapolis-Miami game. In that game, 55 total points were scored.

Abbott guessed 48 points while DeCoste had 45 points. Since there is one week left in the regular season, this is the last week of the contest.

10 minutes from Quincy Center

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

In response to four reported rapes in the Wollaston area, the Quincy Police Department and Eastern Nazarene College have been conducting safety seminars at the college.

Since April, four women have been sexually assaulted in Wollaston. According to Chief Francis Finn, all the females assaulted, except one, were students at ENC.

Although the police department did not notify the press of the incidents, Finn explained the department has kept the ENC administrators informed. As a result, the college has placed extra security around their campus and also started an escort service for the young females.

Explaining why the local media was not notified of the incidents immediately, Finn said, "A judgement call was made not to notify the general press immediately, in order to enhance our opportunity to apprehend the suspects; rightly or wrongly."

The chief also noted that the department is redefining its Media Relations Policy, "in the best interest of public safety, so that we can eliminate these problems in the future."

Since the incidents were reported, three detective teams, the Special Operations Unit and the department's night patrol have "saturated the area," Finn said.

"We have kept one home under intensive surveillance due to threats and other strange activities. This problem is presently, as in the past, receiving our best and most intensive attention," the chief said.

Keeping with its policy to inform affected parties, the department is meeting with students and other concerned citizens on the ENC campus to keep them up to date. One meeting was held earlier this year and a second meeting was set up for Tuesday at 7 p.m.

According to Crime Prevention Officer Robert Hanna, a third meeting at ENC will be held Tuesday, Jan. 9.

The public is invited to attend.

Hanna also said that other meetings with the community will be set up if so desired.

The meetings have been well-attended. About 200 people attended the first program and more were expected Tuesday, Hanna noted. Since most students have left the campus for Christmas break, Tuesday's seminar was mainly for other community members.

ENC, which has a female population of 350, has been conducting its own safety seminars as well. Attendance for these programs has been very good too, Hanna said, noting that most female students have attended.

Capt. David Rowell, chief of detectives, Capt. William Murphy as well as officers in the crime prevention unit were to conduct Tuesday's meeting and answer any questions. Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan, chairman of the council's Public Safety Committee, was also scheduled to appear.

According to Linda Whitting, associate Dean of Students at ENC, the police seminars have been very helpful and informative.

"They've been talking about common sense things like walking around in the community," she said, noting that nearly 600 students live on campus.

Since November, the school has conducted three safety seminars for students. In addition, each student has been given a map of the community indicating locations of staff houses and a male escort service has been set up by the student body.

Also, the college president has formed a special ad-hoc committee comprised of four female faculty members to look at female safety in the campus area. The committee will make recommendations such as more lighting and a van service next year, said Whitting, a member of the committee.

Whitting said students have been coming together to help one another since the incidents were reported. "Most students are looking out for each other. They are concerned," she said, adding that the panic that gripped the campus around Thanksgiving has been reduced to the point where students are reminding each other to be careful.

Capt. Paul Nestor said the department has been working on the cases and he hopes progress is made soon.

Mastrantonio Team Widens St. John's Lead

Jim Mastrantonio's team has taken a six-point lead over John Grande's team in St. John's Holy Name Bowling League.

The standings: Mastrantonio, 56-32; Grande, 50-38; Bob Saluti, 44-44; Art DiTullio, 42-46; Bud McAllister, 38-50; Joe Matarazzo, 34-54.

Mastrantonio rolled the weekly high single of 124 and Don Gilliland had 119. Saluti had the high three of 329 and Mastrantonio had 320.

Saluti's team had the high single of 477 and Mastrantonio had 471. Saluti also had the high team three of 1371 and Mastrantonio had 1349.

The top ten: Saluti, 106.93; Grande, 103.67; Mastrantonio 100.97; Bill Daley, 100.25; Richie Warner, 95.47; McAllister, 94.15; Dan Dieso, 93.93; Gilliland, 92.85; Dewey DiCesare, 92.80; Matarazzo 92.93.

Council Approves Borrowing Up To $60 Million

By a 9-0 vote Monday, the City Council approved an order which allows the city to borrow up to $60 million this fiscal year which ends June 30.

City Auditor Robert Foy told councilors that the city has not had to borrow money in two and a half years. However, with the fiscal pinch on, Foy said it is "likely" the city will have to borrow by the end of the fiscal year.

"If the tax bills go out in February, the city stands a good chance of not borrowing. However, if they go out later, the city will probably have to borrow," the auditor said.

According to Foy, the money will cover any potential shortfall due to delayed local aid payments. He explained that the city used to get paid four times a year but now only twice: Dec. 31 and June 30.

As far as he knows, the local aid payment should be made on time, Foy said.

The borrowing limit is set by the amount of revenue collected by the tax rate the previous year which this year is $60 million. The short-term notes, which carry a six to seven percent interest rate, must be paid back within a year.

According to Foy, about 50 percent of Massachusetts cities and towns are currently borrowing.

Hibernia Earmarks $20 Million For Real Estate Loans

The Hibernia Savings Bank (NASDAQ SYMBOL: HSBK) has established a Community Loan Fund, earmarking $20 million for real estate loans in the communities of Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth.

Mark A. Osborne, president of the Bank said, "The formation of this fund is a visible sign of our commitment to the communities and people we serve. Our objective is to be a primary resource for borrowers within our market area."

Osborne said the bank has developed a number of new lending products for both residential and income producing properties within the Community Loan Fund. "For example, on residential loans, there will be no application fees, no credit report fees, no appraisal fee and no private mortgage insurance will be required. And we'll lend up to 90% of the appraised value of owner occupied residential properties. This represents a substantial savings to anyone applying for a mortgage. And because we will be keeping these loans for our own portfolio we're also able to employ flexible income qualification guidelines."

Applications for these mortgages may be obtained at any of the Bank's branch locations or by contacting Roger Meade at the Bank's main office (617) 479-2265.

The Hibernia Savings Bank, founded in 1912, is a state chartered, FDIC insured stock institution which offers a wide range of deposit and loan products. The main office of the Hibernia Savings Bank is located at 731 Hancock Street, Quincy. The bank also has retail banking facilities located at 101 Federal Street, Boston, and at 51 Commercial Street, Braintree.

Norfolk County Bar Association Sponsoring Six Legal Clinics

The Bar Association of Norfolk County will administer six legal clinics at the Quincy District Court, 1 Dennis Ryan Parkway, in Quincy, beginning next month.

The clinics are being funded through a grant from the Massachusetts Bar Association Iota fund.

They will be held Wednesdays from 6 to 8 p.m. on these dates: Jan. 10, Feb. 7, March 7, April 4, May 2 and June 6.

The Legal Advice and Referral Clinic (LARC) will be an advice and referral only assistance program. LARC will provide free legal service and information to the public.

The purpose of the clinics is to help clients identify whether they have a legal problem, and to disseminate the necessary information and guidance where necessary.

The clinic is open to any person seeking legal assistance.

"We are implementing the clinics as a public service to the community addressing the vital need for education regarding the legal system," said Adrienne Clarke, executive director of the Norfolk County Bar Association.

"We are specifically attending to the needs of the poor who cannot ordinarily afford an attorney. We will attempt to assist these people with any problems or questions they may have encountered in understanding specific areas of the law."

"The attorneys who have volunteered to assist at the legal clinics are in the private practice of law and have extensive experience in trial advocacy.

"Since the clinic is free of charge for anyone wishing to attend, we anticipate an excellent turnout," said Clarke.

She wrote the grant and is administering the clinics.

This year marks the second year such clinics have been held at the court. Last year, 112 people turned out.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Every Christmas we look forward to receiving some special cards and messages from people who always lift our spirits and say what has to be said. From one of our readers comes this happy holiday list - an ageless, anonymously compiled list, well worth sharing:

The best day ... today.
The best play ... work.
The greatest puzzle ... life.
The greatest thought ... God.
The best work ... work you like.
The greatest mistake ... giving up.
The greatest need ... common sense.
The most dangerous person ... a liar.
The most expensive indulgence ... hate.
The most disagreeable person ... the complainer.
The best teacher ... one who makes you want to learn.
The worst bankrupt ... the soul who has lost enthusiasm.
The cheapest, easiest and most stupid things to do ... finding fault.
The greatest bore ... one who keeps talking after he has made his point.
The greatest comfort ... the knowledge that you have done your work well.
The most agreeable companion ... the one who would have you no different from what you are.
The greatest blessing ... good health.
The greatest victory ... victory over yourself.
The greatest thing, bar none, in the world ... Love: Love for family, God, home, friends, neighbors ... and for the land win which we enjoy our freedom.
MERRY CHRISTMAS. EVERYBODY.

A Tradition of Trust For Over 70 Years.

Just before World War I, Sweeney Funeral Homes' first location was established in a small storefront on the corner of Hancock and School streets. Dennis S. Sweeney, the homes' first funeral director is remembered as a rather tall man, who had a beautiful, yet somber voice. Dressed in his characteristic top hat and tails, his singing was requested at funeral processions for over 30 years.

When he died in 1948, he entrusted the continuation of the family-owned tradition of instinctive and genuine concern for the city's bereaved families to his nephew, M. Joseph Sweeney.

Since 1917, Sweeney Funeral Homes have always meant the finest, most traditional service that Quincy has to offer. But we've also changed with the needs of the times, whatever they were. As early as 1940, we began offering pre-planning as a way for wise Quincy residents to plan their future.

Today, with funeral costs one of the top five major expenses for most families, pre-arrangements make better sense than ever before. Call Dennis Sweeney, our third-generation funeral director, at (617) 773-2728. Our family has been helping South Shore residents with difficult decisions for over 70 years. It's A Tradition of Trust that stands as our guarantee.

McCauley To Open Income Tax Office

The speculation is over: Mayor Francis X. McCauley will become Frank McCauley, personal income tax preparer, after he leaves office Jan. 2. This week, McCauley announced he will open his own income tax office Jan. 15 in the Cooperative Bank Building, 1245 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

McCauley will help individuals file their personal income tax returns in a second floor office which he will lease. After the tax season, the mayor said he hopes to expand into municipal tax returns. He noted that many towns are now looking for help in the tax area.

This sideline is not new to McCauley. Before becoming mayor, he did part-time income tax work while in the banking business for 20 years. He discontinued the work after he was sworn-in eight years ago. This past fall, McCauley took an H & R Block Income Tax course to get himself up to date with any new laws or regulations.

McCauley, who will start out by himself, said he will consider expanding his business. "This allows me to be my own boss. I have the opportunity to build my own business and hopefully things will work out for us."

After the tax season, McCauley said he will consider joining an area real estate company as a broker. He passed the state real estate sales test after taking a course at Quincy Junior College this year.

Quincy Drive To Aid Panamanians Left Homeless By U.S. Invasion

The City of Quincy, which aided victims of Hurricane Hugo in Charleston, S.C., earlier this year, has set up a relief drive for Panamanian citizens.

Quincy fire stations are collecting clothing and non-perishable food for Panamanian citizens who were left homeless by last week's U.S. invasion.

Michael Preble, an unsuccessful candidate for School Committee this year, thought of the idea and contacted Civil Defense and Mayor Francis McCauley's office.

Preble said he has cousins living in Panama who work for the canal commission.

While speaking with them Christmas Eve, Preble learned that there are as many as 3,000 refugees in a soccer camp.

"They have no food, no water, nothing," he said. Preble said he is trying to secure a flight through the military so the goods can be delivered soon. For more information, call 471-9255.

At Farewell Press Conference McCauley Makes 9 Recommendations, Sheets Rejects 2

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Mayor Francis McCauley held his last press conference Tuesday, taking time to reflect on his administration's accomplishments while making nine recommendations to his successor, Mayor-elect James Sheets.

The conference was held at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. Members of the local press corps who covered McCauley during his eight years in office attended.

The mayor said the press were very fair to him, adding he has had "an excellent rapport with them."

After briefly reviewing his accomplishments and giving a progress report, McCauley announced nine recommendations to Sheets who will be sworn in next Tuesday.

McCauley, who admitted several were "controversial," presented the recommendations to Sheets during a meeting last week.

Commenting on the recommendations, Sheets dismissed two of them while adding that the others will receive consideration.

Already, Sheets has said he will not follow the mayor's advice regarding the Wollaston Fire Station and the chief of police's position.

McCauley recommended the Wollaston Fire Station close and the rest of the department be reorganized around seven remaining stations. However, Sheets, who campaigned against the closing, said the station will stay open.

"Traditionally, I have been opposed to closing the Wollaston Fire Station. I haven't changed my mind on that. At this point in time, that will stay open."

McCauley also suggested removing the police chief's position from Civil Service. He recommended making the position a mayoral appointment with a contractual arrangement of no less than three years and no more than five.

Explaining this recommendation, McCauley likened the chief's job to a department chairman. He also said the position is different from the fire chief's job since it's "more technical."

The mayor said the police chief deals with social problems and the chief's attitudes, whether liberal or conservative, should be in line with the mayor's philosophy.

"I don't think that's the case with the fire department," McCauley said.

Sheets said he prefers to leave the police chief's job in Civil Service and choose from within the Quincy Police Department.

As for a "Blue Ribbon" committee to make recommendations for controlling the costs and improving the disposition of the city's solid waste material, Sheets questioned whether it is necessary. "I think it can be done out of the commissioner of Public Works office," he said.

Regarding McCauley's other recommendations, Sheets said the following are options that he will consider:

- Adopting a sewer-user fee to cover the cost of operation of the sewer system as well as the MWRA sewer assessments.

- Negotiating an increase in the employees share of the health insurance premium costs from 25 to 40 percent. McCauley said this plan would have saved the city more than $3 million this fiscal year.

- Exploring the possibility of affiliating Quincy Hospital with one of the large hospitals in the greater Boston area.

As for these suggestions, Sheets had no comment because he has not given them much thought:

- Taking action to establish four-year terms of office for mayor and city council.

- Negotiating a one-year wage and fringe benefit freeze with all employee unions.

- Initiating plans to consolidate the city's three high schools.

As a whole, the mayor-elect said, McCauley's suggestions are geared toward helping the city withstand lean financial times.

In his review, McCauley noted the successes of his administration. He mentioned that under a strict tax collection policy, $8.5 million in delinquent taxes and interest have been collected.

Sheets Inaugural Jan. 2 At Vo-Tech Gym

Residents of Quincy are invited to attend the inauguration of James A. Sheets as the 31st mayor of Quincy Tuesday, Jan. 2 at 10 a.m. in the Munroe MacLean Gymnasium, Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

He will succeed Mayor Francis X. McCauley who is stepping down after eight years in office, the second longest tenure of any mayor in the city's 101-year history.

Besides Sheets, the City Council and School Committee members will be sworn into office by City Clerk John Gillis.

Sheets will deliver his Inaugural Address after he is sworn-in.

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro is expected to be unanimously elected city council president. School Committee member Frank Santoro is expected to become the new vice-chairman of the school committee.

The Inaugural reception will be held Tuesday, Jan. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the George F. Bryan Post, Broad St., Quincy.

Winter Safety Tips For Youngsters

Quincy Police Chief Francis Finn issues the following safety tips for youngsters during the winter months and especially during school vacation week:

- Never play or walk on frozen water.
- Never take short cuts over frozen ponds.
- Always go pond skating accompanied by an adult.
- Never go sledding in the street; use a local park or a backyard.

- Don't play in snowdrifts on the side of the road. You may slide into the street and be struck by a motor vehicle.
- Never throw snowballs at cars, trucks, or buses; you may cause a serious accident or harm the operator and passengers in the vehicle.
- Never skidhop! Skid-hopping is a very dangerous game.
- If it is necessary to walk in the street, walk facing the oncoming traffic.

- Use caution when crossing the streets in the winter. Due to packed snow and ice, vehicles are unable to stop as quickly as you might think.

all parents should share the above safety tips with their children so that the children will have a safer winter and a happier school vacation week.

Saturday Deadline For 'Citizen Of Year'

There is still time to submit nominations for The Quincy Sun's fifth annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

Deadline for nomination is Saturday, Dec. 30. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate a person they feel is the most deserving.

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service.

Sun publisher Henry Bosworth emphasizes this is not a popularity contest. A person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal opportunity of being named the recipient.

After nominations close Dec. 30, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process is on Page... of this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

See Ballot Below

Citizen of the Year Award
The Quincy Sun
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169

Nominations should be postmarked no later than Dec. 30.

Ballots can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 30.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter detailing the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely of his or her time to a worthy cause.

The first winner was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of the Quincy Civil Defense and auxiliary police chief. He was selected from 31 nominees.

The second recipient was Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long time community volunteer. She was chosen from 43 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch, who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades. Mr. Koch, who died in August, 1987 was selected from 35 nominees.

Last year, Martin C. Finnegan, Quincy public school athletic director, received the award for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and community adults to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems. He was chosen from 33 nominees.

The winner is honored at a reception hosted by The Sun at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center.

Those nominated in the past are eligible to be nominated again this year.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 30.

The winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun in January.

Here is your opportunity to voice your opinion as to who deserves to be The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1989.

Mayoral Election, New Facilities Highlight Year

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

One of the longest city election campaigns, numerous dedications and both good and bad fiscal news marked 1989 in Quincy.

The race to succeed Mayor Francis X. McCauley was off to a quick start in January after the mayor announced he would not seek a fifth term. Within weeks of his decision, four major contenders had thrown their hats in the ring: political veterans James Sheets, Stephen McGrath, Joseph LaRia and first-time candidate, businessman Peter O'Connell.

The field was narrowed to two candidates in September when Sheets, a 16-year ward councillor, and O'Connell finished first and second respectively in the preliminary. Sheets, who built a strong grass-roots following, won the final election in November by taking 29 out of 30 precincts.

Among the major projects completed were the Quincy Police Station, Quincy Animal Shelter and Quincy Hospital. The latter facility was named after McCauley in a surprise announcement during an outdoor dedication ceremony.

In addition, the entire city was recognized by the state for its positive response in welcoming immigrants and refugees. Boston Mayor Ray Flynn, during a visit here, called the city's welcoming effort one of its finest accomplishments.

Fiscally, Quincy had its ups and downs. On positive notes, the city realized an $8.2 million surplus, the fourth year in a row a major surplus was posted.

The city also began a city-wide paper recycling program in May which, according to officials, could save up to $100,000 in hauling and disposal costs the first year.

However, the strong fiscal fabric began to unravel after the state reduced the city's local aid by $3.4 million in July. As a result, McCauley earmarked the surplus for a projected $7.3 million deficit in 1990.

Quincy City Hospital, which was renamed Quincy Hospital, also fell on hard fiscal times. Facing a $4 million deficit, the hospital was forced to lay off 200 employees.

By year's end, the fiscal news was worse than expected: a $13.5 million shortfall in FY 1991. However, Mayor-elect James Sheets was confident he could balance the budget.

The locations of the MWRA's permanent sludge facility and headquarters made headlines throughout 1989. By the end of the year, Quincy was assured of the sludge facility but a plan to locate the authority here was on the back burner because of the state's fiscal woes.

On a sad note, the city lost several prominent citizens, including Christopher Kennedy, a school committeeman for 14 years, and Forrest I. Neal Jr., 79, a civic and business leader.

Here's a look at the highlights of 1989:

January

With one final word—"sayonara"—Mayor Francis X. McCauley concluded his stunning mid-term address by announcing he would not seek a fifth term as mayor this year.

McCauley, who went through "an awful lot of thought, soul searching and discussion with family and friends, political supporters as well as some political opponents," before reaching his decision, said, "I have decided not to seek a fifth term of the office of Mayor, but to serve out the last year of my fourth term and then return to private life."

The mayor made his announcement during his mid-term address before a full City Council Chamber on the 100th anniversary of Quincy being a city.

McCauley, who prides himself on a knowledge of history, is the only resident ever to be elected to the city's four elective positions: ward councillor, councillor-at-large, school committee and mayor.

"Politics has been a very interesting, challenging, rewarding and sometimes frustrating business," the mayor said. "I think I can speak for all of the elected officials here when I say politics gets in your blood.

"But sooner or later, the time comes in every politician's life when he or she must make the decision to step down, to leave the scene to other people."

"Sayonara."

Buffalo sighted in Quincy.

The Boston
Five

If you take a trip down Hancock Street through Quincy Center, you're bound to see something quite remarkable. A buffalo on the outside of the new Presidents Place. And inside, you'll find the new branch of The Boston Five.

You can come by and see what it's all about at our Grand Opening beginning Saturday, December 2. There will be plenty of free refreshments. A drawing for a $500 savings account. All of our professional staff. And lots of information about a wide range of services - from checking and savings accounts to CD's and money market accounts.

And if you miss the grand opening, stop by anytime. Because this buffalo is in Quincy to stay.

Fear Of Poisons Not Unreasonable

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Clean Harbors has accused the opponents of their toxic waste incinerator plan of a fear campaign based on misinformation and reckless allegations.

Fact: Dioxins are produced during incineration. The U.S. EPA has stated that dioxin is a powerful carcinogen and EPA considers any level as posing a degree of risk.

Fact: Emissions may affect people living hundreds of miles from the incinerator. EPA has stated some compounds emitted by incinerators may have atmospheric lifetimes of weeks or more during summer and fall and may be dispersed over the hemisphere.

Fact: EPA research shows that transformation products can be more potent mutagens or carcinogens than the original emissions.

Fact: R. Cook, Vice-Chairman of Toxic Substance Control for Michigan stated that heavy metals are not destroyed by incineration and it is the smallest particles which cause the most danger because they can be inhaled deep into the lungs.

Fact: EPA has warned that human health risks from incineration of carcinogenic heavy metals may be significant.

Fact: EPA has stated as recently as 1987 that the deficiency in background knowledge regarding incineration is so great that not even risk assumptions are possible.

I cannot consider a campaign against siting a toxic waste incinerator in the already beleaguered Fore River Basin a campaign of fear when there is a great deal of information available to warrant a cautious approach to this issue. Certain types of "fear" are what a prudent person exercises in concern for his own life — a wise golfer knows enough "fear" to leave the course when a lightning storm begins. This same kind of fear has caused thousands of individuals to stop smoking cigarettes. Let us not confuse fear with plain old common sense, they are not the same thing. Without a degree of caution and healthy fear we would take risks that are foolish and life threatening. Fear of poisons is not unreasonable.

CAN YOU BE LIABLE FOR MORE THAN YOU CAN POSSIBLY AFFORD?

The law provides that anyone who causes injury to another or damage to his property through his own or his agents' negligence may be liable for any resulting damages.

With the liability damage climate today favoring larger awards, it's only common sense to get the most complete liability package you can afford, tailored to your individual needs, in order to fully protect your assets.

There is such an array of liability policies available today that you are assured to find one that fits your situation. Here are some examples of the range covered:

Manufacturers and Contractors Liability; Contractual Liability

Owners, Landlords, or Tenants Liability.
Products Liability; Sports Liability.
Residence, Private Estate and Farm Liability.
Such specific mechanical coverage as Elevator and other equipment insurance.

We all try to exercise reasonable care in conducting the affairs of our everyday life. If, however, there comes a time when accidents occur we become thankful that we have the help and protection of a comprehensive liability policy.

If He Had His Life To Live Over

(An old friend and former newspaper colleague
Ed Spargo, of Sherman St.,
Wollaston, who is a young 82, takes over as guest columnist today with appropriate reflections for this time of year on the subject: "If I Had My Life To Live Over." His thoughts should give us all something to think about as the New Year — new decade — and century approach).

SPARGO

By ED SPARGO

Did you ever stop to think how you would do things differently ... if you had another chance and had your life to live over, as the old refrain goes?

Well, in my case if you'll permit me to project some purely personal perceptions, I'd make it a point to listen more ... and talk less, given a second chance. Will wonders never cease!! Because, as my astute "bride" Kae is tired of reminding me (obviously unsuccessfully): "Nobody ever learns anything while talking. But the good listener does." Touche!

And given another "shot" at life, I would go to bed when sick, instead of worrying that the Earth would fall on its axis, or go into a holding pattern if I missed work — for just one day. And, another thing while I'm up on the soapbox: Let's all remember to enjoy life to the full, for, as talkmaster Jerry Williams philosophizes, "This is not a dress rehearsal; it's the real thing. For, remember, we'll be a long time dead."

As if it were yesterday, I can still hear our work-ethic, diligent Dad, newspaper publisher Will Spargo, who toiled day and night to put food on the table for our family of 11 and died suddenly when only 47 — reminding us kids to "Clean your plates and don't waste food, or there'll be no dessert." Plain as that ... as Dad deplored the plight of people in far-away countries who were raggedy and starving — the Armenians and Chinese in particular. That was way back in the Dinosaur Days of 1918 when, thank the Lord, the boys came marching home from war. When we were still wet-behind-the-ears tykes, but that waste-not, want-not clarion call got us in shape for the Great Depression when we ate for ourselves. And were pretty darn grateful for small favors. In those unforgettable times, you couldn't (or buy) a job for love nor money.

Most of us have been chronic procrastinators as we've journeyed through life with the philosophy: "When I put the last kid through college." "When I get a promotion." "When we have paid off the mortgage." "When I reach the age of retirement ... I will live happily ever after."

Always the elusive WHEN — as we keep putting things off. Sooner or later we must realize, once and for all, that the true joy of life is to "Relish the moment" each and every day. It isn't the burdens of today that drive men stark, raving mad. It is the regrets over yesterday and the fear of tomorrow. Thus, regret and fear are twin thieves that rob us of today.

The realization that "Life is short," makes it absolutely essential that we savor and appreciate each and every day. It's a cliché, yes, but today IS the first day of the rest of our lives. So, we've got to make every day count. Human nature being what it is, most people are content to amble along as if life were a mindless continuum. It isn't!!

So, why don't we vow to watch more sunsets and laugh more and cry less? That would be a good beginning of our renaissance — for life must be lived as we go along and, if we have a scintilla of common sense, we will DO IT TODAY! and not procrastinate when it comes to fulfilling our fondest hopes and dreams.

And, as a grim reminder: Let's all remember that Detroit isn't the only place where the Maker can recall his product at a moment's notice. In other words: There's no such thing as SOME DAY — there's only NOW!!

At my antiquated age and semi-senile, I realize I'm living on "borrowed time" — and have been for almost a decade, inasmuch as the average lifespan for most males is about 72 years.

So, despite the fact that hope still springs eternal with me, I'm enough of a realist and fatalist that I no longer buy GREEN bananas, or start any CONTINUED stories. No, I'm certainly not a pessimist and I thank the mystical powers-that-be that, though at times I may not have both oars in the water, I still retain enough faculties to get by, and to still have a zest for, and savor, for each and every precious day. For every day is truly a GIFT, particularly for those of us in the so-called "Golden Age" bracket.

Again, dear reader, if you've had the patience to put up with my pathetic prose, I must apologize for a strictly personal appeal for our late and only son — IF WE HAD OUR LIVES TO LIVE OVER ...

If it isn't too much to ask, Lord, please give our beloved, innocent, handicapped son Billy, who never harmed a soul in his 38 years, a better chance to live and love and laugh — and play Little League baseball — if there's a NEXT TIME. Instead of freezing to death in a horrible accident on Christmas Day, 1974, at a state school for the handicapped. Dear Billy was lost because he was mute from birth and thus unable to cry out for help when tragedy struck. No one ever said that life was fair, but is it too much to ask, Lord, that Billy be dealt a kinder, gentler fate — if he had his life to live over. We're devastated to think that Billy must have wondered where Mother and Dad and sister Nancy were when life was ebbing away, for we were usually at his side in time of need. If only we could have known ...

While there's no use in crying over misfortune or tragedy, it's useful for all in the Geritol set to realize that we can always take advantage of new opportunities. Just as Kae and I do on a regular basis by frequenting Sing-a-longs where we've met the friendliest folks imaginable and share with them a love of the "Golden Oldies" that you, your parents and grandparents sang, danced to and sometimes romanced to in days of yore.

We can't bring back the so-called Good Old Days but, sure as shooting, we can help perpetuate memorable music with meaningful lyrics. And please don't remind me that we, too, like the kids who dote on Rock-and-roll, derived pleasure from kooky tunes like "Mairzy Doats," "Three Little Fishies" and "Hut Sut Ralston on the Rivula." The Sing-a-longs I've alluded to are at the restored railroad station, the Depot, in North Abington; Center Stage in Quincy Square; Bobby Hackett's in Pembroke; Fireside Lounge in Dedham; The Hollow in Quincy and a host of others.

As I was saying before I got "off the track," opportunities abound for those of us in our Golden years, if only we are sufficiently motivated to take advantage of them. And, since "It's never too late," we can frequently learn a great deal from people who have already "been there." With that sensible credo in mind, may I offer these words of wisdom, penned in 1975 by an 85-years-young sentimental soul named Nadine Starr:

IF I HAD MY LIFE TO LIVE OVER ...

I'd dare to make more mistakes next time ...
I would relax and I would limber up.
I would be less worried than I have been this trip and I would take fewer things and people seriously, especially myself.
I would take more chances and definitely more trips.
I would climb more mountains and swim more rivers.
I would eat more ice cream — and fewer beans.
I would, perhaps, have more ACTUAL troubles, but fewer IMAGINARY ones.
For, you see, I'm one of that vast army of people who live sensibly and sanely, hour after hour, day after day.
Oh, I've had my share of memorable moments, but if I had it to do all over again, you bet your life I'd enjoy more of them.
In fact, I'd try to have nothing else ... just memorable moments, one after another — instead of living so many years ahead of each day. For, I've been one of those timid souls who never goes anywhere without a hot water bottle, a thermometer, a raincoat, an umbrella and a parachute. But if I had it to do all over again, I would travel much lighter than on my first trip.

If, indeed, I had my life to live over, I would start out barefoot.
Just as we did in the "Barefoot Days" when we were kids — earlier in the spring, and stay that way later in the fall.

I would go to more dances, I would ride more merry-go-rounds,

I would pick more flowers (and share them) and, of utmost importance,

I would stop more often in the pell-mell journey through life to smell those flowers — and lend a helping hand when needed.

All of these I would do — IF I HAD MY LIFE TO LIVE OVER!

Council Protests MWRA Squantum Land Acquisition

appropriation of between $25,000 and $30,000 for an outside study of the Quincy Fire Department.

The first week of the new year marked the 100th anniversary of Quincy as a city. To commemorate the anniversary, a special, 36-page supplement titled "Quincy Centennial--100 Years A City" was published in the Jan. 5th issue of The Quincy Sun in association with the anniversary committee.

The reality of a new Quincy Lodge of Elks home took a big step forward after the City Council unanimously approved a $1.2 million facility to be built on a nine and a half acre site on Quarry St. in West Quincy.

A public hearing was called by Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley after the MDC announced it would be taking a 45-acre section of land in Squantum with fiscal aid by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority.

Nutley, whose ward the land is located in, and several other city councillors, said they wanted an explanation as to why Quincy officials were not given proper notice of the deal.

The MDC said it would acquire the land, owned by Boston Edison, by eminent domain. Located between the Jordan Marsh warehouse and Marina Bay, the MDC planned to convert the property into a waterfront park. The MDC planned to purchase 10 of the 45 acres with $3.2 million from the MWRA. The agency hoped to acquire the other 35 acres for $6.5 million by July 1.

For supplying the revenue, the MWRA would get temporary use of the 10 acres and construct a ferry terminal consisting of a pier and parking lot. The terminal would allow between 600 and 800 workers to board boats to Deer Island where the MWRA will build a regional sewage treatment plant in the 1990s.

The project would be part of the Boston Harbor clean up.

Once the clean up project was completed, all the land would return to the MDC and be converted into a park.

Several city councillors expressed dissatisfaction with the deal saying it lacks community input. One concern raised by the councillors was the potential impact on traffic in the area.

A multi-family development project to be built in South Quincy with the condition that the builder would give $200,000 towards a community center, received City Council approval.

Ten people were driven out and 15 left homeless after a four-alarm fire destroyed a boarding house at 180 Monroe Rd. in Quincy Center, causing an estimated $150,000 damage. The blaze began when an old couch on the outside porch caught fire.

An off duty firefighter, Gary Smyth, who was driving by the home at the time of the blaze, aided the occupants in trying to put out the fire. He also awakened one resident who was asleep.

Mary Collins of Quincy was sworn into a four year term as Norfolk County Commissioner by Mayor Francis McCauley and Councillor Patricia Toland, becoming the first woman ever to serve as a Norfolk County Commissioner.

KASHA, a lovable Cockapoo-cross dying of cancer, was featured in The Quincy Sun in February. An "employee" at Flowers by Helen, Kasha became known for her charitable duties which included visiting patients at the Long Island Hospital. Kasha succumbed to her illness in October.

A number of events, including several seminars and a visit by Cardinal Bernard Law, marked "Human Rights Awareness Week" in Quincy.

"I am delighted that we finally have been accepted," said Marty Finnegan, athletic director of Quincy Public Schools, after it was announced Quincy and North Quincy had been accepted by the Old Colony League in all sports, effective 1990-91 season.

The two schools, the smallest in the Suburban League, had sought acceptance to the OLC for three years.

Finnegan, who was instrumental in getting Quincy accepted, was named The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1988 for another of his endeavors: Project

Blue Hills Possible Site For United Nations

Quincy was marshalling its forces in an attempt to have the United Nations Organization build its permanent headquarters on a 25 square mile tract in the Blue Hills.

A UNO fact-finding committee was due in Boston in mid-January to examine sites and the Blue Hills location was expected to get a boost from Gov. Maurice Tobin.

"It is significant that the committee is committed to spending five whole days viewing sites around Greater Boston," said Russell W. Frey, secretary of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

Quincy people who were to meet with the UNO committee included Mayor Charles A. Ross, Council President Christian A. Burkhard, Rep. Avery W. Gilkerson (R-Quincy) and Frey.

NEW YEAR'S REVELS

Quincy revellers spent New Year's Eve at the following local night spots.

The J and J, 80 Copeland St., West Quincy, where Phyllis entertained on her Rippling Accordion with Johnny and Mario, $2.50 per person.

The Anchor Inn on Wollaston Boulevard, with dancing to Val Perry's orchestra; and the newly renovated AlpineCafe, 33 Independence Ave., South Quincy, where Johnny and Phyllis were performing.

The Roadside Cafe, 619 Washington St., Quincy Point, with Art Bossy and his Rhythm Ramblers; and the Knotty Pine Room of Walsh's Cafe, 6 Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs, George Able's Orchestra.

And there was the midnight show at the strand: "The Dolly Sisters," starring Betty Grable, John Payne and June Haver; and "The Spider," with Richard Conte and Faye Marlowe.

Chutney Cheese Ball For New Year's Day

Since our daughter Suzie's return from Germany this past year, and with three babies around the house, my recipes have taken a "back seat." However, this past week we were having a few guests in and Sue offered to make a delicacy for me, one which she prepared last New Year's Day in Germany.

CHUTNEY CHEESE BALL
One 8 oz package cream cheese
8 oz shredded cheddar cheese
¼ tsp curry powder
¼ cup sherry wine dash tabasco sauce
¼ tsp. garlic powder

TOPPING
a couple sticks of scallions (cut in tiny bits)
a half of a 9 oz. jar of Chutney

Let cheese stay at room temperature for a couple of hours. Then mix the cheeses together. Add all other ingredients (except the topping) and blend together. Grease a bowl and fill with the cheese mixture patting the top until flat. Refrigerate for at least six hours.

(Sue left hers overnight). The next day or at the end of those six hours, dip the bottom of the bowl in hot water and remove the cheese. Turn upside down and place on a pretty serving dish. Front the top as you would a cake with the chutney. Then place the scallions all around. It looks quite festive arranged with an array of crackers.

Happy New Year!!

Mystery Ride For Emblem Club Jan. 10

The Quincy Emblem Club will meet Wednesday, Jan. 10, at 6:30 p.m. at the Quincy Lodge of Elks, East Squantum St., North Quincy. Louise Ficarra will preside. A nominating committee will be elected.

A mystery ride and dinner will follow the meeting. Members interested are asked to make reservations with Mary Gibbons, chairman.

2 Residents On J & W

Honor Roll

Two Quincy students at Johnson & Wales University, Providence, Rhode Island, have been named to the Dean's List for the fall trimester.

They are Maria Barber of 56 R Newcomb St., majoring in baking and pastry arts; and Justine Consolazio of 162 Kendrick Ave., Quincy.

WITH WARM WISHES-- Central Middle School students conducted a clothing drive for less fortunate children over the holiday season. Students held bottle drives, raffles, coin drops and bake sales and used the proceeds to purchase winter clothing for donations. Standing are Principal Louis DiMartino and Jodi Mackie. Kneeling from left, are Annie Bergen, Matt Orlando and Joe Cassetta.

Central Student Senate 'Adopts' 6 Families

The Student Senate at the Central Middle School has adopted six Quincy families as their December Community Project.

Through bake sales, silent auctions, can and bottle drives, a zinnerbread house raffle, and a fill-the-gallon-with pennies contest, students hope to raise $1,000 for the project.

Students have purchased new clothing for the children of the families and more shopping trips will be made to purchase clothing for other family members.

The shopping trips were supervised by staff members, Patricia Drew, Camile Courtney and Linda Lew-Hanson.

Student Senate officers are:

Mayor, John McCarthy, Deputy Mayor, Christopher Swanton, Treasurer, Jerwyn Austria, and Secretary, Robert Picciano. There are 22 representatives of the senate as well.

School Principal Louis DiMartino and Head Counselor Mary Catherine Iannoni serve as advisors to the group.

Mothers Cooperative Lecture At Beechwood

"I Do Exist, Don't I?" is the subject of a lecture co-sponsored by the Quincy Mothers Cooperative and Beechwood Community Life Center.

The Jan. 16 lecture will be held at 7 p.m. at Beechwood Community Life Center. Arlene Ford-Proverb, parent, counselor, educator and founder of the "Just for Mom" program, will discuss the changes in a woman's life when she becomes a wife and mother. She will suggest ways to maintain a balance so neither family nor mom is short-changed.

More information may be obtained by calling 471-5712.

Registry Extends Hours

Due to the anticipated high volume of registration business, all Registry of Motor Vehicles offices statewide will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Dec. 29 and Jan. 2.

MRS. ROBERT P. SAWYER
(Miller Studio)

Donna Principato Married To Robert Sawyer

Donna M. Principato, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Principato of Wollaston, was married to Robert P. Sawyer recently at the Church of St. Ignatius of Loyala of Chestnut Hill.

Mr. Sawyer is the son of Mrs. Ruth E. Sawyer of Albany, N.Y. and the late Harold O. Sawyer.

Deacon Pat Guerrini officiated at the double ring ceremony while Rev. Joseph E. O'Connor, S.J. was the celebrant.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Catherine Principato, her sister, as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mary Brennan, Sally Grace, Jane Howley and Laura Tempesta. Laura Snebold was the flower girl.

David Sawyer was best man for his brother. Ushers were Christopher Sawyer and Stephen Sawyer, brothers of the bridegroom, and Paul Principato, a brother of the bride.

A reception was held at the Milton Hoosic Club.

After a wedding trip to St. Maarten and St. Bart, the couple are living in Canton.

The bride, a graduate of Quincy Hospital School of Nursing, received bachelor's and master's degrees in psychiatric nursing, magna cum laude, from Boston College. She is the director of emergency psychiatric services at Carney Hospital in Dorchester, and maintains a private psychotherapy practice in Milton.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnical Institute in Troy, N.Y. is employed in the research and technology department of Prime Computer, Inc., Framingham as a manager of LSI component engineering.

MR. and MRS. THOMAS LESTER

Kathleen Mulvey Wed To Thomas Lester

Kathleen M. Mulvey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mulvey, and Thomas M. Lester, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lester, all of Quincy, were married recently at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston.

The Rev. John Ahern and the Rev. Joseph Fallon officiated.

Christine Mulvey of Quincy, a sister of the bride, was her maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Ann Curran, Margaret McDonald, and Mary Mulvey, also the bride's sisters; Patty Matthews and Susan Lester, sisters of the bridegroom; Susan Goughan, Debbie McGinn and Colleen Horland, all of Quincy.

Flower girls were Mary Kate Curran and Tricia Curran, while Jamie Matthews was ring bearer. Patrick and Joseph Mulvey were readers.

Paul Lester of Quincy was best man for his brother. Ushers included Joseph Curran, the bride's brother-in-law; Kevin Mulvey, Michael Mulvey, Marty Mulvey, Joe Mulvey, Jim Mulvey, all brothers of the bride; Don Newcomb and Kevin Duff, all of Quincy.

A reception was held at the Sons of Italy Hall in Braintree.

Both bride and bridegroom were North Quincy High School graduates. The bride graduated also from Northeastern University and is a registered nurse at University hospital.

The bridegroom is employed by Pepsi Cola of Milton.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple are living in Quincy.

Effort To Stop Sludge Facility Falls Short

(Cont'd from Page 5)

Impact, an innovative program to train teachers and community adults to help youngsters deal with drug, alcohol and other problems.

As the "coordinator for Project Impact, Finnegan became The Sun's fourth recipient. He was selected from 32 other nominees made by Sun readers.

Quincy's mayoral candidate field began taking shape when businessman Peter F. O'Connell officially announced he was running, joining another declared candidate, former mayor and councillor Joseph LaRia.

Councillors Stephen McGrath and James Sheets would also join the race by announcing their candidacy in February.

Deaths during January included: Mary T. Miller, 75, a country-western musician; James H. Gallagher, 75, a retired Quincy firefighter; William E. Baker, 35, a baker for Dunkin Donuts in Quincy; Thomas E. Walker, 47, a victim of the Pan Am crash in Lockerbie, Scotland; Peter D. Bille, 74, retired MDC police captain; Frank C. Carullo, retired Quincy Police officer; Gerard M. Arroyo, 22, who fell in Swingle's Quarry; Donald V. Salvucci, 36, social studies chairman at Brockton High School; and Agnes E. Barry, 86, retired North Quincy High School teacher.

February

The month began with the pending vote by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority to locate a permanent sludge treatment plant at the Fore River Shipyard.

On the eve of that decision, city officials and residents rallied together in a last ditch effort in an attempt to prevent the plant from coming to Quincy.

But the rally held on the last day of January and attended by an estimated 1,000 people, was a vociferous exercise in futility when 15 hours later, the MWRA voted 10-1 to locate the facility at the shipyard in Quincy Point.

The lone vote was cast by Quincy's Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, the city's representative on the board. He, like many other city officials as well as residents, were strenuously opposed to the Quincy site for the facility.

MWRA Executive Director Paul Levy, who recommended the permanent sludge plant at the shipyard, did not attend the city's "last opportunity" public hearing held at the Quincy Vocational Technical High School gymnasium.

MWRA board members and Secretary of Environmental Affairs John DeVillars, who had also been invited, did not attend either.

Officials and residents reiterated their strong opposition, saying, among other things, that the shipyard site decision was prejudiced. Many Quincy citizens believed the shipyard had been selected for the sludge facility the day the authority bought the yard in 1987. Another concern was whether the city could handle the amount of sludge processed daily. The processing would consist of composting and pelletizing and there was some question as to what would happen if the treated sludge was allowed to accumulate at the site if the market for compost and pellets dried up.

The mayoral field doubled in a matter of two weeks when city councillors Stephen McGrath and James Sheets announced they would seek the office being vacated by McCauley who last month said he would not seek reelection.

The life and times of Kasha, a most remarkable dog, were reported on by The Quincy Sun and its cable TV station, Channel 26 making the dog a canine celebrity in the city.

The nine-year-old Cockapoo a cross who holds down a full-time "job" at Flowers by

She has also delivered baked goods to patients during the holidays, complete with a scaled down Santa Claus hat and beard.

Kasha, who has led a happier life than many humans, was dying of cancer. For her remarkable behavior, she was presented the Quincy Animal League's "Golden Paw" award, usually reserved for humans. Her story touched the hearts of many residents.

A proposal to bring a state-mandated mobile methadone clinic to Quincy captured the concern of Mayor McCauley who advised the state officials behind the plan to present their proposal to the City Council.

After meeting with the officials, McCauley said he wanted them to meet with the Council, adding that he would not take any action until he knew the council's reaction to the plan.

A new policy regarding after-wedding parties was adopted by the city's License Board. The new policy stipulates that a police officer at an establishment be on duty at least one half hour before the event begins until the end of the party.

Also, the police detail is now mandatory, regardless of whether there be music or dancing as in other detail requirements.

Furthermore, the agreement states that the establishment, and not the police officer and the city, are responsible for the sobriety of the patrons entering the facility, and their sobriety while they are in the hall. The "last drink served" is also the responsibility of the establishment.

Five state representatives including three from Quincy, urged the mayor to join them and the EPA to form an alliance "demanding that the MWRA refrain from its Quincy sludge operation until an acceptable backup method to dispose of excess material has been established.

The delegation, which included Quincy representatives Robert Cerasoli, Arthur Stephen Tobin and Michael Morrissey also asked the mayor to join them in "persuading the MWRA to locate its office headquarters within the former General Dynamics Shipyard site in Quincy.

Saying he "had a change in heart," Deputy Fire Chief Paul E. O'Connell, who last June qualified for the position of fire chief but turned it down, noticed Mayor McCauley he wanted to be considered for the position.

The job was being held by Thomas Gorman, who was appointed acting chief by the Mayor last summer after O'Connell told McCauley he could not accept the job because he felt he was too young.

A dry winter and below average precipitation the past four years forced the MDC and MWRA to jointly seek a water declaration for the communities served by the Quabbin Reservoir, which includes Quincy.

The reservoir, which provides water to 2.5 million people in 44 communities, had dropped to its lowest level in 16 years because of lack of snow and rain this winter.

While wishing for precipitation to replenish the reservoir, officials were also warning that unless a significant amount of moisture falls, Quabbin communities such as Quincy could face a serious drought this summer.

City Clerk John Gillis was presented the James R. McIntyre Good Scout Award by the Massasoit Campers Association for "always willing to lend a helping hand to those in need."

Two other awards were presented during the ceremony Harold Crowley received the Buell Fuller award by his twin brother, John Fuller; and John Hurney received the Massasoit Campers Award.

Three Quincy High School seniors signed their letters of intent during a ceremony held in the school's Pride Room. Quarterback Chris Noble, who passed for 22 touchdowns last season, signed on to a four-year scholarship to the University of New Hampshire while two members of the school's state volleyball championship team, Amy Guidice and Nancy Laiten signed their letters.

Guidice is attending Drexel

University and Laiten is attending Northeastern University.

The 16th annual Kiwanis International Hockey Tournament held at the Quincy Youth Arena, attracting a field of 52 teams from Eastern Massachusetts, New England, other states as well as Canada.

Deaths during February included: Mabel "Mae" Purpura, 78, a community volunteer; Catherine M. Kane, 52, co-owner of Kane's Food and Spirits Restaurant in Quincy; Joseph P. Guilfoyle, 86, worked on atomic bomb project; Kenneth Lavers, 74, past commodore of the Quincy Yacht Club; Robert L. Blair, bank executive, civic leader; Kathryn E. Sullivan, 84, first woman assistant court clerk; John E. Muldowney, 67, assistant coach at North Quincy High School.

March

The Police Department found itself facing a shortfall of $250,000 in its personal services budget, prompting criticism from the union, silence from the chief and the mayor's refusal to fund the deficit.

To deal with the deficit, Chief Francis Finn cut into the number of police officers on the city streets. Some cruiser and walking beats went unfilled instead of being covered by officers on overtime.

Stressing the city must finish FY 1989 in the best fiscal shape possible, the mayor said he would not fund the shortfall. "We have to build up our free cash," McCauley said, adding that the city faces a potential deficit of $6 million next year largely in part because of escalating sewer, water and rubbish costs.

Finn told concerned councillors that a public safety crisis did not exist then but added one looms in the future.

The mayor agreed, "Public safety isn't at risk. Serious crime has gone down dramatically in recent years. I don't believe the safety of our citizens is in jeopardy," he said.

To help reduce the number of false identification cards in the city, The Quincy License Board made a motion to suggest to the Registry of Motor Vehicles and to the Alcoholic Beverage Commis-

The New Year Sermon Topic At Covenant Congregational

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, will preach on the spiritual significance of a new year.

The choir will be directed and accompanied on the organ by Richard Smith, Minister of Music.

Sunday School, with classes for ages nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, a nursery is available for children age five and under. The attendant will be Gitta Dano.

Immediately following the service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. The hostesses for the month of December are Esther McCarthy and Astrid Somontes.

Activities for the week include the regularly scheduled choir rehearsal on Wednesday at 7 p.m. and a New Year's Eve all church potluck supper at 5 p.m.

Families are asked to bring a casserole, dessert and their own utensils. After supper there will be games.

Coming events are: Jan. 7-12 prayer week, Jan. 11 senior adult luncheon and program, Jan. 15-16 winter retreat at Pilgrim Pines in New Hampshire, Jan. 20 all church work day and Jan. 28 the annual meeting.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

St. Coletta Student Designs Harold's Christmas Cards

A nativity scene designed by a student from St. Coletta's School in Braintree will, for the 11th consecutive year, be Senator Paul D. Harold's official Christmas card.

Barbara Batts, winner of the Christmas card contest judged by St. Coletta's School faculty, will receive a $50. Savings Bond as a prize for her winning entry.

"We like to use the student's idea for the annual Christmas cards instead of the usual etching of the State House because, after all, Christmas is for children," Senator Harold said.

Harold will hold an appreciation party on Dec. 21 for students at the school.

Each student who participated in the contest will receive a special recognition certificate.

Officials, Businessmen Urge MWRA To Locate In Quincy

sion that applicants for liquor identification cards be accompanied by a notarized letter from a parent or guardian.

The board stated that a notarized letter was in order because anything notarized has a number on it which can be traced easily to double check for authenticity. It would be difficult for minors to obtain liquor ID cards this way, the board noted.

Approximately 100 residents and eight city councilors went on record in favor of a revised local preference hiring bill at a public hearing in city hall.

The revised ordinance called for Quincy residents to be hired for construction projects wholly or partially funded by the city on a three to one basis. It would apply to projects costing at least $250,000.

The lone councillor to speak against the bill was Timothy Cahill. Cahill, who said he is not anti-business or anti-worker, said he is against the concept of protectionism. "I don't think it's part of what made this country great," he said.

The original bill was vetoed by Mayor McCauley in October, 1988, because he said it was restrictive and unconstitutional.

It is the state's intent to reach an accord with the city before a mobile methadone clinic is allowed to operate in Quincy, two officials connected with the proposal told the city council.

During a discussion on the proposal, David Mulligan of the state's Division of Alcoholism and Drug Rehabilitation said "Quincy does have choice" whether or not the van operates in the city.

City Solicitor Joseph "Jay" MacRitchie was appointed to the MWRA Board of Directors as Quincy's representative by Gov. Michael Dukakis, replacing Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson.

Martin C. (Marty) Finnegan, coordinator of Project Impact, an innovative program designed to help youngsters deal with drugs, alcohol and other problems, was honored as the 1988 Quincy Sun City of the Year.

The award was presented at a reception at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center attended by more than 100 persons, including family members, city officials and present and past colleagues in the Quincy school system.

Sun Publisher Henry Bosworth presented the award to Finnegan, a clock plaque with the inscription "for his vision and dedication to freeing our youth from drug and alcohol abuse through Project Impact."

A two-alarm fire in a six-unit Adams Shore apartment building forced 14 people to the street and caused an estimated $100,000 in damage.

Mayor McCauley announced a city-wide paper recycling program would begin on May 1 and save the city an estimated $100,000 in rubbish hauling costs the first year.

The program called for the recycling of newspaper and magazines and involved residents living in buildings with four or fewer units.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, one of the principal proponents of a recycling program in Quincy, was considering making the program mandatory. Councillors Cahill and Nutley went on record against any ordinance that would make the program mandatory.

Deputy Fire chief Paul O'Connell was sworn in as the city's new fire chief, becoming the fourth chief in the last seven years.

O'Connell, 38, succeeded Acting Fire Chief Thomas Gorman for the $63,012 annual position. He is one of the youngest fire chiefs in the city's history.

City officials and South Shore businessmen were urging the MWRA to locate its headquarters at the Fore River Shipyard in Quincy.

Students at Broadmeadows Middle Schools were busy drafting a proposal for the establishment of a shipbuilders museum at the Quincy shipyard.

Joseph Shea and Thomas Fabrizio announced their candidacies for Ward 4 councillor while Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan announced for re-election.

Boston Mayor Raymond

Flynn came to Quincy and urged local officials and residents to unite and to demand more state aid and less state spending from the state legislature.

Flynn, who had been visiting other cities and towns to speak on potential cuts in local aid, told Quincy officials that the State House must know how the residents feel on the issue. Unless they unite, the legislature will continue to make decisions "in a vacuum" said the mayor.

The new Quincy Junior College Library was named in honor for School Committee member Frank Anselmo, a supporter of the college and education throughout Quincy.

Deaths during March included: Leo O'Brien, 67, a decorated World War II veteran; John T. Isbister, 51, who planned to run for mayor; Mary G. Golden, 88, co-owner of Golden Print Co.; George O. Mara, 63, retired Quincy firefighter; John S. Kent, 65, former president of Scott Williams Oil Co.; Louise Marella, 80, retired cake decorator; M. Edward Sullivan, past QYC commodore; Amy I. MacDonald, 86, former Bethany Shrine Priestess; William J. Meade, 91, who helped found the American Legion; Gregory P. Toland, 20, son of City Council President Patricia Toland; Richard T. Sweeney, Quincy funeral director; Robert "Bones" Greenhalgh, former basketball, baseball star; and Antoinette J. DeAngelis, 77, whose family owns the Houghs Neck carousel.

Parents Picket For More School Money

April

Upset over Mayor Francis X. McCauley's refusal for additional money in next year's school department budget, approximately 300 parents, teachers and students brought their message to city hall.

Chanting "Save Our Schools," the crowd picketed around McIntyre Mall from city hall to the walkway entrance to the MBTA station as the City Council was in session.

Many carried signs declaring such messages as "Education: You Can Pay Now or Pay Later" and "Mayor McCauley, Loosen Up."

After rallying for about one hour, the crowd walked into City Council Chambers to hear councillors react to the mayor's budget proposal of $117.8 million for fiscal 1990.

Parents, teachers and students, as well as some school committee officials, rallied in protest of the mayor's refusal for an additional $438,000 for schools.

McCauley, despite opposition from some school officials and parents, submitted a school budget of $38 million.

The entire city budget for fiscal 1990 was projected to be $6 million short next year. Recognizing this projected shortfall, councillors instructed the standing room only crowd to lobby their legislators for more local aid.

Councillor Stephen McGrath introduced a resolution urging the state legislation to increase the amount of local aid available to cities and towns "in order to promote the essential city services provided by local government in the areas of education, police and fire safety."

McCauley, who said departments must live within their means, said he would consider supplying additional money to the school system if it became available later in the year.

An innovative drug and alcohol abuse prevention strategy began in the Quincy public school system.

Project DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) in a combined effort between the school system and the police department which aims to curtail drug abuse in students by reaching them in the fifth grade, before peer pressure and drug opportunities can.

Municipalities such as Quincy are being subjected to level funded or reduced state aid and therefore reductions in essential services because of excessive state spending. Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn told city officials during a visit.

He said residents and officials should unite and lobby the city's legislators for more local aid.

Flynn also called Quincy's progress in addressing the influx of Asians as probably the city's finest hour.

CHANTING 'SAVE OUR SCHOOLS' and carrying home-made signs, approximately 300 parents, teachers and students rallied outside City Hall in April in pursuit of more than $38 million that Mayor McCauley had submitted for the school department in FY 1990.

The name of David Pugliesi was added to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Clock Tower at Marina Bay during a ceremony attended by family and Quincy Vietnam veterans.

Pugliesi, a Quincy resident and member of the 199th Infantry, was wounded during the Tet Offensive in 1969. Awarded the Purple Heart and the Bronze Star with Valor, he died in August, 1987.

Councillor-at-large Timothy Cahill announced his bid for re-election.

Mayor McCauley said he would wait and see whether the proposed permanent sludge treatment plant in Quincy was approved by the state Department of Environmental Affairs before deciding to fight the proposal in court.

A group of Quincy officials visited a sludge treatment facility in Georgia and returned with basically the same sentiment: turning sludge into compost cannot be tolerated in Quincy.

The officials inspected two facilities, one that pelletizes sludge into fertilizer and the other which converts the material into compost. Members generally agreed odors from the composting plant were unacceptable while the pelletizing facility operated with far less odor.

In honor of his outstanding years as a freshman goalie for the Harvard University hockey team, Thursday, April 20 was proclaimed "Chuckie Hughes Day in Quincy" by Mayor Francis McCauley.

Hughes had a solid year in net for the Crimson as Harvard won its first NCAA championship in any sport by defeating Minnesota 4-3 in overtime for the college hockey title. The Houghs Neck resident went 15-1 and was in goal in the championship game.

Calling for new leadership and a new set of priorities, former mayor Joseph LaRaia kicked off his campaign for the city's highest political office before 200 supporters at the Morrisette Legion Post.

In another announcement, former school teacher Ron Mariano announced his candidacy for Quincy School Committee.

During a visit to The Quincy Sun, Congressman Brian Donnelly said the clean up of Boston Harbor is not the largest environmental issue now and revenue for the project could be better spent on other concerns, such as the clean up of hazardous waste.

Donnelly also said Quincy should continue to fight the siting of two permanent sludge processing facilities at the Fore River Shipyard.

North Quincy's Joe Dudek was gearing up for another shot at the National Football League after he was invited to the New York Jets training camp in June.

An extensively refurbished three story boarding house located on the grounds of St.

John's Church was dedicated by Most Rev. Daniel A. Hart, auxiliary bishop of Boston.

The dedication ceremony, attended by several dozen clergy and officials, culminated the efforts by volunteers who donated their time and services to the affordable housing project.

Once opened, the home was to house eight mature women on an affordable housing basis.

Despite the heat, several Quincy runners, including Sen. Paul Harold, finished one of the traditional rites of spring in Massachusetts, the Boston Marathon.

Plans for the Summit View affordable housing complex, a 309-apartment unit to be built in West Quincy, were unveiled.

A youth escaped serious injury after he went through a plate glass window at Bernie's Modern Formal Shop on Hancock St. one Saturday afternoon.

According to proprietor Bernie Reisberg, the youth went through the large glass window after "fooling around" with two other youths. Reisberg said he was not surprised by the incident because the square was becoming a hangout for kids.

City-Wide Paper Recycling Program Begins

Quincy's political field got a bit more crowded after four more announcements:

Dennis Tardo and Susan Gallagher for councillor-at-large, Keith Westernman for Ward 4 and Sal Giaratani for school committee.

Police Chief Francis Finn reassigned nine specialty officers to the street as a way to prevent further cutbacks and to cover the department's summer vacation period.

In announcing the reassignments, Finn and Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney appealed to McCauley for more money to help cover a $250,000 shortfall in the police overtime account.

However, the mayor denied the request, stating "we've got to make the department heads live within their budgets."

Deaths during April included:

David Skoler, 74, co-owned family apparel business; John Iacovelli, 73, headed Adams Mansion maintenance; Alfred P. Masciovecchio, 70, past president of John Quincy Adams Club; Lawrence W. Ordway, 84, past president of Wollaston Lutheran Church; Ralph J. Andrews, 69, coached youth sports; Jennie A. Crowley, 101, received birthday citation from President Reagan; Daniel S. Whelan Sr. 61, coached youth baseball and Ronald J. Saad, 45, Quincy attorney.

May

The month began on a historic note as the city kicked off its paper recycling program at a ceremony attended by city officials outside city hall.

Mayor Francis McCauley and Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, surrounded by several dozen school children and many boxes and bags of soon to be recycled paper, said the program's success would depend on resident participation.

If 4,000 tons of newspaper and magazines were collected, the city would save $100,000 its first year.

On the first day, 17,240 pounds of paper were collected from residents in Houghs Neck and Germantown. The mayor was the first to pitch in, giving BFI workers three grocery bags full of newspaper.

Chretien, the city's recycling chairman, said he hoped to expand the program next year to include bottles, cans and plastics.

A leaf composting plan for the fall was put on hold by officials later in the month.

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney's attempt to raise revenue for the police department by imposing a four percent excise tax on hotels, lodging houses and motels in Quincy was turned aside by the City Council.

The council, citing fairness in particular, voted 8-1 against the tax.

Originally introduced by Mayor McCauley, Cheney reintroduced it in an attempt to raise money for the police department which was experiencing a $250,000 shortfall in the department's overtime account.

Cheney had hoped the money from the tax, as much as $77,000 for the first year, would go towards returning two drug officers to the street.

Six year-old Ryan McCarthy, showing all the qualities of a true hero, calmly handled an emergency at home and averted a possible tragedy when he called Quincy Police to inform them his grandmother had fallen over the family dog.

At home with his grandmother, Dorothy West and his three year year-old brother, Collin, Ryan dialed 911 and alerted police of the incident.

His grandmother was then taken to Quincy Hospital and treated for a broken hip.

The city's $275,000 animal shelter, located on Broad St. opened with a ribbon cutting ceremony attended by a dozen city officials.

Six city employees were recognized at the seventh annual Mayor's Employee Appreciation Award Ceremony held in Mayor McCauley's office.

They were: Valerie Palmer, a registered nurse at Quincy Hospital; Ann McLaughlin, assistant director of the Thomas Crane Public Library; Patricia Ryan, assistant Dean of Allied Health at Quincy Junior College; Duncan Blight, custodian at City Hall; Mary Pace, a teacher at Atherton Hough; and Janet Ellis, equal opportunity administrator for the city.

Denis Tardo, former Republican candidate for state representative, kicked off his bid for councillor-at-large at the Sons of Italy Hall.

After announcing his candidacy for Ward 4 Councillor at the beginning of the month, Keith Westernman bowed out four weeks later after experiencing difficulty raising finances.

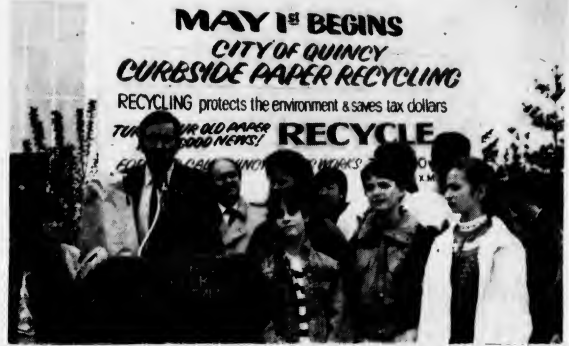

Describing him as the "ultimate public servant" Norfolk District Attorney accepted the James R. McIntyre Humanitarian Award during the 15th annual Quincy District Court Law Day ceremony.

Reacting to cutbacks in the police department, the Germantown Community Council began a "Drop-a-Dime Hotline" as a way to combat drug dealings on the streets.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley announced his reelection campaign while another North Quincy resident, Judy Brams, tossed her hat into the ring for School Committee.

Several precautionary steps, including the immediate shut down of water bubblers and taps, were taken by school officials after it was learned that almost 70 percent of the school's water taps have unacceptable levels of lead.

Preliminary testing of all drinking water taps, including bubblers, sinks and combina-

Preliminary testing of all drinking water taps, including bubblers, sinks and combination sink and bubblers, showed 119 out of 334 taps or 35 percent were unsafe.

Worried about the safety of their children, several Merrymount mothers took to the street in an effort to slow traffic on Shore Ave.

The mothers, including Roseann Flavin, Eileen McDonnell and Beatrice DiMattia, alerted motorists to three newly installed stop signs at intersections along the street as well as the 30 to 20 mile per hour speed limit.

The mothers were busy: an estimated 3,200 cars were using the road daily, instead of the previous average of 50. Why the increase; Shore Ave. was repaved.

According to a list released by the mayor, some 119 city employees made more than $50,000 in 1988 while 66 of those topped the mayor's $55,000 salary.

McCauley released the figures one day after the City Council voted against his proposed $5,000 pay hike for the mayor's position. He also proposed a $2,500 salary increase for city councillors.

Most of those of the list were police officers, firefighters and school personnel.

Responding to the figures, the president of the Police Patrol Officers Association said they were misleading since the story did not point out the different incentives and salary structures for police officers.

The race for school committee got a bit more crowded as Gary Fine announced he would seek a seat.

The Quincy High School Presidents Basketball Association inducted its first 25 selectees into the school's Basketball Hall of Fame during a dinner and ceremony at the Bryan VFW Post.

The inductees were: (Cont'd on Page 14)

Mayoral candidate Peter O'Connell proposed a national urban park for downtown Quincy which would include Quincy City Hall, First Parish Church, McIntyre Mall and the Hancock Cemetery with trees, ornamental lighting and large patches of grass with flower beds.

The saga of the siting of the MWRA headquarters appeared to be ending as the Authority's Board of Directors voted 9-2 to build a facility in Roxbury, much to the dismay of many Quincy officials who were vowing to fight the decision.

John "Jake" Comer criticized those who lack respect for the national anthem, the flag and the meaning of Memorial Day during his keynote address at the city's Memorial Day ceremonies sponsored by the Quincy Veterans Council at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

After starting the season 0-3 and falling to 3-8, the Quincy High School baseball team turned things around and qualified for the state tournament with an 11-8 record.

Deaths during May included:

John Fuller, 81, active in scouting 69 years; Gerald J. Galvin, 69, retired Quincy firefighter; Fr. Joseph M. Connolly, 53, formerly of St. John's Church; Samuel Matarazzo, 75, founded tomato distribution firm; Margaret M. Flatley, 97, mother of developer; James M. methadone maintenance program in Quincy was being negotiated by Mayor Francis McCauley and several state health agencies.

Among those officials who supported the program was Health Commissioner M. Jane Gallahue. She noted AIDS is a "real public health concern" and methadone has been shown to stop the spread of the deadly disease by getting intravenous drug users to stop using contaminated needles.

"(AIDS) is a fatal disease. There is no cure. People in public health have to look for ways to stop the disease," Gallahue said, adding, "it's always distressing to see infants born with no chance (of survival)."

The program's location, hours of operation and other safeguards were to be ironed out by the mayor, Habit Management and the Massachusetts Department of Public Health.

The city's traffic islands were taking on a more beautiful look as residents and businesses claimed them as part of the "Adopt-A-Island" program coordinated by Councillor Timothy Cahill and Mayor McCauley.

City officials, upset over the MWRA's Board decision to relocate its headquarters in Roxbury and not Quincy, boycotted the launching of the first construction phase at the Fore River staging area.

The chain of command at Quincy Junior College was upheld by the School Committee, despite an attempt by President Dr. O. Clayton Johnson to change it. Johnson wanted to report directly to the committee thereby bypassing School Superintendent Dr. Robert Ricci on college policy matters.

However, the committee ruled against Johnson and instead upheld the set up of the president reporting directly to the superintendent. Marshall B. Litchfield of Scituate and former principal of the Thayer Academy upper school, was appointed interim headmaster of the Woodward School in Quincy.

Former mayor Arthur Tobin, clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court, was the keynote speaker at the Quincy Police Memorial Service at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Richard Crespi of 73 Ruggles St., Quincy, announced his candidacy for a seat on the Quincy School Committee.

The city held its annual commencement exercises for Quincy Junior College and Quincy, North Quincy and Quincy-Vocational Technical High Schools.

McCauley Vetoes Local Hiring Order Again

environmental concerns in the Midwest.

Just over a month old, Quincy's new paper recycling program was on a money-saving pace and promised to exceed expectations if more residents participated.

By the first week of June, more than 250 tons of paper had been collected. The city was hoping at least 4,000 tons could be collected by next May.

It appeared a multi-million dollar commercial project at the former Duane Salvage Yard on Southern Artery would be built without one of its hoped-for integral parts: a famed carousel.

The DeAngelis family of Houghs Neck, who owns the carousel, pulled out because it could not finance $325,000 worth of renovation costs.

The KidsPoint Community Playground, a state-of-the-art contemporary playground which was built in one day by some 40 volunteers, was dedicated to the children of the school and community.

John McDuff announced his third bid for a seat on the Quincy School Committee.

Jane Reikard, executive secretary to the city's Rent Grievance Board, was honored as the Quincy Citizens Association "Citizen of the Year."

Quincy Fire Chief Paul O'Connell was the featured speaker at the Quincy Firemen's Memorial Services at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

A local job hiring preference bill was vetoed again by Mayor McCauley, who told councillors that the measure is restrictive and "un-American."

It was the second time the mayor vetoed the bill which passed the council 8-1 in May.

Councillors indicated at the last meeting of the session that the matter would be brought up for an override vote sometime in the summer.

Merrymount School students found that plastic items is the number one litter problem at Wollaston Beach.

Thanks to the volunteer effort by some 20 Quincy residents including Councillor Timothy Cahill, guided tours at the United First Parish Church in Quincy were set to resume July 1.

The push for a Quincy-based MWRA headquarters took another stop toward reality at the end of the month after the House and Senate enacted a bill requiring the authority to relocate at the former General Dynamics shipyard.

The fate of the matter rested with Gov. Michael Dukakis, who was expecting to veto the bill, and the legislative branches who could override the veto with a two-thirds majority vote.

Quincy lawmakers including Sen. Paul Harold and Michael Morrissey said they were cautiously optimistic that an override could be achieved.

Realizing the vote would be close, Harold conducted a tour of the administrative offices at the shipyard for the MWRA Advisory Board. He hoped that the tour would show the members that Quincy is a better site than Roxbury.

Responding to numerous complaints by constituents, Rep. Michael Morrissey asked MDC Commissioner Ilyas Bhatti to intensify MetroPolice patrols along Wollaston Beach.

Because of budget shortfalls, walking patrols were curtailed. Morrissey requested officers on the regular patrol take a more active role in the activity along the beach wall in addition to traffic enforcement.

Brian Buckley was named head basketball coach at Boston College High School.

Patricia Toland, an eight-year member of the City Council, announced her reelection candidacy for councillor-at-large.

Deaths during June included:

Charles W. Gaughan, 74, former corrections superintendent; Nicholas J. Oliverio, 69, played semi-pro football; Mary F. Concheri, former Quincy Hospital nurse; Mary L. Carella, 93, past president Morrisette Auxiliary; Max London, 107, owned furniture store; Frederick A. Sprowl, retired bank vice president; George Murray, 17, after fight against leukemia; Albert A. Milne Jr., 69, former Quincy optician; Maurice A. Girard, 63, former schools media technician; Richard G. Maloney, had own law firm; and Stephen E. Hurley, 69, former State Senate postmaster.

July

The month began with Quincy officials "cautiously optimistic" that they would win the MWRA headquarters battle and ended with the same leaders working out a compromise with Boston officials.

A bill requiring the MWRA to locate at the general Dynamics shipyard in Quincy, was vetoed by Gov. Michael Dukakis, a staunch supporter for a Roxbury-based headquarters. After the veto, Senator Paul Harold and Representatives Michael Morrissey, Robert Cerasoli and Steve Tobin were lobbying colleagues to support an override.

Quincy proponents wanted the MWRA to locate in Quincy because the Authority owns the shipyard site and to "keep an eye and nose on" the scheduled sludge treatment operation.

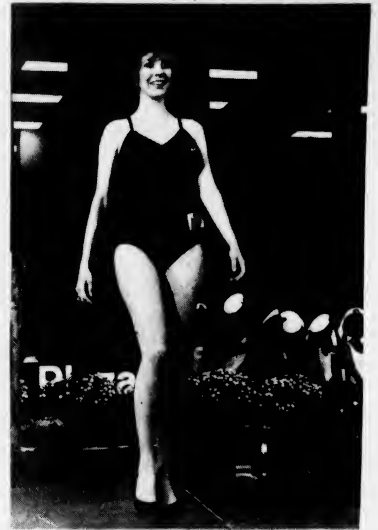

However, Boston leaders including the governor and Mayor Ray Flynn favored the Roxbury site as a way to spark economic development in that neighborhood.

The original bill breezed by in the House and Senate and Quincy officials were optimistic that the governor's veto could be overridden. However, the tide turned against them after Quincy's representatives did not support a tax plan proposed by House Speaker George Keverian.

Keverian's plan eventually passed, despite the lack of support by Quincy and other South Shore legislators. Miffed at their action, Keverian, who had been neutral on the issue, then became actively involved in lobbying against Quincy.

Recognizing this, Michael Morrissey asked for an override vote to be postponed one week. At the time, Morrissey cited a recent decision by the state Department of Labor and Industries which overturned the authority's choice of a headquarter's site in Roxbury because it violated state contracting laws.

A week later, a new strategy was devised whereby the override vote would be delayed even further as a compromise between the two sides was worked out.

Three of four Quincy legislators agreed that getting some of the MWR's work force to locate in Quincy was better than none at all. However, Cerasoli was against the compromise. Instead, he believed Quincy's delegation should support the Labor and Industries decision and the attorney general who said he would enforce the ruling.

The month concluded with no definitive solution as the House recessed. The compromise was expected to be acted on in September.

In other news, a three-alarm "suspicious" fire destroyed three nearly completed condominium townhouses in Quincy Point.

The fire, which was believed set and was under investigation, destroyed three of five two-story wooden buildings at Victory Heights Condominiums on Chubbuck St.

David Colton was sworn in as the city's Commissioner of Public Works by Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke. Robert Federico was sworn in as deputy commissioner.

Four-year old Megan Davis was chosen "Little Miss Houghs Neck" and Shaun Gibbons was selected "Little Mr. Houghs Neck" during the Houghs Neck Community Council's annual family field day.

A Tot Lot in Germantown was dedicated to Thelma Rogers, a Quarterdeck Rd. resident since Sept. 1, 1950.

In a joint convention of the City Council and Quincy School Committee, Robert Jarnis was elected to fill a vacancy on the committee created by the death of long-time member Christopher Kennedy.

Kennedy, a Quincy School Committeeman for 14 years, and highest vote getter in 1987's city election, died July 4 after a long illness.

Some 11.8 million gallons of untreated sewage was discharged into Quincy Bay during a 12-hour period, forcing health officials to close all 11 city beaches as a precaution.

Quincy Junior College Associate Dean Arthur Keough was hired as the city's community educator at a salary of $47,000 after the City Council approved the position by a 6-3 vote.

Keough is responsible primarily for applying for state, federal and private grants which would help finance new and existing programs for all city newcomers, especially Asians.

The majority viewed the hiring as an "investment" in the city's future while some in the minority questioned what they perceived as a "hefty" salary.

Due to decreasing health care reimbursements and changing insurance regulations, officials announced that Quincy Hospital would be laying off some 200 positions in virtually all levels of operation.

The reductions were expected to save the hospital $5 million. The cuts were to begin sometime in late summer or early fall.

The City Council, which met to discuss the issue, suggested requiring the city's approximately 4,600 employees to seek care at Quincy Hospital as opposed to other hospitals and health care organizations.

Former School Committeeman Charles Sweeney announced his bid for the board.

In other hospital news, QH received state approval to open a 15-bed drug and alcohol treatment unit on the sixth floor of the hospital's west wing.

The Public Health Council, the policy-making arm of the state Department of Public Health, approved the license after a staff analysis.

Pamela Hall, 21, of Braintree, was crowned Miss Quincy Bay for 1989 during the annual pageant held at Quincy Center Plaza. She was selected from among 30 contestants.

The pageant was the highlight of the Quincy Center Sidewalk Bazaar which enjoyed one of its best years ever.

SHAUN GIBBONS AND MEGHAN DAVIS, both four, were chosen Little Mr. and Miss Houghs Neck during the Houghs Neck Community Council's annual field day at LaBrique Field Day in July.

Joseph Mulvaney, of South Boston, who hurt his back after jumping 150 feet into Swingles Quarry, was arrested for trespassing after being rescued.

Deaths during July included:

Evelyn Savage, 94, former seamstress for Old Colony Laundry; Barbara Anne Johnson, 22, a secretary for the National Fire Protection Association; Vette "Ring"

Larson, 78, former amateur boxing champion; Caterina DiTunzio, 92, former co-owner of DiTunzio Granite Company; Vincent Buonfiglio 82, owned the Buonfiglio Funeral Home; George F. Nicholson, 75, former owner of the Montclair Hardware Store; and Peter F. Romeri, 78, developer and humanitarian.

City Posts Fourth Major Surplus In Row

(Cont'd from Page 16)

August

At the start of the month, Mayor Francis McCauley disclosed the city had a budget surplus of $8.2 million, the fourth year in a row Quincy had posted a major surplus.

However, most of that money was already spent since it was earmarked to wipe out a 1990 budget shortfall of $7.3 million. The remaining $900,000 was put in the city's "free cash account" for emergency expenditures.

Because the fiscal situation was so tight, McCauley ordered the directors of the city's three largest departments — police, fire and public works — to be "extremely cautious" with their money management.

Furthermore, the mayor put a freeze on police and fire department hiring through the end of 1989.

All Quincy beaches were closed by the Quincy Health Department for several days after 247 million gallons of partially-treated sewage was discharged into Quincy Bay over a three-day period.

A coalition of local civic organizations and national environmental groups rallied outside the gates of Clean Harbors, Inc., near the Braintree-Quincy line to protect the firm's proposal for a hazardous waste rotary kiln incinerator.

The proposed incinerator would burn up to 45,000 tons a year of deadly chemical wastes and pesticides.

Union leaders and employees at Quincy Hospital told city councilors that the planned 200 employee layoffs was harsh and unwarranted action.

A spokesperson for the group said they fear the overall nurse to patient ratio would be inadequate.

Two incumbents on the Quincy School Committee, Frank Santoro and Mary Collins, announced their reelection bids.

In the race for the two-year seat on the School Committee, Mary "Jane" Powers announced she was challenging former School Committeeman Charles Sweeney.

Senator Paul Harold asked the Site Safety Council to suspend the application process for a permit filed by Clean Harbors, Inc., for the hazardous waste rotary kiln incinerator in the Fore River Industrial basin.

Harold made the request after learning about a State Department of Public Health study which showed a statistically significant elevation in the level of lung cancer cases for both males and females in the Houghs Neck-Germantown area.

The $2 edition of Quincy Bay Race Week was a big success despite thunderstorms on opening day and the threat of showers almost every night.

Because of budget restrictions brought on by a $3.4 million cut in state local aid, the city's fire department lost Engine 6 in Houghs Neck and its three-men complement Sept. 1.

Chief Paul O'Connell, struggling financially because of a sharp cut in overtime spending, informed city councilors of the deactivation during a Public Safety Committee meeting at City Hall.

In another development, Chief O'Connell told councilors that he opposed any plan to close the Wollaston Fire Station.

McCauley had suggested this option to save $1.2 million in renovation costs which would allow the chief to beef up manpower and add equipment.

O'Connell admitted that the department was operating at a "deficient" level but that he considered sidelining equipment a better idea than closing an entire station.

Eileen Cohen, owner of Sweets 'n Things Shop in SENATOR JOHN KERRY visited Quincy in August and held a hearing on drugs for local law enforcement officers in the Council Chambers of City Hall. Quincy Center, was named executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

The annual Dick Koch Memorial MDA Softball Doubleheader was the most successful ever as more than $1,800 was raised, bringing the 13-year total to more than $18,000 for Jerry's Kids.

The Quincy Police handcuffed the Quincy Fire, 21-4, and the City Officials overcame the News Media, 21-15, during the fun-filled doubleheader at Adams Field.

Local law enforcements attended Senator John

Kerry's regional field hearing of the Senate Subcommittee on Narcotics and Terrorism at Quincy City Hall.

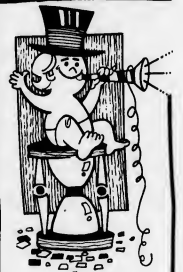

The hearing was held to gather local information on the extent of drug trafficking in the area and the impact of drug treatment programs.

Deaths during August included:

John Milne, 84, former employee of Bethlehem Steel and General Dynamics at the Fore River shipyard and self-appointed keeper of the green for the Quincy Bowling Green Club; Margaret M. Mahoney, 87, pianist for the Women's Auxiliary of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in Quincy; Albert F. McCarthy Jr., 52, South Shore Bank property manager; John F. Dobie, 75, descendent of colonial families; Lucia B. Marinson, 66, ran for city council, Congress; Helen F. Finn, 80, former housekeeper at Most Blessed Sacrament Church; and Grace P. Bonsall, 91, member of Mayflower Descendants.

September

The race for mayor was narrowed to two after veteran City Councillor James Sheets and political newcomer Peter O'Connell scored impressive victories in the long-awaited preliminary election Sept. 12. Sheets, considered a dark horse early on, came running down the stretch and received 7,749 votes or 35 percent. O'Connell, waging his first campaign for elective office, finished second with 5,903 or 27 percent.

Councillor Stephen McGrath, perceived as a frontrunner early on, finished third with 4,976 or 22 percent. Former mayor Joseph LaRaia, making another run for the city's highest office, finished a distant fourth with 3,121 or 14 percent.

Some 22,331 voters or 46 percent of Quincy's electorate turned out. City Clerk John Gillis has predicted a 40 to 45 percent turnout.

As the Sheets-O'Connell final matchup was decided, so was the six-candidate field for school committee.

Winners in the school committee preliminary contest were incumbents Mary Collins and Frank Santoro and newcomers Ronald Mariano, Judith Brams, Gary Fine and Richard Crespi.

Failing to make the cut were John McDuff, Michael Preble and Michael Jovanovic.

Not only was the election one of the most anticipated, it was also the most expensive in the city's history.

As of one week before the preliminary, nearly $300,000 was raised and approximately $240,000 spent by the four mayoral candidates.

O'Connell led his three opponents in contributions and spending.

In contribution, O'Connell was first with $136,075 followed by McGrath's $70,107, Sheets' $61,430 and LaRaia's $31,353. In all, $298,965 was raised as of the first week of September.

In expenditures, O'Connell was again first with $111,037 followed by Sheets $54,734, McGrath's $36,508 and LaRaia's $28,516. In all, $240,795 was spent by the candidates before the preliminary.

A poll by the Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc., showed Quincy voters supporting by wide margins efforts by all levels of government to address the multiple problems created by the lack of affordable housing.

The Quincy Police Runners Club, with the help of many generous pledges, raised $1,900 Labor day by conducting a 20-mile run-a-thon for the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

An agreement between the state Department of Public Health and city to allow a mobile methadone clinic van to operate behind the city's Public Works building was signed by Mayor Francis McCauley.

The van, to treat heroin addicts, was scheduled to begin operation later this month.

Although the city's budget crunch forced him to reduce the fire department's minimum manning level by three men, Chief Paul O'Connell was confined the Wollaston Fire Station would remain open.

Dr. Cecil Paul, 54, accepted the presidency of Eastern Nazarene College, taking over for the retired Dr. Stephen Nease.

In a major effort to demonstrate a concern for protecting the environment, Quincy's three high schools began a voluntary plastics recycling program, the first of its kind in the area.

Quincy received some good fiscal news as Mayor McCauley announced the city had negotiated its rubbish collection contract which would result in a savings of $470,000.

Some 400 people attended the dedication of the new $9 million Quincy police station and heard keynote speaker Attorney General James Shannon call the city's department "one of the finest in the Commonwealth."

Hours before the police station dedication, the Thomas Crane Public Library was officially designated a National Historic Landmark during ceremonies inside the library's main branch in Quincy Square.

The library, found to have national historical significance in U.S. history, was designated a national historic landmark by the Department of the Interior after careful evaluation by the National Park System Advisory Board.

Despite the loss of 22 Metropolitan District Commission school crossing guards in October, the commission guaranteed the posts would be filled and maintained by police personnel.

After a week's thought, Quincy Junior College President Dr. O. Clayton Johnson turned down an offer to become president of Hudson County Community College in New Jersey.

More than 200 citizens from Weymouth, Braintree and Quincy presented Clean Harbors, Inc., with a "Special Award for Fiction" during protest rally at the company's front gate in East Braintree.

Dozens of people, calling the firm's preliminary project impact report on the effects of a proposed rotary kiln hazardous waste incinerator "fiction," heaped copies of the 6,000-page report into the pile outside the firm's gate.

The state was preparing to rule on the adequacy of the report.

More than 200 members and guests gathered at the United First Parish Church (Unitarian) "Church of the Presidents" in Quincy Center for a Service of Celebration in honor of the 350th anniversary of its founding.

On a sad note, family and friends mourned the tragic loss of two long-time Quincy friends, Shawn B. Clancy and Daniel P. Ward, both 19, who were killed in a fiery high-speed crash on Route 3A in Hingham.

Other deaths during September included: Rose M. Drohan, 103, honored by city at centennial celebration; Edwin H. Kasper, 91, former actor, Ledger salesman; Genie Taplin, 95, former assistant city clerk for Quincy; George W. Smith, 64, superintendent school custodians; Robert D. Hodgkins, 64, violinist, ham radio operator; Dr. Francis X. O'Brien, chaired SMU biology department; and Thomas J. Blakeley, 57, B.C. philosophy professor.

October

October was a busy month with political activity, major fiscal news and some proud moments.

Regarding the fall election, Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney, a candidate for councillor-at-large- who was not listed as an incumbent on the ballot, asked City Solicitor Joseph "Jay" MacRiechie to draft a home rule petition to clarify the city's charter on the matter.

Both outgoing Mayor Francis McCauley and City Clerk John Gillis said they supported the clarification.

Quincy, once referred to as "the most racist city in America," was honored with a special gubernatorial citation for its positive response to the recent arrival of large numbers of immigrants and refugees.

Mayor McCauley accepted the award on behalf of the city from Philip Johnston, secretary of Human Services. It was signed by Gov. Michael Dukakis.

In making the presentation prior to a City Council meeting, Johnston said, "Massachusetts is proud of this city and the welcome its residents and government have extended to refugees and immigrants. Helping those who came to America in search of freedom and opportunity is one of the oldest and best traditions of this country."

During the past five years, Quincy's Asian population has increased tenfold, from 1,000 to 10,000 residents.

Accepting the award, McCauley said, "We want (the Asian immigrants) to be important and integrated members in our community."

History of a different sort was made the same night when the City Council voted 8-1 to override a veto by the mayor giving Quincy residents hiring preference on a three to one ratio for city supported construction projects.

It was the first council override since it overruled Mayor Joseph LaRia's veto regarding the manning structure of the Quincy Police Department some 12 years ago.

McCauley twice vetoed the measure. Only Councillor Timothy Cahill, who sided with McCauley on earlier votes, voted against the override.

A group of Quincy citizens formed a political action organization called "Quincy Citizens for Quality Education," to lobby for better schools and to encourage and support candidates for public office who are committed to supporting public education.

The group staged an education rally outside City Hall in the pouring rain one night in an effort to promote their cause and increase membership.

The famous Houghs Neck carousel was coming home to Quincy to stay after the City Council approved the permit for the Tidemill Plaza development on Southern Artery which will include the historic structure.

Kasha, a lovable nine-year-old Cockapoo-cross who appeared to have human qualities, succumbed to cancer.

She "worked" at Flowers by Helen on Billings Rd. and visited patients at Long Island Hospital monthly. She also received the Golden Paw Award from John McDuff, president of the Quincy Animal League. The honor is usually reserved for humans.

Some 2,000 protestors from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth spanned the Fore River Bridge in a human chain during a "hands Across The Bridge" rally against a proposed hazardous waste incinerator by Clean Harbors.

City councillors were informed by Public Works Commissioner David Colton that the city will need $4 million in 1990 to cap the closed West Quincy landfill. Among the ways mentioned to pay for the cost were floating a bond, filing a lawsuit to get state funding and even a Proposition 2 and a half override. The state closed the landfill in 1986 after 15 years of operation.

A new age in health care treatment was ushered in at Quincy Hospital after the new $60 million health care facility was dedicated before some several hundred officials, administrators, employees and residents during an outdoor ceremony under sunny skies.

In a major surprise, the new facility was named in Mayor Francis X. McCauley's honor. The structure, equipped with many state-of-the-art features and 234 beds, was named "The McCauley Building" in honor of the mayor's commitment and leadership to the largest municipal project in the city's history.

The month also featured another dedication ceremony when the former Furnace Brook School was dedicated the Charles A. Bernazzani School in memory of the school's late principal.

During his 34-year public education career, Mr. Bernazzani was principal of three different elementary schools in Quincy.

Hopes for a Quincy-based MWRA headquarters were renewed again after Quincy and Roxbury legislators agreed on a compromise bill which would place the entire headquarters at the Fore River shipyard and 150,000 square feet of state office space in Roxbury.

The headquarter's issue, on the "back burner" for most of the summer, once again was in the forefront by the end of the month. The compromise bill was expected to be debated in the House of Representatives.

Deaths during October included:

George B. Westhaver, 85, former headmaster, professor; John E. Morris, 53, former hospital administrator; Esther W. McCulloch, 85, past grand chaplain Eastern Star; Andrew L. Backman Sr., 45, Otis National Guard Fire Chief; Angelo Libertine, 90, co-founded box company; Dr. Jean Marie Lank, 41, founded Eye Care Associates; and M. Caroline Crane, 90, former secretary, cashier at The Patriot Ledger.

November

The long-awaited mayoral election came to a stunning finish as James A. Sheets easily defeated businessman Peter O'Connell by capturing 29 out of the city's 30 precincts.

The 54-year old Ward 4 councillor piled up a 60 to 39 percent margin over O'Connell who was making his first bid for public office.

Sheets will become Quincy's 31st mayor Tuesday, Nov. 2 at 10 a.m. when he is sworn in by City Clerk John Gillis. He succeeds Mayor Francis McCauley who decided last year not to seek a fifth term.

Slightly more than 60 percent of Quincy's electorate turned out with Sheets receiving 17,553 votes to O'Connell's 11,454.

Other election winners were:

In other races: Incumbents Tim Cahill and Patricia Toland were re-elected councillors-at-large while Mike Cheney moved up from Ward 1 councillor to claim an at-large seat. Cahill topped the entire ballot with 17,825 votes. The threesome defeated Susan Gallagher and Denis Tardo.

Ronald Mariano, making his first run for public office, topped the four-year term School Committee field to win the seat vacated by Peggy Nigro who did not seek re-election. Incumbents Mary Collins and Frank Santoro were re-elected.

Sheets Rolls To Mayoral Victory

(Cont'd from Page 19)

Finishing behind them were Richard Crespi, Gary Fine and Judith Brams.

Mary "Jane" Powers was elected to the two-year School Committee seat. Charles Sweeney finished second in the race to fill the unexpired term of the late Christopher Kennedy.

Peter Kolson soundly defeated Marcia Olinto in the Ward 1 council race.

Tom Fabrizio edged Joseph Shea by 122 votes in the race for Ward 4 councillor. A recount called by Shea and conducted at the end of month confirmed Fabrizio's victory. She called the recount off after three precincts showed very little change.

Voters opposed the construction of a hazardous waste incinerator in the city or abutting towns by a mile-wide margin of 21,603 to 2,936 on the lone referendum question.

Councillors in Wards 2, 3, 5 and 6 were unopposed and thus re-elected.

Besides being one of the longest campaigns, it was the most expensive ever, election officials said.

In the mayoral race alone, $416,839 was spent by O'Connell and Sheets as of eight days before the election. O'Connell was outlasting and outspending Sheets by more than 2-to-1, according to finance reports.

Shortly after the election, Sheets appointed his campaign manager, Thomas Koch of North Quincy, as his executive secretary. Koch previously served as the city's Council on Aging director.

Other key appointments Sheets made during the month were:

Stephen McGrath, a veteran city councillor and one of four mayoral candidates, was appointed city solicitor.

Bernice Mader, president of Citizens Against Airport Noise and an elected State Democratic Committee-woman, was named administrative assistant.

In addition, Rhonda Merrill and Jackie Quirk, were named to lead the inaugural committee.

In a preview of his administration, Sheets told The Quincy Sun that he and his staff will be dedicated city employees who will strive to improve the city. Besides budget matters, Sheets said his administration will devote time and energy to education, tourism and beautification. Other goals are stopping a hazardous waste incinerator from being located near Quincy's border, tightening zoning ordinances and beginning downtown revitalization.

In his keynote Veterans' Day address outside the Adams Academy, Fire Chief

Paul O'Connell said veterans are the backbone of society and should be supported whatever the cause.

O'Connell, a decorated Vietnam veteran, spoke before some 200 citizens during the city's observance of the 71st anniversary of the end of World War I.

Despite a gallant effort, the Quincy High School girls' state championship volleyball team was dethroned by Case High before more than 1,000 fans at Waltham High.

The girls, who had compiled a perfect 22-0 regular season record, lost their bid for a fourth Division I crown in eight years by falling to Case, three games to two. Two of the games went into overtime.

Described as "the most exciting game of the series," North Quincy edged Quincy 27-26 in the traditional Thanksgiving game which was played two days later because of a holiday snowstorm.

With the win, North snapped a two-game losing streak and narrowed Quincy's series lead to 28 to 24 with four ties.

Siding with principle, State Representative Robert Cerasoli resigned his $15,000 a year chairmanship of the Post Audit and Oversight Committee.

Cerasoli, reacting to an ultimatum by Speaker George Keverian, resigned because he could not support Keverian's $1.2 billion tax plan because he felt it was not in the best interest of his constituents.

Two multi-alarm fires within 15 hours of each other over the Thanksgiving holiday caused a combined $425,000 in damage and left nine people homeless. No serious injuries were suffered.

In an interview with The Quincy Sun, businessman Peter O'Connell said a run for mayor is still open but not against Mayor James Sheets.

Despite some threatening skies, some 250,000 turned out for the 38th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade which honored native Ken Coleman as the grand marshal.

Deaths during November included:

Forrest I. Neal Jr., 79, civic, business leader; Kenneth E. Yoerger, 80, former harbor-master; Mary L. "Bonnie" Powers, 75, U.S. postal service nurse; Dr. Walter Wrigley, 75, astronautics professor; Anna Gerraughy, 82, former lunch matron; Donna L. Bowers, 89, crisis center co-founder; Robert C. Bertazzoni, assistant school principal; Geraldine M. Connors, 66, founded Germantown Yacht Club; Lydia Sisson, 105, taught in one-room school, and James J. Rago, 86, played at JFK inauguration.

December

Angered by a possible withholding of local aid, city councillors unanimously approved a resolution denouncing the threat. By a 9-0 vote, the council sent a resolution to state

North Skates To 4th In Row

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy hockey team continues to roll along as one of the highest scoring teams in the area and last Saturday breezed past Peabody, 12-2, improving its record to 4-0.

The Raiders played Revere last night (Wednesday), will host Somerville Saturday night at 7:50 at the Youth Arena and next Wednesday will face its toughest opponent of the year, unbeaten Arlington, one of the top teams in the state, at Arlington at 7:40.

Sal Manganaro sparked North over Peabody with a hat trick and two assists, giving him 12 goals and four assists in four games. The Raiders have scored 32 goals in their four games.

Brian Zimmerman had two goals and an assist, Mike DesRoche two goals, Billy Lydon two goals and two assists, Jamie Tapper two goals and an assist, Joe Fasano a goal and four assists and Armando Mancini four assists.

"The team is playing well and, just as I figured, our first line of Manganaro, Fasano and Zimmerman, is one of the best around and should be one of the best in the Suburban League," said first-year coach Dave Peters.

Pat O'Donoghue played the first two periods in goal and freshman Sean Connelly made his debut in the third period and held Peabody scoreless.

Mike Christopherson, Sean Hannon and Chris McCallum turned in fine performances for the Raiders.

Earlier in the week North recorded its biggest win, 6-3, over Medford, ranked ninth in the state and just behind Arlington in the Greater Boston League.

Fasano had a big night with four goals to lead the Raiders. Manganaro had the other two goals and added an assist, while Mancini and Jim McCarthy each had two assists.

O'Donoghue had a fine game in goal with 19 saves.

"This was a real big win for us," said Peters. "Medford has a fine team and our kids played an outstanding game. We have two more major tests coming up before starting our Suburban League season. Arlington is without a doubt one of the state's best teams and has been for years, and I feel Somerville is every bit as good if not better than Medford."

Following the Arlington game, North will open its league season against Quincy Saturday, Jan. 6, at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Rough Ice For Quincy

Quincy's hockey team continues to find the going rough and, after an opening night tie, has lost three games in a row.

The Presidents hosted Somerville last night (Wednesday), and will be idle Saturday and next Wednesday will be home to Everett at 5:30 at the Youth Arena. They will open their Suburban League season on Saturday, Jan. 6, against North Quincy at 6:40 at the Youth Arena.

Last Saturday Quincy lost to Revere, 3-2. Revere's first win over a Suburban League team in six years. It was only its third in five years.

Each team scored in the first period and again in the second. Revere scored the clincher in the third period.

Fred Reagan and Scott MacPherson scored the Quincy goals and Craig Galligan played well in goal.

"We aren't taking advantage of our opportunities," said coach Bob Sylvia. "We seem to let down in the third period after playing well in the first two."

Earlier in the week pupil defeated teacher as Marshfield walloped the Presidents, 9-3.

Marshfield coach Jack Crowley played for Sylvia at Quincy and later was his assistant coach for several years.

"Jack is a fine coach and is doing an excellent job at Marshfield," said Sylvia.

Freshman Dave Mullen, Reagan and Jim Marani had the Quincy goals and Scott MacPherson had a very busy night in goal and, in addition to the Ram's nine goals, he had 27 saves.

Todd Guifoyle sparked Marshfield with three goals and three assists and Mike Garside had three goals and two assists.

Bob Troup, Quincy's junior varsity coach for several years, has resigned and has been replaced by Robbie Craig, a former Quincy star who had an outstanding career at West Point.

THE MORRISSETTE Legion baseball team finished second to Braintree in Zone 6 this season. Front, left to right, Billy MacDougall, Gary Rawdon, Mike Baylis, Jeff Calvert, Tony Anderlonis, Brian Taylor and Dan Ryan. Back, scorer-statistician Richard "Berger" Ryan, athletic officer Frank

Osborne, Rob McDonald, Ron Boudreau, Erik DeBoer, Billy Warren, George Rozanitis, Kevin MacDougall, Jimmy

Glynn, manager Ray Cattaneo and coach Dave Perdios. Missing is Bob Cinquegrano.

Quincy Wrestlers Have Good Reason For Title Hopes

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy wrestling team is off to a good start with a 5-1 record and victories over Suburban League rivals Waltham (63-8) and Cambridge Rindge and Latin (59-12) have raised coach Lou Venturilli's hopes for a league title.

The Presidents have defeated Foxboro, 56-17; Silver Lake, 43-30, and Duxbury, 42-30, in non-league meets with the only loss to a powerful Randolph squad.

Venturilli and assistant Joe Souza have a small but very balanced squad.

"It really has been a team effort so far," Venturilli said. "I have confidence in every kid I sent on the mat, knowing he will give me his best effort."

In the 103-pound class sophomore Dave Cahill has been a pleasant surprise at 4-2. Weighing only 95, he has shown steady improvement with the help of his brother, former Quincy coach Tim Cahill.

Ryan's 5 Paces Mite As Quincy's Mite A hockey team defeated Westwood, 7-4, at the Skating Club of Boston. Michael Ryan led the way with five goals, giving him 11 goals in three games.

John Barron had a goal and four assists, Matt Flynn a goal and Derek McTomney and Matt Hill an assist each.

The 112-pound class is ably manned by junior Matt Fratillo at 5-1.

Weighing in at 112, sophomore Marc Lomanno is doing well in the 119-pound class. "He has been a team-saver," Venturilli said. "He came out late and filled a big hole for us. He has great potential."

Sophomore Greg Souza is 5-1 and appears ready for sectional titles. His backup is freshman Ben Radcliffe, who saw varsity action against Cambridge.

Tom Fratillo, Matt's older brother, is 4-1 at 130 pounds. "He is finally getting his due and has worked hard," Venturilli said. His backup is sophomore Clint Currie.

Brian Gannon is 5-1 at 135 pounds and is backed up by freshman Agustin Tiberio.

The most promising group are at the 140, 145 and 152 pound classes.

The cream of the crop are junior Bob Stanton at 3-0, senior Matt Gallahue, sophomores Ally Sleiman and Dean Morris and freshman Dave Bogan.

Backups include Jim and Chris Iorio, Lee DiMeco and Mike Cheney.

Another pleasant surprise is senior Joe DiStasio at 160 pounds. A first-year wrestler, he overpowers opponents with his great strength and is off to a 4-2 start.

He is followed by senior Captain Brian Burgess, a sectional champion last year, who is 5-1 and provides the leadership for the team. Just as impressive has been Jerry Stavrakopoulos, a senior 189-pounder, who is 5-1.

Sophomore Rich Buckley and junior Tom Burton have done a fine job in the heavyweight class. Senior Capt. Tom Madden has been ineligible and Venturilli hopes he will be eligible soon.

Quincy is competing this weekend in the annual Lowell Tournament before resuming league action. "Our goal is to win the league title, but we'll have to get by the likes of Newton North and Brookline before meeting perennial champion Brockton," Venturilli concluded.

Quincy Bows To Arlington, 66-61

The Quincy boys' basketball team dropped a 66-61 decision to Arlington last Thursday, the Presidents' fourth loss without a victory. John Franceschini's Quincy team is playing tonight (Thursday) and Friday night in the annual Christmas tournament at North Quincy.

Quincy faces Weymouth North in the opening game at 6 and North Quincy will meet Weymouth South at 7:30. The consolation game is Friday at 6 and the championship game is 7:30.

The Presidents will next play at Brockton next Wednesday, Jan. 3, at 7:30.

Foul shooting played a big part in Arlington's win as the Spy Ponders hit on 13 of 16 foul shots in the final quarter while Quincy was only five of 11.

Guard Joe Russell, who led the Suburban League in three-point shooting percentage last year, paced Quincy with 22 points and five assists, including five three-pointers. Mike Sclaro scored 11 points and took down 12 rebounds.

Earlier in the week Quincy lost to Somerville, 65-50.

Sophomore Joey Crespi had 12 points and seven assists, while Sclaro and Mark Bogan each hit for 10 points.

Close Losses Haunt North Quincy

The North Quincy boys' basketball team continues to lose close games and last Thursday dropped a 55-52 decision to Medford, dropping its record to 1-3. The Raiders' two previous losses were by two points.

Ted Stevenson's North team is hosting in the annual Christmas tournament tonight (Thursday) and Friday.

The Raiders meet Weymouth South in the opener tonight at 7:30, while Quincy faces Weymouth North at 6. The consolation game is Friday at 6 and the championship contest at 7:30. Next Wednesday, Jan. 3, North Quincy is home to Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 7:30.

As usual, Eric DeBoer led the way for North against Medford as he scored 19 points.

Freshman Sean Donovan had 12 points and Dan McLean contributed nine.

Earlier in the week the Raiders were edged by Revere, 58-56, as the Patriots' Curtis Kefer hit a pair of free throws with one second remaining.

DeBoer had 13 points, Donovan added 12 and Jeff Calvert chipped in with 10.

Quincy Girls Make It Easy For Arlington

The Quincy girls' basketball team, following its first victory of the season, made things easy for Arlington last Thursday as it shot only 19 percent from the floor and turned the ball over 25 times as Arlington defeated the First Ladies, 51-35. Quincy's record dropped to 1-3.

Doug MacFarlane's Quincy girls are playing tonight (Thursday) and Friday night in the annual Christmas tournament at Weymouth South.

Quincy plays Weymouth

North in the 6 o'clock opener and North Quincy meets Weymouth South at 7:30. The consolation game is Friday at 6 and the championship game at 7:30.

The First Ladies next will host Brockton next Wednesday, Jan. 3, at 5 o'clock.

Quincy's Chris Barrett cut Arlington's lead to six points with two minutes left, but key foul shots enabled the Spy Ponders to widen their lead and win going away.

Barrett finished with 15 points and nine rebounds and Julie McCloskey added eight points for Quincy.

Earlier in the week the Quincy girls won by their biggest margin in years as they rolled over Somerville, 74-19.

Jen Donovan scored 11 points and Erin Doherty and Amy Baker each had 10 as 11 Quincy players joined in the scoring.

Quincy jumped out to a 21-0 lead in the opening quarter and rolled from then as it had 18 steals and played tenacious defense.

Sullivan Leads Squirt As

Quincy's Squirt A hockey team, sponsored by South Boston Savings Bank, edged South Boston, 2-1, in a Greater Boston League game.

Capt. Tom Sullivan scored both goals in the final minute of the game.

goalie Tim Sheehan and, with six skaters, Quincy stole the puck and Tim Wood passed to John Manning, who passed to Sullivan: He put the puck in the top corner of the net to tie the score. With 30 seconds left, Eric Wood hit Manning, who again passed to Sullivan, who faked the goalie down and again hit the top corner with the winning goal.

Sheehan was outstanding in goal and defensemen Dan Stone, Dan Hughes, Joe Bracken and Matt Jarnis were outstanding.

Paul Princiotto, Robbie Pirelli, Mike O'Brien and Billy Barron did some effective penalty killing.

North's Heffernan Wins Diving Competition

Kevin Heffernan set personal bests in winning the diving and taking second in the breaststroke as the North Quincy swim team defeated Walpole last Thursday, 98-65, to improve its record to 3-0. Bill Walker's Raiders will be home to Blue Hills next Wednesday, Jan. 3, at 3:30 at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

North's winners against Walpole were Dan Reilly in the 200 individual medley (2:36.8), Don Howie, breaststroke (1:15.4); Heffernan, diving (147.1 points), and the 200 medley relay team of Jim Peers, Reilly, Pat Noonan and Howie (2:12.2).

Placing second were Alex Smith, 50 and 100; Mark

Nitschke, 200 and 500; Reilly, butterfly; Scott Harris, backstroke; Heffernan, breaststroke, and Noonan, diving.

Taking thirds were Mike Jacobacci, 50 and 100; Eric Gustafsson, 200 and 500; Greg MacKay, 200 individual medley; Peers, butterfly and backstroke, and Mark O'Neil, diving.

Toland Sparkles At Fairfield

Mike Toland of Quincy, former hockey and baseball player at Boston College High, a freshman at Fairfield University, is having a good year for the Stage varsity hockey team.

Toland is the number two scorer for Fairfield with two goals and five assists and is playing center on the fourth line.

"He is playing well," said coach John McCarthy. "He is playing on the fourth line but he is playing much better than a fourth line center. He has scored some goals in crucial situations and he will see a lot more ice time in the second semester."

Fairfield took a 3-2-1 record into the Christmas break with wins over St. John's, Villanova and Stonehill, a tie with Scranton and losses to Western New England and Trinity.

The next game will be Jan. 10 at home against Iona.

Players, Cheerleaders Honored At Point Panthers Awards Night

The Quincy Point Panthers held their annual awards night recently at the Fore River Clubhouse with more than 150 players, cheerleaders, parents and friends in attendance.

Special awards were presented to players, and the cheerleading squad was honored for defending their New England Regional title.

The varsity trophy winners included:

Jonathan Gangi, players award (voted by varsity players).

Tom Acadipane and Neil Kiley, coaches award (two players voted by the coaches as the most coachable players).

Tony Donahue and Paul Johnson, Most Improved Awards.

Jimmy Smith and Jeff Russell, 12th Player awards.

The Memorial Award was presented to Mike Sugrue as 'Panther of the Year.' This trophy is given annually to the player who best represents the organization both on and off the field. Sugrue is graduating from the youth football program.

Six Panthers were named to the Quincy Youth Football League all-star team, Mike Caporale, Kevin Schneider, Keith Martinson, Gangi, Sugrue and Acadipane.

Also receiving commemorative pins were Jim Costa, Ken Wood, A.J. Gilmore, Ross Magnoli, Alfie Cattatore, Carmen Lorenzano Greg DiBona, Jeff Feiner, Brad Smith, Joey Donahue, David Gunther and Mike Delaney.

The varsity cheerleading squad was also recognized for its accomplishments under Capt. Debbie Russell and Co-Capt. Amy Murphy.

The most spirited trophy, voted by the cheerleaders, went to first-year member Susan Deskins.

Four-year cheerleader Vicky Comeau was awarded the Most Dedicated Award, while three-year member Jennifer Kelly received The Most Improved trophy.

Other members of the varsity squad are Amy Gallagher, Cindy Cedrone, Christine Curran, Kara Bagen, Christina Staffier, Samantha Perry and Shannon McAdam.

Junior varsity cheerleaders include Christine Caporale, Lisa Robinson, Eric Carterman, Angela Martinson Christine Pollara, Beth Kelley, Leah Robertson, Melissa Link and Michelle Thornhill.

Cheerleader mascots Caiti Brillo and Morgan Peterson and waterboy Mike Feiner received pins.

Cheerleader coach Patti Myers received gifts from her varsity squad and jayvee cheerleaders presented mementos to assistant coaches Maureen Wood and Christine Cedrone. Parent advisor Anita Curran also was recognized by the girls for her assistance throughout the season.

Football coaches Bill Myers, Tom Donovan and Mike Dunlea received gifts from the players.

UCT In Top Spot

UCT moved into first place in the Pee Wee House League by defeating Bersani Brothers, 6-1.

Sean McDonald and Lee Hughes had two goals apiece and Billy Coughlin and Jason Fennelly one each. A.J. Carthas had two assists and Chris McArdle, Coughlin and Jamie Murphy one each. Jason Healy scored for Bersani.

Colonial Federal edged Keohane's, 2-1, on goals by Dan Boylen and Ron McGann. Tom Moriarty scored for Keohane's.

The standings: UCT, 4-2-4; Bersani, 3-3-4; Colonial Federal, 4-5-1; Keohane's, 4-5-1.

Quintiliani Shines, But North Loser

Capt. Sherrin Quintiliani qualified for the state individual meet by winning the mile in 5:59.7, but the North Quincy girls' track team lost to Suburban League powerhouse Brockton, 55-33, to even its record at 1-1.

North's only other winner was Suzanne Lewis in the two-mile (12:32.1).

Placing second were Amy Wong, 50; Jennifer Nutley, 300; Ilana Cobban, 600; Claire Walsh, 1000; Cheryl Kelly, high jump, and Tristen Mastrogiacono, hurdles.

Taking third places were Aimes Chin, 50; Susanne Hamilton, 300; Jenn Flynn, 600; Kara Feeney, hurdles and Hamilton, high jump.

Hudson, Merlino Shine For Aggies

Two players from Wallaston stood out in the Norfolk County Agricultural High School basketball team's 52-51 opening day win over Trinity Catholic.

Senior Paul Hudson led the Rams with 29 points and Hugh Merlino contributed eight points and played strong defense. They are the team's co-captains.

Council Protests Threat To Withhold Aid

officials, namely Gov. Dukakis and House Speaker George Keverian who indicated that $1.1 billion in aid might be withheld in order to bail out the state. Some legislators called the idea political blackmail after Dukakis suggested the withholding if new taxes weren't approved.

According to Auditor Robert Foy, Quincy would face "disasterous" implications without the $15 million it was due Dec. 29.

On another matter, the council finished the year without resolving the incumbency ballot clarification issue.

Ward 1 Councillor Michael Cheney attempted to clarify the matter with a home-rule petition. Under his proposal, only elected councillors-at-large would receive the incumbent designation.

The issue was stalled and then put back into committee after some councillors, particularly Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien, said it needs more thought. Chretien also sought an amendment for the petition. He proposed to allow ward councillors and school committee members have their proper designation on the ballot for councillor-at-large.

Cheney eventually agreed to put the petition back in committee.

Saying they were deserving of re-appointment, Mayor-elect James Sheets named seven department heads in the McCauley administration to his team.

They were: James Papile, Board of Assessors; Barry Welch, director of Recreation; Robert Denvir, parking and purchasing agent; Dana Childs, tax collector; Robert Brennan, director of Data Processing; Jane Reikard, executive secretary of Rent Grievance Board; and David Kinnecom, traffic engineer.

However, Sheets said he would not reappoint Personnel Director David Smith. He explained that he wanted his own person in that department.

Facing a projected $13.5 million deficit in FY 1991, Sheets said he would concentrate on department reorganization, attrition and new revenue sources to balance the budget before considering layoffs and reductions in city services.

Attributing to the shortfall were escalating health insurance costs and MWRA assessments as well as declining revenue such as state aid.

A projected $9 million shortfall in 1990 should be wiped out by the free cash account.

As the days of his administration wound down, Mayor McCauley held his last press conference at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

Mundy Steps Down Jan. 12

Quincy Hospital Seeks New Director

Quincy Hospital is continuing its search for a new Hospital Director to replace current Director Mark Mundy who will resign the post effective Jan. 12.

The hospital will also seek an interim director to assume Mundy's duties until a permanent successor can be found.

Mundy, who has served Quincy Hospital as director since June of 1983, announced at a Board of Managers meeting last week that he will resign his post to become President and Chief Executive Officer of the Methodist Hospital, a 515-bed teaching hospital in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Mundy is employed by Hospital Corporation of America (HCA) the company which has managed the Hospital under a contract with the city since 1981.

During Mundy's tenure at Quincy Hospital, he guided the facility through a $60 million modernization project.

Also under Mundy's tenure, the hospital established several new programs including the Center for Women's Health, a CT scanning department, a Physician's relations office, a vascular laboratory, and improved programs in psychiatry and substance abuse.

In addition, Mundy established several new corporate entities to meet the needs of a public hospital functioning in a restrictive fiscal and regulatory environment. These included a holding company, visiting nurses association, charitable foundation and trust, and a physician-hospital organization.

In making the move to Brooklyn, Mundy also ends his relationship with HCA. Methodist Hospital is a private facility.

The move is also a return to New York for Mundy. Prior to joining Quincy Hospital, he served as executive director of the New York Infirmary-Beckman-Downtown Hospital in lower Manhattan. He has also been assistant administrator of Winthrop University Hospital in Mineola, New York, and assistant director of St. Vincent's Hospital, also in Manhattan.

During his time in Massachusetts, Mundy was recognized as one of the region's top health care administrators. He was elected to the Board of Trustees of the Massachusetts Hospital Association in 1987 and was chosen as Secretary of the Board in June of this year.

Mundy is also a member of the American Hospital Association's House of Delegates and Region One Policy Board and is a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives.

In February of this year, Mundy was recognized for his Quincy Hospital accomplishments by "Healthweek" a prestigious national health care news weekly which named one of the nation's top 25 "turnaround" executives.

He, his wife Caryl, and their two sons, Tim, 23 and Todd, 18, currently reside in Hingham.

Tamara Crehan In Students 'Who's Who'

Tamara E. Crehan of Quincy, an ophthalmic dispensing student at Newbury College, Brookline, has been selected as a national outstanding campus leader by "Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges."

Academic achievements, community service, extracurricular activities and potential for continued success are the criteria for selection.

Christine Kravenlis On Emmanuel Basketball Team

Christine Krauenlis of Quincy had an outstanding season as a freshman forward on the Emmanuel College basketball team.

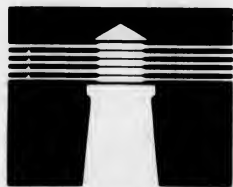

The 5-foot, 11-inch Krauenlis played her high school ball at Notre Dame Academy in Hingham.

Her coach, Andy Yosinoff, said she is "an outstanding outside shooter, an excellent three-point threat and has excellent size for a shooter."

the past seven and a half years.

Other financial highlights include completion of a first city-wide revaluation and establishment of a tax classification program which has saved residential homeowners millions of dollars from 1984-1989.

As the city's credit rating was upgraded to A and A plus, short-term borrowing which reached $45,000,000 in 1982 at a cost of $1.6 million in interest was eliminated.

In his progress report, McCauley noted that three major municipal projects were completed: $60 million Quincy Hospital, $9.2 million Quincy Police Station and $275,000 animal shelter.

Some $21 million in capital outlay equipment and upgrading was also spent while an automated voting system was established.

Several departments were also consolidated:

- Cemetery joined the park and forestry departments while sewer, water and drain divisions were united under public works.

Concerning downtown Quincy, McCauley noted these accomplishments:

- Private management of city offstreet parking and a validated parking system.

- A 124-space addition to Ross parking garage funded by a $1 million state grant.

- $193,755 in state and federal grants to upgrade Thomas Crane Public Library.

The mayor also mentioned that 11 women were appointed to high-level positions in his administration, including the late Dr. M. Grace Hussey as the first female public health commissioner, her successor, M. Jane Galloway and Marion Fantucchio as an assessor.

A day care center was also established at the John F. Kennedy Health Building for children of mothers attending Quincy Junior College.

Lastly, McCauley noted the city's success in welcoming Asian immigrants to Quincy. This year, Quincy received a gubernatorial citation from the Secretary of Human Services for its exemplary outreach to the city's growing Asian and immigrant population.

In addition, the city has provided nearly $265,930 for educating these immigrants. The funds include revenue for ESL classes which 1,192 students from 26 countries have taken since October, 1986. A coordinator for community education, a trilingual outreach advocate and an emergency interpreter for the police to the existing programs were also added.

Free Bilingual Health Fair At Quincy Hospital

Quincy Hospital will offer a free bilingual Health Fair in the hospital's new Education Center, Saturday, Jan. 6, from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Tours of the hospital's new facilities in the McCauley Building, to be conducted in both Chinese and English, will be a key feature of the Health Fair.

Free blood pressure screenings will be offered, as well as cholesterol screenings at $6 per screening.

Educational exhibits will focus on pre-natal care and childbirth, geriatric medicine, immunization and infectious disease control, the 1990 United States Census and the hospital's Center for Women's Health and Nutritional Support Program for Women, Infants and Children.

Health Education literature will be available in Chinese and English, and interpreters will be on hand to assist visitors and health care providers at the event.

A shuttle bus service from the Quincy Center MBTA Station and the McCauley Building of the Hospital will be provided. The bus will operate continuously from 9:15 a.m. through 2:15 p.m. between the Burgin Parkway entrance to the MBTA station and the front entrance to the hospital's McCauley Building.

For further information on the bilingual health fair, contact Quincy Hospital's Asian Health Services Program at 479-8195. This service offers multilingual advice and referrals to the Asian community.

Information may also be obtained in English from the hospital's Public Relations Dept. at 773-6100, ext. 4017.

Arthur Chandler Re-elected QCA President

Quincy Citizens Association re-elected Arthur M. Chandler 1990 president at its 22nd annual dinner meeting at The Hollow Restaurant.

Also re-elected were Dr. Donald C. MacLeod, first vice president; Saul Lipsitz, treasurer; and Dorothy C. Kelly, secretary.

John Keenan was elected second vice president, replacing Peter Kolson, newly-elected Ward 1 Councillor.

A Christmas party was enjoyed, with Nils Lundin providing music.

The Association's Jan. 3 monthly meeting will be held in the Newport Avenue Stop & Shop's meeting room, since the long-time meeting place, the Montclair Men's Club, has been sold.

Financial Aid Information Night At Quincy High School Jan. 4

Students and parents are invited to Quincy High School for a "Financial Aid and Higher Education" night Thursday, Jan. 4, from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The program is sponsored by the Quincy High School Guidance Department and will be held in the school's Method Center.

The aim of the program is to provide information on scholarships, grants, loans, and work-study programs to students seeking financial aid in order to continue their education. The Massachusetts Financial Aid Form will be distributed and specific help will be offered. Corine DuBose, Director of Financial Aid at the University of Massachusetts at Boston, will be present to review the Massachusetts Financial Aid Form and answer questions concerning the MFAF.

Obituaries

Francesco LaRosa, 85 Owned Insurance Firm

A funeral Mass for Francesco LaRosa, 85, of Quincy, was celebrated Dec. 23 at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point. Burial was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Mr. LaRosa, former owner of LaRosa Insurance Agency and a former member of several civic organizations, died Dec. 20 at Quincy Hospital after a brief illness.

A native of Aragona, Sicily, Mr. LaRosa came to the United States when he was 16, sponsored by a cousin.

He worked several years in the machine shop at Boston Gear Works and in his spare time attended insurance seminars and studied at home. A language handicap kept him from passing the insurance license exam on the first attempt but he stuck with it and gained his license.

Continuing to work at Boston Gear, he opened his insurance agency in 1938 and offered life, health, property and automobile coverage. He gave up his job at Boston Gear after World War II.

In 1955, Mr. LaRosa served as chairman of the Quincy Point Group for the Quincy Red Feather Drive, a predecessor to the United Way. He had previously been a solicitor for Red Feather campaigns.

A testimonial honored him in 1976 when he retired after serving 30 years as treasurer of the John Adams Eagles Aerie.

He was past president and past treasurer of the Quincy Sons of Italy, a past president and past treasurer of the Quincy Aragona Society, past president and treasurer of the Italian Mutual Society in Quincy and a member of Torre Dei Passeri and the Holy Name Society at St. Joseph's Church. He was also a member of the Knights of Columbus and the Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

He is survived by his wife, Rose (Papia) LaRosa; six daughters, Maria LaRosa of Cambridge, Sister Natalie of the Daughters of Charity in Albany, N.Y., Florence Sansocire of Stoughton, Rosemarie Stella of Braintree, and Elena Stranberg and Josephine Chadbourn, both of Quincy; and two sisters in Italy, Pina Moncata and Tannina Butera. He was the brother of the late Anthony LaRosa.

Funeral arrangements were by the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., North Quincy.

Florence P. Jackson, 88

A funeral service for Florence P. (Swenson) Jackson, 88, of Scottsdale, Ariz., formerly of Squantum and a former member of the First Church of Squantum, was held Dec. 15 at the Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St.

Mrs. Jackson died Dec. 12 in Arizona after a brief illness. Mrs. Jackson was a member of the Wollaston Legion Post Auxiliary.

She was born in Boston and lived in Squantum before moving to Arizona three and a half years ago.

Wife of the late Carl F. Jackson, she is survived by a son, Charles M. Jackson of Scottsdale, Ariz.; a daughter, Joan C. Kerr of Seaside; six grandchildren, seven great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren. She was the mother of the late Carl F. Jackson, Jr.

Lucy E. Murphy, 73

A funeral Mass for Lucy E. (Mackendon) Murphy, 73, of North Quincy, was celebrated Dec. 23 at St. Patrick's Church, Brockton. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, Randolph.

Mrs. Murphy, a retired employee of New England Telephone, died Dec. 20 at home after a long illness.

Mrs. Murphy was born and educated in Brockton. She worked at Jordan Marsh before taking a job with the telephone company.

She is survived by her husband, John J. Murphy; a daughter, Mariellen Bimmler of Quincy; two brothers, Robert Mackendon of Brockton and Richard Mackendon of Washington, D.C.; a sister, Ruth MacDonald of Brockton; and several nieces and nephews. She was the sister of the late James Mackendon and Thomas Mackendon.

Annie A. Morrill, 87 Former Secretary

A funeral service for Annie A. (Granger) Morrill, 87, of Quincy, was held Dec. 23 at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, Wollaston. Burial was in Forest Hills Cemetery, Jamaica Plain.

Mrs. Morrill, a former secretary for Howard Johnson's for 25 years and an active member of the Rebekahs, died Dec. 21 at the Elihu White Nursing Home in Braintree after a brief illness.

Mrs. Morrill was past noble grand and past deputy of the Reliance Rebekah Lodge, Old Colony past noble, past president of the Lady Deputies Association and past conductor of the Rebekah assembly for the state.

She was born in Boston and lived in Dorchester before moving to Quincy 60 years ago. She was a Dorchester High School graduate.

Wife of the late Douglas Morrill Sr., she is survived by two sons, Douglas Morrill Jr. of Quincy and Herbert Morrill of Seminole, Fla.; three grandchildren, one great-grandchild and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral arrangements were by the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, 26 Adams St.

Antoinette Holder, 76 Former Teacher

A funeral Mass for Antoinette (Runci) Holder, 76, of Quincy, was celebrated Dec. 22 at St. Ann's Church, Wollaston. Burial was in St. Joseph's Cemetery, West Roxbury.

Mrs. Oakes was born in Cambridge and lived in Waltham before moving to Wollaston 21 years ago.

Wife of the late Milton K. Oakes, she is survived by two nephews, Earl Better of Colorado and Kenneth A. Edson of Kingston; three nieces, Emily Griffin of New Hampshire, Ruth Cahoon of Yarmouthport and Lillian Voislav of Quincy; and many grandnephews and grandnieces.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

DO YOU HAVE A 1990 FLIGHT PLAN? As you tread life's road, one is prone to walk with downcast eyes, fixed on the earth and our immediate surroundings. Our physical and mental vision is blurred by the bright light and deep shadows of the picture before us. The passing events of the day completely absorb our attention so that we become spiritually short-sighted.

On your Flight Plan you will be writing a record, a chapter each day. The pages before you are blank. But every thought, word, and deed will be recorded upon them. This is the day of beginning again - the first day of the rest of your life.

The New Year does not remain "new" very long, soon it is on the way to becoming an old year. But the dreams that are new at the beginning of 1990 can be fresh every morning.

1990 is an occasion to check your course, question your causes, measure your concerns ... then ... to proceed to the path which you find to be worthwhile. It is time to give yourself new encouragement, to lay aside past failures, target unreal goals and set yourself to doing the present in a faithful and meaningful way.

Yes, 1990 will be mostly what you plan it to be and what you work for it to become. Let us forget the things that are past, the old failures, disappointment, prejudices and hates. Let us stretch forward to the future and enter 1990 with courage, hope, humility and faith ...

McCauley Endorses Weld-Salvucci

Mayor Francis McCauley will not be a candidate for statewide office next year but will play a role in the Republican party's campaign.

McCauley said he is endorsing the William Weld-Paul Salvucci campaign. Weld, a former U.S. attorney, is running for governor.

Salvucci, a long-time state legislator, is on the ticket for lieutenant governor.

"I feel the two have a good blend of executive and legislative experience," McCauley said.

He said he does not know what his role will be but that he will be available to help.

CITY OF QUINCY RECYCLING PROGRAM

HAPPY HOLIDAYS FROM THE QUINCY RECYCLING COMMITTEE

This time of year is a great time for participating in Quincy's Paper Recycling program.

There is more recyclable paper in our homes now than at any other time of the year. Newspapers are full of advertisements. You can even recycle catalogs, magazines, paperbacks, phone books, junk mail. Just make sure the paper is properly stacked or bundled and remember that plastic of a kind is not acceptable.

Times are getting tough fiscally and environmentally, but you can give yourself a present for the holidays. Make a New Year's resolution to recycle. If enough residents participate, the City could save $250,000! The program's success depends on you.]

For further information, call the Quincy Recycling Committee at 773-1380, Ext. 210.
